Bayonet-Wielding Troops Recapture 'Old Baldy' Hill

Air Force Shoots Down Three Communist Jets

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—The United States fifth air force said United Nations pilots shot down three Communist jets and damaged two over North Korea today as clearing weather brought renewed intensity to the war.

The U. S. eighth army said bayonet-wielding Allied infantrymen recaptured the crest of Old Baldy Hill in a bloody eight-hour fight on the western front.

The Russian-made MIG-15 jets were shot down in the first all-jet battle since July 23. Planes from a flight of 32 U. S. Sabre jets battled elements of more than 60 MIGs for 10 minutes near the Korea-Manchuria border. Allied losses, if any, were not reported.

Reds Lose 32 Planes

A monthly air force summary reported that the Communists lost 32 planes in July, the United Nations 19.

Supported by fighting bombers and artillery fire, Allied soldiers stormed Old Baldy from two sides Thursday night. By dawn Friday, they had forced an estimated 200 Chinese Reds down its mud-caked slopes and immediately began digging in.

Recapture of the strategic outpost west of Chorwon marked the first intense ground fighting since last Saturday, the first of six days of heavy rain.

Moonlight Attack

U. N. soldiers took advantage of the light from a half-moon to break the Reds' hold on the hill, object of bitter fighting for a month. Allied big guns held their fire until the foot soldiers began clawing their way up the slippery slopes from two directions.

Old Baldy overlooks the main battlefront. Gen. James Van Fleet, eighth army commander, said Wednesday the hill could be held against anything, once it was recaptured, but that it was important only "as a place to kill Chinese, not as terrain."

In Tokyo Gen. O. P. Weyland, commander of U. S. far east air forces, said the 474th fighter-bomber wing—about 75 planes—has been shifted to Korea from Japan. It was relieved on Honshu by the 31st fighter escort wing, which flew the Pacific from the U. S. last month.

Number of Bush Workers Will Be Greatly Reduced

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—The number of bush workers for timber and pulp and paper companies in the district of Thunder Bay this fall and winter will be fewer than last year. M. K. Morrison, manager of National Employment Service here, said the reduction is due to attempts of the employing companies to spread operations over the year.

He said about 7,500 will be hired this year, as compared with 8,000 or 9,000 last year.

The Canadian Press reported erroneously yesterday, that employment would be cut almost 50 per cent with 2,500 workers compared to 1,500 last winter.

Texan Trainer Crashes West Of Frankford

A Texan trainer from the R.C.A.F. at Trenton, crashed into a swamp two miles west of Frankford, it was learned early this afternoon. Initial reports did not indicate whether one or two flyers were in the trainer when it crashed. There was no report as to whether the crew of the plane survived the crash.

EDMONTON (CP)—The unofficial count of poliomyelitis victims in Western Canada rose to 316 yesterday with four of the latest cases reported in Alberta.

Thirteen have died from the disease in the four western provinces—five in Saskatchewan and four in each of Alberta and Manitoba.

Saskatchewan's fifth death was reported today in Regina. The unofficial number of polio cases in that province is 95.

In Alberta, two new cases were reported today at Edmonton and two at Calgary. The Edmonton cases were two boys, one five and the other 16, and those at Calgary were a six-year-old boy and a 25-year-old man.

Manitoba's total climbed to 84 today when seven new cases were reported. Four of the seven new cases show signs of partial paralysis.

In British Columbia 43 polio cases have been reported.

FAST RUN

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP)—An ambulance in a test run to the airport here set a record of 4½ minutes for the two-mile trip, including time for a telephone call and a trip to the hospital for a medical orderly.

Chrysler Will Recall 60,000 Workers Soon

DETROIT (CP)—Chrysler Corporation announced yesterday that it hopes to recall more than 60,000 workers and to resume almost full production by Aug. 15.

The company said that 6,000 employees in Detroit plants and elsewhere where basic components are made will be called back next week when some 5,000 other workers in Detroit would return the week of Aug. 11.

The company said that "these schedules are based on the availability of steel and are subject to change."

Plants have been closed since July 14 because of the nationwide steel strike which ended July 24.

Western Farmers Given Greater Leeway to Deal With Wild Ducks

OTTAWA (CP)—Western farmers will be given greater leeway to deal with ducks damaging their grain crops.

Until this year, farmers could obtain permits to kill ducks feeding on their crops, but they couldn't take any action until damage actually was caused.

Farmers now will be able to obtain permits to scare the birds away when they first approach. It has been proved that if waterfowl are scared away at their first approach they will tend to leave fields alone

But if they are allowed to settle and eat grain for a day or two it is almost impossible to scare them away even by killing many of the flock.

The change in regulations was announced yesterday along with duck-hunting seasons for all parts of Canada varying from 45 to 69 days compared with 59 in 1951; Manitoba 58½ days compared with 51½; Alberta 67 days compared with 60 and British Columbia 66 days compared with 60. Seasons in other parts of Canada will remain unchanged.

Daily bag limit in Saskatchewan will be increased to 10 from eight and remain unchanged in other parts. Daily limit in Manitoba, Alberta and British Columbia is eight; in other provinces it is seven.

No more than five geese may be taken in one day in any province.

The mallard duck is the chief cause of trouble and there are not many mallard ducks in Eastern Canada.

Permits to kill ducks causing damage will continue to be issued until methods for scaring them away become effective.

GOVT. TO START BUYING LAND FOR ARMY CAMP

New Area Expected To Cost $25,000,000

OTTAWA (CP)—Purchase will begin within two weeks of a 20-by-30-mile tract of land northwest of Saint John, N.B., as a training ground for major formations of Canada's expanding army, defence Minister Claxton announced today.

The new area is expected to cost more than $25,000,000 and will take from two to three years to build. Accommodation will be provided to train a brigade in permanent quarters year-round and a division in emergency quarters.

The area is situated in sparsely-populated parts of the counties of Queens and Sunbury west of the Saint John River Road. It includes parts of the parishes of Petersville, Hampstead, Burton and Gagetown.

Claxton said factors taken into consideration in picking the area were:

1. The ground is tactically suitable, resembling that in parts of northwest Europe and permitting the use of tracked and wheeled vehicles over a considerable portion.

2. The climate is such that field training can be carried on in all seasons.

3. The area is served by good communications and is well located for concentration of troops prior to movement abroad.

4. The area is relatively sparsely populated.

"Construction will involve employment on a large scale," he said. "It is expected that the permanent camp population, including civilian employees, will exceed 3,000 with many thousands more using it during periods of training.

Claxton added that discussions have taken place with Premier J.B. McNair of New Brunswick who has urged for some time that the area should be located in New Brunswick.

Says Captain Of Yacht Ordered ToSearchBaggage

CAIRO, Egypt (Reuters) — Well-informed Arab daily Al Ahram said today the captain of the royal yacht Mahroussa had received radio orders while taking Farouk into exile to search the former King's baggage and prevent him landing jewelry, gold ingots and Egyptian antiques.

"The order came from the Cairo headquarters of Gen. Mohammed Naguib, who led last week's coup and forced Farouk off the throne, the paper said.

When the captain sent a reply that Farouk objected, Naguib's headquarters instructed the captain not to allow him to land.

The captain then sent a message saying the yacht had already approached the Italian port of Naples and that large crowds had gathered on shore.

He was then told to allow Farouk and his party to land without baggage and added that the Egyptian minister in Rome would attend to the royal belongings.

The newspaper did not unfold the last round of the incident — whether the luggage was searched — but Farouk's baggage has been landed.

U.S. Launches Development Of Giant Atomic-Powered Warships in Defence Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States, reporting progress on atomic-powered submarines and aircraft, today launched a new project: development of giant atomic-powered warships.

The Atomic Energy Commission announced it had asked the Westinghouse Electric Company to develop an atomic engine capable of propelling "large vessels such as aircraft carriers."

This immediately revived speculation that atom-powered battlewagons ad giant commercial liners such as the Queen Mary and the United States could easily make 100,000-mile cruises at top speed—and without refueling.

Such estimates are based on the fact that a pound of fissionable uranium or plutonium could generate as much power as 1,500 tons of coal or 200,000 gallons of fuel oil.

Report Progress

The A. E. C.'s announcement came only a few hours after release of its 12th semi-annual report to Congress in which the commission reported progress on the development of nuclear-powered aircraft and on two different types of atomic engines for submarines.

The fact that A. E. C. awarded the contract for the large-vessel project to Westinghouse indicates it believes that at least one submarine engine project is definitely assured of success.

This appears likely because Westinghouse is building an atomic submarine engine at Arco, Idaho, which is scheduled to be installed in the navy's projected atomic submarine, the Nautilus.

Evidently the navy, too, has no doubts that the engine will work, because the service has already laid the keel of the Nautilus.

Evidently the navy, too, has no doubts that the engine will work, because the service has already laid the keel of the Nautilus.

May Reach 35 Knots

The designed power of the engines has not been disclosed, but President Truman gave an idea of it when, in speaking at the keel-laying of the Nautilus, he said the sub would cruise underwater at "more than 20 knots." Unofficial observers have speculated that atom-powered subs would be able to achieve 35 knots.

Atomic-powered ships could not sail the seas forever—like the storied "Flying utchman" — because uranium-fueled atomic furnaces must have their ashes dumped, somewhat like a coal furnace at home. And spent fuel would have to be replaced.

But for all practical purposes, their cruising ranges would be unlimited.

4 Oshawa Residents Rescued After Spending Chilly Night In Open Boat on Lake Simcoe

BARRIE (CP)—Four Oshawa residents were found safe on Lake Simcoe today after spending more than 20 hours on the lake in an open boat after their outboard motor failed.

During the night police searched the shore of the lake, 40 miles north of Toronto, and private boats hunted over the water.

A search plane piloted by Sam Rowe of Orillia sighted the missing boat today and directed a cabin cruiser to the scene. The four were in a 14-foot plywood skiff and were in good condition despite the cold night on the lake.

Kathleen said it was bitterly cold in the open "but we had several heavy coats."

"The motor seized," said Mr. Keenan. "We worked on it for hours but couldn't get anywhere with it."

Miss O'Connor said the party had only one orange and three bottles of pop.

"It was the longest 20 hours I ever put in," said Kathleen.

Ross said he and his father spent most of the night trying to paddle "to somewhere." The girls helped too but "it was useless. The wind just kept us out there and we couldn't do anything about it."

The four set out yesterday for an afternoon's fishing. They were not Keenan, knowing her husband couldn't swim and the children were "poor swimmers," became worried and asked fellow campers to search for them.

Railway Wage Talks Adjourned

MONTREAL (CP) — Contract negotiations between Canadian railways and railway brotherhoods have been adjourned by the railways until further notification.

Arthur MacNamara, deputy minister of labor who is acting as conciliator, said the railways wished to "consider" contents of discussions so far and will notify him when they are ready to continue the talks.

The negotiations were adjourned yesterday.

BOAT BUILDER DIES

Television Neck New Malady Says Prominent Doctor

CHICAGO (AP)—A doctor reported yesterday that a new malady has arisen to plague mankind—Television Neck.

Dr. William Kaufman of Bridgeport, Conn., said in a letter published in the journal of the American Medical Association, he has observed the symptoms in several persons.

"The manifestations of this syndrome, which for want of a better name can be called 'television neck' include measurable increased limitations in ranges of neck movement and pain or discomfort in the posterior nuchal region nape of the neck," he said.

The condition could be caused by strained posture, which comes from attempting to keep the face roughly parallel with a low TV screen or, when the room is crowded with viewers, from holding the neck sideways.

Open Negotiations On Future Of Saar Valley

PARIS (AP)—France and West Germany opened formal negotiations today on the future of the Saar Valley, the tiny frontier area which has been in dispute between the two countries for years.

If the dispute is settled by Sept. 15, the headquarters of the six-country Schuman plan for pooling West Europe's steel and coal production may be located there.

The French have proposed that the 1,000 square miles of coal-rich territory be "Europeanized" as a home for the Schuman plan. West Germans maintain that the area is German territory and should be returned to them.

The Saar, part of Germany before the Second World War, now controls its own domestic affairs but is linked economically with France.

Romanian Engineers Charged With Sabotage

LONDON (AP) — Romanian authorities have arrested six leading engineers building a big new Danube River canal, charging them with sabotage, Moscow radio announced today.

The projected 60-mile canal, connecting the Danube River with the Black Sea near Constanta, is one of the major links in a proposed waterways network in southern Russia and eastern Europe.

Court Decision Erases Hopes of C. C. F. Party

VICTORIA (CP)—The Social Credit party is expected to be asked today to form a minority government in British Columbia, ending more than 1½ months of "caretaker" administration.

This move, which will formally end the Liberal Administration crushed in the June 12 election, became imminent after an appeal-court decision yesterday erased faint C.C.F. hopes of riding into power on a recount.

The decision, in effect, cleared the last roadblock remaining in the path of Social Credit.

The C.C.F. wanted a recount in the closely-contested Vancouver-Burrard riding, where C.C.F. candidate Grant MacNeil lost by 246 votes to Social Crediter Bert Price.

A C.C.F. victory in Vancouver-Burrard would have reversed the present strength of the two parties, giving the C.C.F. 19 seats to 18 for Social Credit.

No Jurisdiction

Three justices of the B.C. court of Appeals agreed yesterday that they did not have the jurisdiction to hear a C.C.F. appeal from a county court decision which ruled against the C.C.F.'s request for a recount.

Chief Justice Gordon Sloan said the lower court decision "can be appealed only in the case of a recount." As there was no recount there could be no appeal.

The oral judgment said that the tenor of relevant sections of the Elections Act "clearly indicates it was the intention of the legislature that an appeal could only be brought after the completion of a recount."

"In this case, the recount was never entered upon by the county court judge—J.A. McGeer—much less completed. Therefore the appeal is quashed."

Judge McGeer earlier this week dismissed the C.C.F. application on a technicality. The application designated the riding simply and incorrectly as "Burrard" instead of Vancouver-Burrard.

The party standing in the legislature is: Social Credit 19, C.C.F. 18, Liberals seven, Progressive Conservative three and Labor one.

Premier-designate W.A.C. Bennet arrived in Victoria yesterday, saying he hadn't been summoned by the Lieutenant-governor and smilingly insisting he was simply on a holiday.

But he did say he believed B.C.'s next government should be seated as soon as possible "for the welfare of the people."

There was one other election development yesterday. Progressive Conservative A. Reg MacDougall, Q.C., announced he will appeal the recount which Tuesday cost him re-election on Vancouver-Point Grey's "A" ballot. MacDougall, winner on the original count, lost out to Liberal T.R. Burnett in the judicial recount.

SWEDISH HARVEST

STOCKHOLM (CP)—A spell of warm weather during July which saw temperatures as high as 90 degrees all over Sweden brought forecasts of a good harvest this year. The heat compensated for cold weather earlier.

Pravda Attacks Ambassador Kennan For His Protest Against Red Poster

MOSCOW (AP)—Pravda today bitterly attacked United States Ambassador George Kennan—without mentioning his name—for protesting against a Soviet poster picturing Russian planes chasing American aircraft.

In a lengthy editorial by its leading political writer, Y. Viktorov, the Communist Party newspaper also accused a long list of U.S. political leaders, magazines and newspapers of "warmongering."

the poster, displayed in Moscow in connection with Soviet aviation day last Sunday, referred to clashes between U.S. and Soviet planes in April, 1950, in the Baltic area, in November, 1951, in the Balkans, and the same month in the Far East.

Refused To Attend

Kennan protested against the poster and refused to attend the show.

Pravda declared that "certain persons from American official circles would like to distract the attention of millions of Americans from their aggressive plans, from their criminal policy of unleashing a new war.

"For these purposes the war mongers put into circulation by all means—lies, deceit and slander. Vain efforts! By their false game these gentlemen give themselves away as enemies of peace and the security of peoples."

Lesson, Says Pravda

Pravda asserted the poster was based on facts—"in all these cases, unasked guests were given a needed lesson. It serves as one more warning for those who would try to violate the inviolability of Soviet borders."

The state department in Washington said last week that Kennan had told the Russians the posters were an admission that Soviet fighters deliberately attacked the American planes.

Two of the three incidents depicted on the posters involved navy planes, each with 10 men aboard, which the U.S. charged were shot down by Russian fighters over international waters. No trace of either has been found.

The third was the case of an American supply plane forced down by Soviet fighters in Hungary after it lost its bearings on a flight from West Germany to Yugoslavia. Hungary charged the U.S. airmen were spies and the U.S. was forced to pay $120,000 for their release.

Bonn Conventions Approved By British Parliament

U.K. Joins U.S. in Ending Occupation of W. Germany

LONDON (Reuters)—Parliament today gave final approval to ratification of the Bonn conventions, which end the allied occupation and bring West Germany into the European army.

Britain is the second country to approve the conventions. The United States Senate already has done so.

The House of Commons vote was 293 to 253, giving the Conservative government a majority of 40.

Minutes before the government had mustered a majority of 34 to put down a labor amendment urging that ratification be postponed. It was after this first 294-to-250 vote that the opposition demanded a vote on the government's motion. Amid cries of "shame" and "disgraceful," the members prepared to vote.

Referring to the notes exchanged in recent months between the west and Russia on German unification, Nutting said: "We are putting the Soviets to the test.

"We have offered a conference but we believe we must meanwhile go ahead with the policies upon which we have embarked because . . .we have learned the bitter lesson of negotiations from weakness, the ghastly alternative of capitulation or war, and our purpose is to negotiate from strength."

Negotiators Make Little Progress OnArmisticeDraft

Lieut.-Col. Duncan S. Somerville, top U.N. staff officer, said the U.N. approved Communist-suggested rewording in five paragraphs of the bulky truce document during a 65-minute session.

The changes were minor and had no bearing on the thorny prisoner-of-war exchange issue, which has deadlocked the main negotiations.

The staff officers meet again tomorrow.

The main delegations are scheduled to meet Sunday.

Works Minister Starts to Prepare For Coronation

LONDON (Reuters) — David Eccles, minister of works, promised today that all the tradition and splendor of the past will be scrupulously observed at the Queen's coronation next year to make it "the most glorious and moving pageant in the world."

Eccles, in charge of public arrangements for the coronation, told a press conference his ministry had been busy for months on the design of fabrics and carpets for Westminster Abbey, where the Queen will be crowned June 2.

He said it is his responsibility to set the stage and build a "theatre" inside Westminster Abbey, to provide seats and standing room, decorations along the processional route (on crown property) flood - lighting, fireworks, and "those other expressions of public rejoicing."

He said that in 1937 it took five months to prepare the abbey for King George VI's coronation when seating was erected for 7,600 guests. "We cannot squeeze any one more in this time."

Deputy Sheriff Had Ears Pinned Back by Women

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Deputy Sheriff Arthur Willis stopped a speeding car two weeks ago and found four women naked from the waist up.

They whipped on brassieres and observed that men rode bare-chested.

Willis picked out as typical an anonymous letter from Austin, Minn.: ". . . I hope and pray that the women in every state of the United States can go naked from their waist up any time they want to for it is not wrong."

Wisconsin Woman Suffers Gashed Throat in Crash

Mrs. Mildred Mercier, 52, of Greenbay, Wisconsin, suffered a four-inch gash in her jaw and throat and received cheek lacerations, when she was pitched into the windshield of her husband's car late Thursday afternoon when it was in a head-on collision with another vehicle.

The accident occurred on East Dundas Street near Charles at the height of the five o'clock traffic.

Clifford McCammon, R.R. 4, Belleville, was eastbound following a city bus which stopped to let off passengers. McCammon swung left to pass and in doing so crashed head-on into the approaching American vehicle. Both cars were badly damaged, the McCammon vehicle being almost a complete wreck.

Bleeding profusely from the gash in her neck the injured American woman was lifted from her car by Ralph Johnston, driver for Rawson bus, and E. C. McCallum, Charles Street, who took the woman to hospital in his car.

Police have charged McCammon with dangerous and careless driving. The accident was investigated by P. C. Harry McKee.

McCammon appeared in city magistrate's court today and was remanded with bail set at $2,000.

Many Outsiders Seek Residence In The City

A little mystery has arisen to face the staff at the Chamber of Commerce, a mystery which grows with each day. On an average, one letter every two days, over the past week or so arrives at the office from people requesting information of this city in regards to settling here.

Secretary - manager of the Chamber of Commerce, James T. Davis is a trifle awed by the sudden influx of mail. According to the secretary-manager, never before, to his knowledge, have so many people requested information with intent of setting in Belleville within such a short elapsed period of time.

Somewhat at loss to explain the phenomena, Mr. Davis suggests the visit of the Pakistani Dignitaries and the favorable reports tendered by there gentlemen to the press about the city may have had some influence on people wishing to settle here. Belleville was held up as a model city by the men from Pakistan when they visited here.

To date the people requesting information comprise, one resident and family from Ashville, North Carolina, an engineer from Sarnia and one from Niagara Falls. Other letters have been received from Fort William and Fort Erie.

Breaking of Hydrant by Truck Floods Lower Part Front St.

Front Street had a gusher this morning but it wasn't oil — it was water.

Shortly after eight o'clock a large highway float owned by the Sparling - Davis Company currently installing an oil pipe line through the district, was northbound on Front Street and attempted to turn up Campbell Street. The driver cut the turn too short and the rear wheels of the float caught the water hydrant breaking it off at the base.

Water gushed up about four feet into the air and thoroughly flooded gutters until public utilities men could be brought on the scene to turn the water off. As a result business places and residents in the downtown water area were without water until the damage was repaired.

Several restaurants were without water and morning customers went coffee-less.

Police said that the driver of the northbound float was unable to make a left turn at Bridge Street because of the new traffic regulation and was going around the block, when he cut the Campbell Street corner too short.

Councillor Ross Burt Resigns As Council Member, Chairman Of Public Works Department

TRENTON, (Special.) — Town voters may be going to the polls earlier than the first week in December.

Mr. Burtt has served in civic office for 15 years. Once he was defeated in a three-man race for mayor. One year he was unable to seek election due to out-of-town employment. He has headed the works department for five years. Mr. Neil is the fourth engineer to serve under works chairman Burtt since he has held that post.

An election would cost the ratepayers $700. Calling for nominations and an election by acclamation would cost $200.

Town clerk O. W. Larry, reading from the municipal act, pointed out that a councillor could only resign with the consent of his fellow councilmen. He also pointed out that a councillor absenting himself from meetings for three months would automatically become suspended. In which case the town clerk would have to call for nominations.

Resolution Adopted

Councillor Claude Graham suggested a resolution be drawn not accepting Mr. Burtt's resignation. This resolution was adopted unanimously.

Mayor Ken Couch suggested town engineer Neil supervise the job of laying sidewalks, while the chairman of Public Works was absent.

The newly-appointed organizing body for the proposed community centre sought action last night and got it. They asked council to recognize organizing committee members Norman Banfield, Gerald Weaver, Norm Crawley, Vic Auger, Jack Goldberg, R. Whitley as a bona fide body for the purpose of raising funds for the planned centre. Council as a whole signed a resolution giving the committee the go ahead signal.

Last December by a 94 per cent majority town voters authorized a $100,000 debenture expenditure for a community centre providing a centre committee showed council a $150,000 in reserves. Bank manager Norm Bingman spoke for the new organizing body last night. Commented Mayor Couch: "You have a big undertaking gentlemen I wish you every success."

A four-man delegation from the local Trades and Labor council were told that Central Mortgage headquarters would likely handle letting contracts for the new homes to be built on the Little property west of the Trenton golf course. The delegation asked council to point out to contractors bidding on the contract to keep in mind a fair wage for carpenters. They felt that the contractors should be acquainted with the subject so that their profits would not be affected by any possible change. They pointed out that carpenter's rates in the area now varied from $1.25 an hour to $1.65 an hour.

The labor council was represented by Ted Blakely (spokesman), Ed Scott, Joe Goodwin and Reg. Terrill.

Rent Nuisance Ground

Council decided to rent the nuisance ground at north Trenton for another year providing the road to the place was kept open. The rental fee is $100. Mayor Couch insisted that the nuisance ground be utilized for certain kinds of refuse and a burial ground for dead animals while the town dump out West street be used solely for dumping garbage.

Albert Defossi, of Trenton, was awarded the contract of building 4,000 feet of lineal sidewalk, the work to commence at once as directed by the town engineer.

Jack Neil who has been some months on probation as town engineer was hired permanently by the authority of the Mayor and five members of council. Chairman of Public Works Councillor Burtt was absent and did not vote.

Some 859 persons were taken for rides on the three British buses visiting Trenton on Wednesday.

Equipment Stolen

Secretary Ruth Little had her fishing equipment stolen from behind the Power's coal office earlier this week. For relaxation Miss Little enjoys a spot of fishing in the Trent River and sometimes returns to her note pad and typewriter with a catch envied by any male fisherman.

Farouk, Family Guests of Singer, Gracie Fields

ISLE OF CAPRI, Italy (AP)—Rotund former King Farouk of Egypt, who claims he is "no longer a rich man," dined richly with his family last night at one of this pleasure island's most exclusive night clubs.

Gracie, an old friend of the deposed ruler, invited Farouk and his family to her villa for cocktails. Later, the party—which included former Queen Narriman and Farouk's three daughters by his previous marriage—joined regular customers at the restaurant.

It was learned that Narriman brought only four pieces of luggage with her when she followed her husband into exile on 12 hours' notice. She revealed this when she asked her hotel to have her white suit cleaned "as soon as possible."

"I couldn't salvage much," she confided.

John Raymond Of R.C.A.F. Wins Amateur Contest

The singers have it when it comes to amateur entertainment.

At least it was the singers who copped all the prizes in Thursday night's amateur contest being staged in conjunction with the annual Kinsmen street carnival on Firemen's Park. Fourteen amateurs were heard during the contest and the four winners were all singers.

John Raymond of the RCAF at Trenton delighted listeners with his fine baritone voice and was voted 1st place winner, while Miss Sylvia Motley of R.R. 7, Belleville, well-known local vocalist came in for second prize. Miss Helen Gill, 149 1-2 Bridge Street west with a vocal solo and Donald Butcher, Colemamn St., divided third place honors.

Tonight 22 amateurs will be heard on the amateur program with tonight's winners, as well as winners declared Wednesday and Thursday night being eligible for Saturday's finale. Saturday's winner will go to New York for a television audition, while the second place winner will go to Hamilton for an amateur hour radio appearance.

Last night's crowd at the carnival was considerably greater than on Wednesday night and Kinsmen reported everyone apparently had a good time at the games and gave the amateurs a good reception. Cash door prizes of $25, $15 and $10 were drawn for.

Winner of Hero's Medal Risks Life To Save Woman

WASHINGTON (AP)—A winner of the Congressional Medal of Honor — United States' highest military award — proved yesterday he was still a hero by risking his life to save a grief-stricken young mother from the ledge of a six-storey building.

Mrs. Lucille Whomble, 21, mother of two small children and despondent over the death of a third, climbed to the ledge of the downtown Y.W.C.A. building.

He said later she screamed at him that she didn't want to live. Smith asked her if he could hold her hand for a minute

"Then a fireman came up and helped, because I couldn't hold her alone," he said.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Prices were mixed and trendless today in early afternoon stock market trading.

Industrials weakened as profit-taking skimmed yesterday's advance. Golds slipped slightly but base metals held firm. Western oils were mixed.

Activity concentrated on a list of selected stocks but trading was slightly more active than previous slow dealings. Volume for the first three hours totalled 1,087,000 shares.

In industrial issues, utilities were weak as major stocks dropped fractions. Papers, constructions, steels, liquors, refining oils and miscellaneous issues were firm but others were mixed.

Senior golds were weak but some secondary issues drew support especially in prospects and holding companies.

Base metals advanced cautiously in early trading led by a few strong issues.

Higher-priced western oils advanced but most issues showed small declines.

Stelco Workers Will Get U.S. Basic Rate

HAMILTON (CP)—C. H. Millard said today that workers at the Steel Company of Canada plant here will receive a base pay rate equal to the base rate recently established in the United States steel industry — $1.43½ cents an hour.

Mr. Millard, national director of the United Steelworkers of America C.I.O.-C.C.L. said in a statement that the agreement was approved by the union's basic steel committee as its immediate aim for other sections of the Canadian basic steel industry.

Named Assistant Chief of Naval Staff

OTTAWA. (CP) — Commodore Horatio Nelson Lay, 49, has been named assistant chief of the naval staff it was disclosed today by the navy magazine Crowsnest.

A nephew of the late Prime Minister Mackenzie King, Commodore Lay has been Canada's chief naval officer on the military mission in Washington. He will be succeeded there by Commodore M. A. Medland, 39, of Toronto, who has been director of weapons and tactics at headquarters for the past year.

Threats of Secession, Screams Of Protest Over High Taxes Mark Toronto's Growing Pains

TORONTO (CP)—Threats of secession, screams of protest against high taxes, clamor over lack of schools, sewers and other amenities—these mark Toronto's growing pains.

The situation, paralleled in other Canadian cities under the impetus of Canada's post-war expansion, has been brought to a head in Toronto Township, a few miles west of the city, where residents are enraged by a tax increase as high as 300 per cent.

Yesterday, William Bayliss, president of the Lakeview Businessmen's Association, proposed formation of a new city between Toronto and Hamilton with an approximate population of 25,000.

The association is investigating the possibility of the secession of Lakeview Village from the township to join with other tax-beleaguered suburbs in search of relief.

Nothing New

Such proposals are not new. York Township, on the city's northwest edge, has heard them before. With a population of more than 96,000 it would have become one of Canada's larger cities if the proposal had carried.

The suburban problem's many angles are pointed up by the fact that in 1941 there were 233,034 residents in the Toronto suburban areas. The 1951 census showed a jump to almost double this figure —441,716.

This often has resulted in a tug-of-war between newcomers and rural-minded councils, which have few industries to support the many services demanded. Hence the heavy taxes.

Angry ratepayers in Toronto Township demanded a provincial investigation of their affairs charging that funds have been mishandled, township employees are incompetent and that residential areas are being bled white to subsidize farming districts.

Provincial Check

Yesterday, Municipal Affairs Minister George Dunbar said the government will send a crew of assessors into the township to assess all properties.

In the township and other suburbs talk has been heard of a tax strike.

Toronto Township residents blame two things: Equalization of assessment based on 80 per cent of the 1941 real estate replacement values; and the cost of education, which burden many in the suburbs are hardest hit. Increases are generally moderate for farmers.

Husband Plans To Return Home

LIVERPOOL (Reuters) — R. W. King, whose bride of two weeks vanished mysteriously from an Atlantic liner early Wednesday, said today he plans to return immediately to Canada.

"I want to get home as soon as possible," said the Edmonton electrician whose dream honey-moon was turned into tragedy. "This has been a terrible shock."

No explanation has been advanced for the disappearance of Vienna-born Benita King, 22. Her dress, shoes, handbag and sunglasses were found on the deck of the Cunard liner Ascania after her husband awoke to find her missing from their stateroom.

She had been to the ship's dance that night without him. He had remained in the cabin reading, then dropped off to sleep.

STRIKE COST $155,000,000

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Vancouver Board of Trade yesterday estimated British Columbia's 45-day lumber strike cost the province $155,000,000. In addition, it cost the 32,000 workers $14,520,000 in lost wages. The board said the amount is nearly twice 1951 fisheries production in B.C., equals 1951 mining and agricultural production and is four times the money spent by tourists last year. The woodworkers went back to the job Wednesday with a 5½-cents hourly increase.

STIFF FINE

NEW YORK (AP) — Joseph Briggs was fined $1,000 yesterday for driving without a licence — one of the stiffest fines in traffic history. Briggs, 31, had been ticketed five times in 18 months for the same offence.

All obstacles have been removed for Ontario cheese producers to get at least 30 cents for their cheese.

Late Thursday an agreement was signed in Toronto between the provincial government, represented by Hon. W. Goodfellow in the absence of Col. Kennedy, and President Coon and Secretary Heath on behalf of the Ontario Cheese Marketing Board, says Ottawa Farm Journal.

This agreement provides for Ontario guaranteeing a further six cents a pound, in addition to the 24 cents arranged earlier at Ottawa. It is for all cheese made between July 1 and December 31, this year.

Are Protected

It was learned that the Ontario authorities accepted a verbal agreement which Ottawa has with the New Zealand government regarding cheese imports. Details of this understanding were conveyed to Premier Frost by Hon. C. D. Howe and were considered a sufficient guarantee to protect the Ontario investment.

It was made clear in Toronto that this whole arrangement must be considered as an "emergency measure" in view of the peculiar circumstances in which the cheese industry finds itself this season. It would not be the basis for any further aid to other products.

Much Relief

In a brief interview late Thursday afternoon President Coon expressed relief and satisfaction that a final settlement had been reached. "This has been a great strain to us and we have worked day and night to find a solution," he stated.

He further stated that the negotiating committee with the trade would be called next on Tuesday in Toronto, and that every effort would be made to hold all cheese exchanges next week.

Officially in Ottawa this week there was nothing to report on the situation. It was understood that a letter had gone forward to Premier Frost but its contents were not divulged pending the meeting of the Ontario cabinet committee at noon Thursday.

In the meantime storage difficulties have caused some trouble. For instance one trucking and storage firm near the Quebec border, who normally trucks all cheese to Montreal, had to take a thousand boxes to Trenton to find suitable vacant storage. This would indicate how tight proper storage facilities are in the East at the present time.

Everything concerned with the present stalemate in the cheese industry will likely be aired thoroughly at a meeting called for Belleville on Monday, Aug. 11. President Coon has decided that this regular summer quarterly meeting of all county presidents of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association should be held as usual. The hope is that all outstanding problems will be settled by that time and the whole picture will be clearer.

Game Ordered To be Replayed By Executive

After three hours of deliberation by the Belleville and District Softball Association executive last night at the City Hall, it was decided to replay the game between Crawford Metals and Belleville Motor Car of July 29th, which ended in a win for Motor Car by a score of 11-10 in eleven innings but due to an unfortunate error in scoring, could have been won by the Crawford Metals team in the regulation time. The incident probably created for the first time in softball history a situation such as occurred and the majority of the executive taking all things into consideration and upon suggestions received from O. A. S. A. headquarters, decided on the replay of the game as the best way out of an unfortunate situation. The game will be played on Saturday evening at Alemite Field starting sharp at 6:45 p. m.

Managers, coaches, the official scorer, Jack Brett, were present at the first part of the meeting and all evidence, that was available was submitted. Contradictory statements were given and the executive felt there was not enough clear testimony to award the game to either team. The error in scoring occurred in the fourth innings, when only one run was credited, while it was shown that possibly two runs might have been the correct number. It the two runs had been credited Crawford Metals would have won in nine frames but by the loss of the run, the game was tied in the ninth and Motor Car went on to win in the eleventh frame.

It was decided by the executive that the impending series between C. N. R. Diesels and Point Anne to represent the city in the intermediate "A" O. A. S. A. playdowns shall be a three-out-of-five series with the Diesels having the first game at their own field and then alternating until the series is finished. If a fifth and deciding game is necessary, it shall be played on a neutral field, Alemite Field being chosen for this contest. If the series is won in odd games, the gate of the odd game shall be split by the two teams.

Police Skeptical Of Identification Made by Woman

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—An Oklahoma City woman today identified the "young girl" whose headless body was found near Yukon Wednesday as her 20-year-old daughter.

Police were openly skeptical.

Mrs. Mabel Pennington insisted the victim of what police termed an apparent revenge slaying was her daughter, Tillie Mae Pennington, who disappeared Monday.

The dismembered body, with the head and hands cut off and the letters "R-A-T" carved on the stomach, was found in a creek bed 11 miles west of here.

The mother said leg scars made the identification positive.

Crime Bureau chief O.K. Bivins was almost as certain she was wrong, saying that a Doctor reported the girl definitely was 13 or 14 years old.

Two More Tremors Shake Bakersfield

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP)—Bakersfield was still shaking today, 11 days after the big earthquake that took a toll of 14 lives in Southern California.

There were two tremors today but only light ones and nothing to compare with the original shock July 21 or some of the stronger aftershocks.

The shocks today caused no damage.

LONDON (AP)—The festering quarrel between the Labor party's two strong men broke into the open again yesterday when former prime minister Clement Attlee rapped left-winger Aneurin Bevan for discussing cabinet secrets in public.

Attlee complained to the House of Commons in a personal statement that Bevan, during yesterday's economic debate, alluded to policy matters which had been secretly discussed when both were members of the Labor cabinet.

Amid loud cheers from Prime Minister Churchill's Conservatives, Attlee said: "There is a well-established rule inhibiting members of a government from revealing what passes either in cabinet or in confidential discussions."

Bevan, who was not in parliament when Attlee spoke, later announced he will answer today.

The fresh row was an echo of the clash which resulted in Bevan's quitting Attlee's cabinet in 1951. Bevan and two supporters resigned because they considered the Attlee government's arms drive was too big and too fast for the wobbly British economy and would threaten socialist measures such as the free health service.

Churchill Plan Approved

Churchill won parliament's approval yesterday of his plan to stretch out the £4,000,000,000 arms program from three to four years and change the whole pattern of defence building in order to save the country from bankruptcy.

During the debate, Bevan reminded parliament of his long-time position and claimed he personally had persuaded Attlee to insert escape clauses into Britain's rearmament undertakings. The escape clauses were designed to release Britain from her commitments if the United States did not come along with certain kinds of aid.

Attlee claimed this was a cabinet secret and he would not confirm or deny anything Bevan had claimed.

Third Baby Born On a July 28th

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — "I guess we're in a rut," said the smiling young mother. On Monday she gave birth to a baby for the third time on a July 28.

Mrs. Sylvia Griffin, 21, of Brooks, Ky., is in hospital with seven-pound James William Griffin, Jr.

The other children are Diane, born three years ago, and Yvonne, born 2 years ago.

The father, a construction worker also was born on July 28, 23 years ago.

No Blame Attached

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) —A coroner's jury last night decided that Brian Cress, 13, died accidentally June 30 from the explosion of a bomb in the yard of his home and no blame was attached to anyone.

Despite evidence from witnesses, the jury refused to identify the bomb. When Crown Attorney Ian Munro suggested the findings should identify the weapon as a mortar bomb, the jury said, this had not been proved.

Two policemen, an army officer, the dead boy's father and his two brothers all said it had been a mortar bomb.

The jury did not establish how the boy got the bomb.

Opening of Soo Gates Damages Shore Properties

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) —Sault officials expressed alarm today after water in the St. Mary's River rose more than two feet in 24 hours, heavily damaging shore properties.

The water rose following the opening of 15 of 16 gates in a compensating dam holding back the waters of Lake Superior. Ottawa officials said the dam was opened because the lake had reached "dangerously high levels" while threatened shore communities, roads and railways.

Last night George Nixon, Liberal member of parliament for Algoma West, telephoned Ottawa to ask that more of the gates be closed. Today Mayor C. Herb Smale wired Resources Minister Winters asking that he intervene to close some of the gates He said the city's sewage system is being slowed and basements are in danger of being flooded.

Definitely Wrong

TORONTO (CP) — Opening the Sault dam to relieve pressure on Lake Superior by allowing water to flow to the lower lakes is "definitely wrong" unless provision is made to pass the extra flow into the St. Lawrence, Mayor Lamport said today.

The mayor said that unless the Gut Dam on the St. Lawrence is opened the additional water will pile up in Lake Ontario — and "we've got trouble enough with high water here already."

"CAR" RECOVERED

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A phone call from police informed anxious Barbara W. Ford yesterday that her stolen auto had been recovered and she could claim it. But jubilation turned into dispair for Miss Ford when she saw the car. Gone from the auto were the motor, transmission, clutch, drive shaft, radiator, all four wheels and tires, brake drums, battery, two tail lights, tire tools and cigaret lighter.

Ike to Receive Editorial Support Of Many Papers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will have the editorial support of more newspapers than ever before backed a Republican presidential nominee in the traditionally Democratic south.

An Associated Press survey of nearly 100 papers in 11 southern states showed today that 41 have endorsed the general or will do so and past performance indicates several in the "undecided" list will go to him.

At this early stage in the campaign, only 22 papers have come out for Democrat Adlai Stevenson. In 1948, 35 of those questioned this year were lined up for President Truman.

LAKES CAPTAIN DIES

HAMILTON (CP) — Captain Robert Laing, for more than 36 years a captain on vessels trading in the Great Lakes, died yesterday in hospital. He lived for several years in Fergus near Guelph.

THIS MOUNTIE "GOT HIS MAN"

The finest traditions of a traditionally fine force passed under review this week following the announcement that Superintendent John Leopold would retire from the Royal Canadian Mounted Police after 34 years on the force. This famous Mountie was the man who sent eight Canadian Communist leaders to prison in 1931 and who, during the Canadian spy probe at the end of the war, unearthed evidence which sent additional men to prison and sent others scurrying from this country to Russia where they were probably liquidated.

Joining the R.C.M.P. in the West where the organization had its start, Superintendent Leopold had little to do with investigating cattle rustling or bootlegging among the Indians. It was among the cattle rustlers, moonshiners and killers that early members of the force became renowned for "always getting their man." But like Mounties before him, Superintendent Leopold "got his man."

As a member of the anti-subversive squad, Superintendent Leopold became "Mr. Esselwein" and under that name joined the inner core of the Communists and was later arrested by policemen who were unaware that their captive was himself a policeman. Before being exposed after his true identity became known to the Reds, Superintendent Leopold gathered convicting documents which were later used to send some Communists to jail.

The Canadian spy probe in 1945-46 reflects credit on this clever police officer. It was through his efforts that the spy ring was smashed before real damage was done. Because of the probe and its subsequent exposure, Communists were driven deep underground and although they are potentially a dangerous fifth column, surviving leaders have been plotted so that in the event of trouble, the Mounties may move in quickly.

Although retiring from active duty, the 62-year-old mounted policeman said he has no intention of dropping his vigil on the anti-subversive elements in Canada. He has earned a rest but it is likely he would shed his retirement in a hurry in the event he was needed.

And so with Superintendent Leopold's retirement, another glorious chapter in the history of a glorious force has been written.

GREAT CARE NEEDED

Down in the United States the other day, a kind-hearted motorist stopped and picked up a thumb-jerking pedestrian.

But it turned out that the hitchhiking pedestrian was the county sheriff, (sheriffs are law enforcement officers in the United States), who was looking for the fellow who had stolen his car. It also turned out that the kind-hearted motorist was the thief, and that the car he was driving was the sheriff's.

Just a little additional proof, if any were needed, that motorists should exercise great care in picking up hitchhikers.

WHERE DO THEY LEARN?

Should young people drink? Many adults, even those who might not respond with a flat No, are troubled about the ones that do.

Who's responsible?

The Yale Center of Alcoholic Studies, after surveying 17,000 students on 27 campuses, relieves the colleges of a good deal of the blame that has been heaped upon them. The survey reveals that 80 per cent of the drinking young men and 65 per cent of the young women who imbibe acquired the habit before they registered as freshmen.

Then where did they learn? The Yale report points pretty directly to the home. Of the young men whose parents both drink, 90 per cent drink themselves. Of those whose parents both abstain, only half take up the drinking practice.

Young women show the same tendencies in but lesser degree. Four-fifths of the young women both of whose parents drink, themselves use liquor at least occasionally. Less than one-fifth of the daughters of abstaining parents, however, learn to drink.

Such findings do not rule out the influence of high school and other pre-college associations. But they do suggest that the example more than the words of those who have stood closest and dearest during the growing up years operates powerfully.

Many parents could well ask themselves and each other: What do we want our youngsters to do? For in the parents' own behavior lies much of the answer.—(Christian Science Monitor.)

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE COW BELL

If you have never listened to the exquisite gong of the Cow Bell, you have missed something in melody like no other sound that I know anything about. The echoing strains of this bell fascinated me in my youth, as I listened to them from meadows and fields where cattle fed.

All bells have a sound that echoes their own individual tone, but there is something nostalgic about the mellow come-call of the Cow Bell that is like a living thing—creeping into the memory and hiding there. I have always wondered what the cows themselves thought of the sound as their leader gonged it move by move, with all the others congregating about the one with the bell about its neck.

Long after my days upon the farm were ended I would be driving in the country and whenever I heard that familiar ding-dong I have stopped and listened, as though a voice were calling, so mellow and full of appeal has that Cow Bell always been. And at approaching dusk, upon a Summer day, those softened notes trotting into space have reminded me of those beautiful lines of the poet Thomas Gray—

"Now fades the glimmering landscape on the sight,
And all the air a solemn stillness holds,
And drowsy tinglings lull the distant folds."

Many years ago I bought one of those familiar Cow Bells at an old antique shop and have cherished it ever since. At my Summer island retreat in Nova Scotia I often take it out at approaching night and gong it and listen to the sounds as they go out into the forest and seem to skirt the smooth waters of Grand Lake when all is silent. I can understand the fascination that poets have had for bells. Lafcadio Hearn wrote beautifully of Chinese bells. And, of course, we are all familiar with Poe's great poem. But there is everything in the tinkling of the Cow Bell—akin to that of the Camel bell that Burton immortalized.

Alberta Conservation Board Guards Oil Treasurehouse No More Wastage of Gas

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Alberta has frowned upon the fast-living oil well. Gone is the day of the gusher which ran wild and uncontrolled as it came in, marking the birth of a new well.

There was a time not so long ago when whole oil fields died prematurely because they literally lived too fast, when wells were allowed to produce at maximum rate, with gas pressure caps dissipating their tremendous oil-lifting energy into the open air and leaving enormous oil pools trapped in the ground forever.

Stopped By Board

The Alberta Petroleum and Natural Gas Conservation Board, set up in 1938 to guard the province's underground treasurehouse by conserving energy and avoiding excesses, put a stop to this.

One major problem faced by the board was the situation at the Turner Valley oil field southwest of Calgary. Tremendous withdrawals of gas, then incidental to the recovery of oil, had been made there during the previous 15 years.

Wastage reached as high as 500,000,000 cubic feet daily in 1929 alone reducing the gas pressure needed to bring the oil to the surface. Gas was burned off in big flares, causing a continuous red glow in the sky for miles around and earning the valley the nickname of Hell's Half Acre.

Resented At First

The board stepped in. Each well was assigned monthly production quotas based on its productivity, formation, pressure and gas and oil ratio.

At first, many operators resented this but by the time the great Leduc oil discovery was made in 1947 conservation was accepted as a blessing to the oil industry along with the spacing of wells to one producer in each 40 acres.

To ensure maximum ultimate recovery of oil from a field, it is necessary to make the most efficient use of gas pressure that drives oil through the rock pores to the well. This pressure is principally due to natural gas which is dissolved in liquid petroleum or is in the form of a gas cap above the fluid level in the formation.

If the oil flow is uncontrolled, gas pressure soon is dissipated. Water rises, blocking off the oil.

Oil Left Behind

The importance of pressure maintenance is obvious when it is considered that under ideal conditions, seldom encountered, only about 80 per cent of any oil deposit can be recovered from the earth. Under modern control methods, the usual recovery ranges from 25 to 75 per cent.

Much Oil Lost

Dissolved gas driven by itself is a very inefficient carrying medium. In oil fields that relied on this process alone, a mere 10 to 30 per cent of the oil was recovered.

Today, natural gas related to oil recovery is collected at the surface as it escapes and forces back into the ground to maintain pressure or it is separated from the liquid in gas processing plants and marketed.

Under modern conservation practices, new oil wells flow freely only for a brief time just as they are coming in, to flush drilling mud up out of the formation. Then they are "choked" off.

Eva Peron Will Lie in State Until August 9

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (Reuters)—President Juan Peron has decreed that the remains of his wife, Eva Peron, shall lie in state at the ministry of labor until Aug. 9, it was announced today.

They will then be moved to Congress to lie in state for 24 hours before being placed in the headquarters of the General Confederation of Labor, where they will remain until a mausoleum is built.

The country is gradually beginning to return to normal after the great display of grief following Eva's death Saturday, aged 33, from an undisclosed disease. The vast queues which earlier congregated around the labor ministry to pass the bier where "Evita" is lying in state have dwindled to more manageable proportions.

Nearly 500,000 mourners have stormed the labor ministry.

Court of Appeals Orders New Trial For U.S. Soldier

WASHINGTON (AP)—The court of military appeals yesterday ordered a new trial for a 20-year-old New Jersey soldier who was court-martialled and sentenced to 10 years at hard labor for allegedly sleeping on sentry duty at the Korean War front.

The soldier is Pte. Warren G. McConnell of Alloway, N. J.

After his conviction by a court martial in Korea, Dec. 10, 1951, McConnell wrote a letter to his father saying he had been without sleep for 72 hours and was "numb all over" when he drew sentry duty on a bitterly cold night.

Omaha Negroes Withdraw From Protest Petition

OMAHA (AP)—A group of Omaha Negroes who had sought to keep a white family from moving into their neighborhood tonight dropped the whole thing.

"I'm withdrawing every bit of it; I'm through with it," said Mrs. Luella Blackson, who Wednesday headed a protest petition signed by 17 Negroes in the south Omaha neighborhood.

Sheriff's Plan To Cure Drunks Works Well

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — Sheriff C. A. Jenkins has a new plan for persons too drunk to drive.

He has a deputy drive inebriated persons home and then hide the car keys. The deputy leaves a note to call the county jail. The hiding place of the keys will be revealed if the caller answers questions in a way that shows he is no longer intoxicated.

"So far it has worked 100 per cent," the sheriff said.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE BASIC INNER LIFE

We often hear the expression that a certain person got what was coming to him The truth is that we always get what is coming to us. When we run into a streak of bad luck, this truth is hard to appreciate; but it is nevertheless true. We may not deserve at all the ill fortune which befalls us, but we can well believe that if we could see things with the eyes of God, we would realize that even this is part of His vast educational provision in our behalf.

Pasteur once remarked that chance favors only the mind that is prepared. The way we live our lives from day to day creates a condition which seems to act like a magnet. This magnet attracts certain things to our lives and repels other things. There are people to whose lives every opportunity to do evil seems to move as if attracted by a strong magnetic power. There are others whose lives appear to attract only opportunities to do good. The kind of life every person is living day by day is the inner magnet which draws into the circle of his living either things and persons that are good or things and persons that are evil.

"Nothing ever happens to a man that is not of the nature of himself." We attract or repel according to our basic inner lives.

Personal Health Talks

LIVE ALONE BUT LIVE

Since the death of my wife a year ago (writes a reader) I have had no vegetables, owing to the fact that I have to eat hamburgers, etc., or go a mile to the nearest restaurant. Kindly advise what vitamins I should take. (C. M. G.)

Take the vitamins you get in plain wheat, tomato, lettuce or onion tops or any other fresh green growing thing, fresh fruit, canned salmon or sardines, milk, eggs, hamburgers.

Even if you can go a mile to the restaurant, there must be a patch of ground where you can plant some seeds for greens and fresh vegetables.

Even though you are an amateur cook there is no reason why you can't buy a few pounds, or a peck or a bushel of plain wheat from farmers, farmers' market, feed store, seed store or mill, and eat it instead of part or all of the white bread or white flour in your everyday diet.

If you have lost many teeth and neglected to have them immediately replaced with functionally efficient dentures, it will be a little late now to try to fend off senile decline, but you may still keep your chin up if you will get a coffee grinder or mill of similar character and crack or grind your wheat from day to day as you us it.

If these suggestions fail to interest you, there is still a compromise you can make with adequate diet, which will improve your nutrition and give you more vite. Eat six to a dozen tablets a day to supplement your diet with the most important essentials—thiamine (B1), riboflavin (B2), vitamin D, calcium, phosphorus and iodine—as described in the pamphlet Young Folks and Old Folks, mailed on written request if you inclose stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Speaking of fresh vegetables and greens or leafy relishes, sir, keep in mind that whatever in that line you can eat and enjoy in the raw state is far better than the same food would be if cooked. This applies to wheat, too—indeed it is a good habit to carry a handful of plain wheat and chew it when you feel the desire—it is good chewing as any sugared confection you ever chewed. Plain wheat as it comes from the threshing machine, taken whole or cracked or ground in your own mill so you can be sure neither bran nor germ is removed, eaten raw or cooked as you like, is the richest known food source of vitamin B complex—and that is the vitamin group that most Americans need most to restore their vite ("pep" to you, maybe).

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Children Have Worms

It seems that every year at about this time our children are troubled with pinworms — irritable, won't eat well, occasionally wetting the bed. (Mrs. G. P. E.)

Answer—If you are diagnosing pinworm infestation without having seen the pinworms, it is hardly fair to the children. Better give the children the benefit of proper medical attention. At least procure correct information concerning pinworms and other pests or parasites.

Reward

Lots of things you tell us are perhaps true but we get awfully tired of your sounding off about drafts or wet feet not making muscles sore. (W. McK.)

Answer—If you will show me in print any such statement of mine, I'll send you with my compliments half a dozen bottles of Ol' Doc—I mean A Lot of Little Lessons in the Ways of Health—the $5 twenty-four volume set of booklets containing the gist of the health teachings in this column. In fact, when I sound off about exposure to cold or wet I usually try to mention that sore or stiff muscles may be the consequence of cooling off too quickly after hard work. That, however uncomfortable, is not an illness.

Bronchial Asthma

Can you offer any suggestions for the control of bronchial asthma. I am subject to it and the two physicians I have consulted were unable to do anything for it. Between attacks I seem perfectly normal in breathing, but during an attack, which generally lasts several days, am certainly miserable. (W. L. J.)

Answer—Send stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask (in writing, please) for pamphlet on Asthma.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

As we travel through the holiday areas these midsummer weeks, we can take note of one of the grave errors of the past in allowing settlement on wild rocky land that never will produce as farms. We see the little shabby shanties, the ragged clearings, the distressed looking children, women and men who are trying to eke a livelihood off literally barren soil. We know that there are very large sections of Canada which should have been, and should be, restricted to forest use and to recreation—that most profitable new forest industry.

The early pioneer had no way of knowing whether the land he had chosen and was busy deforesting was good land or bad. Today, there is hardly an inch of Canada that has not been surveyed for its soil characteristics. And these present day settlers, if they do not want to find out, can at least be told what they are going to find underneath the spruce.

But unless a government policy is devised for keeping settlers off unprofitable settlement land, there will always be this fringe of modest adventurers pushing out from the edges of civilization and seeking freedom, security and independence by building a shack on a lonely bit of earth and there going ahead to raise a family. And it might be generous in us to recollect the good features of the lean life they have chosen to lead. In past generations, these fringe settlers have supplied us our lumberjacks. They have helped cut the timber and pulpwood our economy needed, off their own little holdings. They produced the guides and backwoodsmen, trappers and prospectors who filled the bill before the modern day of professional woodsmen. They added immeasurably to the wisdom of the wilderness which is a basic part of Canadian culture, though not yet recognized as such.

The hill-billy fringe has given to all provinces of Canada some of its outstanding men and women in the professions and in industry, despite the handicaps of their early life. And in two wars, these lonely, dowdy, hopeless little shanties strung along the margins of Canadian life gave us, without question, some of the greatest fighting men we had. So look softly at the little shanties, ladies and gentlemen: look friendly upon the unimposing inhabitants of them.

Gates Opened Because Waters Of Lake Superior Had Reached High Levels Says McNaughton

OTTAWA (CP)—Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton said yesterday dam gates controlling the movement of waters of Lake Superior to lower lakes were ordered opened because the waters of the lake had reached dangerously high levels.

The Canadian chairman of the International Joint Commission said the commission sanctioned opening 15 of 16 gates controlling the lake waters after Lake Superior levels climbed to a few hundredths of a foot below the maximum height allowed under a Canada-United States agreement.

If the waters had been allowed to continue to rise, they would have threatened shore communities and transportation facilities in the Lake Superior area.

Comments On Report

Gen. McNaughton was commenting on a Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., report that the gates in the compensating dam across St., Mary's River at the Sault Canal had been opened. The report said all but two of the gates were closed shortly after the start of the United States steel strike. The dam holds back the flow from Lake Superior.

Gen. McNaughton said the decision to allow Lake Superior waters to move into the lower lakes had nothing to do with the steel strike or the movement of iron ore. The Sault report quoted unofficial sources as saying the real reason for opening gates is to speed movement of iron ore to steel mills. The informants said that if lake levels are increased, draft levels can be increased and the carriers can move heavier cargoes.

Normal Procedure

Lifting of the water control, said Gen. McNaughton, was a normal procedure followed from time to time to check the high level threat. When lake levels recede, the dam gates can be closed. They had been closed on June 10 and this had cut the lower-lake levels by about one-third of a foot.

Now with the gates reopened, the lower-lake levels were expected to climb again, but it would take "many weeks," Gen. McNaughton said, before lower-lake levels would increase by "several inches."

PLANNING

VOLUNTARY VERSUS COMPULSORY TAXATION

In small municipalities like ours the Council is very close to the people and when the people want something done the Council carries out their wishes. The cost of the works is assessed to and paid willingly by the people. This might truthfully be termed Voluntary Taxation.

However, when governments devise a system of taxation particularly complicated and which results in the collection of incomprehensible millions of dollars of taxes, the taxpayer then faces a Compulsory Tax.

The question facing you and I today is — Do we prefer larger Compulsory Taxes with less Voluntary tax, or less Compulsory Tax and larger Voluntary Taxes?

The Voluntary Taxes we have immediate control over, whereas we have none over the Compulsory Tax. We can economize how and when we desire in our voluntary spending, which is the strong feature in support of independent municipalities and their own Voluntary Taxation.

Our planning must conform to taxes.

This question of how we are going to build up our municipality in the future is now immediately upon us and the day is not far away when you will be asked to assert yourself or take sides as to whether you are or are not in favor of Voluntary as against Compulsory Taxation.

Pageant to Mark 100th Annjversary Of Incorporation

ST. THOMAS, Ont. (CP)—Visitors to this southwestern Ontario city next week will see one of the largest historical pageants ever staged in Canada.

For six consecutive evenings more than 800 men and women from St. Thomas and Elgin county will reproduce scenes from the district's colorful past on a 400-foot, panoramic stage.

Many of the sequences will be from the life of Col. Thomas Talbot, one time secretary to Lieutenant-Governor John Graves Simcoe, who founded a settlement on the shores of Lake Erie in 1803.

His home still is one of the pioneer shrines of southern Ontario, and local historians like to tell of the military exploits of the Irish-born settler who founded a near-feudal estate on his 5,000-acre grant of rich farming soil.

Other scenes will represent the turbulent '60's when two major railroads, to the south and west, made St. Thomas one of the chief transport centres of Upper Canada and a shipping centre for the threshing machines and engines made at the nearby village of Fingal.

Week-Long Program

Planned in commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the incorporation of St. Thomas and Elgin county as separate municipalities, the pageant is only one of a week-long program of events. Parades, band music, square dances, short demonstrations of all types, a flower show, regatta and mass paratroop drop by members of the Royal Canadian Regiment are also scheduled.

Lord Elgin, grandson of a former governor-general of Canada, from whom the county takes its name, will be on hand with Lady Elgin and Premier Frost to open Elgin Caledonian games at Dutton, 20 miles west of here Aug. 4.

Later, with Health Minister Martin and other officials, they will lay the cornerstone of the new $3,500,000 St. Thomas Elgin hospital. The 330-bed structure is expected to be completed in 1953.

Many changes have taken place since Lord Elgin's grandfather presided over Canada's achievement of responsible government, and risked injury when Montreal mobs burned the Houses of Parliament. From a nameless hamlet on Kettle Creek, greater St. Thomas has become an industrial city of 22,000 persons.

Old Talbot road is now a modern highway. The Talbot estate, shrunken to 650 acres, has only the founder's 16-room "Wilderness Castle" to remind visitors of its former glory.

FAREWELL TO JULY

We hailed with joy your coming—
The days of warm July—
Although with much reluctance
We bade sweet June goodbye;
And tho' the heat you brought us
Brought doom to fruit and flower,
Your going brings sadness
For it lessens summer hours.

True, the robin still is singing,
And the wren's sweet voice is heard,
And many a flower is blooming,
By these the heart is stirred;
But oh! we wish that summer
Might not pass so swiftly by—
And that is why we view with dread
The passing of July.

—Helen B. Anderson.

WEDDINGS

ENRIGHT—FINKLE

The altar and sanctuary adorned with vases and tall white standards of pastel-tinted gladioli provided a lovely setting in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, on Monday, July 28, for the marriage of Marylou Finkle, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest B. Finkle, to John Francis Enright, of Read, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Enright. The Very Rev. Dean Garvin officiated.

Miss Corrinne Connor, of Glace Bay, Nova Scotia, rendered the wedding music, and the soloists, Miss Carolyn Forhan, sang before the offertory, "Ave Maria" and during the signing of the register, "Panis Angelicus", while Mr. William E. Finkle, brother of the bride, rendered during the offertory, "Mother, At Thy Feet I'm Kneeling", and during the communion, "O Lord, I Am Not Worthy".

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was charming in her gown of frost white Alencon lace fashioned with fitted bodice buttoned down the front with round collar, long sleeves ending in points over the hand, and short scalloped peplum. The bouffant skirt was of nylon net over taffeta. She wore a Juliet cap of matching Alencon lace and lily-of-the-valley, and fingertip veil of silk tulle illusion and carried a cascade bouquet of lilies, stephanotis and variegated ivy leaves.

Mrs. Joan Shannon, of Plainfield, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, wearing yellow nylon net over taffeta, featuring a molded bodice and bouffant skirt, and wearing a heart-shaped hat of matching tulle with long streamers.

Miss Jean Frawley, of Belleville, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid, attired in mist blue nylon tulle over turquoise taffeta made on similar lines to that of the matron of honor. Both wore shoulder capes of matching lace and carried hand bouquets of white glamellas with gladioli foliage.

Mr. Austin Wringe, of Read, attended the bridegroom, and Mr. Ernest Finkle, Belleville, brother of the bride, and Mr. Timothy Brennan, of Pete's Point, cousin of the bridegroom, were ushers.

The reception and wedding breakfast was held at the home of the bride's parents, where the bride's mother received the guests, wearing grey marquisette with white accessories and hat, and corsage of white carnations and stephanotis. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was gowned in powder blue sheer with matching hat and gloves and corsage of pink feathered carnations.

For travelling to the Martyrs' Shrine, Midland, and the Muskoka district, the bride wore a light blue linen suit, with leghorn hat, navy blue accessories, and corsage of red carnations.

HULSMAN—LEFEBVRE

MARMORA.— In the bride's home town, Fassett, Quebec, at St. Fidele de Fassett Church, the marriage took place on Wednesday, of Rita, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lefebvre, to Patrick Albert Hulsman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hulsman, of Marmora.

It was a double-ring ceremony and the couple were attended by their fathers in accordance with French custom.

The bride's gown was beautifully styled with bodice of lace extending in points over the hipline into the very full skirt of ruffled nylon net over satin. It was worn with a jacket of Chantilly lace, which had long sleeves pointed at the wrists and a little roll collar with tiny buttons fastening. Her veil of imported French lace was caught to a wreath of orange blossoms and lily-of-the-valley and she carried a bouquet of Sweetheart red roses and Calla lilies.

A reception was held at the Hotel St. Dennis with a large number of friends present. Both the bride's mother and the groom's mother were wearing navy sheer and white with corsages of yellow and red roses.

They will reside at 161 Dufferin Street, Peterborough.

Elizabethan Period Inspires British Designer Hartnell

LONDON. (Reuters) — The first fashion collections of Britain's new Elizabethan period look back for their inspiration to the prosperous days of "Good Queen Bess"—Elizabeth I.

Deep stand-up collars, wide-based decolletes and close-fitting bodices are reminiscent of the ruffs and necklines of the later Tudors. Slightly stiffened and quilted skirts recall their farthingales (the primitive form of the larger and later crinoline).

Among the first to show his new collections, setting the keynote for winter fashions, was Norman Hartnell. He has made clothes for the Queen ever since she was a child and made the Queen Mother's coronation gown in 1937.

Concentrating on the elaborate evening gowns for which he is famous, Hartnell struck an early coronation note in luxurious models with voluminous skirts topped by open-fronted aprons, suggesting the open coronation robes which will be seen next June.

Although other houses are showing an increasing number of short evening dresses, Hartnell showed only one—in Nottingham pleated lace embroidered with black beads between the pleats and appropriately named "the Web".

The winter silhouette generally shows no radical change. For daytime, skirts are from one to two inches longer and the ballet-length evening dress seems to have gained in popularity with all houses except Hartnell.

Waists are mainly in normal position and still small; belts either non-existent or extremely narrow.

Shaggy wools for daytime contrast with deep piled velvets and brocades of evening. For the cocktail hour, soft flimsy wools and jerseys vie with chiffon and satin.

Called the "windbag" silhouette, it consists of a bloused-back jacket snug around the hips, sweeping slightly down at the back and scooped up in front.

Another designer, John Cavanaugh, showed what he called the swan line—a gracious feminine silhouette showing a proudly curved bosom—ready, he explains, for the display of rich jewels—and skirt "blown" to the back into a suggestion of a court train.

Keeping Milk Fresh In Hot Weather

For the homemaker trying to do the housework on these "dog days", heat isn't at all relaxing. It creates tensions and frazzles tempers which are certain to lower efficiency. However, according to health authorities, a cool glass of milk taken with a 15-minute siesta will give you a real lift on these hot afternoons, but the milk must be kept at the right temperature to ensure best results.

This brings up the problem of keeping milk fresh during the current heat spell and the Ontario Milk Distributors' Association offer a number of timely hints on the proper care of our most nutritious food.

As milk left in the sun can be harmed by this hot weather, a built-in box or covered container should be provided for the early morning delivery and the milk should be brought into the house as soon as possible.

Always wash the cap and bottle under cold water and store immediately on the coldest shelf in your refrigerator. If you haven't a "fridge" available, then place the milk in a cool dark cellar or wrap the bottle completely in a clean wet cloth and stand it in a container of cold water.

When using the milk, pour out only what you require and return the bottle to storage. This will enable you to keep the milk for a longer period and will help prevent the loss of riboflavin or vitamin B2 through excessive light. Never pour unused milk back into the bottle, but cover it and store separately.

It is essential to keep the storage space spotlessly clean, and if the paper cap on the bottle becomes soiled replace the cap with a clean tumbler inverted over the top of the bottle.

Mrs. Sam Dafoe Tells Carmel W.I. Of 'Folk School'

The July meeting of the Carmel W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Frank Hicks with 12 members, three visitors and three children present.

The president, Mrs. Earl Dafoe, presided.

It was decided to have a travelling apron in the W.I., this year.

Miss Marguerite Hicks, leader for community activities and public relations, opened this part of the meeting with community singing with Mrs. Earl Dafoe as song leader.

A paper was given on the explanation of the Mary Stewart Collect used by the W.I. It was written by an American woman, Mary Stewart, as a prayer for women in club work.

Guest Speaker

Miss Marguerite Hicks, then introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Sam Dafoe, from Tweed, who spoke on the "Folk School" that she attended last January at the home of Miss Alma Moorcroft, Madoc. She stated folk schools were for both young and old and that they were new in Canada.

A contest on the Dominion of Canada was given and the prize went to Mrs. Carl Thompson.

Club Activities

CENTENARY 3T'S M.B.

The Centenary 3 T's Mission Circle held its July meeting recently at the home of the president, Mrs. Fred Edmondson, in the form of a picnic. Mrs. Edmondson extended a gracious welcome to Rev. W. It was decided that the August meeting be dispensed with and that Mrs. Orval May's group have charge of the September meeting.

Everyone then joined in a sing-song, after which the worship service was conducted by Shirley Hall. Scripture reading, Corinthians 1:26, was read by Miss Hall. The offering amounted to $4.14.

Mrs. Fred Edmondson gave a delightful reading and Margaret Slavin read a story. The meeting closed with the hymn "Breathe on Me Breath of God" and Mr. Middleton gave the closing prayer.

Mrs. Sills thanked Mrs. Edmondson for her kind hospitality.

Experts Say It's The Season For Picnic Preparations

By KAY REK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

It's salad week and here is your salad-a-day diary as released by the Canadian Horticultural Council.

For Saturday supper, a down south salad. Two No. 1 cans shrimp, one cup diced celery, two tablespoons chopped pimiento, two tablespoons chopped green pepper, one-quarter teaspoon salt, six tablespoons French dressing, one-third cup mayonnaise, six stuffed olives, two grapefruit, lettuce.

Combine shrimp, celery, pimiento, green pepper, salt and marinate in French dressing. Just before serving mix in the mayonnaise and heap on bed of crisp lettuce in salad bowl. Surround in a ring of stuffed olives and grapefruit sections. Six servings.

Combine cooked fresh peas with an equal amount of not-too-finely-cut celery. Add small cubes of Canadian cheese. Moisten with mayonnaise or french dressing. Season to taste with salt, pepper and finely chopped sweet pickles or with pickle relish. Place on thin slices of fresh tomato on a bed of iceberg lettuce.

Ingredients: 1½ cups celery, 1½ cups cooked sliced potato, four hard-boiled eggs, one-half cup mayonnaise, two tablespoons chopped sweet pickle, two green onions, one teaspoon prepared mustard.

Sliced celery and eggs are combined with the potato and finely chopped pickle and green onions. Mustard is blended with mayonnaise and added to vegetables. Season to taste, cover and chill. Serve on lettuce cups and garnish with radishes.

Fruit For Mid-Week

Tuesday and Wednesday are days for fruit salads—fresh pear, celery, nut salad. Three ripe pears, lemon juice, two three-ounce packages cream cheese, mayonnaise, salt, one-half cup whipped cream, two cups diced celery, one-half cup chopped nuts, head lettuce.

Peel, halve and core pears. Sprinkle with lemon-juice. Blend enough mayonnaise into cheese to make smooth and fluffy. Add salt to taste. Fold into whipped cream. Add celery. Arrange pears on head-lettuce cups. Top with cheese Serves six.

Thursday or any day is right for a Canada tomato bowl: Six tomatoes, one-quarter cup parsley, one-quarter cup green onion, six tablespoons salad oil, two tablespoons wine vinegar.

Peel and slice large ripe tomatoes. Sprinkle with salt and black pepper. Mix finely cut parsley and greens to blended salad oil and vinegar. Arrange tomatoes in layers in a shallow bowl, spreading dressing over each layer; chill. Serve from bowl or in lettuce cups. Four servings.

Friday is the day for banana melon ball salad. For one serving: Peel a fully ripe banana, cut lengthwise into halves. Place halves cut sides up, side by side, in centre of salad-plate. Put melon balls at each end and between the banana halves. Garnish with crisp salad greens. Serve with mayonnaise or cream dressing.

Readers' Friday Column

By Mary Moore

QUESTION:

May I congratulate you on (The Home Page) which is the first I turn to every evening. . . I wonder if you or any of your readers could help with a relish recipe calling for beets and horseradish. This is a European recipe used widely by Ukrainians . . . . .delicious with any meat dish.—M. W. E.

ANSWER:

I'll take a bow for all of the feature contributors to the page —thank you, mam.

BEET PICKLE

Two quarts diced or sliced or chopped or shredded cooked beets, 3 small onions, 3 green peppers, 1-2 cup grated horseradish (raw—not bottled), 2 cups vinegar, 3 cups sugar, 3 teaspoons salt. Heat together the vinegar, salt and sugar, and when sugar and salt are dissolved add the horseradish and bring to boil. Add beets, chopped onion and peppers and simmer 20 minutes. Pour into sterile pint jars—4—and seal.

QUESTION:

Here is a little help for Muriel D. In the event that her diabetic husband can eat cherries either sweet or sour I have put both in the locker with no sugar at all . . .the sweet cherries are extra good and just like freshly picked fruit if they are put in jars unpitted and with no sugar. Of course not too many can be put in a jar, but the flavor is excellent. Just cherries—no sugar, water etc.—Ruth.

ANSWER:

Thanks so much Ruth A. I hope Muriel D. sees that and that if she does follow your lead she will not fill the jars more than 3-4 full at the most.

QUESTION:

I'm intending to can cherries and raspberries this year. Would you please give a recipe for making a 9-inch pie with canned cherries and also the canned raspberries. I don't know the method for making pies from canned fruits—am okay on fresh fruits, thanks to you.—No Signature.

ANSWER:

CHERRY PIE

(From canned cherries.)

Line a deep 9-inch pie plate with pastry. Mix together in a saucepan 1 cup sugar (if unsweetened pie cherries are used; if cherries are sweetened 1-3 to 1-2 cup sugar is enough), 4 tablespoons flour, 1-4 teaspoon cinnamon. Now stir into them 2 1-2 cups canned sour cherries plus their juice (no more than 3-4 to 1-2 cup free juice should be present). Stir this over medium heat until it thickens and boils. Pour into the pastry-lined pan and dot with 1 1-2 tablespoons butter. (If desired a drop or so of almond flavoring may be added also about 8 or 10 drops red vegetable coloring.) Quickly cover with gashed top crust and seal and flute edges. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. until slightly brown and juice begins to bubble through slits in crust—about 35 to 40 minutes.

RASPBERRY PIE

(From canned berries)

Same as for Cherry Pie with canned cherries but use not more than 1-2 cup juice.

QUESTION:

. . .being English I wish to apologize on (War Bride's) behalf. I have been here just over a year and have found Canadian people very nice, and so helpful. It has been great fun, like going to school again, learning, i.e., scones are biscuits, etc. . .when one goes to a strange country to earn one's bread and butter we must adapt ourselves to the ways and customs of that particular country. . . when you have time I beg of you help us fat ones to carry less weight around. . . I lived in Paris, France, for many years, and was a big youghort eater. Could you possibly tell me where I could get some? for once I have a spot of it I can make my own. . . I shall watch closely to see if War Bride comes out of her shell again. . . if you do hear from her let me know and I will post her some English books to brighten her outlook.—Limey Lil.

ANSWER;

I love your penname, and your cheery attitude. . . I'll wager that will bring a letter from War Bride. I hope you saw column for July 24 in which I referred to you and gave more reducing menus. You forgot to give me your name and address. . .if you will send these I'll send or see that you get some yogurt somehow.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Too young to "go steady"—how about marriage?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 16, and have been going steady for quite a long time. Neither my parents nor my boy friend's parents approve of our going steady, because they think we are too young.

My boy friend has a good job and he wants to get married, and I know he would take very good care of me, also that we would be very happy, because we are very much in love.

The trouble is, that I feel I might cause trouble between him and his parents if I agreed to marry him now.

Dear G.A.:

What about the trouble it might cause between your own parents and yourself if you were to marry now against their wishes? Have you given that any thought? Also, did you know that there is no state in the union where a girl of 16 can be married without her parents' consent? That's something else to think about.

You don't say how old your boy friend is, but I assume he must be several years older than you are, if he has such a good job that he could take care of a wife at this time. If he is actually several years older than you, then I think he should be old enough to look at this thing in a more mature way than to want you to marry him at 16. He should realize that you should have at least a couple more years to be free to go about as you please and enjoy the good times teen-agers normally have.

I could tell you a great many stories of unhappy girls who have felt they were ready for marriage in their early teens and then, after marrying and finding that they could no longer live the same independent and carefree life they had before, felt that they were being cheated out of fun they ought to have at their age and would give anything in the world to be single again.

If you are really interested in my advice, then it is that you listen to your parents and don't tie yourself up too tight for two or three years yet.

He hurt her—she's glad he got hurt, too

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Over a years ago, I met a boy whom I liked right from the start and he liked me. He asked me if I liked him and I told him I did

About two weeks after that, he met my girl friend, and started to take her out. After he had spent quite a bit of money on her, she decided she didn't like him. I was glad she did this to him because I know she hurt him the way he hurt me.

Many times since then he has spoken to me, but I ignored him. All of a sudden, though, I realized how much I liked him and that I cannot forget him. I think he knows that I still like him. Was I wrong in telling him I liked him the first week we met, and how can I get him back, or at least be friends with him?—M. F.

Dear M.F.:

It's only human, I suppose, to want someone who has hurt us, to be hurt himself, so that he will know how it feels. But it's certainly not very nice. It's not very smart of us, either, especially when we let the person know we feel as antagonistic and resentful as all that.

That's just what you did when you made the mistake of ignoring this boy after the girl broke up with him. If you could have had the good sense to take it easy when he started going out with your girl friend, and go your way without letting him see you felt hurt, things would have worked out better for you all around. He probably would have come back to you and there would have been no hard feelings between you, or if he didn't, the incident would not have left, as the saying goes, "a bad taste in your mouth."

Perhaps it's not too late for you to put this program into practice right now, and it's your best bet for getting him back. That is, be friendly whenever you meet him, and act as though nothing had ever happened. Don't make an obvious play for his attention, but go out with other friends and have fun. When he sees you are the sensible kind of girl who won't hold a grudge, and who has good times with everyone, he may want to come back.

As for whether or not you were wrong to tell him you liked him the first week you met, it was foolish rather than wrong. A good rule to remember is not to get too serious with a boy too quickly.

GOOD MANNERS

Secretary should pay no attention to co-workers' superficial criticism

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have a wonderful position as secretary to an executive in an important business organization. I thoroughly enjoy my work, and like my co-workers. Very often some of the girls in the office and I lunch together, and sometimes I have to leave early to make a purchase requested by my employer, or to do some other errand for him, such as picking up tickets he has ordered. He has suggested that I can take extra time off for this, but I don't at all mind doing these little errands during lunch time. However, apparently the girls in the office have been discussing this, and yesterday "they came out with it," insisting that I make myself appear more like a servant than a secretary, and also that I am being imposed on. All this had never occurred to me, and I'm disturbed. What is your advice, Mrs. Beeckman? — Perplexed Secretary.

Please don't be one bit disturbed about such a petty, narrow-minded point of view. A right-thinking person, of any age, does not confuse courtesy with servility. . . and that's just what these girls are doing.

As a matter of fact anyone who "serves" in any capacity is a "servant". . . the important point is to be a courteous worker, and that you are being. It is certainly not exceptional for a secretary to be asked occasionally to do errands, small or large, and a sensible person would not feel "imposed on". My hearty advice to you, dear girl, is to pay absolutely no attention to these girls who apparently want to appear "mighty important" . . . . and continue to do your job to suit your employer and yourself. Head high. . . and no silly interference or criticism tolerated.

Son's best girl going with them to officers' candidate school graduation

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our son is to be graduated from officers' candidate school soon, and my husband and I are planning to go to the graduation. Our son has been going about with one girl quite steadily for some time (I imagine they are contemplating becoming engaged), and he has invited her to come with us to the graduation. Her mother has told us, as we were speaking about the plans yesterday, that the girl has already purchased her round-trip railroad ticket. Our son writes us that he has reserved a room for her in the hotel with us. Should we assume that we pay for her hotel room and meals?—His mother and father..

I am quite sure that your son would want you to consider her as your guest, and I think you should. That is, you should pay for her hotel room and other expenses when you pay for your own, and you and your husband would be hosts at any meals you three or four have together. (You should make it clear to her mother and father that you and your husband are inviting their daughter to be your guest. . . this will be a fine reassurance to them from every point of view, not only the financial.)

Serving lemon with iced tea, etc.

When you serve lemon with iced tea, tomato juice or other fruit juices to which lemon is a "good companion", don't serve flat slices of lemon, never easy to manipulate. Instead serve wedges of lemon. . . easier for you to remove the seeds, before serving easier to squeeze, so much easier to manipulate. This thoughtful service looks more know-how, too . . . as it is.

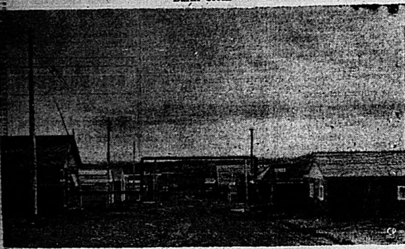
Burnt Creek



This collection of huts and small buildings is Burnt Creek, heart of the iron-ore project in Labrador-Ungava. It lies on the rich ore itself and, in time, these buildings will be torn down so the ore can be mined. Meantime Main Street includes a post-office, bank, doctor's office, laboratory, bunkhouses, kitchens and dining halls, and repair shops connected with the big development. — (CP Photo.)

Restless Men Rush Mammoth Project To Make Available Ungava's Iron Ore

(Editor's note: One of Canada's "new frontiers" is the Labrador-Ungava area, site of some of the world's richest iron deposits. In this story, one of a series Business Editor Forbes Rhude of The Canadian Press writes of the men who are opening the north so its riches can be fed into the steel mills of North America and Europe.)

What sort of people do you meet in that wilderness of Labrador-Ungava which is being turned into a land of iron mines, railways and modern settlements?

First, take the executives running the job for Iron Ore Company of Canada, associated companies and the contractors.

They are the most restless men I have ever seen. They never seem to sit down for more than five minutes, and rarely seem to relax.

That's understandable. A lot of money can run away if supplies and men are not kept co-ordinated in a job that runs for 360 miles.

Something unexpected is always happening. Men are lost, or hurt, or killed.

One Saturday Maurice Taschereau, a young Quebec geologist, lost his way northeast of Wacouna Lake. If he had been working for himself or a small concern, he'd likely be there yet.

Many Aid Search

But Iron Ore Company was able to turn out Indians, canoe parties, planes and a helicopter. Even then, Taschereau wasn't found until Tuesday, exhausted and able to last perhaps six hours more.

J. M. Knowles and C. L. Hawkins, two supply experts from West Virginia, were visitors when I was there. For an outside opinion, I asked them about this restlessness I found. Knowles replied:

"That's the way construction men are. They go in, do the job and get out. What impresses me most up here is their willingness to help you even before they know who you are."

In a construction camp, one Saturday afternoon, I saw a poker game that would raise your hair; but the only real relaxation I saw was on a Saturday evening at the swank new yacht club at Seven Islands on the St. Lawrence north shore 300 miles downstream from Quebec.

At Burnt Creek, Que., in central Labrador-Ungava, three of us in the guest house were visitors. The others were geologists and engineers working on the spot.

We three visitors got up at 7 a.m. and everyone else was already at work.

Many Oldtimers

You'll meet some veteran railway builders. Reason: Canada had built hardly any railways since before the First World War, and when the railway into Labrador-Ungava was started there was a scramble for experienced men. Some were borrowed from the big transcontinental railways, some were coaxed away, some came out of retirement. Here are a few of them:

Hector McNeil, native of Arichat, N.S., chief engineer, borrowed from Canadian National.

H. W. Flemming, native of Liverpool, N.S., special engineer, a star athlete at Dalhousie University around 1908, and an artist who has started evening art classes.

Albert W. Smith, of St. Lambert, Que., native of Albert county, N.B., bridge engineer. In his spare time he is in a fair way to become the most successful gardener in Seven Islands' sandy soil.

David Livingstone, locating engineer for the Canadian Pacific, who left the Labrador job in 1950 for South America, and then Vancouver. H. Gerald Stairs, native of Halifax, office engineer for the contractors.

James G. Pickard of Toronto, is general manager for the contractor. He says:

"It's just a job—except there's more of it—railroads, terminals, docks, power projects. Some 200,000 tons of material will cross the Seven Islands docks this summer. That's a lot of stevedoring. We have $8,000,000 worth of equipment spread over 300 miles of territory."

Harold McNamara, former Montreal and Toronto newspaper man, is assistant project manager. His wife, Bunny, a former newspaper woman, is thrilled that she has coaxed enough blades of grass through the soil to call them a lawn.

Women Workers

About 90 girls work in the offices at the Seven Islands base camps, some of them with husbands also on the job. Some come from the larger cities but generally they come from small towns or the northern frontier.

There are not many places to go. There are recreation halls and the women have bridge parties, language classes, and sew for the hospital. A drama club has been formed.

Romance and marriage flourish. About a dozen storks will join the airlift to the base camps at Seven Islands and Burnt Creek in the fall

If you need transportation, Harry Seeley of Dundalk, Ont., theological student at Queen's University, cheerily doubles as company driver and student minister of the United Church.

John A. Rodriguez spends his time in airplanes and helicopters, taking pictures of the project to add to thousands already in the files of the contractors.

At Burnt Creek I heard a young engineer say: "If you want to live, go to Montreal. If you want to save money, stay here."

Education Financing

Maurice Hodgson, first year mining engineer at McGill, said: "A job like this is the only way to make your way through college."

Dr. James B. Mawdsley, head of the department of geology at the University of Saskatchewan visiting the project, expressed somewhat the same idea:

"There never was a time when it was easier to finance an education. A man can stay out a year and get a stake to carry him through, along with what he can make in the summers."

Out in the railway cuts, 20 or more young geologists were examining rocks. One was from India, one from Pakistan, one from South America, some from the United States, but most of them from Canada.

Dr. Thomas Walthier of the geology staff of New York University commented:

"I wouldn't have come up here the last four years if I hadn't liked it"

Most of the 6,000 or so workers are from Quebec and Newfoundland, but others are from all over the world. Mostly, they are there for the reason any person is anywhere—to get or do a job.

But some are in to get away from liquor, or their wives, or whatever has baffled them in life outside

Turnover is large. In the month to June 4, the contractors lost 512 men of a working force of 3,200. About 10 per cent of the 512 were dismissed. Others pulled out to other places. Some were not used to the bush and got lonesome for their families. Some had a toothache.-

Iron Ore Crews May Get 10 P.C. Wage Increase

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Joseph P. Molony, district director and head of the Great Lakes organizing drive of the United Steelworkers (C.I.O.), said yesterday he was informed one carrier had told its crew they would get a 10 per cent wage increase Sept. 1.

"This is the first tangible result of the Steelworkers' organizing drive among the Great Lakes sailors," Molony said. "However, we regard the 10 per cent wage increase as merely the first instalment on the demands we made to all the steamship companies July 17."

The U.S.W. is seeking to organize the crews of all iron ore carrying vessels on the Lakes. The uion estimates that about 3,850 men are involved.

On June 17, the union said it wanted benefits equivalent to those given in the settlement of the national steel strike. This would mean a basic wage increase of about 16 cents an hour plus other contract improvements. The present wage of seamen on ore boats was not available.

Canada Favored Over Mexico In Cup Round

By MAX MCMAHON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—The three day first-round North American zone Davis Cup tie starts today, with Canada favored to take Mexico.

Lorne Main goes against Pedro Vega, Mexican team captain, in the first singles match, beginning at Mount Royal Tennis Club at 2 p.m., EDT, with Brendan Macken meeting Mario Llamas in the second.

Macken and Main are more experienced than Llamas and Vega. Macken is playing in his seventh Davis Cup tie and Main in his third while only Llamas has ever played in Davis Cup competition for Mexico before.

Courts Handicap

Then too, the Mexicans are unaccustomed to grass courts while the Canadians are well used to them and are not as easily affected by the humidity as the Mexicans.

The first match should be a tough one, with Main meeting Vega, but should still go to Main.

Lorne uses both hands a lot, particularly from the baseline and when handling a not too wide service. He is as good as many in the game, and better than most, in returning a hard service, while Vega's service is not exactly his strong point.

Experience Factor

The second match between Macken and Llamas, is expected to have the spectators on the edges of their seats, particularly if the two get to volleying, in which both are strong.

Macken's experience might prove the winning factor here though, as he has acquired tremendous touch and control.

In tomorrow's doubles match, Llamas and Manuel Galeana, the third man on the Mexican team will team up against an as yet unnamed Canadian team.

The winner of the best-of-five series plays here against the winner of the United States-Cuba tie being played this week-end.

Crushed to Death

MALARTIC, Que. (CP)—Douglas Cole, 24, of Grimsby, Ont., was crushed to death yesterday in a rock-slide at Canadian Malartic Mines when a chute over which he was standing was opened to make way for a further dumping of rock ore. Malartic, in northwestern Quebec, is some 50 miles east of Rouyn, Que.

USEFUL POTATO

GUELPH (CP)—For food value at the same price, other foodstuffs cannot compare with the potato, a meeting here was told by R. E. Goodin of the Ontario Agriculture Department. He said the potato is the cheapest nutritious food available.

Canadian Dollar In World Bank Fixed at 90.2

WASHINGTON (AP)—The World Bank said yesterday its charter required it to continue to value the Canadian dollar in its capital subscription at approximately 90.2 cents, U.S., for book-keeping purposes until Canada fixes a new par exchange rate

Canada abandoned the 90.2 par rate for its dollar in the fall of 1950, allowing the exchange value to move in response to supply and demand in the foreign exchange market. Most of the time since, the Canadian dollar has gained on the U.S. dollar. Currently it has the market worth of about $1.03 U.S.

Officials of the bank said Canada, to meet a membership subscription assessed in gold value—$35 U.S. to the ounce—turned in 57,500,000 of its dollars several years ago as being worth 90.2 U.S. cents a piece, because that was the par figure then fixed by Canada and the world monetary fund.

Should Canada fix a par at the current market of $1.03, they said, the bank would return some $6,000,000 (Canadian) to Canada.

Suffocated by Earth

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Peter Markovitch, about 40, of Niagara Falls suffocated yesterday when buried under five feet of earth after a sewer excavation collapsed. Markovitch was buried for 26 minutes before his body was freed by fellow workmen.

IMPROVE CLASSES

REGINA (CP)—The Saskatchewan Education Department has issued a new curriculum for elementary schools. The new guide is the start of a long-term plan to build a program of elementary education on a co-operative basis.

SIGN OF TIMES

VICTORIA, B.C. (CP)—Education Department officials said a teacher shortage threatens in British Columbia because so many are getting married. At the same time an increase of 15,000 is forecast for the school population next term.

"COOL CONTROL"

THE FOREHAND DRIVE

1 The Backswing: Keep your eye on the approaching ball; before ball bounces, step out and to the side with right foot pointing at the sideline and draw racket back. This motion should approximately line up arm, shoulders and racket; wrist, elbow, and knees slightly and comfortably bent. Body pivots on hips.

2 The Forward Swing: Eyes must be on ball. Body pivots on ball of right foot as racket moves forward, transferring body weight to left foot. Stroke is continuous, with wrist straightening firmly when ball is hit. Racket swings forward at height on which ball is taken from bounce. Experience and judgment give perfect control.

3 The Follow-Through: This motion of racket and body gives your drive control and your game quality. As racket hits ball, body continues its pivot to the left and racket begins slightly upward line. Arm and racket follow direction of ball and then continue on to cross body till racket head is above and to left of left shoulder.

Yes, it's control that counts, in tennis as in every sport — control which brings the extra-ordinary quality that sets one performer above the other. In the ability to approach things coolly, to control every move and moment, lies the answer to better results.

Canoe Regatta Attracts Cream Of Paddlers

MOONEY'S BAY, Ont. (CP)—Canada's 1952 paddling classic, the 52nd annual Canadian Canoe Association championship regatta, will open today on the Mooney's Bay course four miles southwest of Ottawa.

A total of 21 championship races are scheduled for the two-day affair with four long distance races, the 10,000 metres events, being run off on opening day. Seventeen other events will wind up the regatta.

More Than 400 Entered

More than 400 top-ranking paddlers, representing 17 canoe clubs in Ontario, Quebec and Manitoba, will seek individual and club honors. Five points will be given for first place, two for second and one for third.

The club compiling the most points will be presented the association burgee. Co-defenders of the burgee—emblematic of club supremacy—this year are Montreal Grand Trunk and Toronto Balmy Beach canoe clubs.

Last year the two clubs finished the two-day card with identical scores and for the first time in the association's history they were forced to award two burgees.

Championships won in the 1951 classic by members of Canada's Olympic paddling team, will not be defended this year. The team competed at Helsinki, Finland, earlier this week.

Five clubs have been entered from Montreal, three from Toronto, two from Ottawa, and one each from Gananoque, Winnipeg, Carleton Place, Ont., Lachine, Que., Quebec City, Sudbury, Ont., and Three Rivers, Que.

The clubs can compete only in the events in which they placed at trials in Ontario and Quebec earlier this summer.

Marlene Shoots One Under Par

EDMONTON (CP)—The pressure always on a champion trying to repeat has shown no apparent effect on the young defending titlist in the Canadian women's open and close touranments which start here next Thursday.

Marlene Stewart, the 18-year-old Fonthill, Ont., sensation who swept both championships last year, toured the 6,655-yard Mayfair course in a one-under-par 78 practice round Wednesday and continued her par-shattering yesterday.

Much of "Little Ben's" competition—her style resembles that of Ben Hogan—is expected to come from youth before the competition ends Aug. 16 with a 36-hole match-play finish.

The Alberta titleholder, 18-year-old Rae Milligan of Jasper and Mary Gay, 20, of Kitchener, Ont., will be hard to beat.

Miss Gay succeeded Miss Stewart this year as Ontario women's champion and Miss Milligan's game has improved since last year. She fired an 86 yesterday but she played better today, shooting par in a nine-hole practice round. Miss Gay is expected here today.

Sport in Brief

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Olcott Yacht Club of Olcott, N.Y., yesterday won the 1Aphrodite Cup at the international junior sailing regatta.

Skipper Bill Stephanski, 15, of Olcott, and crew Wally Miller, 16, of Eggertsville won the Royal Canadian Yacht Club event with 42¼ points scored in six races on Toronto bay yesterday and Wednesday.

Billy Wilson and Al Rae of the R.C.Y.C. finished second with 36 points and Harry Jemmett and Hendry Connell of Kingston Yacht Club were third with 32½.

The daily double at Rockingham Park paid $2,775 for $2 yesterday when Baqueano won the first race, at $22.20, and Bright Kitchen the second, at $134.40.

Jacqueline Sharpe, a comely blonde from Beechy, Sask., yesterday won the first "Powder Puff Derby" of the season at Thorncliffe Raceway when she drove Red Guy to a one-length triumph. Red Guy is owned by J. Gram of Philadelphia, Pa.

Guy Zane, driven by Mrs. Wilbur Apthorpe of Chatham, Ont., was second by a nose over Little Willie, driven by Mrs. Mable Holden of Wallacetown, Ont.

J. P. McCaffrey, president of Ottawa Rough Riders, last night announced a two-for-one deal with Hamilton Tiger-Cats involving lineman Vince Colizza, middle Bob McMonagle and quarterback Ollie Harras. McCaffrey said Riders agreed to give Hamilton their option on Colizza in exchange for McMonagle and Harras.

Al Weill resigned yesterday as matchmaker for the International Boxing Club and said he hoped to resume management of Rocky Marciano, contender for the world heavyweight title. Weill said he would leave the I.B.C. effective Sept. 1.

Weill has been matchmaker for the I.B.C. for three years. During that time Marciano was managed by Marty Weill, Al's son.

The New York Athletic Commission has ruled that a matchmaker may not manage a fighter.

Dudley Hanover from the Hayes Fair Acres stable of Du Quoin, Ill., scored a major upset last night when he rushed to the front in the final sixteenth of a mile to overhaul the mighty Good Time and win the $50,000 Nassau two-mile pace at Roosevelt Raceway.

Blonde Dick Mayer, the Connecticut Yankee who trails 17th on the pros' money winning list, fired a seven-under-par 65 yesterday for a one-stroke lead over Jim Turnesa, National P.G.A. champion, to set the par-wrecking pact at Chicago in the first round of the $30,000 all-American golf meet at Tam O'Shanter.

One of the last finishers in a field of 129 pros, Turnesa plodded in with a 32-34 over Tam's trampled 36-36—72 par layout to keep the front runners well bunched.

Medway, a 5-to-1 outsider, nosed out a closely-packed field yesterday to win the Goodwood Cup at Goodwood, England, in one of the slowest times on record. Medway covered the 21-furlong course in five minutes, 15 seconds.

Among the spectators was the Queen, paying her second visit to the track in two days.

GRABS CASH, CHEQUES

TORONTO (CP)—An envelope containing $500 in cash and $5,000 in non-negotiable cheques was seized yesterday from a cashier on a city street. Mrs. Edna Somerville, cashier from a branch of the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, said she was walking to the bank with the envelope when a man came up behind her and punched her on the neck, dropping her to her knees. He then grabbed the envelope and ran.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—The past few days have produced a rash of open letters to Rogers Hornsby from his friends of the press. They urge the new Cincinnati manager to mend his ways before it is too late and try to be a sort of house mother to the sensitive athletes he has been hired to command.

One such communication reminded the grizzled old batting great that this might well prove his last go-round if he refuses to be chummy with his new charges and eventually gets the old heave-ho because he has wounded some young and highly-paid fellings. This is a new era, they remind the Rajah, and the modern pilot's first duty is to pat his spaniels when they do something bright.

Wasted Effort

Well, the boys might as well save wear and tear on their typewriters. Hornsby will continue to be Hornsby, the one and original Hornsby, and Gabe Paul, the smart young boss of the Reds, knew it when he signed him. That must be the Hornsby they wanted. If not, then someone has made an expensive mistake, the same as Bill Veeck of the St. Louis Browns did.

The individual Cincinnati players either will admire Hornsby, respect his methods and be glad to give him everything they've got, or they won't, and there's nothing anybody can do about it. It is not in Hornsby's nature to alter the thoughts of a lifetime and start handing out lollipops for special effort.

He lives and talks baseball to the exclusion of nearly all else from an early hour each day until he puts away his toothpick in the evening. It is his honest belief that the luckiest man alive is a big league ball player, and that his semi-monthly pay cheque is all the reward he needs or deserves for bearing down every minute.

Some of the Brownies, one learned very early in the season, felt frustrated because their leader did not necessarily ask about their health at breakfast, and because he called them out for dull play while failing to applaud their better efforts.

Supposed To Be Men

"I don't care whether they like me or not," Hornsby remarked upon one occasion, "just so they play ball for me. They're supposed to be grown men."

Not all the Brownies felt hurt at the Rajah's reserve. At least two, catcher Clint Courtney and outfielder Jim Rivera, who had played for Hornsby in the minors, considered him a great man, and likely they still do. Neither of them, we have heard, would have anything to do with the sad incident in Boston when the players presented Veeck a cup for having "liberated" them from Hornsby's clutches.

It is a coincidence, perhaps, that both are tough, fighting ball players who make up in hustle what they may lack in natural gifts. It might be no coincidence that Rivera was traded to the White Sox the other day in a one-sided deal which quite likely will bring a revision of the game's waiver rule.

Alcans Defeat Glen Roys 7-1 In Exhibition

Behind the brilliant one hit pitching of Pat Deasy, the Kingston Alcans last evening defeated Glen Roy Juniors 7-1 in an exhibition game played on the Alcan Field in Kingston.

Two home run pitches were Bob Hunter's undoing as they powered over five of the Alcans' runs.

Alcans scored three runs in the fourth frame on two walks, a fielder's choice and F. Holland's home run to left field.

The Glens scored their one run in the fifth. Pete Green drew the only walk off Deasy with one out. He took second on a fielder's choice that caught Gerry Goyer at first, and scored on a wild pitch and a wild throw.

The Alcans scored two more runs in the seventh on a single by F. Holland and a home run to right field by N. Nourry. They added their final two tallies in the eighth on a single by Harris, a walk to R. Curran, a fielder's choice play that nailed Simonette at first, a fielder's choice on Ball in which Harris was thrown out at the plate, and F. Holland's double to score Curran and Ball.

Deasy, in going the distance for the Alcans, walked one, struck out seven, and gave up a lone single to Barclay, for one run. Bob Hunter went all the way for Glen Roy walking five, striking out eight, and giving up only five hits for seven runs.

Today Decides Big Question-Can Americans Catch Russ In Olympics?

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

SPORTS CLASSIC

The tenth milestone of Ontario's lawn bowling classic will be reached here on Monday, (Civic Holiday) August 4th when the cream of the province's keglers converge on this city for the race for the handsome Corbin Gold Trophy.

Sixty-four rinks comprising some 254 bowlers, some of them from northern New York and Quebec will see action with the incentive being not only the Corbin Trophy but other prizes estimated at $1,600 in value, the highest since the inception of the tournament some ten years ago.

The Belleville Lawn Bowling Club is the host organization. The perennial Cliff Argue, originator of the Corbin Trophy Tournament, ten years ago, and past president of the Ontario Lawn Bowling Association. has released the draw which appears on another page of this edition. and also arranged for the many handsome prizes which up till today were displayed in the window of the Public Utilities Commission.

The tall, handsome Corbin Trophy has been the incentive of lawn bowlers for a decade. It has attracted, as we said before, the best lawn bowlers the province can produce and interest in the tournament is increasing each year.

Pasts-president Argue instituted the tourney back in 1942. He drew 46 rinks the first year. Ten more entered the second year, and from that time on the entry list of 64 rinks has been filled long before tournament time, in fact, many rinks entry forms have had to be turned down because of late application.

Thanks to Larry Murphy and the Calvert Distilleries a new proud trophy has been added to the prize list this year. The gold bauble, intrinsic indication of the interest in sport taken by the Calvert Distilleries is the second prize in the list ranking just below the Corbin Trophy. It is a beautiful thing and well worthy of competition. A gold column surmounted by a victory figure and flanked by two bowlers in striking position atop a handsome pedestal. Plaques will record the annual winner on the base. The Calvert people are to be commended on their presentation to a prize list that is not equalled in the province. A "Team of Distinction" will carry home the handsome trophy for the first time this year.

Then, of course there are the Ritchie Cup and the Pellar Trophy which rank third and fourth, both beautiful momentoes for the third and fourth placers. Many other handsome prizes are waiting, the whole being valued at over $1,600, the highest prize value in the history of the tournament.

So once again this city "of bowlers" extends the glad hand of welcome to her visiting friends of the greens on Mon-Club, host organization is well-known over a far-flung district. And evidence of this is seen in the fact that each year registers a full entry in the Civic Holiday Gold Cup Tournament.

DIESELS-FLYERS TONIGHT

CNR Diesels take on the RCAF Flyers in the third and deciding game of their best-of-three quarter final series for the championship of the Belleville and District Softball League tonight at the CNR Recreation Field at 6:445 sharp. The game should be a honey. Diesels won the first game 4-2 at their field Monday night and then were bamboozled 4-3 by the tricky slants of Pat Guzzo, a transfer from Ottawa who pitched only one game for the Flyers prior to Wednesday's vital victory.

The Diesels will be high-balling their way to the softball wars over the weekend too, as they tangle with Cobourg in Cobourg tomorrow night and then trek to Kingston Monday, to play an exhibition game with the Kingston Saints as part of a holiday sports program at the pen.

TWO IN A ROW

The Redmen trek to Peterborough tonight where they take on the Petes in a COBL fixture. Incidentally the Petes management is giving away a $700 television set during the game. and your ticket is good for a chance. There are also hams and other good prizes to be drawn for, so how about it. The Reds have not been too imposing in their last few starts and will likely hitch up their britches tonight in Percueville. Tomorrow night they meet the Prescott Merchants at the Fair Grounds in a St. Lawrence Baseball League interlocking set-to. Prescott chased the Reds to the wire in their first meeting and swore vengeance in the return tilt. Game at 8.30.

FIREWORKS TONIGHT!

Bo-Bo Brazil promises he'll have his skull-cracking ko-ko bumps working like a trip-hammer when he meets Lord Athol Layton in a return match, the wrestling feature at the Memorial Arena tonight. The usually-cool, calm Brazil practically had sparks shooting from his eyes in anger after last week's bout, when Layton scored a victory with the aid of his side-kick, Lou Pitoscia. Brazil was mad enough and completely willing to take both of them on and, if Pitoscia butts in this time, he figures to be nursing a sore noggin, along with Layton.

Robert Pico, a tall, tirading Mexican tamale, will have to step lively in the semi-final, against versatile Pat Flanagan. Sonny Kurgis, Columbus star, will meet Dangerous Dan O'Connor in the first event.

DOTS 'N' FLASHES

Ken Kennys throttle hellions are at it again at the Bayside Speed Oval Saturday where some fifteen or twenty auto stock car drivers will vie for honors and bumps. Plenty of thrills here too, they say, and lovers of the sport should not miss the dirt track classics. Best drivers operating under their own management stage the show which has been drawing large crowds. First heat gets under way about seven o'clock . . . British Columbia cricket team is touring Ontario next week with the first game slated for Ottawa tomorrow. Its good news from Charlie Lund for one of his buddies, Bob Sowden of Vancouver is a member of the cclub and is making a dash trip from Ottawa to Belleville tomorrow to renew old acquaintances . . . And now for the shortest two weeks of the year. Tomorrow starts the annual vacation and its a cottage on a lake for a while.

Yankees 58 Points in Rear With Four Finals Up Today; Meet for Basketball Crown

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HELSINKI (CP)—Four Olympic finals went on the line today but the big question that had everybody running around in circles was whether the United States actually can catch up with Russia for the unofficial point-standing supremacy of the 1952 games.

Those with sharp pencils and mental acumen have come to the conclusion that there will be a photo finish when the games end Sunday.

Give and take a few points here and there, there won't be perhaps half a dozen points separating the two countries in the final standing. The standing, before today's events, was : Russia, 523½; United States, 465.

Swimming Finals

Today's swimming finals brought out the men's 100-metre backstroke and the women's 400-metre relay race, in addition to the completion of the men's platform diving competition There was also the final in the individual-sabre fencing.

Yoshinobu Oyokawa of Honolulu looked to be good enough to take the final, or at least place high, for the United States. He broke the Olympic record yesterday as leader among the semi-finalists. The United States also has two other swimmers in the final. Russia has no finalist.

The United States team is highly regarded in the women's relay, where again Russia has no finalist but plenty of opposition can come from elsewhere. In the men's high-diving, Major Sammy Lee of the United States is already far ahead on points in the two-day competition.

Neither Russia nor the United States can do much about the sabre final.

U.S., Russ In iFnal

Both the United States and Russia won their games in the basketball tournament yesterday and advanced to the final to be played Saturday. The United States already has defeated Russia in the tournament. The U.S. yesterday defeated Argentina 85-76 and Russia won 61-57 over Uruguay.

Argentina today met Uruguay to settle seventh and eighth places. Fifth and sixth spots won't be determined until Saturday when Brazil and Chile meet.

Barbara Stark, 15-year-old American girl, placed fifth, giving the United States two points, the only points either leading country scored all day.

Of the three cycling championships decided, Australia took two. Russell Mockridge won the 1,000-metre time trial and later, with Lionel Cox, won the 2,000-metre tandem. Ebze Sacchi of Italy was first, as expected, in the 1,000-metre scratch race.

Records were made with abandon in swimming preliminaries. In the 1,500-metre men's free-style trials, Shiro Hashizume of Japan broke the record and so did nine others.

Evelyn Kawamoto of Honolulu and Daphne Wilkinson of Great Britain were both timed in 5:16.6 in the preliminaries of the women's 200-metre free-style, an Olympic record.

Jerry Nolan of the United States led qualifiers in the men's 200-metre breaststroke trials with an Olympic record. Leo Portelance of Ocean Falls, B.C., caught 15th spot of the 16 qualifying places.

In the boxing tournament Russia moved six men into the semi-finals and the United States five. The way the blind draw was worked out, there can be no meeting of Americans and Russians in boxing until the finals Saturday night.

Boxing Highlight

The highlight of yesterday's boxing program was the knockout of Russia's powerful heavyweight, Aljgirdas Schocikas, by Alfred Nieman, 23-year-old South African carpenter.

The lanky Nieman went right after the handsome Russian. Both are lefthanders and it was learned later that the Russian has never fought a southpaw before.

Had the Russian won he would have met Ed Sanders of the United States. Now Nieman and Sanders are drawn against each other.

The prognosticators of points have come to the stage where they figure Russia might finish on top in the standing with a 3½-point margin although the United States has been whittling at a lead of almost 200 points Russia once held until today it was cut to 58½.

See 3½-Point Win

It was figured that the Russians might score another 67 points and the Americans 122. That would leave the 3½-point margin.

Semi-finals in boxing and the three aquatic finals today could shatter this calculation.

Canada Won't Bid For Summer Olympic Games

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HELSINKI (CP)—Canada will not bid for the summer Olympic Games until the Dominion becomes much more sports-minded, A. Sidney Dawes of Montreal, president of the Canadian Olympic Association said yesterday.

"I don't feel we would be justified in making such a request and it would be very unwise to do so unless much greater interest in amateur sport is shown by the Canadian public," he said in an interview.

No city in the country has the facilities to organize a summer Olympics, he added.

"In Toronto the Canadian National Exhibition park could be increased to a capacity of 100,000, but the grounds are wanted during the summer. They would not give up the exhibition to hold the games, and Montreal has nothing."

Sought Winter Games

He revealed that he had requested the 1960 winter games for Montreal but the city lacked sufficiently good downhill skiing facilities. The games were awarded to Cortina, Italy.

Dawes said Canada's track and field performances in the current games were "most depressing."

"We didn't make a disgraceful showing and over all our performances weren't bad," he said. "It isn't correct to say that we are weaker in track and field than other countries. In all our sports we seem to place in the middle and I should like to see us at the top."

He said Canada's sports advisory council had recommended to the federal government last January the establishment of a sports training college. To date, nothing had been done but Dawes said he understands the government is "sympathetic to the idea."

He said the college would train sports leaders and coaches "and would have a 'good effect not only in bettering the health of Canadians generally but in producing better athletes."

Look Who's Here?

VAL D'OR, Que. (CP) — Big Bill Kasepchuk limited Val d'Or Tigers to eight scattered hits here last night as Manitou Miners bounced into first with a 10-2 Northwestern Quebec Baseball League victory.

It was Kasepchuk's third straight victory at the expense of the Tigers. Kasepchuk played with Brockville Memos, Central Ontario Baseball League champions, in 1951.

Phils' Bobby Shantz Looks Like Baseball's 'Man Of The Year'

Little Lefty Sure to Become First 20-Game Winner of '52; Has Dazzling Mark of 19-3

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Little Bobby Shantz, leading candidate for the American League's most-valuable-player award looks like baseball's "Man of the Year."

With a dazzling 19-3 record, the little lefty is a sure thing to become the major's first 20-game winner in '52. Barring a slump he should become the first to win 25 for Philadelphia Athletics since Lefty Grove in 1932. Even the 30-win mark, a target nobody has hit since Dizzy Dean's great performance in 1934 is within reach.

Hurls 4-Hitter

Shantz' 19th was a 2-1 four-hitter against Detroit yesterday in the first game of a double-header. He struck out seven and walked only two in outpitching young Billy Hoeft. The A's also took the second game, 3-2, with three runs in the ninth off Virgil Trucks. Homers by Trucks and Walt Dropo provided the only Tiger runs off winner Alex Kellner.

Vic Raschi, regaining his old place as New York Yankee ace, won his 10th straight and 12th of the season by 6-2 over Chicago to keep the Yanks three games ahead of the Indians.

Cleveland staged a six-run rally in the eighth to make it two out of three over Boston, 8-2. Joe Tipton's tie-breaking homer off Maurice McDermott started the spurt. Bob Lemon earned his 12th victory with a seven hitter, including a two run homer by Del Wilber.

Washington remained 5 1-2 games back of the Yanks by scoring five in the first innnig to trip St. Louis 10-5. Sandy Consuegra, relieving Randy Gumpert in the fourth, won his fifth in a row.

Dodgers Take Two

Brooklyn widened its National League lead to six games over New York by knocking off Pittsburgh in two games, 7-6 in 11 innings and 4-1. A walk by reliefer Paul Lapalme with the bases loaded gave the Dodgers the first game. Rookie Joe Landrum, just advanced from the Fort Worth farm where he won 15, copped his first big-league start in the second game with an eight-hitter.

Chicago went wild to score nine in the seventh and trim the Giants 11-8. Despite an 11-1 lead, the Cubs had to battle to stave off a late Giant rally. Three in the seventh and four in the eighth on Jim Rhodes' grand-slam homer made it close.

Cards Blast Braves

St. Louis Cards ripped into Vern Bickford for six in the fifth inning to thump Boston Braves 8-3. Billy Johnson had two singles in the big inning when 10 batters went to the plate.

The Phillies and Cincinnati were idle.

A Chicago crowd of 34,548 saw the Yanks bomb Saul Rogovin off the hill in the fourth to take the lead in Raschi's win. Gene Woodling's double and singles by Billy Martin and Phil Rizzuto drove in the runs.

Intercounty Has All-Star Game

(By The Canadian Press)

The seven clubs in the senior Intercounty Baseball League last night paused in their race for play-off positions to stage the annual all-star game.

A triple by catcher Ross Doherty and a bunt by shortstop Bobby Schnurr in the ninth inning gave the veterans a 1-0 victory over the freshmen. The two teams were picked by ballot; the managers choosing the first-year team and press and radio representatives selecting the veterans.

Both teams used four pitchers with Bobby Schnurr the winner and Bill Anderson the loser. Schnurr was aided by Billy Gibbs Joe Yosurak and Don Gallinger while Bob Brake, Jack Adie and Mel Duncan hurled for the freshmen.

Vetera nrightfielder Russ Evon of London Majors leads the league in hitting in figures released today. Evon with .371 is trailed by Dick Welker of Kitchener Panthers with .330. Evon also leads on runs batted in with a total of 33. Vern Kaiser of Galt Terriers followed with 26.

London's Bob Brake leads the pitchers with nine wins against one loss although Chuck Fedoris of Kitchener has 10 wins against two losses.

Royals Pull Away From Int. Pack; Leafs, Wings Lose

(By The Associated Press)

Montreal's Royals are slowly but surely pulling away from the rest of the pack in the once-congested International League pennant race.

Montreal defeated Buffalo Bisons 4-3 last night to increase their lead to 5 1-2 games over the runner-up Rochester Red Wings. The Royals also enjoy a nine-game bulge over the Wings in the vital "loss" column.

Rochester dropped a 3-1 decision to Springfield Cubs is rookie Al Larry stunned the Wings with a five-hitter. Larry retired 19 men in order in one stretch, fanned six and walked none. Rip Repulski accounted for Rochester's only run by leading off the game with a home run.

The defeat also endangered the Wings' grip on second place. Third place Syracuse pulled to wtihin one-half game of Rochester by turning back Ottawa Athletics 4-0 behind the two-hit pitching of Jack Griffore. Griffore fanned seven and didn't walk a batter.

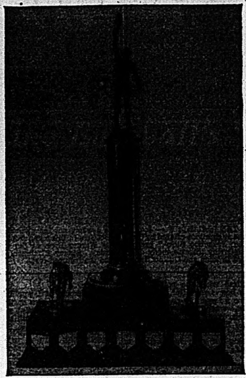
Baltimore's climbing Orioles tied Buffalo for fifth place by trouncing Toronto Maple Leafs 8-2. Marv Rackley led Baltimore's 13-hit attack against Leaf ace Johnny Hetki with three hits.

Record Crowd Sees Car Races

TORONTO (CP)—Some 12,000 persons contributed more than $25,000 last night to set a Canadian money record for stock car racing as three United States drivers captured the feature 100-mile race.

Lee Petty of Randleman, N.C., finished first, roaring around the 300 laps in two hours and 17 minutes. Ray Dubig of Toledo, O., was second and Pappy Hough of Paterson, N.J., third.

Norm Brioux of Toronto was top Canadian driver in 10th spot among the 14 finishers in the field of 5. Lloyd Shaw of Toronto was 11th and Al Lemieux of Cornwall was 12th.



Incentive of some 254 lawn bowlers over the Civic Holiday is the handsome Corbin Gold Trophy which is the piece de resistance of the's Men Rinks Tournament being staged on Monday at the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club. The trophy observes its tenth annual "battle of the greens" on Monday with the best bowlers in the province here with their ladies. The Gold Trophy tourney is one of the blue ribbon sports classics of the year and Chairman Cliff Argue predicts the keenest competition in years on Monday.

FALL PROVES FATAL

BRAMPTON (CP)—Elmer Kranyak, 23, of Hamilton died yesterday four hours after he fell into a swimming pool at nearby Huttonville. Kranyak was walking past the tank when he slipped on wet pavement, struck his head on the side of the pool and fell into the water. He was pulled from the water by lifeguard Alan Rogers.

Tommy Burns, Ex-Heavy Champion Now Demonstrates 'Universal Love'

VANCOUVER (CP)— If you happen to bump into this 71-year-old, pink-cheeked man, he'll probably hand you a card reading:

Burns, Canada's first and only world heavyweight champion, lost his title to Jack Johnson in Sydney, Australia, in 1906. James Jeffries retired undefeated champion in 1904 and Burns had disposed of nine other contenders for the title, including Marvin Hart and Jack O'Brien, in his climb to the top.

Native of Hannover

Though he now makes his home in California, Burns, a native of Hannover, Ont., visits Vancouver once a year to preach and spread his gospel of "universal love."

"If I knew what I know now," he said today, "I would never have been a fighter, although I don't regret my career. I had to know the 'other side of life' to appreciate real living."

Burns said his change of heart toward the ring occurred 20 years ago in New York.

"I was running a night club and I had a terrible attack of arthritis I was in agony, just about licked—then I turned to religion."

AROUND THE HOME

PROTECT THE GARDEN HOSE — by hanging it up on shady side of house after use so that it is thoroughly drained. All you need is a small pulley under the eaves and a rope used the same as on a flag pole.

GOOD SUPPORTS for such flowers as peonies and delphiniums may easily be fashioned from stakes, 1-½ or 2-inch square, painted green. Screw in hooks at one-foot intervals to support wire loops or wooden hoops.

Many other suggestions like these in the booklet "Around the Home Again". Write for copy to Molson's (Ontario) Limited, P.O. Box 490, Adelaide St. Station, Toronto.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Those who have predicted doom for commercial television will have to seek another pastime, reports Max Leibman, producer of the popular "Show of Shows."

Liebman, an intense, dapper, persuasive fellow, is in Hollywood to talk about a movie for his stars, Sid Caesar and Imogene Coca.

"Last spring, there were a lot of observers who said TV was going to be in a bad way," he remarked. "That was after Faye Emerson and a few other shows had been dropped. But the wiser heads said, 'wait until late summer; you'll find all the TV network time has been bought up.'

No Sponsor Trouble

Leibman's own show is booked up for the fall season. The Caesar-Coca production apparently had no trouble finding sponsors, despite a hike in its already-hefty budget. This year the bill will come to $160,000 every Saturday night, a $10,000 boost over last season.

The "Show of Shows" thus amounts to a $6,240,000 investment for the coming 39-week season.

"People are always asking me how we do it," he commented. "There's no formula, except that we have the best talent available in each capacity."

"No, it would be impossible. It would be financially prohibitive to put an hour-and-a-half show on film and do it correctly."

TEEN AGERS MISSING

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich. (AP)—Four teen-agers—two girls and two boys—were sought today along heavily-wooded borders of the Marquette national forest and the Mackinac state forest in Michigan's rugged Upper Peninsula.

They vanished at 2 p.m. yesterday. An overnight search failed to find any trace of them.

AT THE McCARTHY — Joel McCrea appears not too pleased with the suggestions offered by Yvonne DeCarlo in this scene from "The San Francisco Story," presented by Warner Bros. at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre today and Saturday. Sidney Blackmer, Richard Erdman and Onslow Stevens head the featured cast.

AT THE CAPITOL — Academy Award winning Broderick Crawford ("All the King's Men" and "Born Yesterday") makes his first MGM appearance in "Lone Star," as Clark Gable's bitter enemy and rival for the love of Ava Gardner. The exciting outdoor adventure film is having its first Belleville showing at the Capitol Theatre today and Saturday. Continuous show Saturday from 1.00.

AT THE CAPITOL — Laughing matter. Jane Russell, Groucho Marx and Frank Sinatra have the starring mirth-roles in "Double Dynamite," which deals with the adventure of two bank employees after a big horse parlor coup puts them on Uneasy Street. In the RKO Radio picture Marx, as a bistro waiter, highlights the fun. On the same program Leo Gorcey and the Bowery Boys appear in their new comedy hit "Hold That Line." Both hits are first city showings and open Sunday midnight with a special matinee Monday at the Capitol Theatre starting at 2.00 p.m.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

There must be lead inside the head of partner Stony Jammer. You cannot force the kid to bid. Not even with a hammer.

We are discussing this deal:

The bidding started off like this:

North	East	South	West
1 C	3 H	Pass	Pass
Dbl	Pass	3 S	Pass
4 H

A bid in the same suit as an opponent has bid is known as an overcall in opponent suit. This is used as a signal that promises no losers in that suit and orders partner to bid.

This signal applies if the overcall in opponent suit is made at the first opportunity. But an expert pair may use it in an emergency at a later opportunity if the circumstances warrant.

When this case came up, north and south were master players. So it is not surprising that south realized what the north bid of four hearts was after. South took it for a force.

So, when east passed four hearts, south bid five clubs to show his club support. It was evident to south that north was fishing for such information to decide if a slam was worth a try.

Yes, north was aching for an excuse to go slam. So, when south showed club support, north hopped to six spades. A daring bid. Too daring. An ordinary player would be content with game.

However, south had better spades than indicated. The finesse in trumps was guessed right. The club finesse worked. A dummy diamond was sluffed on south's heart queen. A few horseshoes.

It is doubtful if I would have pushed to a slam like north did. But against a successful result, I'd better keep my mouth shut.

HAD HUBBY BEATEN

MONTREAL (CP)—A wife admitted in court yesterday she gave her brother $5 to have her husband beaten up "to teach him a lesson." Mrs. Adelard Levesque said she gave the money to her brother, charged with conspiracy to commit assault, after her husband struck her while under the influence of liquor. Her husband testified he was set upon and beaten by four men one evening while napping on his veranda. He suffered a broken nose and fractured ribs. The brother was committed for trial.

BANCROFT

Varied Docket In Police Court Of Cases Heard

BANCROFT — A total of $232 in fines was levied as Magistrate R. C. Jackson presided over a varied docket of cases in Bancroft Magistrate's Court on Wednesday. The cases heard varied from infractions of the Liquor Control Act to a charge of assault occasioning actual bodily harm against a Whitney man.

Donald Martin, Pat Dubreuil and Leonard Kulack were placed on one year suspended sentence and ordered to pay court costs of $17.50 each on being convicted of the theft of a pet spaniel, the property of the owner of the Arlington Hotel at Maynooth. The dog was recovered several days after its disappearance from the hotel by a member of the Bancroft detachment of the Provincial Police. The three men are all residents of Whitney.

Gordon Highland, Whitney, was assessed a fine of $50 and court costs of $15.50 as a result of a conviction of assault occasioning actual bodily harm on another Whitney resident, John Dargus. The charge arose as the aftermath of a fracas at the Lake St. Peter pavilion last week in which Dargus sustained a broken nose and other injuries.

A summer resident at Lake Baptiste, Bruce Canning, age 17, was convicted of driving while his licence was under suspension as the result of being involved in an accident near his home last week. Canning paid a fine of $25 and costs after pleading that he was unaware his permit was still suspended.

Causing a disturbance at the Papineau Lake dance hall last weekend cost Arthur Pesheau, Combermere, $10 and costs after charges were preferred by the owner.

Five other district residents paid fines of $15 and costs for breaches of the Liquor Control Act. Several other cases of a more serious nature were remanded to the next court.

MALE SECRETARIES

VANCOUVER (CP)—Men are moving back into the secretarial field largely occupied by women in recent years. William Emerson, vocational training school executive, said "male secretaries are gaining ever-increasing popularity. Qualified men make better secretaries."

Sunday School Lesson:

God and Crises

By ROY L. SMITH

The lessons of history are learned very slowly. This is not because the race is not smart, but because each generation has to learn the whole precess of history anew with each generation.

The little child starts out with a mind completely vacant, utterly devoid if impressions, and utterly innocent of opinions. Long before self-consciousness begins it is accumulating experiences, however, out of which it fashions its philosophy of life.

It is also true of races and nations. Some of the most painful and expensive lessons have to be relearned with each new generation.

Defaulting Generation

Once that the Hebrews were safely out of the wilderness and established in the Promised Land their temptations and difficulties really began. Knowing nothing about the science of agriculture, they were dependent entirely upon the Cannaanites for any skills they might develop in planting and harvesting crops.

And the Philistines, quite naturally, told them all they knew about how to win the favor of the little godlets of the fields who were supposed to produce prosperity and plenty. That the Hebrews should turn to worshipping these pagan gods was perfectly natural. Indeed one could hardly expect otherwise.

But to worship the pagan gods of agriculture was to turn their back on Jehovah, the God who had brought them out of Egypt. The land of their bondage, however, kept receding into the background and the necessity of raising a crop was always right at hand. It is always hard for the past to compete with the present, for yesterday's inspiration and convictions to stand up against today's hunger.

Misinterpreted Event

The Prophet Samuel, deeply concerned about the religious depression that was taking place, called the people to a rural shrine named Mizpah, and there he proposed to hold a great national festival of repentance and rededication.

> The Uniform Sunday School lesson for August 3: "Samuel, Judge and Prophet," I Samuel 4:1b—8:22; 12:14-25.

Water, being the most precious thing in the world to the people who lived in an arid land, was used as the sacrificial potion. With profound reverence Samuel poured out water on the ground, in token of the penitence and shame of the people poured out before God.

The barbaric Philistines, looking on, could think of the gathering of the nation as meaning but one thing — war. They could anticipate but one result — an attack on their villages and towns. With fine military strategy they proceeded to strike first, hoping to win the battle before the Hebrews could organize their offense.

It has happened so many times in history — even in modern times — that a perfectly legitimate demonstration on the part of one people has been interpreted as something menacing by a neighbor nation.

God Gave Victory

The ancient historians did not attempt to give a strictly scientific report of events, and for that reason we are unable to determine precisely what happened, beyond the base fact that the Hebrews were endowed with courage and power to withstand their enemies, and the victory on the field was decisive in every respect.

The Philistines were defeated, the little kingdom of Israel was saved, and the authority of Samuel was established.

It was not the end of the Philistine problem, in spite of the fact that this scripture says that "they came no more within the border of Israel." Subsequent hisory reports numerous conflicts with these implacable enemies. But for the rest of the days of Samuel there was no more trouble.

God Honors Righteous Leaders

There is no other lesson in history more strongly or convincingly reinforced than this — the hand of God always seems to be with the nation which has the righteous leadership.

Let any people die at the top levels and they are dead indeed. Let the leadership of a nation be righteous and it can survive vast unrighteousness at its lower levels.

Summer Dream

By Irene Ernhart

"You talk as though I were some sort of a courtesan."

"You are in a way, I suppose."

They had driven up the lane to her father's house and Steve stopped the car and they sat there a moment without moving. Then he reached for her hand and held it rubbing the back of it with his thumb thoughtfully.

His words rankled in her mind. "I'd rather be a courtesan than a frustrated—small-town—"

"Frustrated what?" Steve asked, and when she didn't answer, he said, "Most of us are frustrated to a certain extent, aren't we? Some of us can't have what we want, some of us grab at something in a great hurry and then find out later we didn't want it at all."

Laurie was still feeling irritated. "I know exactly what I want!" she said defiantly.

She was aware of Steve's hand tightening on hers. "I don't believe you do know," he said, "or you wouldn't be here now."

"What do you mean?"

"If you were sure you wanted to marry that—that Fletcher Sturdevant, you'd be in New York and married by now, instead of fooling away the summer here while he waits."

"I just don't want to make a mistake," Laurie said lamely. "My mother did, you know. It isn't that I'm not sure Fletcher and I would be happy, except —" She scarcely knew what she was saying somehow.

"Except!" He laughed shortly and before she knew what he was about he pulled her against him and kissed her slowly on the mouth. Laurie struggled against his lips for a moment and then suddenly gave way to his insistence and surrendered. A warm flood of longing arose in her, and when he let her go again she was breathless.

"You don't know what you want any more than I do." He got out of the car and came around and opened her door for her. They walked to the porch silently in the darkness, Steve's hand on her arm. Laurie was too shaken to be able to think of anything to say.

"Goodnight, Laurie." His voice was still gruff.

Steve had already run his lines and was starting to prepare breakfast when Laurie knocked on the screen door of his cabin.

Surprise flickered briefly in his eyes when he turned and saw her. "Why hello, Laurie. Come in. Had breakfast yet?"

"No."

"How about sharing mine then? He gave her a grin. And Laurie was sorry now that she had given way to that overwhelming impulse she'd had to see him.

"I'll have breakfast with you if you'll let me help prepare it," she said.

"I could learn," she said and she could feel a wave of crimson creeping up her throat. She picked up the granite ware coffee pot and went over to the sink and began to run water into it. The room was still, as Steve watched her.

"Where's the coffee?"

He got down a can out of the cupboard and put it on the counter, and stood watching as she took the lid off the can and hesitated because she didn't know what to do next.

"I know it's silly, but I never made coffee before and you'll have to tell me how."

Steve chuckled. "First dump all that water out and start over again. Measure six cups of water and then add six tablespoons of coffee. That's all there is to it. And don't be mad. You're such fun to tease!"

He showed her how to light the small oilstove, admitting that it was a tricky contrivance. He showed her how it had to be adjusted so that it wouldn't smoke.

She set the table as he went about putting on the skillet, filling it with neat slices of bacon and breaking eggs into another pan.

It wasn't until breakfast was ready and they were seated at the table that he mentioned the night before. "I'm sorry, Laurie, about last night." He poured coffee into her cup.

"Sorry?"

"I shouldn't have talked to you the way I did, about your engagement. And—I shouldn't have kissed you."

Laurie French stirred her coffee and didn't look at Steve. "Blame the kiss on the moon," he went on. "Besides, you looked lovely last night. But it won't happen again."

Another long pause. Laurie said, "Didn't you like to kiss me?"

"Good heaven Laurie, that's a silly thing to ask. Of course I did." He rose from the table abruptly and put the coffee pot back on the stove. He returned. "But you just don't go around kissing girls who are engaged to somebody else."

Steve gulped some coffee. After a moment he said, "Sure. You're lonesome and away from the man you love. It was really Fletcher Sturdevant you kissed last night. Not me."

He rose from the table abruptly, scraping his chair back. "I'm awfully sorry, Laurie, to have to hurry off, but I promised Evelyn last night that I'd drive her and Johnny up to Capitol City to the Clinic. Johnny's under treatment there, and the second Sunday in the month he goes into the hospital. Evelyn doesn't have a car of her own."

"You'll be gone all day?" She couldn't lisguise her disappointment.

"Probably be back around supper time.'

"Could we go for a swim then? There'll still be a full moon."

"Maybe."

"Please."

He shrugged. "If you'll excuse me now. I've got to shave." He glanced at his watch. "Go ahead and finish your breakfast." He went off into the back wing of the cabin and presently she heard the sound of the shower running.

Laurie got up from the table and went out, closing the screen softly behind her.

Last night, she thought as she went back up the path, Steve had told her in effect that she was not sure she was in love with Fletcher, and he had kissed her. This morning he seemed to take it for granted that she was in love with Fletcher. And he was sorry for last night's kiss. Why? Was it because of Evelyn Crane?

Her day stretched ahead somber and empty. She helped her father in his garden for a while and then in the afternoon curled up in the shade to read a book Steve had lent her. The book was boring, for some reason or another and after supper she decided to return it.

It was as good an excuse as any to see whether or not Steve had returned from Capitol City.

He wasn't home yet, but the house was never locked and Laurie went in, because she knew he wouldn't mind her picking out another book. She browsed through the volumes on his desk, picked out a likely one and sat down on the davenport to skim through it. Steve would probably be home shortly. The book was rather interesting, so she turned on the radio and settled herself to read.

The next thing she knew some one was shaking her awake, and she heard Steve's angry voice saying "Laurie, what are you doing here at this time of the night?"

She sat up blinking. "Is it late? I must have dozed off." The radio was still bleating.

"It's 2 o'clock in the morning."

Laurie yawned. "Fine time for you to be coming home, especially when you knew we were going swimming." She tried to collect her sleep-drenched thoughts.

Steve pulled her to her feet. "What's the rush and why are you so mad about it? After all, I didn't mean to fall asleep."

"Suppose Mrs. Jenner should see me bringing you home at this time. She knew you were coming down here, I presume?"

Laurie nodded as she stood up, still yawning. "Don't be mad at me, Steve," she whispered. She felt all warm and sleepy and quite reckless, and suddenly she reached out her arms and put them around his neck and lifted her lips to his.

Steve tried to push her away but then all at once he pulled her against him and kissed her. She was trembling when he let her go.

"Come along. I'll take you home." He was standing at the screen door, opening it. His voice was brusque and impersonal.

She almost had to run to keep up with him as he strode up the path.

He stopped and waited for her to catch up. "You little nitwit," he said hoarsely, "you're a spoiled brat that's always had her own way about everything and thinks she can have just anything she takes a fancy to. Why don't you stop fooling around here and go back to New York and get married? At least go back to your own kind."

Laurie couldn't think of anything to say, so she followed him silently the rest of the way. There was a light in the library still and at Steve's knock her father came out to the door. "I've got your child here, Louis. She fell asleep on my davenport and I found her there when I got home just now."

"For goodness sake, Laurie," her father said, "I thought you were upstairs in your own bed asleep."

In her own room she shut the door and stood there against it. Her eyes brimmed and spilled over. The salty tears stung her cheeks and one ran down her nose. Steve's words echoed in her mind confusedly.

Maybe she should go back and marry Fletcher. She felt miserably lost and confused.

Laurie overheard her father the next day telling Mrs. Jenner that she had better save the table scraps to feed to Steve's hunting dog Cass.

"Has Steve gone?" Laurie asked.

Her father smiled as he went back to his trowelling before he answered. "Decided all of a sudden he'd take a canoe trip down the river to Cairo. Been threatening to do it for three or four summers now, but I don't know what came over him to make him jump into it so sudden like."

(To Be Continued.)

Profitable Dairy Cows
More Essential Now Than Ever

Due to years of cultivation and growing of crops the soil becomes depleted of many necessary minerals, etc., consequently many grains do not contain adequate nutritive value.

This is one reason for the need of supplementary foods to make a properly balanced ration for dairy cows.

You can't get milk without feed. The more a cow will eat the more milk you will get. But the feed must be properly balanced and contain the necessary amounts of vitamins and minerals as well as proteins and carbohydrates.

To make more money, keep only well bred cows and feed them to the limit with Blatchford's Dairy Meal which is very palatable, contains abundant quantities of all the essential vitamins, minerals and is the most economical feed you can buy.

Arrest by Alert Toronto Detective Foils Gang's Plot To Escape from Don Jail

TORONTO (CP)—A passing glance by a Toronto detective may have foiled an escape from Toronto's Don jail by a gang of seven alleged bank robbers, including two charged with murder.

Detective Frank O'Driscoll recognized Frank Watson in a passing car as a man wanted by Ottawa police for passing counterfeit bills.

Bogus Bills Found

The detective arrested Watson Tuesday and found on him a letter addressed to James Morrison, 30-year-old guard at the jail. O'Driscoll said the letter contained 10 counterfeit $1 bills.

Morrison was arrested Thursday night, charged with aiding the attempted escape of Leonard Jackson, acused of bank robbery and murder. Police said it was apparent that the escape of the entire Jackson-Boyd gang was planned.

The gang includes Leonard, William and Joseph Jackson; Edwin Alonzo Boyd; Allister Gibson; Steve Suchan and Norman Boyd. All are charged with bank robbery. Leonard Jackson and Suchan also are charged with murder in the slaying of Toronto's Sergeant of Detective Edmund Tong, shot last March 4, and the attempted murder of another Toronto detective.

In court yesterday the jail guard pleaded guilty and was remanded in custody to Aug. 5. In a statement read in court Morrison admitted Jackson offered him money which was delivered by Watson. He also said Watson asked him to take hacksaw blades into the jail. He also agreed to take guns to Jackson.

Flight Cadet Instantly Killed Near Frankford

At least four persons saw yesterday's crash in an open field west of Frankford.

Robert Stapley of Frankford and his son Robert saw the plane as it swooped in low and crashed on a knoll in the centre of a field near the road. "I saw the plane coming in over the trees. The pilot cut his engine, then opened it wide and came down at an angle," he said.

Two young girls Helen Arbuckle, 12, and her cousin, Laurel Arbuckle, 11, tending cows in an adjoining field also saw the crash. The girls sal dthe plane in with one wing down, caught theg round and then crashed in a big cloud of dust.

The plane did not burn but debris was scattered, one wing coming to rest about 150 feet away. A wing fuel tank was found 100 feet from the main wreckage of the plane.

Stapley and Howard Moran from an adjoining farm rushed to the wrecked plane. "But we saw the pilot was dead, so we did not attempt to get him out of the wreckage," "Mr. Moran said.

An air force official said it appeared that a pilot error in judgment was the cause of the the wreckage," Mr. Moran said. obviously struck the ground at a high rate of speed.

The district west of Frankford is what is known as a "low flying area" and farmers are accustomed to hear low flying planes.

The crash of the plane attracted the attention of farmers within a radius of a mile or more. Mrs. H. Bryant, living a half a mile from the scene said the crash sounded "just like a gun going off."

She said the low flying planes with their roaring motors make her mad. "I just get the baby asleep and a plane buzzes down and wakes him up," she said.

Actress Injured Making Movie

FORT LEE, Va. — (AP) — Screen actress Rosalind Russell was injured yesterday when she missed in an effort to leap into the back of a fast-moving army truck.

Miss Russell received a slight knee fracture and a badly lacerated shin that required 17 stitches in the accident, which occurred during the filming of a movie "Never Wave at a Wac."

Writer Claims Russians Colonized California Before New Englanders

LONDON (Reuters) — A Soviet writer last night claimed Russians colonized parts of California years before American pioneers trekked west from New England.

Igor Lukovsky, whose works have won him the Stalin Prize, was broadcasting a story for Soviet youth purporting to describe the "discovery and development of the Russian Americas" in the 18th century.

After describing how Russians under Vitus Bering (1680-1741) settled in Alaska and what is now the west coast of Canada, he declared:

"In their search for richer agricultural lands the Russians eventually landed from 20 ships in the Bay of San Diego where they established friendly relations with Spanish settlers.

"They settled in various parts of California," he said. In 1811 the Russians had to build a fortress. Defended by 17 guns it stood up to the Spaniards."

Lukovsky said Russian sailors under Cherikov, Feodorov and Bering visited Alaska and the coast of Canada, where they found the ruins of European settlements at least 300 years old.

Origin of these settlements was unknown, he said, "but documentary evidence found on the spot shows irrefutably they were both Russian and literate." Indians and Eskimos there also knew some Russian.

He blamed corrupt administration for collapse of Russian settlements in North America.

"Eventually, even Alaska was sold by the imperial Russian government, and the last Russian lands on the American continent were given away," Lukovsky said.

HUNDRED MILLION DOLLAR POWER PROJECT PLANNED

500,000 H. P. Will Be Added by Quebec

QUEBEC (CP)—A $100,000,000 power project on the 260-mile Bersimis River is expected to be completed by the Quebec Hydro-Electric Commission in 1956.

Premier Duplessis said yesterday the project will boost by 500,000 horsepower Quebec's installed capacity which was 6,755,351 at the end of 1951, and will supply Gaspe peninsula.

The development is where the Bersimis River empties into the St. Lawrence about 30 miles west of Baie Comeau, a north shore pulp and paper centre, and involves laying submarine cables across the St. Lawrence—40 miles at the spot—to feed power to all corners of Gaspe.

Plans also include construction of a $20,000,000 village which will become a permanent site in the virgin territory.

Preliminary work has begun and 1,500 men will be employed when the project is in full swing. The project will tap only one-third of the Bersimis' potential.

Railroad Needed

Duplessis said Gaspe residents were asking that a railroad be built on the north shore, a thing that appeared "more urgent than ever" because of mining developments and civil defence.

"Gaspe is at the very door of Canada and it would not seem logical to leave it open to the enemy. . Rational protection of the country makes indispensable the construction of railroad, telephone and telegraph facilities.

Quebec's industrial expansion was "colossal" said the premier. At present 12,000 persons were employed in various development jobs. Ungava's iron ore development alone employed from 3,000 to 4,000 persons.

A $350,000 12-mile road will be built by the government to link the Chibougamau Explorers Ltd., mine in Dauversiere township with the main 120-mile Chibougamau road.

He said a fall session of Quebec's 24th legislature will be held but he discounted any cabinet reshuffle.

Political Refugee Rescued From Soviet Sector

BERLIN (AP)—Two West Berlin policemen with drawn pistols dashed into the Soviet sector of Berlin last night and rescued a kidnapped political refugee.

Two less fortunate persons were dragged from west into east Berlin by Communist police, West Berlin authorities said.

West Berlin police headquarters said the refugee, who recently sought political asylum in the west, was seized tonight in the western sector by three men in civilian clothes. The three men were presumed to be Communist police out of uniform.

The two West Berlin policemen saw the seizure, drew their pistols, rushed into the Soviet sector, and forced the captors to release the refugee.

Police headquarters said a youth was grabbed on the border between the American and Soviet sector in the Kreusberg district. Earlier an unidentified German was dragged into the Soviet sector from Spandau in the British sector.

Officials Anticipate Cut In NATO Military Goals, Change In 1954 Deadline for Target

By DOUGLAS HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Official quarters here now anticipate a cut in the Atlantic Pact's controversial military goals for this fiscal year and a change in the 1954 deadline for building a target of armed strength in Western Europe.

This raises two possibilities in Canada:

It will strengthen arguments within Liberal ranks that Canada should slow down her own three-year military program and spread it over a longer period, something production delays are promising to do anyway. This could open the way for tax cuts in the probable election year of 1953.

The second possibility is an echo of one of the hottest debates the Commons had last session, an echo which might come no later than next week when the national leaders of the C.C.F. meet in Toronto.

No Decisions

So far the apprehensions about failure to meet the Atlantic Pact's 1952 targets have not been translated into decisions. The permanent Pact Council is, however, launching a review of the program in Paris as a prelude to a late-1952 meeting of ministers of the 14 member nations to study the picture.

It would cause no surprise here if the ministers decided it is impossible to meet the widely-publicized goal for Europe of 50 divisions—in being or capable of mobilization within a month—plus 4,000 aircraft.

Not surprising either would be a decision that instead of aiming to have a reported 80 to 100 divisions in Europe by 1954 the Pact nations set their eyes on 1955 or 1956.

Major factors behind this sharp switch from the heralded urgency of the Pact's Lisbon meeting of last February are said to be economic troubles in the United Kingdom and other pact countries plus a fairly wide difference in the arms the U.S. said she would deliver to Europe and those she actually is delivering.

The U.K. already has announced changes in her program.

Threat Still There

It remains true, despite all this, that nobody in authority feels the Russian threat has waned in the least. But it also is true that the general sense of urgency today is less than it has been.

There already are predictions in Ottawa that the government will cut taxes in a pre-election budget next year despite statements by Prime Minister St. Laurent and Finance Minister Abbott that no substantial cuts can be expected until the world crisis lessens.

Defence officials would like to see another $2,000,000,000 defence budget next year. But they may find the cabinet trimming it by a few hundred million dollars. It already is broadly accepted that what started out as a three-year, $5,000,000,000 program will last four years and cost an extra $1,000,000,000 because of rising costs and producing delays.

At the same time, officials here feel both Canada and N.A.T.O. will stick to their original targets. What they are likely to do is agree to take longer to meet them.

U.S. Govt. Stabilizer Looks For Living Costs to Soar

WASHINGTON (AP)—United States stabilization chiefs look for the over-all cost of living to hit another new high later this month.

His comment last night followed a Bureau of Labor Statistics report that prices have jumped to a record mark—up 1.2 per cent for the two-week period ended July 15 and almost 16 per cent above June, 1950.

Blames Republicans

"There's no question that the cost of living is going to rise somewhat and that the 82nd Congress (only recently adjourned) did curb our program," Putnam said in a radio broadcast.

"There's just no question that the Republican party was voting to cripple controls. The Democrats were fighting to keep the power of controls where they're needed."

Arnall said the B. L. S. report shows that the public can expect "rising prices, higher living costs, further depreciation of the dollar; and fewer airplanes, tanks, guns and equipment for the amount of money we are spending for national defence."

The record food prices, Arnall said, still do not reflect effects of the decontrol of fruits and vegetables voted recently by Congress and the extensive drought which is damaging crops in the south and New England.

Meanwhile, government officials estimated that increased ceiling prices on aluminum scheduled to be ordered Monday will boost national defence costs by from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000.

Arnall's previous estimate that the recent increase in steel prices will add $100 a year to the average living cost of the American family was challenged by Ernest T. Weir, Corporation.

Weir said in a statement that Arnall's estimate was "absolutely untrue." He said that if the industry operates at capacity during the next 12 months, the actual price increase on steel will be "only be about $10 per family per year spread over automobiles, washing machines, refrigerators, tin cans and everything else made of steel that the family buys."

Drilling Rig Nearly Dumped Into Trent River

A large air compressor and drilling rig being used by Mannix-Williams to drill river bed rock preparatory to blasting the bed of the Trent River was almost dumped into the river yesterday, when the barge on which the equipment was resting was tilted at an alarming angle.

The drilling equipment was being used in connection with the river crossing at Glen Miller for the 10-inch oil pipeline being built through this area.

The big barge holding the drilling equipment was tied up near the bank of the river, when lock repairmen lowered the water at the dam a short distance below. The front of the barge grounded on the bank allowing the other end to drop and submerging it in the river.

Workmen soon had a steel cable attached to a winch on the bank preventing any possibility of the barge slipping any deeper into the river.

Blasting of a six-foot trench in the river bed in which the pipeline will be laid is expected to take place this weekend.

SIMCOE (CP)—Believed to have suffered a heart attack and stumbled forward, Cecil Shepherd, 70, was found dead in a small creek yesterday. Owen Richards, Simcoe, and Glen Wales, Port Dover, were working on the pond cottage and went to wash up for their dinner when they spotted the body lying face down in about one foot of water.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO O(CP) — Synopsis: The weak disturbance which has been pushing slowly southward across Ontario brought a few showers to central regions last night and caused considerable cloudiness over southern sections of the province this morning.

Following this disturbance light northwesterly winds have once again brought cool air from northern Canada to all of northern Ontario. The leading edge of this cooler air entered the Georgian Bay region early this morning and is forecast to move southward over the remainder of Ontario today and tonight bringing slightly cooler weather for Sunday.

COST OF LIVING SEVENTH-TENTHS OF POINT UP

Food Prices Responsible For Latest Increase

OTTAWA (CP)—The high cost of living might accurately be described as the high cost of eating these days.

Rising food prices were entirely responsible for the latest rise in the cost-of-living index. They pushed the index, based on 1935-39 prices equalling 100, to 188.0 from 187.3—a jump of seven-tenths of a point during June.

Beef, lamb and pork prices all increased during June but the increase in the index was caused mainly by a rise in the price of eggs by 10.6 cents a dozen. The rise from 49.1 cents a dozen in May to 59.7 cents in June was the result of falling production brought on by hot weather.

Rents ot Surveyed

Clothing and home furnishing prices declined slightly but fuel and light and miscellaneous remained unchanged. Rents were not surveyed and remained at a peak of 147.9.

The increase in the index during June followed a three-fifths-of-a-point rise during May, reversing the downward trend of the previous four months from the high of 191.5 last December.

The food sub-index rose 2.5 points to 239.5 from 237.0. The only food price declines were for fresh fruits and vegetables.

The sub-index for home furnishings and services dropped to 196.7 from 197.2 in the wake of lower prices for electrical goods and floor coverings. Minor price drops throughout the clothing sub-index brought the barometer down to 209.1 from 209.3.

Meanwhile, wholesale prices for 30 industrial materials declined. The index slipped to 247.7 at July 25 from 249.4 at June 27. The farm products index was down to 243.5 from 248.9.

Wood pulp, raw rubber, raw cotton, zinc, wheat and steers showed wholesale price declines, outweighing increases for western oats, domestic wool, beef hides and white lead.

Farm prices were lower for potatoes, grains and livestock. They increased for raw wool and eggs.

U.S. Army, Air Force, Navy Combine To Knock Out Lone Machine-Gunner

WESTERN FRONT, Korea (AP) The United States Army, Air Force and Navy joined forces yesterday against a lone Chinese machine-gunner.

Eight fighter-bombers, 105-millimetre howitzers, tanks, recoilless rifles and machine-guns tried all afternoon to knock him out of action.

By late afternoon, they had chewed up and burned off the ground all around his log bunker a few hundred yards across a draw from old baldy, where Allied troops were digging in against accurate Chinese shelling.

But the Chinese machine-gunner lived through it and continued sniping at allied troops.

Sometimes, he judged shells so well that he didn't even bother to duck inside the bunker.

When the shells started landing close, he dove under ground but always came up alive a few minutes later.

"If he only realized how much attention he is getting," an artillery observer said wryly. "I don't understand how he can come up shooting all the time. But you have to give him credit."

Col. George Mergens, commanding the Old Baldy operation, said the operation probably cost more than $50,000.

Dozens Injured As Riots Wreck Bordeaux Jail

Prisoners Set 17 Fires And Clash With Police

By JEAN de GUISE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—Some 700 prisoners, rioting over food, broke out of their cell blocks in Montreal's Bordeaux jail last night, set 17 fires and then clashed with 200 police in a bloody battle.

Two prisoners were wounded and a dozen injured in the two-hour demonstration and there were reports last night that one died on the way to hospital. However, a high police official told The Canadian Press early today there were no deaths following the riots.

Uneasy Truce

Today, a tense uneasy truce ruled in the big jail after its second riot in a little more than three months. There were only minor injuries in a two-day outbreak early in May.

There has been no statement, so far, from the jail governor, Dr. Zenon Lesage, or other prison authorities.

The police, using tear gas bombs and firing pistols over the heads of the rioters, drove them back into their cell blocks—but they remained inside only briefly. The prisoners smashed the main locks and then spilled back into the yard to yell and taunt the police.

The police, aware that the broken locks made it impossible to keep the convicts behind bars for the night, stood by and allowed them to blow off steam.

Shortly after midnight, quiet returned to the big prison on the city's northern outskirts and the prisoners bunked down as best they could, leaving police still with the problem of getting them back under lock and key.

Wounded in Neck

It was not immediately clear whether police aimed directly at the prisoners wounded by gunfire or whether they were wounded by ricocheting bullets. One was wounded in the neck.

After the disturbances in May, an official investigation was promised by the Quebec provincial government, which administrates the prison, but no results have been announced.

Then as now, the rioting came over food. After supper, the prisoners set fires and smashed cell locks and ruled the roost in the prison for a time. The locks eventually were repaired and the prisoners returned to their cells.

Feigned Illness

A prisoner in the mental wing, inhabited by both convicts and non-convicts, feigned illness, called a guard, overpowered him and obtained his keys. He set other prisoners free and the demonstration snowballed.

More than 50 carloads of heavily-armed police and a three-alarm contingent of fire equipment raced to the jail, about 10 miles from downtown Montreal. The firemen fought the blazes, bringing them under control, and the police moved in on the convicts.

Chief Emile Drapeau of the Montreal fire department was treated at hospital for injuries reported sufferd when struck by a convict wielding an iron bar. He returned to the prison later.

Twelve ambulances were on the scene, but only two men, the convicts reported shot, were taken away. Others were treated in the prison by nine doctors who responded to calls for aid.

A dozen men awaiting trial before Montreal courts, some on murder charges, were taken from the jail, which has a normal population of about 800, to provincial police headquarters downtown.

100 Removed

Later, to ease tension provincial police also removed approximately 100 convicts, some of them reported to be among the ring-leaders of the rioting.

As the convicts milled about in the main yard, one shouted to police strung out behind an iron picket fence separating the yard from the main doorway:

"We could pick the steel wool out of the corn we had tonight for supper."

Later, a small supply of food was taken into the jail and some was distributed to the convicts.

All of the prisoners in the jail were serving two years or less. Those sentenced to more than two years go to the federal penitentiary at nearby St. Vincent de Paul, Que.

Police Are Mystified By Vanishing Bride

No explanation has yet been advanced for the disappearance of Vienna-born 22-year-old Benita King who vanished on July 30th while en route to England aboard the Ascania on her honeymoon. The Kings had been married only two weeks and were on the first stage of a European honeymoon for which the husband, R. W. King, an electrician, had patiently saved. King said his tragic honeymoon was the climax to a whirlwind courtship and marriage. He first met his wife, seen above, in Edmonton only a few weeks before they decided to get married. When last seen the girl had been prepared to go to a ship dance. Her husband, who remained in the cabin reading, woke up in the morning to find her missing from their stateroom. — Central Press Canadian.

INFORMATIVE SIGN IN STORE WINDOW

There are various means of getting an idea across to people. Merchants, if they advertise a sale of any description, often place signs in the show windows of their stores. If they go away on holidays, they might tell the public by means of a sign, "On Vacation."

Probably one of the most humorous and equally informing signs appeared in the window of a local merchant on Front Street early this week. The notice simply informed patrons, "Gone Fishing, back August 11th."

BEAUTIFUL REFLECTION SEEN ON RIVER

Not a breath of air was apparent and the river surface was like a large pane of glass.

The trees and buildings bordering the river bank near the Corbin Lock Company's plant were plainly reflected in the placid water of the stream.

The reflection lasted until eight o'clock when a slight breeze from the south rippled the water and spoiled the picture.

BURNING GREASE CAUSES ALARM

Firemen had a brief run to a Purdy Street residence Friday when smoke from burning grease on the stove filled the house and alarmed the householder. No damage was caused, it was reported.

Reversal of Canadian Dollar's Value Creates Some Amusing Incidents

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada's dollar, the only money in world markets higher than United States currency, has created a few problems—and not only for visitors from the United States.

Canadians, who for years have watched Americans turn up their noses at good Canadian currency, have greeted the reversal in their dollar's fortunes with goodwill, some head-scratching—and occasional chuckles.

The dollar was up 3-32 of a cent at a premium of 3⅝ per cent in terms of U.S. funds today at New York.

Fractions Problem

It's those fractions that cause Canucks to scratch their heads. Those who charge at the current discount rate—and a Canadian Press survey shows that most businesses now are doing so—find the figuring a bit involved. Most get around it by charging from 95 to 97 cents for the U.S. dollar.

Here and there the sign: "American money accepted at par" tickles the Canadian fancy. It wasn't long ago that visitors from the United States got 20 cents more on their dollar. Those were the days when they could offer a $20 bill for a $4 purchase and get back $20 in Canadian bills, along with the article they'd bought.

The effect of that situation still lingers. Recently a U.S. visitor in Yarmouth, N.S., offered a storekeeper a $20 bill and was told there'd be a small amount of exchange.

The amused man exchanged the bill at par and said he "felt good about it all day." The visitor owed the merchant about 60 cents.

An anomaly of the present situation is that border cities in the United States are still discounting the higher Canadian dollar.

Among visitors from the U.S. there's been a friendly reaction generally. The comment: "We've had it our way long enough," is typical.

SLAPS WITNESS, FINED

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A woman who slapped a Crown witness on her way out of city court yesterday was brought back and convicted of common assault. Mrs. Lois Butler, 26, pleaded innocent but was convicted of assaulting Karl Eisenmann.

Seconds earlier her husband, William Harold Bugler, 29, had pleaded guilty to forging and cashing an income tax refund check, property of Eisenmann, and was sentenced to three months in jail.

Mrs. Bugler was fined $10 and costs, with alternative of 10 days in jail. Eisenmann said the woman said nothing, but slapped him with the back of her hand as she passed after the trial involving her husband.

Egg Prices Drop 5 Cents Dozen, Fowl Easier

Egg prices dropped off five cents on the local produce market today as farmers quoted 58c for firsts and 55c for mediums. Last week prices for Grade "A" eggs were 63c per dozen.

Fowl prices also seemed a bit easier with mature fowl selling at 45c per lb. and spring birds at 50c.

On the outside market Astrachan apples brought 25c per small berry box; tomatoes were 25c per berry box or $1.30 per basket; huckleberries were $2 per basket; cherries 80c; raspberries 50c per box, and giant gooseberries 35c.

Potatoes sold at 85c basket; corn was 35c and 50c the dozen ears; beets 60c per basket with carrots and onions a dime per bunch. Celery was two for 25c and lettuce heads the same price. Cucumbers retailed at a nickel each. Green beans were 15c and peppers a dime each.

Current crop honey was 75c per 4-lb. pail or 40c for two lbs.

Drought Disaster Most Serious In U.S. History

WASHINGTON (AP)—Agriculture Department officials today termed the drought in the south and New England one of the most serious economic disasters in the history of the United States.

Department officials explored new steps to alleviate the plight of farmers and to save livestock herds.

The states of South Carolina, Massachusetts and Maine and nine more counties in Arkansas were added yesterday to the department's growing list of drought disaster areas.

Qualified For Loans

The disaster area designation, which qualifies farmers for federal loans where local credit is unavailable, now applies to eight full states and large areas of Arkansas and Missouri. The other states are Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi and Tennessee.

The assistant secretary of agriculture, Knox Hutchinson, pledged the full support of the federal government to the drought-stricken region at an emergency nine-state meeting in Nashville, Tenn., yesterday.

Thus far, the federal government has made no outright grants of financial aid. The disaster loans for the purchase of livestock feed and for planting of new crops must be repaid in one to five years with three per cent interest.

Hutchinson said the intensity of agricultural destruction in the drought regions is a major blow to the country's total crop production.

"The outlook in the area for the next 12 months is very, very distressing," he said.

Escapes Injury When Knocked off Motorbike

Joan LaRue, 16, of 226-A East Moira St., escaped with little more than a shaking up last night when she was knocked from a motorcycle by a skidding car.

Miss LaRue was seated on a parked motorbike which was standing in a driveway just off No. 2 highway at Shannonville when a car driven by Ronald Denison, R.R. 6, Napanee, skidded off the highway and struck the bike. Ronald Lyon, Corbyville, owner of the bike, escaped injury.

Police said that Denison was eastbound when he car went out of control and skidded off the highway.

COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

SIMCOE (CP)—Sten Pakuliski, Toronto, yesterday was committed for trial by higher court on a charge of assault causing bodily harm. The charge arose after Alvin "Bud" Barber, of Nixon, was stabbed on a sideroad near Delhi July 22.

The Glories of Ancient Athens

(Article 76)

(Special to the Ontario Intelligencer) — The road leading into Athens from the north follows the same route as the "Holy Road" once used by the ancient Greeks. But so great a change has been wrought through the centuries that it is only after considerable searching that one finds any trace of the buildings which once were the pride of Athens.

However, just before entering the city the road rises considerably and goes through a narrow mountain pass. It is on coming out of this pass that the traveller sees all Athens spread before him; not only the modern Athens but the Athens of Pericles — in the form of the famous Acropolis, which, in spite of its antiquity, still seems to dominate the city.

On top of the Acropolis is perhaps the most famous and the most perfect building that the world has ever known — the Parthenon. The old building had been demolished by the Persians in the 4th century B.C., and the Athenians, embarking on a temple-building spree, decided to rebuild the Parthenon so that it would be worthy of Athens.

The task was given to a citizen by the name of Phidias, who, according to all reports, was the greatest architect to be found at the time. The city council was not stingy with funds, and voted enough money for the construction so that there would be no skimping on material at any time.

Marvelous Building

For over twenty years Phidias was kept busy collecting marble slabs and having them hauled up the side of the hill. Then he started. The whole building was made of marble, even the roof being made of marble tiles carved by hand.

No mortar whatsoever was used — every slab of marble in the walls was cut and polished to fit in with the adjoining slabs. Even the pieces which form the huge columns were fitted together without mortar — really an astounding achievement.

The building, which is over 200 feet long and half as wide, seems to have such a simpleness of design about, but everything was proportioned so correctly that it has a unique beauty, even in its present state.

But even to this day architects hold long discussions on its design to try to discover the secret which lies behind it.

As such the building remained until 1687, when occurred a calamity which the Greeks will probably never forget. The Parthenon was used as a powder magazine by the Turks in their war against the Venetians.

Partly Destroyed

A well-aimed shell exploded within the walls of the building and partly destroyed it. In spite of its battle scars, however, the Parthenon still maintains a majestic quality, which will only be removed by the complete destruction of the building.

Since the Acropolis is the highest point in the city, one can look over the whole of Athens as well as the neighboring port of Pireus and see with one glance the Athens of today as compared with the Athens of 2500 years ago.

But one need not spend all the time on the Acropolis since there are a multitude of relics lying about in the vicinity — parts of temples, theatres or monuments which have survived numerous plunderings and wars. Often only the foundation remains, together with a few shattered columns, so that one can only realize in one's mind how the old city must have appeared.

Sometimes however, the buildings have been remarkably well preserved, such as the Temple of Theseus, who was a national hero of Attica for his part in dealing with the Minotaur.

Lost Touch With Past

But the Athenians seem to have lost all touch with the past. Certainly they are very proud of their Acropolis, but they live in a city which is almost completely modern. If one could not see the Parthenon standing out, or now and again come across the ruins of an ancient temple, it would be very easy to state that here was indeed a city without a past.

Rome, and to a lesser extent Paris, has something to connect it with every stage of its history, but not so Athens. The past is not there waiting for you; you have to go out to look for it.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

Tell Me the Old, Old Story

Tell me the old, old story
Of unseen things above,
Of Jesus and His glory,
Of Jesus and His love.
Tell me the story simply,
As to a little child,
For I am weak and weary,
And helpless and defiled.

Tell me the story slowly,
That I may take it in —
That wonderful redemption,
God's remedy for sin.
Tell me the story often,
For I forget so soon,
The "early dew" of morning
Has passed away at noon.

Tell me the story softly,
With earnest tones, and grave;
Remember! I'm the sinner,
Whom Jesus came to save;
Tell me that story always
If you would really be
In any time of trouble,
A comforter to me.

Tell me the same old story,
When you have cause to fear
That this world's empty glory
Is costing me too dear.
Yes, and when that world's glory
Is dawning on my soul,
Tell me the old, old story:
"Christ Jesus makes thee whole."

Some of the sweetest songs of the church have been written in hours of faith-testing sorrow and tribulation. It was so with Katherine Hankey's "Tell Me the Old, Old Story."

Miss Hankey, the daughter of an English banker, composed the verses of her hymn while convalescing from an illness which had kept her in bed for many months. Grateful for her recovery, she spent many hours with her Bible and, as a result of her readings, she wrote some extended meditations on the life of Jesus. It was from these writings that she developed the poem from which her hymn stanzas were taken. Her song of devotion was very lengthy (it is said that she began it in January and did not finish it until late in the year) and was in two parts. The first part was entitled "The Story Wanted," and the second—a sequel or answer—was named "The Story Told."

From the first half of the poem, Miss Hankey's hymn, "Tell Me the Old, Old Story," was taken. The last half provided material for her second hymn, "I Love To Tell the Story."

In 1867, a year or two after both hymns made their appearance in "Heart To Heart," a little volume published by Miss Hankey, William H. Doane, the composer, heard the verses of "Tell Me the Old, Old Story" read at an international YMCA convention in Montreal. The sentiment of the hymn so moved him that he took a copy of the stanzas with him when, a few days later, he went to the White Mountains for a vacation. It was during this outing that he composed the tune which helped to carry the hymn into universal favor. The music for "I Love To Tell the Story" was written in 1869 by William Gustavus Fischer, a Baltimore piano dealer.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By
WINIFRED E. WILSON

STERN PARENTS

Just like human parents, fathers and mothers in Birdland sometimes appear to be very stern when in reality they are kind — and wise too. The majority of perching birds require more or less care for a while after they leave the nest. In fact most of the others do also, depending on the species.

Generally the mothers, often both parents, and occasionally the fathers see to it that their offspring are able to find their own food and evade danger before the parting takes place. Certain babies demand more attention than others. Young chipping sparrows are notorious for following their parents around for weeks, continually crying for food.

But for many reasons this kind of thing cannot go on indefinitely. And so, in most cases, the adults are obliged to drive their young away from home or cause them to scatter.

It is quite apparent that they must be independent before migration time. But we do not readily realize that food inside the family territory is getting scarce as the season advances. The markets have been farther and farther afield, making longer trips necessary to bring food. When the family spreads out, new markets are available.

Parents Need Rest

For two reasons many parent birds require a rest at this season. They change their costumes now, and it is sometimes difficult to get around, with certain important feathers missing. Besides, it is essential to fatten up before the long trip south, when much energy is needed.

Eagle parents seem particularly cruel, chasing their children from the vicinity of the nest. Certainly they should be entitled to a good holiday, because for several months they been carrying heavy burdens like rabbits and large fish to supply the eaglets. But specialists on eagles tell us that the main reason is to prevent inbreeding.

Gannets summering on Bonventure Island, which lies between Gaspe and New Brunswick, are of necessity very stern parents. Like eagles, the young of these handsome birds take a long time to develop, and by October are barely able to fly. If left behind when the big flock leaves, they are in great danger of being frozen.

MANITOBA SHOWS HOW

Through reading a speech made to an Ottawa club by Gordon Churchill, M.P. for Winnipeg South Centre, we learn that the Manitoba authorities are making progress in reducing motor accidents.

This is being done, it seems, by educating motorists into believing that a permit to drive a motor car is a privilege to be withdrawn if the operator's driving falls short of the standard set in the provincial driving test.

At first glance, this system looks but little different from that which is obtained in Ontario; but there is a distinction between a "privilege" and a "right," and the Manitoba authorities seem to have capitalized on that distinction.

In any event, motor accidents declined by 11.7 per cent in Manitoba during the first five months of the current year, as compared with the first five months of the preceding year, despite a slight increase in the number of motor vehicles on the roads of Manitoba.

The Ontario department of highways and the officers in charge of the very large police force through which it enforces its regulations might be well advised to study the Manitoba system.

FAITHFUL FREIGHTS ALWAYS NEEDED

During recent days this paper has carried a series of stories prepared by the Canadian Press dealing with the huge iron-ore development in northern Quebec and Labrador. Some instalments in the series have contained pictures which illustrate what words fail to describe.

Among the illustrations reproduced a few days ago was a picture showing a modern diesel-electric locomotive which will be shipped to Labrador to facilitate the handling of the ore. Until the locomotive and freight cars arrive at their destination and a rail line is built, handling of practically all the freight will be made by aircraft. Already bulldozers and heavy mining equipment have been flown to the scene of operations.

Despite the recent rapid strides made in travel, rail carriers are still regarded as the most economical means of transport. True, many railways have been forced to curtail operations due to competition from aircraft and motor transport, but when the chips are down and a country awaits development, real development must await the arrival of railways. It was that way with the development of Canada and will be that way with the iron-ore development at Labrador.

A CURIOUS OMISSION

Several times in recent months, Canadian newspaper readers have been enlightened by reading long and colorful accounts of the exploits of a noted outlaw named Edwin Alonzo Boyd. In most of these accounts, if not in all of them, it was mentioned that Boyd had an artificial leg.

Most people who followed Boyd's adventures wondered what had happened to his original leg and how he had lost it. But none of the newspaper stories we read about Boyd gave us a clue about what had happened to his leg, although we would imagine that such information might be classified as legitimate background about a character whose other deeds, misdeeds and peculiarities were so fully and faithfully chronicled.

We had given up hope of finding out about Boyd's leg. But the other night, by pure accident, we came upon an article about Boyd's career of violence in one of those true detective magazines published in the United States. According to this magazine article, Boyd lost his leg while serving as a commando in the Canadian army. Until someone disputes this statement, we are going to accept it as correct.

Perhaps it was just co-incidence that none of the scores of Canadian journalists who delved into Boyd's doings thought that how he lost his leg was worth mentioning. But whatever the reason for this curious omission, the mere fact that it occurred helps explain why some of those American publications have such enormous circulation in Canada.

COSTLY "COME-BACK"

The village of Wasaga Beach now employs no fewer than 10 provincial policemen during the summer months to keep on top of rowdyism. "It works," says Reeve Anthony Beck, "but it is a terrible cost to the taxpayers. It is much cheaper to take preventive measures than to have to clean up the trouble after it has happened and you have a bad name. Wasaga Beach, however, had no choice. Now we are making a comeback." — (Midland Free Press Herald.)

THE WEATHER

Oh, be the weather hot or cold
Or if the day bring snow or rain,
We find our tongues are hard to hold
And bitterly we all complain.
Yet, though dislike it as we may,
We cannot grumble it away.

Last Christmas from the drifts of snow
We needed aid our cars to free.
It didn't help to grumble though.
Unless we shovelled, stuck were we.
And now the sun's ablaze again
And we are whimpering for rain.

If talk I must, I'll say, "It's hot!"
But drop the subject after that.
Though fair or foul the weather's not
My favorite subject when I chat.
Grumbling about the weather won't
Make any difference, so I don't.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

MESSAGES OF LIFE

That which fills me with joy and elation is the intimacy that I feel toward everything in nature. Everything seems to have a message of hope, of love, and explanation for me. I can look in any direction and there I am delivered a message. The singing bird shames me if I unnecessarily complain. I look upon a miracle when I note the turning of a leaf to a different color.

The happy animal or bird learns nothing from man, but man learns much from both. The animal or bird fears man. I have always wondered why. I have seen a bird light upon the back of a cow or horse, fearing nothing, but man has to use a field glass to study the beauty of a bird, or to learn of its habits.

Nature teaches so much to us of endurance. The very earth upon which we tread holds millions of secrets, and an endless train of messages from time past. In the over-all man is but a spark in the scheme of things. But God keeps constantly at man, impressing him with the brevity as well as the beauty of life, scattering his messages everywhere.

Why and how is it that the white pond lily comes to the surface of low waters right out of the dark mud? Does it not give us the message that we may rise out of any environment to something noble, useful and inspiring? What is it that the dog has to say to us as we look into his honest face, with those eyes gleaming its love and devotion? Are not messages there?

There are stories and messages millions of years old yet to be revealed in the structure of this earth. There has been more learned about science, and the secrets of the universe in the last hundred years than during all the history of man—and we are but in the beginning of harnessing truths and discoveries that God meant should be for the enlightenment and happiness of the least of his creatures upon this earth.

There are messages of hope everywhere if we will but look upon them and read them aright. Let us look for those messages, evident upon every hand, that all war is futile and against every law of life!

Soviet Press Dull Reading

(From the Monthly Bulletin of the Canadian Department of External Affairs)

If there is any feature of the Soviet press more characteristic than its bigoted interpretation of world news, it is its phenomenal dullness.

Since this peculiarity is bound to seem the most salient to Canadian readers of a short survey of a Soviet citizen's daily newspaper fare, they should be warned at the outset against the natural but incorrect conclusion that the Soviet press is too boring to attract many readers. It has a tremendous number.

The main daily newspapers are tacked up on bulletin boards in the parks of culture and rest, at convenient places along the streets, in public buildings, and elsewhere. Citizens who do not wish to buy a paper or who have come too late to get one at a kiosque, stand patiently perusing them in the park with almost as much care as the bureaucrat on the bench nearby, who devotes most of his lunch hour to absorbing every word of his four-page Pravda.

While it is true that the appetite for print is almost insatiable in the Soviet Union, so that the publishing houses despair of keeping up with the demand for books, there are other reasons for the popularity of such unprepossessing newspapers. In the first place they have no competition. The entire press is controlled. Foreign newspapers are not permitted. Radio programs from abroad are too effectively jammed to have many listeners.

And in the second place, being controlled, they are authoritative. It is important for people in positions of any responsibility at all to scan the leading papers, and especially the local Communist Party papers, most studiously for indications of a shift in the party line. The art of reading betwen the lines must have reached a high stage of development in a rather wide section of the Soviet reading public and doubtless lends to some of the duller items an interest incomprehensible to the uninitiated.

Although all newspapers and magazines are rigidly controlled by the Soviet Government and the Communist party, in spite of the guarantee of freedom of the press given in Article 125 of the Stalin constitution, the number of separate publications is very large. The two leading daily papers are Pravda (Truth), organ of the Central Committee of the Communist Party, and Izvestiya (News), organ of the Soviet Government, that is, of the Council of Ministers. Pravda and Izvestiya publish the major party and government pronouncements and give the approved line to lesser papers. Among these are the many regional papers as well as the official organs of various special groups in Soviet society.

Moscow itself has two more papers of mainly local interest, Moskovskaya Pravda (Moscow Truth) and Vechernaya Moskva (Evening Moscow), the official organs of the Moscow municipal council, and of the Moscow town council. There are, in addition, local newspapers in all large cities and in all the capitals of the member republics of the USSR.

On a typical day Pravda and Izvestiya contain about three pages of domestic news and about one page of foreign "news", the latter consisting mainly of despatches from correspondents of Tass, the agency responsible for Soviet press representation abroad. A selection of the main items of both domestic and foreign news in the two papers is usually repeated almost word for word in all other Soviet papers although regional papers reserve some space for local news and the specialized papers such as Trud, etc., devote a good deal of space to material in their particular fields.

Pravda of February 1, 1952, to take a specific example, devoted most of Page 1 to a letter addressed to Stalin from the workers and engineers of the Stalin Magnitogorsk Metallurgical Combine. After outlining what they had done in 1951 to raise production, they promised to produce even more goods in 1952 and ended by greeting "the great leader of the Soviet people —our beloved and dear Comrade Stalin."

The foreign news given to Soviet readers, usually almost identical in all papers, national or local, is of particular interest. There is remarkably wide coverage of all parts of the world by a large and obviously active network of Tass agents, and few events of international importance fail to get some mention. There is, however, relatively little "straight news". Most of the Tass or special correspondents' reports are essentially interpretative articles which present the events in a version consistent with the attitude and policies of the Soviet Government. This involves editing of the news both by omission and by distortion.

Items of foreign news critical of the USSR are published only to the extent necessary to give point to Soviet counter-charges. Such foreign criticism is usually presented in a distorted way calculated to make it as ineffectual as possible. The only foreign newspapers extensively quoted are the Communist organs, except for carefully-selected excerpts from other papers, usually out of context. Whenever any Western paper normally critical of the USSR attempts in an objective way to see both sides of a particular issue, the Soviet noted that the Soviet press rare- such formula as "even the Wall Street Journal could not deny that, etc.".

The Canadian Tribune is normally cited as voicing the opinion of the vast majority of Canadians. The only extensive Canadian news published by Pravda in February, for example, was one column from the Tass correspondent in Ottawa on the program of the Labor Progressive Party.

• • •

The only newspaper in Moscow which gives any relief from this deadly serious propaganda is Vechernaya Moskva (Evening Moscow). Although it too reprints a good deal of material from Pravda and Izvestiya, it does reserve space each day for a few lighter items. It is the only newspaper in Moscow which carries advertisements, almost all of the sort we call "classified" rather than commercial. Among the advertisements of February 1 were requests for qualified technicians of various sorts to work in industrial and construction organizations and a few announcements of services offered, one, for example, by a shipping and storage organization.

There was an interesting list, headed "Rooms, Apartments, Cottages", of offers to exchange living accommodation, mainly single rooms or apartments of two or three rooms. In each instance, the exact number of square metres of space was carefully specified. A column of miscellaneous advertisements included offers to give English and guitar lessons, to sell a piano and to buy a Moskvich, the smallest Soviet automobile.

There were a number of notifications of divorces (in six out of about thirty such notices, the two parties were listed as still having the same address).

Canadian newspaper readers would be less surprised by what is omitted from the Soviet press than by what is printed. In addition to the calculated emissions in the foreign news coverage already referred to, it should be noted that the Soviet press rarely reports accidents, scandals or crimes in the Soviet Union.

PRINTERS CONTINUE STRIKE

DUBLIN, Republic of Ireland, (Reuters)—Printers here decided by a substantial majority last night to continue the strike which had kept Irish newspapers off the streets for three weeks. They voted against a proposal to return to work while the labor court considered their claim for a wage increase equivalent to about $4.25 a week.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

BASIC CHRISTIAN TRUTH

..Fahdntarsnafo . -ihox w.,d?.,

"In the beginning was the Word...and the Word became flesh and dwelt among us, full of grace and truth."

Here is one of the most stupendous statements ever uttered. The first chapter of the Gospel of John reveals truth of such prodigious variety that the human mind can never plumb its depths, yet truth which, when accepted, is so simple that a child can understand it. The Word is the creative power, the love, the purpose of God becoming articulate. By the word of His mouth, God created the Heavens and the earth. By His Word He inspired seers and prophets. The Word is God exercising the fullness of His creative power.

John tells that this Word, or Power of God, was made flesh. The Word was incarnate in Jesus of Nazereth. The Word dwelt among us, or, as the Greek has it, "pitched His tent among us."

Let no one say that Jesus is a mere teacher, the world's best and wisest man. At least let no one say this if he wants the support of the Bible, which is the only authority in such matters which we possess. The message of the New Testament is clear. Jesus Christ is the full power of God coming into human life to change it, to raise it to new heights of glory, to confer upon it the gift of eternal life.

Personal Health Talks

DON'T CONFUSE RESTLESS LEGS WITH LEG CRAMPS

Asthenia crurum paraesthetica or anxietas tibiarum (restless legs or leg jitters to you) is evidently a common complaint. From the number of letters asking about the remedy it would seem that a good many people are subject to a curious unlocalized restlessness in one or both legs, not actual pain but they describe it as distinctly unpleasant.

A nitroglycerin tablet, dissolved in the mouth, relieves the discomfort in only a minute or two.

Nitroglycerin—why, that is dynamite! Or at least dynamite is nitroglycerin absorbed in some porous material...

Knowing that the mention of nitroglycerin always causes that reaction I mentioned in the article about restless legs that instructions for the use of nitroglycerin are given in the booklet C V D—for a copy of the booklet send twenty-five cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope.

One fifth of the persons who sent for the booklet sent the booklet right back with some pretty waspish comments for there was nothing about nitroglycerin for restless legs in the booklet...

In a way that is true. Nothing about restless legs in the booklet, but on p. 24 instructions for the use of nitroglycerin are given nevertheless, and the instructions are the same whether you take it for relief of jittery legs, for angina pectoris, or for intermitted claudication. By this I mean to imply that, in my experience and judgment any one may take a 1/100th of a grain tablet (or perhaps only one-half of such a tablet (1/200th of a grain) of nitroglycerin with impunity and repeat the dose every few hours if it gives relief.

Many persons with restless legs have received all kinds of ineffectual treatment under the presumption that the trouble is "nervous." Oh, well, the drugless therapists have to make a living.

Do not confuse restless legs with leg cramps, which occur in growing children and in adults of mature age, particularly at night, and in my opinion, are usually the manifestation of tetany—not tetanus. If the trouble is leg cramps send a stamped envelope bearing your address and ask in writing (clipping will not rate a reply) for the pamphlet Adult Tetany and Growing Pains.

The first and only thought of too many reckless people with leg cramps or restless legs is a sedative, narcotic or sense-deadening drugs—one of the barbiturates (sleeping tablets), or a bromide.

To these reckless ones I say—even with growing pains, leg jitters and leg cramps this world is probably not much worse than the next, so why hurry off?

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

I Recommend a Change of Doctors

Why do you recommend a change of doctors if a doctor tells a patient he has heart murmur? Once both the family doctor and the school doctor diagnosed my condition (on the health records) as heart murmur. I am over it now but I had faith in own doctors. (Miss J. S.)

Answer—If the doctor tells the patient or the patient's relative or friend what ails the patient, if anything, the mention of "murmur" doesn't matter. On the other hand if the doctor mutters about a heart murmur but fails to express an opinion concerning the patient's ailment, if any, that is not worth the price and I recommend a change of doctors. You see the mere presence of a soft blowing does not necessarily signify either heart disease or heart weakness. So the doctor should keep his trap closed about it or else tell the patient frankly that he or she doesn't know what it means. There are too many unhappy people worrying through life with imaginary "heart trouble" or "weak heart" so caused.

Silvery Scale Disease

Have had psoriasis for several years...friend says you recommended vitamins which seemed to clear up his brother's psoriasis in a few months. (Mrs. H. G.)

Answer—Chapter on psoriasis —the silvery scale disease — in booklet, Save Your Skin — for copy send twenty-five cents and stamped, self-addressed envelope.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The man who has done more in our generation to increase the delights of outdoor nature than anyone else is probably Roger Tory Peterson. Eighteen years ago, Peterson brought out his "Field Guide to the Birds." Taking a tip from Ernest Thompson Seton, uttered fifty or more years ago, that "each animal and bird has its particular badge or identification tag by which it may be known at a glance", Peterson set to work to produce a small compact pocket guide which would be free of the elaborate drawings of birds, and free of all the technical jargon of the scientists. His book revolutionized the whole sport of nature study insofar as birds were concerned. He shortly thereafter brought out his guide to the western birds. They sold in hundreds of thousands.

A few years ago, people interested in other aspects of nature persuaded Peterson that he should apply his technique to animals, butterflies and so forth. Instead of attempting to master other fields, Peterson undertook to edit companion field guides that would be written and illustrated by men as outstanding in the other fields as he was in the field of birds. Last year, the butterfly field guide came out, and hot off the press this month comes the "Field Guide to the Mammals." These are called the Peterson guide series. The books are no bigger than a sandwich: in other words, they are pocket manuals you can carry easily in pocket or purse.

The mammal book is a masterpiece. There are 373 North American mammals in the text. The illustrations are drawings so beautiful that you can almost feel the fur. The Peterson system of small arrows pointing to the "badge" or particular distinguishing feature of the animal, whether a Rocky mountain sheep or a tiny mouse or shrew, is carried out in every species. Better still, small maps, shaded to show the distribution of each animal, make it extremely simple to weed out the animals not to be found in your particular region before you start running down an animal's identity by means of the pictures and the simple lucid text. Thomas Allen is the publisher. W. H. Burt is the author and R. P. Grossenhelder is the artist. But Roger Tory Peterson is the editor and guiding genius of this remarkable little book.

WEDDINGS

MILLER—PREST

A lovely summer wedding was solemnized at Holloway Street United Church, on Saturday, July 26, at 2 o'clock, when Rev. J. S. Dilts united in marriage Gloria Doreen Prest, of Belleville, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. (Pat) Belnap, to Frank B. Miller, of Belleville, son of Mrs. Essie Miller and the late Bruno Miller. White and pink gladioli banked the altar. The guest pews were designated by white satin bows.

Mr. C. E. Templer, church organist, accompanied the soloist, Miss Jane Bowerman, who sang "Love's Coronation", and during the signing of the register, "Beloved It Is Morn".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in her bridal floor-length gown of white silk nylon net over white slipper satin, featuring a molded bodice of Chantilly lace, jewel neckline and long pointed sleeves. The full skirt and train of nylon and satin was trimmed with matching lace. Her floor-length veil of silk nylon net trimmed with Chantilly lace, fell from a coronet of tiny hearts, seeded with pearls. Her only adornment was the bridegroom's gift, a matched three-strand necklace of pearls. She carried a double cascade of red roses tied with white satin and silver bows.

Miss Margaret Ann Holway, of Belleville, was maid of honor and Miss Barbara Boyle, of Belleville, was bridesmaid. Both were lovely in their gowns of French lace and nylon, in powder blue shade. Both wore headdresses of Valenciennes lace and net with back bandeaux of matching flowers, and carried bouquets of peach pink glamelias.

Mr. Terry Belnap, of Sarnia, Ontario, formerly of Belleville, was groomsman and Mr. Eugene McAlpine, of Guelph, Ontario, and Mr. Andrew Raeburn, of Bancroft, acted as ushers.

The wedding reception was held at the Shrine Club, 51 Highland Avenue, and later at the bride's home which was tastefully decorated with pink and white streamers and wedding bells.

The bride's mother, gowned in navy and white nylon net over taffeta, with navy and white accessories and corsage of red Sweetheart roses, was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, attired in powder blue sheer with white accessories and corsage of red Sweetheart roses, in receiving the guests.

Following the reception the young couple left on their honeymoon for Peterborough, Muskoka and northern points. For travelling the bride chose a navy and white dress with navy and white accessories and corsage of orchids. Upon their return they will reside in Belleville.

The groom's gift to the best man, initialed leather wallet; to the ushers gold initialed cuff links and tie clips. The bride's gifts to the maid of honor and bridesmaids, matching earring and necklace sets; to her bridegroom, gold initialed cuff links and silver initialed cigaret case.

Prior to her marriage the bride was the recipient of two showers, one given by co-hostesses Mrs. Allen Montgomery and Miss Barbara Boyle, and one by Miss Margaret Ann Holway. She received many beautiful and useful shower and wedding gifts.

Food for Thought

Readers' Saturday Column

By Mary Moore

QUESTION:

Would you be able to give me . . .any recipes for diabetics? I remember seeing them in your column but it is just now that I am on diet and would like to can some of my own fruit and marmalade. Do you have recipes for baking muffins, cookies, etc.—Irma M. H.

ANSWER:

I will give you the recipes for the jams without sugar which are always in such demand and which may be made from fruits now in season. I would give you recipes for muffins and cookies too without sugar but my best advice is to buy the cookbook for diabetics entitled "Diabetics Menus, Meals, and Recipes" by Betty M. West, published by Doubleday, Garden City ,N.Y. or "Diabetic Manual" by Dr. Elliott F. Joslin, published by Lea & Febezer, Philadelphia. Both of these are excellent and will be your constant references for most common foods.

SUGARLESS BLACK CURRANT JAM

Four cups black currants are washed, drained and mashed in flat-bottomed saucepan. Simmer gently 15 minutes. Add 18 sucaryl tablets (to be bought in drug stores), 6 tablespoons glycerin and 1-2 teaspoon certo crystals. Stir over low heat until juice is slightly thickened, then immediately pour into jam jars which have been sterilized (boiling water to cover for 20 minutes). Cover at once with new nearly boiling hot paraffin, and add second coating when cold. Work with utmost care as all utensils must be sterile to make this sugarless jam keep. Most diabetic patients keep their jams in the refrigerator.

SUGARLESS RED CURRANT JAM

Wash 1 quart ript red currants and pull from stems. Mash with potato masher and gently simmer 30 minutes. Add 2 tablespoons glycerin, 9 sucaryl tablets, 1 teaspoon certo crystals, and stir until tablets are dissolved. Finish as Black Currant Jam (above).

SUGARLESS PEACH JAM

Four well-packed cups chopped fully ripened peaches, peeled after dipping in boiling water for 1 minute; 16 sucaryl tablets, 4 ounces glycerin. Simmer peaches over low heat for 30 minutes, then add remaining ingredients and simmer 10 minutes, stirring frequently. Use sterile utensils. Pour into sterile pint jars and seal with sterile rubbers, tops and rings.

QUESTION:

Yesterday morning I picked currants and made jam. Since you share so many wonderful recipes and grand ideas with me and thousands of mothers. . .thought you might enjoy trying this recipe (see below). . .do you know what amuses me? So many housewives in the city complain of being busy but they can buy their fruits and vegetables just when it suits their schedule, but the farmer's wife has to pick them and find or make time to can them. . .I did not have enough black currants for a second batch so used some red currants. . .it is very nice. . . isn't it a thrill seeing jars fill up. . . sometimes you wonder if it is worth while when you are so exhausted with the heat andwork, but what a thrill it is to use them in winter. . . do you know what your column is like? Well it is like asking mother how to do this or that but since times have changed mothers can hardly keep up to the latest methods. Thanks for freezing instructions. . .our winter pear trees are loaded. . .they are so hard, then finally ripen so fast they seem too soft. Could you give proper method and possibly some recipe later on?

BLACK CURRANT JELLY AND PRESERVE

(Contributed by Mrs. M. A. M.)

Four cups black currants, 4 cups water, 8 cups sugar. Put 2 cups water on currants and the remaining 2 cups water on the sugar. Boil separately 20 minutes, then mix the two together and boil 5 minutes. Skim and put in sterile jars. When you pour the two together watch it carefully as it boils right up to top of kettle. Boil the water and sugar in large kettle and add the currants to the syrup. Jam is on top —jelly on bottom.—M.A.M.

Beautiful Italian Acccessories Intrigue Foreign Fashion Buyers

By PEGGY MASSIN

Beautiful hand-made shoes, leather and straw goods, hand loomed and painted fabrics have all charmed many an extra lira out of budgets already depleted.

Straw skirts, one of the newest crazes featured by Paoli, the Florence straw specialists, are made of millinery or rattan straws, or in horse-hair tiered with straw lace. Cut circlewise in bright colors, they are decorated with raffia or jewel embroideries.

Straw is the basis of a line of amusing handbags, in satchel and pouch shapes, embroidered in flower designs. They cost any where from $1 to $8.50.

Other purses imitate watermelons, mushrooms or slate-roofed houses.

Winter bags in suede or box calf are stressed in bulky but soft styles, with overarm satchels framed with wooden handles. Bamboo and polished wood are popular along with large metal rings.

In shoes, there is feather-weight, soft-as-glove footwear entirely hand-made. New styles concentrate on strip sandals and high vamp pumps with applications of a cuffed effect for trim.

Everything from stoles, which cost about $7, to formal evening dresses are made of handwoven fabrics.

Felt is starred in boxy jackets and full skirts with bright applications and cutouts. A sprightly skirt copies carved totem pole figures blocked off in wide squares. A fringed yarn hemline and belt complete the skirt, which costs about $19.

In jewellery, two trends predominate. The colorful, effective and inexpensive ceramic costume accents, as well as fragile botticelli-inspired evening pieces. The latter features pearls and colored stones suspended or encrusted in the lacey designs of necklaces and drooping earrings.

New symmetrical tiaras are worn on the front of the head, with jewels falling forward over the forehead.

CLAIMS SAW SEA BEAST

SUTTON (CP)—Ontario may have something new for the tourist trade. Wellington Charles says he saw a sea beast yesterday in Lake Simcoe. Charles, an Indian guide, said the thing had a head about the size and shape of a bulldog's with shiny black fur. He said it was definitely not an otter, he has been trapping the animals for years.

Miss Ferne Gerrie Sends Another Interesting Letter from India

Akola, Berar, M.P.,
India
July 17, 1952.

Dear Praying Friends:

Once again it is time for a little chat with you, for the Lord has been very precious and real during these past two months since I have written. We have all just returned from a number of very enjoyable weeks in the high hills of South India, where we not only enjoyed a cooler climate during the hot season, but also shared real spiritual fellowship with a number of missionaries from other missions who were also taking their annual rest in Kodaikanal. Although one is prone to feel as the disciples did who were on the Mount of Transfiguration with Jesus and longed to stay there, yet we are well aware that the mountain top is not where the work is done. Rather it is a place of vision, and hence we carry that vision down to the hot dusty plains and put it into actual experience. So after a very restful vacation we gladly returned to our stations for another year's work.

Some months ago I told you about Gungabai, the Hindu woman who had been healed of cancer, but would not accept Christ as her Saviour from sin. She had lived a very wicked and immoral life, yet she believes in Christ as her Healer. During the hot season when we were away, Gungabai was again afflicted with a similar illness, and immediately she sent for Renubai our Bible woman, who prayed with her before. Renubai found her in a very serious condition but prayed with her, and once again told her the old, old story. Several days later while Gungabai was alone in her little mud-floor hut, she had a fit of coughing, and since there was no one nearby to call, she decided to call on the Lord just as she had seen Renubai pray. Struggling to a sitting position with much difficulty, she folded her hands in prayer and began to call on the Lord to heal her. She herself said that at that very moment a voice clearly spoke to her, "Fear not; I am near." At once her coughing stopped and she has been up and around ever since. Renubai has been back several times to speak with her, but she will not accept Christ as her Saviour, but only as her Healer. She has no confidence in her idols, for they are now in the bottom of the well, but we are concerned for her soul, and I know you will join with us in praying for her salvation.

We are now in the rainy season and this is the beginning of our school terms, both in the preparatory schools and the Bible schools. In our men's Bible school, the applications far exceeded any previous year in the history of the school. Forty-three young couples applied to come to Bible school and prepare for the Lord's service, but due to the shortage of rooms we could only accept 16 couples. Our hearts are very heavy over this situation, for we realize that we can never see India evangelized by missionaries. It must be done through the Indian people, for they know their people much better than we do. The 27 couples who were turned away have only two alternatives: to go to another Bible seminary which is modern in teaching, or to return to their villages and go into business. Some of the young couples were discouraged and we trust that they will not give the idea up entirely, for we hope in time to get more rooms built so that we shall be able to accommodate more students. I trust you at home will share this burden with us, so that none of these young people will be deprived of preparing for the Lord's service. We must meet the great surge of Communism in this country with prepared, Spirit-filled young people.

Each Saturday afternoon we have been holding children's meetings for the boys and girls on our compound. With the aid of our Bible women they have been receiving good sound Bible teaching, and then one of the missionaries and myself are taking turns in telling them a short object lesson. Our vocabulary is quite limited, but it is amazing how they understand the "missionary Marathi." We praise the Lord for this little outlet of service in addition to our regular duties in the office.

Already much sickness is rampant because of the rains. This week all of our workers will be coming in for three weeks of Bible School on our compound, and we covet your prayers that the Lord will keep any epidemics from our compound when so many will be here. Pray that the evangelists, pastors and Bible women will get a real vision of the task they are engaged in, so that they may go back to their villages prepared and determined to serve the Lord with with a new zeal, and lead their relatives and friends into the glorious experience of becoming a child of God.

Yours in His Glad Service,
Ferne Gerrie.

Premature-Born Baby Girl Reported Well

KINGSTON (CP) —A baby girl who weighed less than 1 3-4 pounds when born three months premature last Monday is reported doing well in a hospital incubator.

She is the first child born to Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Shaw. The birth was at the home of Mrs. Shaw's mother, Mrs. Lena Mitchell without help of a doctor. A neighbor, Mrs. L. Jamieson, assisted.

The child is expected to stay in the incubator until her weight reaches five pounds. Hospital officials say this will take about three or four months.

Vancouver Girl Can Now Talk But Not Walk

After the pretty co-ed from the University of British Columbia suffered brain injuries in an automobile accident, she remained unconscious for 93 days. Even after she regained semi-consciousness, she could neither walk nor talk. Vancouver doctors held little hope she ever would.

Her parents, however, with financial aid from many Vancouver residents, sent here to the clinic. Today, speaking slowly and smiling. Miss Achtymichuk said:

'People have been so good to us, and it's so nice they've been thinking about us so much while we've been away. I just want to say thank you to everyone."

Her mother, Mrs. Fred Achtymichuk, said her daughter spoke her first word, "Mama," about two weeks ago. "Now it's a matter of re-education."

"The doctors at the clinic haven't promised she will walk again, but then doctors told me here she wouldn't talk again either."

Women's Activities

WESLEY W.A.

The president opened the meeting.

Mrs. Fox was in charge of the program and also read the Scripture. A reading by Mrs. Middleton, "It's Later Than You Think" was much enjoyed.

Collection amounted to $2.65 and flower fund 41 cents.

The Rev. W. Middleton closed the meeting.

Mrs. Stewart graciously thanked the hostess for opening her home

Refreshments were served and a social half hour spent.

DRIVING LESSON COSTLY

OTTAWA (CP) — Mrs. Luisa Herzberg, taking her first driving lesson in a borrowed automobile, crashed through a picket fence, churned through another neighbor's vegetable garden, bounced back through the same fence at another spot, ran across a third neighbor's newly sodded front lawn and finally came to a stop. Estimated damage: $400.

SISTERS ALL

By Jean Love Galloway

Two men who had long been friends, met by chance in a restaurant. They decided to have their lunch together and catch up on old times. One of the men had been married for only six months. The other, who had seen his 25th wedding anniversary just pass, asked his friend how he was faring domestically - - - "Oh, I'm getting along fine, except for my wife." To which the other replied, "What's wrong with her?" "Well, Bessie keeps nagging me about money all the time, ever since we were married." "And how much of your salary do you turn over to her?" "Why I haven't given her any yet."

Beauty in Everything

Somebody says a commercial fertilizer firm in the U.S. recently ran a beauty contest. For some time the manufacturers were stumped for a title to give their beauty queen. After many conferences, they decided to call her "Miss Plant Aid."

Real, But False

At the bridge club last night, the girls got on the subject of dentists and teeth. One of the girls said she had afternoon tea with a woman who had all her own teeth, but they were false.

At first, this sounded silly and brought a round of titters. But it seems this can be done. The dentist treats each tooth upon extraction, caps it and makes up a plate. In this way, it is possible to have your very own false teeth. They are said to look "Just like your own teeth," which of course they are.

Then somebody suggested this method of making up teeth must be very expensive. It turned out that the woman who had the beautifully natural set of teeth was the wife of a dentist.

Supreme Gift

A woman in Trenton, Ontario, was willing to do everything she could to help the fight against cancer, even to donating her own body to the cause. Mrs. Henry Burton who died during the month, willed her body for cancer research at Queen's University. She will never be buried.

Commenting on the will, Dr. R. C. Burr, Kingston Cancer Clinic director said, "This was a magnificent gesture and one which will help the cause of medical science."

Many men and women are praised for their wills which make large amounts available for charitable and scientific organizations. Many men and a good number of women are praised for giving up their lives to save others. But few of us in this world ever make the supreme donation of our bodies to the greatest cause on earth — the advancement of medical science for the relief of suffering all over the world.

Yes, Mrs. Burton's funeral was in itself a gift to all humanity. To her memory and to others like her, should go our praise for a noble act.

SERVICING OF NEW AREAS

Any area to be immediately dealt with must be correlated to the whole or surrounding areas.

Therefore, to insure economical development a general survey must first be made and a general plan of development considered and decided upon before any attempt is made at piece meal development.

Land development has its esthetic side but mostly it is technical and experienced technicians must be employed to conduct the necessary investigations and report on the possibilities of development with illustrative data and plans so that the administration authorities and the interested public can readily grasp the ideas.

Once a course for the planned development of Belleville has been generally approved, its growth will not only be well directed and orderly but tremendous savings in general servicing of the area will result.

The Belleville and Suburban Planning Board was formed to undertake this planning for future development of Belleville and vicinity and can do so to the extent that it is supported by the interested Municipalities of Belleville, Sidney and Thurlow.

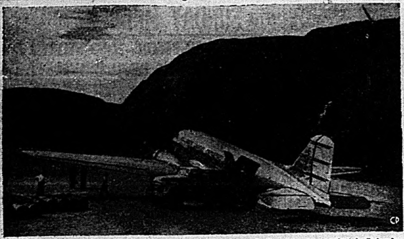
Big Airlift



The airplane has been the workhorse in the opening up of the iron-ore project in Labrador-Ungava. Without it this country and its treasures might have slept for many more years. Planes were used to transport everything taken into the far-north development. Here, one of the air carriers, stripped inside to provide more cargo space, unloads supplies at Mile 36 airstrip, in the Valley of the Nipissis River. — (CP Photo.)

Largest Civilian Airlift in World Speeds Development in Ungava's Wild

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

If Labrador-Ungava were to produce a Robert W. Service, he would probably get his inspiration from the airlift.

There's something rollicking about it—that biggest civilian airlift in the world which has carried everything from buns to bulldozers and made possible the building of a railway and the development of iron ore.

It's rollicking and informal but also down-to-business and efficient, with about a perfect safety record.

It is operated by Hollinger Ungava Transport Ltd., a subsidy of Iron Ore Company of Canada, and it is headed by Charles Hoyt, an R.C.A.F. wing commander in wartime who got the supplies in for Goose Bay airport.

Mont Joli Base

The air company, operates from Mont Joli, Que, on the south shore of the St. Lawrence, first town on the outside to show the immediate effects of the shower of wealth from the brooding land across the way.

It flies supplies from Mont Joli as required, but especially it flies supplies from Seven Islands, 300 miles downstream from Quebec, on the north shore of the St. Lawrence, which receives them by ship. It takes them up 320 air miles to Knob Lake and Burnt Creek, and into the 10 airstrips which dot the way.

Only in the last couple of winters has a tote-road come to its assistance and, after this year, as steel is pushed northward from Seven Islands, its task should become easier.

Last year it carried 33,000,000 pounds of supplies and 22,246 passengers. This year, despite the relief of the tote-road, it will carry more than ever. Included in its fleet are five DC-3s, a Canso amphibian, a Lockheed Lodestar, five or six smaller planes, two helicopters, and two chartered aircraft.

Knob Lake airport is smack in the centre of what was unknown wilderness until a few years ago. [illegible] gravel runways, a camp-like office, a putt-putting diesel engine to supply power for the electric lights.

I watched a silvery DC-3 drop in from Seven Islands—beautiful on the outside but stripped down for cargo-carrying inside.

Double doors swung open. A waiting throng cheered and took away to a reception two newlyweds—to total four married couples at nearby Burnt Creek. Trucks backed up to the double doors and unloaded the cargo. Empty steel fuel drums were loaded for the return trip. I got aboard with two other passengers.

One was Guy Simmons, native of Fredericton, in charge of communications up and down the line. The other was D. J. Santer, formerly of Nelson, B.C., who came recently from Sandspit, B.C., in the Queen Charlotte Islands and was headed for Mile 64 as a radio operator.

People From All Over

You certainly meet people from all over on that airlift.

He was working a shift. He had come up from Seven Islands, was taking the fuel drums and us back, and in a few minutes would be away again to the power project at Menihek Lake. At the busy night office at Seven Islands, now after 1 a.m., he asked:

"What have we for tonight?" He got the reply: "Five thousand pounds and four passengers." (Chances are the 5,000 pounds was cement).

The co-pilot was Fred Van Brussel of Toronto, a former flight engineer in the R.C.A.F. who just a year ago got a pilot's licence.

Going from Seven Islands to Knob Lake a few days earlier I had travelled with about 30 men. Some were workers. Some were students still dressed as on the campus, but next day I saw them out along the railway cuts, tapping rocks and getting instruction in what they shoould look for.

Takes First Plane

The motto down there is, "take the first plane you can get—you don't know when you will get another." Fog may close in; someone or a piece of cargo may have a higher priority—a worker for Mile 190, or lumber for Wacouna.

First taste of the airlift was on the "executive plane," the 12-passenger Lodestar, going down from Montreal. Pilot Don McClintock and co-pilot Henry Hicks were typical of the cheery crew of young fellows who pilot planes on the Labrador-Ungava project.

Executive office is in Montreal, but officials from there and the United States interests are coming and going all the time.

I saw W. H. Durrell, general manager of Iron Ore, fly down to Seven Islands one evening, talk with his on-the-spot staff till midnight, and then away again next morning.-

Social Credit Government In Alberta Seeking 5th Term On Tuesday in General Election

EDMONTON (CP) — Alberta's Social Credit government likely will live to come of age if it is returned in the Aug. 5 provincial election.

The party was swept to power 17 years ago during the economic depression. Its promise then was dividends of $25 a month for all from the provincial treasury.

In this election Social Credit, now a model of financial orthodoxy, is seeking its fifth consecutive term of office. If returned, it will have been in power 21 years before the next election normally rolls around in 1956.

Today mention is seldom made of the party's old fiscal ideas. Some of them were tried in the government's first years, but the courts threw out the legislation as unconstitutional.

Close To Aberhart

William Aberhart, Calgary Bible class teacher who led the party to power in 1935, has been dead nine years. The present premier, Ernest C. Manning, was one of Mr. Aberhart's closest associates and is one of the two original Social Credit ministers still in office.

Mr. Manning is still only 43 despite his 17 years as a minister of the Crown. On Sundays he preaches at the Prophetic Bible Institute in Calgary in Mr. Aberhart's stead. Weekdays he is Premier and provincial treasurer. Soon he will add the job of minister of mines and minerals, administering the oil industry which has made Alberta rich.

Just an even dozen of the 56 original Social Credit members are contesting seats in next Tuesday's election as government candidates. Two other originals, unconverted to the party's present-day policies, are running as independent Social Crediters.

With one exception, the four Social Credit legislatures have all had top-heavy majorities. It was 56 to 7 in the first. Then, in 1940, a group of independents won 19 seats to Social Credit's 36. After that it was 51 to 6 in 1944 and against in 1948.

A redistribution bill passed in 1950, gives fast-growing Edmonton seven seats instead of five. Calgary's representation is increased to six from five. A new rural riding—Bonnyville—is created in the northeastern part of the province.

One Acclamation

Next Tuesday, 182 candidates will be in the running for the 60 seats at stake. The government has elected one member by acclamation—Provincial Secretary C. E. Gerhart in Acadia-Coronation. There is a Social Credit candidate in each of the 60 remaining seats.

The Liberals, who held power from the time Alberta became a province in 1905 until 1921, when a United Farmers' government took over for 14 years, are running 55 candidates. The party had three seats in the last Legislature and its leader, J. Harper Prowse, was leader of the Opposition.

C.C.F. hopes of bettering its two members in the last House have been encouraged by the C.C.F. victory in Saskatchewan in June and the party's good showing in British Columbia. Nova-Scotia-born Elmer E. Roper is leading 41 C.C.F. candidates.

The Progressive Conservatives have put up a dozen candidates, all in Edmonton and Calgary. The party's last electoral success in Alberta provincial elections was in 1935, when it elected two members.

Six of the government's former supporters are running as independent Social Crediters. These include some who disagree with the government's policies and others who were rejected for renomination. Most prominent is R. Earl Ansley, former Minister of Education who was recently expelled from the Social Credit League.

Eva Peron's Body May be Placed In Glass Case

BUENOS AIRES (CP)—President Juan D. Peron's office indicated yesterday that the body of his wife, Eva, may be so embalmed that it can be placed on permanent public view.

(In a similar manner the body of V.I. Lenin—father of the Bolshevik revolution—is on permanent exhibition in Moscow and former Bulgarian Premier Georgi Dimitrov's remains are on exhibit in Sofia).

The announcement said permanent burial of Mrs. Peron might be delayed for more than a year and that the body then would be placed in a monument in the heart of Buenos Aires. The phrasing indicated her remains would be placed in a glass case.

The statement said Mrs. Peron's body will lie in state until Aug. 9—15 days after death—and then will be removed from public view for one year after a funeral service that day.

Frankford Sport

FRANKFORD—Frankford Juveniles dropped a 14-2 game in the first round of the Sidney League playoffs this week. Frankford was without the services of several of their regulars, and a make-shift lineup proved no puzzle to the twice-champion Johnstown team, who coasted to an easy win. The Juveniles handed Johnstown their only defeat of the season in regulation play, and with a full team of regulars, it would no doubt be a closely contested series.

The Frankford Bowling League is planning an organization meeting in about a week's time. Circulars have been sent out to each last year player notifying him or her of a planned expansion program this year.

As far as is known now, a four-team league will be formed, in addition to the present eight-team circuit, the new league to bowl at 9:00 Monday evenings. The new league will operate completely independent of the present league, which will bowl, as usual, at 7:00 Thursday evenings. A few of the Thursday night bowlers have requested transfer to the Monday night league, since they find it difficult to finish work, and reach the alleys by 7:00. Any member of the present league who wishes a change, is urged to contact President Francis Murphy not later than Saturday, August 9.

The new league will be made up of those bowlers who transfer, and those on the waiting list, said list being approximately thirty-five in number at present. Any person who wishes to bowl at 9:00 Monday night, and whose name is not already on the waiting list, is urged to contact Earl or Elmer Rogers as soon as possible. If contact cannot be made with either of these, Francis Murphy or Gene Lohnes will accept the names for the waiting list. The Monday Night League is particularly interested in obtaining ladies names, as there is a slight shortage of women bowlers on the list.

The executive of the Sidney Softball League has notified the teams that they will not accept reelection another year. President Lawrence Slingerland, and Secretary Gene Lohnes have served in their respective offices for four years, and at the termination of the present season will not continue office.

Wooler Upsets Frankford 6-2, In Semi-Finals

Frankford.—Big Barney McColl, firing superb ball in the clutch, and backed by power hitting from his mates, led Wooler into the semi-final round of the Belleville and District Softball League last evening, as Wooler defeated Frankford Merchants 6-2 in the third game of their best-in-three series in Frankford.

Frankford left ten men stranded as McColl had what it takes in the pinches. In going the route he walked five, struck out five, and scattered seven hits.

Harry Farr went all the way on the hill for Frankford. He walked three, struck out seven, and gave up eight hits including four triples that broke the back of the Frankford defence.

Wooler opened the scoring in the second frame with Levitt pounding a triple and scoring on a fielder's choice. They took a two run lead in the fourth when McColl got a life on an error and scored on Scott's triple.

Frankford tied the score in the bottom of the fourth scoring two runs. Istead walked and Curtis was safe on an error. Another Wooler error and Harry Farr's single were good for the two tallies.

Wooler blew the game wide open in the ninth with a four run rally that was sparked by triples by Austen and Istead. A walk to Richards, a single by May, and Austen's triple were good for two runs. Levitt singled to score Austen, and Istead tripled to score Levitt.

Wooler now moves into a best-of-three semi-final round with the C.N.R. Diesels.

Ninety-four actual entries were drawn yesterday for the annual Ontario amateur golf championships to be played at the Cataraqui Golf and Country Club, Kingston, Aug. 6, 7, 8, and 9.

This means that 34 vacant spots still exist for Wednesday's opening round. However, Ontario Golf Association officials said all of the vacancies would be filled by tee-off time.

The field for this year's championships will include six former titleholders. Jack Nash of the London Hunt Club who won the first of three crowns in 1930 will compete. His club mate, Sandy Somerville, will be here. Somerville has four titles to his credit.

Johnny Schmitz, lefthanded relief pitcher of Brooklyn Dodgers, was sold to New York Yankees yesterday and will join the American League leaders in St. Louis today. The deal was for cash and Wally Hood, a Yankee farm hand pitcher now at Kansas City.

Schmitz, who came to Brooklyn a year ago in the Andy Pafko deal, appeared in 10 games for the Dodgers this season and had a 1-1 record.

DRIVE-IN THEATRE

Monday and Tuesday

"Lullaby of Broadway"

Billy De Wolfe and Ann Triola, an unemployed vaudeville team working as domestics for wealthy New York show backer S. Z. Sakall, help Gladys George a faded Broadway star, keep up a front by using the fashionable address. When Gladys' deluded daughter Doris comes home from England, De Wolfe pretends Gladys is on tour and Sakall is leasing the house. The latter soft-heartedly keeps mum. Perilous situations develop when Doris moves into the servants' quarters, particularly when Sakall's wife, Florence Bates, suspects wolfish tendencies in her husband. Despite the hazards Doris succeeds in showcasing her talents and lands the coveted lead in "Lullaby of Broadway" opposite her beau, Gene Nelson.

"Katie Did It"

Brought up in a prudish New England town by her aunt and uncle, Ann Blyth eventually succeeds in upsetting the entire community, all because of Mark Stevens, a visitor from New York. To help her uncle — who has lost $500 betting on the horses — Ann journeys to New York to sell a song she has written. Unsuccessful, she looks up Mark, who is a highly successful commercial artist, and poses for him to get the $500. They fall in love, but, through a misunderstanding, Ann erroneously thinks Mark is already married. She returns to New England and is about to marry Craig Stevens, son of the town banker, when Mark interrupts the ceremony with proof he has never been married — and the wedding proceeds with Mark as the groom.

Toronto Paddlers Hold Slim Lead In Regatta

By CECIL SMITH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MOONEY'S BAY, Ont. (CP)—Toronto Sailing and Canoe Club will be guarding a slim lead when their paddlers take to the Rideau River near Ottawa today for the conclusion of the 52nd Canadian Canoe Association regatta.

The club went to the fore yesterday as members racked up two firsts and a third for 11 points, just two points in front of Montreal Grand Trunk which won a first, a second and two thirds. Third was Radisson Canoe Club of Three Rivers, Que., with five points.

The man responsible for hoisting the Toronto club into first place was Lloyd Rice, 24-year-old textile cutter from Toronto, whose stamina brought him championships in two of the four 10,000 metres events.

Seventeen shorter races are scheduled for today with the club compiling the most points being awarded the Association Burgee, emblematic of club supremacy. Co-defenders this year are Grand Trunk and Toronto Balmy Beach who finished with identical cards last year.

Rice won the 10,000 metres double blade single and the 10,000 metres single blade single. He stroked home 15 boat lengths ahead of Les Erdie of Grand Trunk in the double blade single and scored an upset in the single blade single by coming in one-eighth of a mile ahead of the defending champion, Don Stringer of Sudbury, Ont.

Ken Butler of Toronto Island finished third in the double blade single and Allan McCleery of the Trunk placed third in the single blade single.

Toronto Island Canoe Club picked up a second and third to place fourth in the club standing. Balmy Beach and Sudbury, scored a second to tie for fifth spot.

Only one record was broken on opening day. Jake Beaumier and Claude Robert of Radisson stroked home in 54 minutes and 20 seconds in the 10,000 metres single blade tandem to knock 33 seconds off the course record.

9th Inning 5-Run Onslaught Snatches 5-4 Win for Petes Before Top Crowd of Season

Peterborough, Aug. 2—A perfect squeeze play by Freddy Garvey scored fleet-footed J. Lowrey from third in the last of the ninth with one away to give the Petes a 5-4 win over Belleville here last night. A crowd of 2,300 fans sent a thunderous roar across Riverside Park to cap a cascading clamour marking a local drive from behind a 4-0 deficit in the final frame as the Stewart squad plugged away to tie the count and then bunt in the winning marker.

"Booster Night"

It was baseball "Booster Night" in Peterborough and a record crowd for the season turned out and saw a swell diamond struggle complete with seas cadets, band, golfdriving competition, and a big draw for prizes The TV set was won by Miss Margaret Duvall.

Play was snappy and close all the way but for a four-run splurge by the Redmen in the fifth frame. With two away, Wright drew a walk and moved up when Stewart booted Gilmour's grounder. Wright scored and Gilmour took third on a two-bagger to left by Mulholland, and Pettitt then cleaned the sacks with a homer to left over the crowd. It was an in-the-park circuit clout with a ground rule covering it.

Apart from those 4 unearned counters, the Quinte crew didn't get a man to 2nd in the 7 heats Phil Clancy hurled. Bill Dadson took over to hit for him and the southpaw pitched the last two stanzas, not allowing a run. He gave up but one hit and Clancy only six in smart slab showings, and they had near-perfect support.

Art Wright dished up a masterful mound display for the Reds for eight chukkers, despite three bobbles behind him, but he faded in the ninth as the fans started a clap-clap monotone. Stewart led off with a walk and Dugan singled. Young's double scored Stewart and put Dugan on third. One more counted on pinch - hitter Don Bigford's single. And Young later tallied on a wild pitch. Dadson doubled to send Bigford scampering in and Wright was yanked for Mulholland.

Lowrey scratched an infield hit and Dadson took third. The latter was caught at the plate on Edger's roller to short, but Lowrey, who had stolen, took third. Garvey's bunt to short scored him with the winning run.

Dadson and Bigford had one for one each at bat, Young two for 3 and Lowrey and Edger two in five tries each. Tony Pettitt hit a homer and single in four to drive in three for Belleville, and Pat Gilmour got two singles in four attempts.

The losers reeled off two twin killings, while Arn Dugan pulled a dandy running catch in right centre for the homesters. Catcher Bill Huntley had to retire in the third inning with a dislocated finger, Al Menzies taking over his spot.

'We Wuz Robbed' Scream Russ After Fight Loss

LONDON (AP) —Moscow radio's Helsinki correspondent last night gave Russian home service listeners a "we wuz robbed" version of the Olympic boxing semi-finals.

The broadcaster, identified as Synavsky, said:

"The match between the Soviet featherweight boxer Bulakovand the German Basel showed the superiority of the Soviet boxer. However, the judges, who the other day had shown an unfavorable attitude to the Soviet boxer Dosukhin, again gave the victory to the German, who did not deserve it. This unfair decision was passed by the votes of two judges, a Norwegian and a Dutchman.

"The judges did everything they could to spare the American team difficult matches in the finals."

Yesterday, the official Russian news agency Tass charged that the Soviet fighters were not getting justice at Helsinki.

MOSSADEGH COMING

LE HAVRE, France (AP) — American Line officials said yesterday that Prime Minister Mohammed Mossadegh of Iran is sailing for New York aboard the United States Sept. 12.

Petes, Mimico Win at Lacrosse

MIMICO — (CP) — Mimico Mounties maintained their four point lead over second-place Peterborough Timbermen here last night by downing St. Catharines Athletics 15-10 in an Ontario Lacrosse Association Senior A game Freddie Sandford rapped in four goals to lead the Mimico attack while Kenny Lytle added three. Jim McMahon scored three of the St. Catharines goals.

FERGUS (CP) — Peterborough Timbermen defeated Fergus Thistles 17-11 in a scheduled Ontario Lacrosse Association Senior A game here last night.

Jack Mason and Bob Thorpe led the Peterborough attack with four goals each while Don Gear and Bob Dobbie banged in three each for the losing cause.

The teams ended the first period in a 2-2 deadlock, but the Timbermen took over from then on. Sixteen penalties were handed out in the rough tilt.

Diesels Enter Semi-Finals Beat Flyers 13-7

CNR Diesels rolled into the semi-finals of the Belleville and District Softball League playoffs last evening as they squeaked past RCAF Flyers 13-7 in the third game of their best-in-three series played at the CNR Field.

Lady Luck smiled on the Diesels last evening as they got away to a tremendous start, scoring six runs in the first inning on a bunt, and a single to left field. Doug Sword's single to left was the only blow out of the infield in the fatal first as the RCAF infield came apart to commit seven errors in a fantastic display of futility.

The Diesels capitalized to the full on Flyer miscues and sent 10 men to the plate for free gifts before the airmen could put a stop to the largess and retire the side.

In the first Ronsky led off with a perfect bunt single. Rowbotham sacrificed him to second and Sword singled to left to score Ronsky, coming on to second as the left fielder bobbled the ball. Don Adams was safe on an error at short and Young was safe on an error to the second baseman. Leo Goyer got a life on an error at third, and Adams and Young scored when a throw to the plate escaped the catcher. Corbett and Hunter were safe on errors at the plate on attempted fielder's choice plays. Halloran grounded out third to first and Ronsky struck out to end the inning.

McCartney Homers

The Flyers who scored a run in the first inning on a walk a single and an error, came up with three consecutive singles, a walk, and a fielder's choice that were good for two runs in the second frame, and McCartney pounded a screaming line drive home run to the fence in centrefield to start the third to make the score 6-4.

Diesels counted single runs in the fourth and fifth to lengthen their lead but the Flyers, with a single tally in the fifth, and two runs in the sixth trailed only 8-7 at the end of the sixth.

Diesels, however, put together their winning margin in the 8th on a single by Sword, a double by Don Adams and a home run to right field by Glen Young. A walk to Leo Goyer, a single by Corbett, an error that gave Hunter a life, and Adams' single, counted two more.

Pat Guzzo pitched the first four frames for the Flyers walking none, striking out two, and giving up seven hits for seven runs. Vic Burtt did the flinging from the fifth inning on, walking two, striking out one, and giving up eight hits for six runs and the loss.

Marty Halloran started for the Diesels and in four and two thirds innings walked three, struck out two, and gave up seven hits for five runs. Al Adams toiled the rest of the route in relief, walking one, striking out two, and giving up three hits for two runs to claim the victory.

Sword with three for four, and Ronsky with three for five led the winners attack, while McCartney with a single, double, and home run in four official trips was best for the losers.

Lineup:

Diesels: Ronsky 3b; Rowbotham 2b; Sword ss; D. Adams lf; Young c; L. Goyer cf; Corbett 1b; Hunter rf; Halloran p, relieved by A Adams in 5th.

Bowling Notes

The women of the Bowling Club held their mid-week tea at the greens on Thursday afternoon and Mrs. W. Lynch, Mrs. C. L. Hyde, Mrs. Harry Thompson and Mrs. Doug Row as skip won the afternoon games with Mrs. Grace Clapp, Mrs. Cyril McBride with Mrs. W. Gilbert winning the lucky prize. The tea hostesses were Mrs. Harold Cross, Mrs. Walter Elliott and Mrs. Charles A. Mott.

On Wednesday afternoon a mixed jitney was held with three games being played and a pot luck supper served before the two evening games. Everyone reported an excellent time and a prize was given to all who bowled in the jitney, of course some better than others.

Cliff Argue and his Corbin Cup Gold Trophy committee have preparations for the big day on Monday well in hand. As usual there is a full draw and the games will get under way sharp at ten o'clock with the "spider" being rolled before the tournament proper. The Peller Trophy, which replaces the Ritchie Cup, will be competed for for the first time. It is a beautiful trophy and the prizes that accompany it are well worth having. Mac McLean is to be congratulated along with the greenskeeper on the excellence of the greens for play. Mr. McLean took over the chairmanship of the greens when Garn Dobbs was unable to continue due to ill health and devoted much of his time to this end of the club's business.

The women's section under the direction of Mrs. Gordon Vince is well prepared to handle the large crowd that will be on hand and the bowlers can be assured of a square meal between games. It will be a busy day at the Belleville Club on the holiday.

Canada's Hopes In Davis Cup On Main, Rochon

By MAX McMAHON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—With a two-match lead through singles victories yesterday, Canada pinned her doubles hopes today on Lorne Main and Henri Rochon in first-round North American zone Davis Cup play against Mexico's team of Mario Llamas and Manuel Galeana.

Main defeated Pedro Vega, Mexican playing captain, in straight sets 6-2, 6-0, 6-2 and Brendan Macken overcame a two-game deficit to win over Llamas 3-6, 4-6, 6-1, 6-1, 6-4.

Main, a two-handed powerful baseline slugger has a perfect contrast in French-speaking Rochon, noted for a soft drop shot. The Mexicans are using a strict powerhouse against the Canadian combination with Llamas, a fleet-footed player with a powerful overhand drive and Galeana, who slams every shot.

Rests Macken

Macken was expected to team up with Rochon but Dr. Georges Leclerc, non-playing captain of the Canadian team, said he will rest Macken tomorrow. The Canadian player was tired after he won over Llamas and meets Pedro Vega in a singles match tomorrow.

Main played a skilful game to overcome Vega. The Mexican, suffering from a head cold, didn't extend himself and appeared listless. Main used well-placed soft shots to the fore court and passed him with two-handed ground shots to the baseline.

The highlight of the day was the match between Macken and Llamas. Macken drew on his six years of Davis Cup experience to overcome the fast-moving Mexican.

Llamas had Macken running all over the court before he settled down.

Dr. Leclerc was satisfied with his team's play. He said he advised Macken to change his style mid-way through his match to prevent Llamas from passing him with his return shots. Up to that point the Mexican had a decided advantage.

East Germans Dash for Freedom

GOEATTINGEN, Germany — (AP)—Six East German farmers and their families, braving a communist shoot-on-sight order, dashed into West Germany Wednesday night with six cartloads of property and 42 head of cattle. The refugees came from Soviet occupied Thuringia. They said they slipped through a ploughed 10-yard-wide "dead zone" between east and west at a full gallop.

Slumping Yanks Switch Players

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The slumping New York Yankees today switched infielders with their Kansas City affiliate of the American Association.

Andy Carey, a third baseman and shortstop, was purchased from the Blues and second-baseman Kal Segrist, who was obtained from Kansas City two weeks ago, was returned to that club.

Manager Casey Stengel intends to use Carey at third base and move Gil McDougald from that position to second base as a replacement for Billy Martin, hobbled by a swollen right knee.

DREAM FINISH

Well. it was one of those things a baseball coach dreams about but seldom sees. Something of the feeling that Leo Durocher must have had when Thouron blasted that pennant-winning homer to cop the National flag last year.

Yup, our Redmen were leading four-nothing going into the bottom of the ninth when the blow struck, and before the dust had cleared and the largest crowd of the season to see the Petes play had swallowed their tonsils and refrained from chucking the Belleville umpire into the well-known river, the pesky cusses from Perdueville had shuffled five runners across the platter to win the ball game.

From all accounts the Petes did well on the deal. They ticketed a television set and reports state the lads sold some 2,400 tickets at a half-a-buck. Nice going, fellahs, it was the financial needle you need and the Merriwell finish should give senior baseball a big boost up thataway.

HOLIDAY WEEKEND SPORTS FARE

For the baseball-minded the Redmen are at home tonight to the Prescott Merchants and on Monday night they'll be hosts to the Kingston Monarchs according to the schedule.

The Drive-In Theatre bantams play in the first round of the OBA playdowns this afternoon in Oshawa where they meet the Oshawa Dairy youngsters. The second game is scheduled for Monday afternoon at the Fair Grounds here starting at three o'clock. No word yet of the peewee playdowns.

Tennis enthusiasts can get a Sunday treat at the Quinte Club courts when the club is holding its monthly round robin. There will be three events, mens' doubles, ladies' doubles and mixed doubles.

Auto stock car races devotees will have a double dose of their favorite sport with Ken Kenney's drivers holding forth at the Bayside track Monday afternoon starting at 3.00 p. m.

Monday night at the Shannonville Speedway, Dick Burrows is featuring another of his twenty-lap races that caused so much comment following the last meet. The courage and daring of the drivers despite the fact the race produced not a few spills, drew the unstinted applause of the spectators. The opening heat on Monday night starts at 8.15 under the floodlights and Burrows anticipates all the thrills and perhaps some of the spills that attended the last big feature race.

For the lovers of the white wings and the roaring speedboats there's plenty of excitement coming up over the holiday. The big Monday feature of course is the Gold Cup Regatta at Picton where the fastest boats on the continent. or some of them, will skim Picton's lovely tree-bordered natural amphitheatre on the Bay of Quinte. World's records may go by the board at the meet which is officially sanctioned by the Canadian Powerboat Association, Canadian subsidiary of the APBA.

Down at Point Anne outboards and inboards will rip over the bay waters starting at nine o'clock in the morning. Several of the boats entered in the Picton regatta will race at Ox Point leaving in time to catch the Prince Edward county town nautical show.

There is no activity along the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club front although it is stated some of the yachts will sail for Picton over the weekend to take in the regatta.

TOP GRIDIRON FARE

City and district football fans can get a seasonal preview of two top professional teams of the United States in action on September 6th. They are the Cleveland Browns and Detroit Lions which clash in Syracuse in the fourth annual Syracuse Cerebral Palsy Clinic football game.

Each club was top contender during the 1951 league season but did not meet each other. It's a good opportunity for Canadian fans to watch two crack Yankee gridiron squads in action. Tickets are priced at $3.60 and $2.40. They can be obtained at Syracuse University Athletic office.

So Rocky Hits Harder Than Louis But Wise Ones Pick Old Jersey Joe

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Men who have been around the fight game for a long time and whose words carry some authority are being quoted as saying that Rocky Marciano hits as hard, or harder, than either Jack Dempsey or Joe Louis did in their prime and that he will scalp Jersey Joe Walcott when they meet.

We saw Rocky belt Harry Matthews the other night, too. That was a pretty fair wallop, the left hook which dimmed the lights for Harry. But let us not be precipitate and start betting money we can't afford to lose.

Champ Favored

The characters who make a good living by setting fight odds and then backing their judgment against all comers have been polled in recent days, and without exception they prophesy that old folks, the champion, will enter the ring a solid favorite over his unbeaten young challenger. They place the probable odds at around 7-5 on a man-to-man basis.

These are the same fellows who made Marciano a 12-5 choice over Matthews and stuck to it right to the end in the face of a widespread, if unfortunate, belief that the price was an overlay. In other words, when they say Walcott will keep his crown, they are doing something more than just guessing.

What they knew all along was that Matthews was no more than a blown up light heavyweight, and they judged quite correctly that he would come undone in a hurry the first time Marciano tagged him squarely. They knew, as well, that the west coast veteran could not hit hard enough to keep Rocky in his place.

Joe Better Boxer

Walcott is different. Jersey Joe, they emphasize, is a big man, some pounds heavier than Marciano and probably as strong as the rugged boy from Brockton, Mass. He is, of course, a far better boxer than Rocky, who still is a virtual beginner in that phase of his career, and he can hit like a ton of bricks when an opening comes. Also, he can take a punch.

It all adds up; as the wise money sees it, to a fairly easy victory for the old pappy guy, most probably by a decision at the end of 15 rounds. They figure that Walcott will gait himself for the full route, taking no unnecessary risks along the way and throwing his stemwinder right only if and when he gets Marciano in a bad way.

Bound to Land

They could, of course, be making a serious mistake, and it wouldn't be for the first time. A fellow who can leave an opponent for dead with either hand will always be a menace, no matter whom he is swinging at, and Rocky, who is a terrific trainer, will be prepared to fill the air with punches all the way. Some of them are bound to land, but it should be kept in mind that it took Louis two fights to tag Walcott squarely.

The only thing we know for sure is that we want to stay a long way from Marciano's dressing room that night if he should lift the title. Rocky's playmates from Brockton have a right to be enthusiastic about their idol, but some means must be found of caging them for an hour or two after his fights end.

A large segment of the New York police force tried to keep them out of Rocky's quarters after he had clobbered Matthews, but the boys is blue only got themselves trampled.

Issue Appears to Rest On Yank Boxers, Aquatic Stars; Win Two Titles Yesterday

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HELSINKI (CP)—The 1952 Olympic Games move into the final full day of competition today and the question everywhere was not who is going to win this or that championship but who's going to win "it."

The "it" is the unofficial leadership in point-standing of the competing countries.

When the all-important competitions opened today Russia was in the lead with 523½ points. The United States had 499 The final standing could be dramatically close, but the United States had a good chance of wiping out that 24½-point deficit and moving ahead.

Can Take Title

The issue appeared to rest with the United States boxers and with the aquatic performers.

If they carry on as they did yesterday, when the United States scored 34 points to zero for Russia, the leadership that Olympic officials frown upon will be theirs.

The Olympic heads say each championship is something in itself and there's no such thing as team or national supremacy. But the man in the street, even here in Helsinki as well as in Saskatoon, or Chillicothe, Ohio, or even in Moscow perhaps, is waiting to see what will happen on that final tabulation of 10-5-4-3-2-1 for the first six finishers in all events throughout the games.

Four championships were decided yesterday. The United States won two, collecting all their 34 points in the process.

The Highlights

Major Sammy Lee won the men's high-platform diving championship for the United States.

The United States took third place in the women's 400-metre swimming relay.

Set World Mark

The relay was won by Hungary's sensational swimming quartet in not only Olympic-record time but in world-record time.

Hungarians also made a one-two-three sweep in the individual sabre competition of the fencing tournament.

The big surprise, even to the Americans, and a welcome one was the way their fighters battled their way solidly from the semi-ficials of the boxing tournament into today's finals.

The semi-finals started with five Americans and six Russians, none fighting against each other because of the way the blind draw worked out.

When the afternoon and night ring sessions ended, all five Americans were in the finals; two Russians moved along.

In the 10 finals today in all the weight divisions, only one clash brings an American and Russian together. Charlie Adams will meet Viktor Mednov in the light heavyweight class. It should be close.

The biggest direct United States-Russia clash comes in the basketball final where the unbeaten American quintet once more meets the once-defeated Russian five. Russia's only loss in the march to the final was to the United States earlier in the tournament. The Yanks are confident they can repeat.

If the Americans lose all five of their final matches they are assured of at least 25 points in the standing tabulation. As "second-place" finishers they would get five points each.

If the U. S. repeats in basketball, that would be 10 points. Russia would get five.

Uruguay won third place in the basketball tournament yesterday, edging out Argentina in a wild, rough game that included a riotous outbreak of players and spectators. Brazil and Chile met today to decide fifth and sixth places. Bulgaria defeated France yesterday to take seventh place.

In the soccer tournament Sweden defeated Germany 2-0 last night and made sure of third place.

The aquatic finals today presented problems to the point-hungry Americans. They were assured of high placing at least in the women's high diving final. When the first half of the competition ended yesterday Mrs. Pat McCormick, winner of the springboard championship, was well in front followed by two other American women divers. Two Russian girls were in fifth and seventh places.

Russia had no [illegible] in these swimming events today: men's 200-metre breaststroke, women's 400-metre free-style and men's 1,500-metre free-style.

In the 200-metre breast-stroke John Davies of Australia, Herbert Klein of Germany and two Japanese swimmers appeared to have a better chance than the lone United States finalist, Bowen Stassforth, who was fourth in a semi-final.

Three in Final

There were better chances in the 1,500-metre final, with Fird Konno, John Marshall and Jim McLane all competing for the United States, but the real threat to an American victory was Japan's sensational Shiro Hashezume, a sensational record-breaker in his semi-final, although the semi-finalists Thursday were all record-breakers. Peter Duncan of South Africa was another possible winner.

In the women's 200-metre breaststroke, Evelyn Kawamoto from Honolulu was the outstanding United States hope. She broke an Olympic record in winning a semi-final. But Australian and South African girls were just as likely to snatch the championship.

The final cycling event of the Olympics was on the program today. It's a terrifying grind of about 120 miles, with both team and individual championships involved.

Russia could pick up scoring points in this race, in which American entrants can't be figured to be anywhere near the leaders.

The prospects in the boxing finals offer the United States the best showing American fighters—usually also-rans—have ever made. American mitt men haven't won an Olympic boxing title since 1932, and in the 1948 games at London only one American went as far as the semi-finals.

Three of the United States finalists today were given the best chances of overcoming the winless jinx—middleweight Floyd Patterson, light heavyweight Norvel Lee and heavyweight Eddie Sanders.

Of the two Russian finalists, one got through the semi-final round yesterday on a default. Viktor Mednov, light heavyweight, moved along when Erkki Mallenius of Finland was unable to complee because of an injured thumb, suffered in a previous fight. The only winner in the ring was Sergej Scherbakov, a clever welter, who easily outpointed Victor Jorgensen of Denmark.

Reeling Leafs In Third Place In Intercounty

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

For several weeks they have been steadily battered about the arena of the senior Intercounty Baseball League. Six straight losses sent them sprawling out of first place and since then they have been floored 12 times in their last 14 starts. They have been pummelled by every team in the circuit. Earlier this week they took the worst beating registered this season 20-5 and from the last-place St. Thomas Elgins.

Last night Waterloo Tigers, holding sixth place in the seven-team loop, walloped the reeling Leafs 6-1 and dropped them into third place, 5½ games behind the league-leading Kitchener Panthers. The powerful Panthers added their ninth consecutive victory by defeating London Majors 7-4. Brantford Red Sox, replacing Guelph in second place, whipped St. Thomas 7-3.

Yosurak Winner

Veteran Joe Yosurak went the distance for Waterloo in Guelph, holding the Leafs to eight hits, two walks and fanning six. Leafs used Bob Malone, Carl Pilarski and Bud Kimball, with Malone taking blame for the loss.

Guelph picked up their single run on a single by George Carruth and a double by George d'Addario. Don Oberholtzer and Jim Muldoon were top batsmen for Waterloo, each collecting two for four.

In Kitchener Chuck Fedoris picked up his 11th win against two losses. He was replaced by Hal Johnston in the seventh. Johnston held London scoreless on one hit. Jim Gifton started for London and was relieved by Tom White in the sixth. White was tagged with the loss. Russ Evon, London leftfielder, leading hitter in latest league figures, pounded out three for four including a homer over the centre-field fence. Fred Thomas, Ted McGillivray and Pete Karpuk sparked the winners as each collared two hits.

Four-Run Splurge

In Brantford the Red Sox snapped a 3-3 tie in the seventh, hammering out four runs in the same inning.

Alf Gavey hurled Brantford to their first victory in four games this week, checking the Elgins on nine hits. Brantford third-baseman Stan Lipka, playing with a broken nose picked up in batting practice, and St. Thomas catcher Mike Cudemo led the hitting with three safeties each.

Tonight Guelph goes to Waterloo to meet the Tigers again while Kitchener is at London and Brantford at Galt.

Football Coaches Face Charges

CALGARY (CP) — Stampeder football coaches, Les Lear and Ed Champagne, will appear in city police court this morning on charges of assault, occasioning actual bodily harm laid by Mel Embree, Negro end with the club.

At that time, Embree told police he had made the team and was called into the dressing room by Lear and Champagne. Embree said they wanted him to sign a contract, calling for about half the salary he was supposed to get.

Embree said when he refused to sign he was knocked down by Lear and Champagne and then Lear kicked him in the eye and ribs.

Embree went to the police station Thursday evening to lay a charge, but police advised him to come back in the morning and lay it then.

American League Pack Narrows Margin On Faltering Yankees

Bombers Defeat, Tribe's Win Reduce Lead to Two Games; Giants Gain Game on Brooks

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Rookie Jim (Dusty) Rhodes looks like the man the New York Giants have been waiting for since Willie Mays marched off to the army. With seven home runs in 10 games at the Polo Grounds, the Nashville grad gives Manager Leo Durocher needed strength in the outfield to help the club's latest drive on the league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers.

With Rhodes a fixture in left and Monte Irvin back in right field, Durocher made the final move to tighten his outer defence last night when he shifted Bobby Thomson from third base to centre field. Hank Thompson moved from centre back to his old third-base job.

Irvin In Action

Leo's latest "operation shakewell" produced the desired result. Irvin, making his first appearance in the starting line-up since he broke his right ankle in a spring exhibition, drove home the first run in a four-run explosion against Pittsburgh's Harry Fisher in the three-run homer and the Giants were off to a 7-3 victory.

The Giants picked up a full game when the Dodgers lost to Chicago, 6-1. New York now trails by five games.

Preacher Roe lost after seven straight 1952 wins, bowing to Bob Rush in the Chicago game The Cubs chased "The Preach" in the fifth when they ran their lead to 3-0. Hank Sauer's 26th homer with two men on base in the seventh came off rookie Ray Moore, just up from St. Paul.

Stop Phils' Streak

St. Louis slugged a parade of Philadelphia pitchers for 14 hits and a 10-5 decision to end the Phils' six-game win string. Four runs in a ninth-inning spurt that included triples by Stan Musial and Solly Hemus and a two-run homer by Enos Slaughter nailed down the win.

Max Surkont threw two wild pitches to batter Andy Seminick in the ninth to give Cincinnati the first run in their ball game against Boston. Eddie Pellagrini's single scored the second to make it 2-0 for the Reds' Kenny Raffensberger over Boston.

Old Satchel Paige helped St. Louis Browns tighten the American League race by dumping the front-running New York Yankees 2-1. Clint Courtney drove in both runs with a homer and single as Allie Reynolds was knocked out. Paige came on the scene after the Yanks scored one run off Gene Bearden and had the bases loaded with two out in the seventh. He blanked the Yanks on one hit the rest of the way.

The Yanks loss and Cleveland's 6-5 triumph over Philadelphia on Larry Doby's 10th-inning home run reduced New York's lead to two games. Doby knocked in two runs earlier with a double and single.

Mel Parnell of Boston's Red Sox set down Detroit with eight hits, 3-1. Boston pulled within 3½ games of the Yanks and fourth-place Washington was only 4½ back after the Senators' 3-1 victory over Chicago.

Cubs Bang Out Win Over Wings; Leafs, Birds Split

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The one bright spot in the bleak International League picture for the cellar-dwelling Ottawa Athletics is the pitching of Mario Fricano, former New York Giant farmhand.

Fricano registered his 11th victory of the season last night, hurling a four-hitter in defeating Syracuse Chiefs 7-2. Carden Gillenwaters' second-inning homer with one aboard put the Chiefs ahead, but Fricano allowed only an infield hit the rest of the way.

Springfield Cubs banged out 14 hits and an easy 10-5 victory over Rochester Red Wings. Despite homers by Steve Bilko, Ray Jablonski and Rip Repulski, Bill (Spec) Padget was able to go the route, gaining his ninth triumph.

Toronto Maple Leafs divided a twin bill with Baltimore Orioles, losing the opener 2-1 in two extra innings and taking the nightcap 5-4. Home runs by Marv Rickert and Andy Anderson accounted for three of the Leafs' five runs in the second contest enabling Gerald Fahr to pick up his seventh win.

The Orioles belted 10 hits off Toronto pitchers Hal Hudson and Ray Shore in the opener. Kent Peterson went all the way for Baltimore to gain his third win.

Sam Snead Hits Seven Under Par In Rich Tourney

CHICAGO (AP) — Irrepressible Sammy Snead unleashed a tremendous long game to offset an erratic putter for a seven-under-par 65 and a five-stroke 36-hole lead in yesterday's second round of the $30,000 all-American golf tourney.

Snead, who yesterday slammed an opening 67, reached the half-way mark with a 12-under-par total of 132 for his finest start in a Tam O'Shanter meet.

Bracketed at 137 as Snead's closest pursuers were Cary Middlecoff, leading money-winner, who shot a 69 today, and Tommy Bolt, with 68.

Of the Canadians, Stan Leonard of Vancouver was best with a 72 to add to his first-round 71 for a 36-hole total of 143. Pat Fletcher of Saskatoon had an 81 to go with his 74 for 155. Rudy Horvath of Windsor, Ont., withdrew after his first-round 78.

Fewer Bush Workers

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—Numbers of bush workers with timber and pulp and paper companies in the Thunder Bay district this fall and winter will be reduced by almost 50 per cent, M. K. Morrison, manager of the national employment service office said here yesterday.

Reduction is due to attempts by the employing companies to spread their operations over the entire year. Some 1,500 men are expected to work in the area compared with 2,500 last year.

Here is the Lord Calvert Gold Trophy, second only to the Corbin Gold Trophy. The Calvert Trophy was donated to the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club by the Calvert Distilleries for annual competition. It will be awarded to the runners-up in the Mens' Rinks tournament being staged for the Corbin Gold Trophy on Monday, Civic Holiday. The trophies, which have been on display in the window of the Public Utilities with other handsome prizes, have been the cynosure of many eyes. Lawn bowlers hereabouts and in general are deeply appreciative of the fine gesture of the Calvert Distilleries in the contribution of the handsome trophy.

Bo-Bo Succumbs to Layton's Vicious Attack in Main Bout

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

'Twas cops and chops night at Memorial Arena last evening.

While Lord Athol Layton was chopping right merrily one Bo-Bo Brazil, ye cops were yanking out the over-enthusiastic customers who insisted in dunking lighted cigarettes on the sweaty torsos of the ring gladiators, or just refused to behave themselves.

But while excited customers were making ashtrays out of pachydermic pelvises, Lord Layton was busy handing out some severe punishment to the ebon body of La Bo-Bo. In fact His Riverence "Bunny" Dunlop yanked so much hair last night he took home enough between his fingers to manufacture a "horse-tail" for the missus.

The blinkin' Briton won the bally bout in one and one half minutes, daylight sweating time, in the third fall. The blighter actually had the Bo-Bo out colder than a four-weeks mackerel at the end of the second fall, and it took but little persuasion in the third to stretch the ebony carcass on the canvas.

Appeared Hurt

Actually Bo-Bo appeared to be hurt. The continuous across-ring tossing against the ropes and posts when 'is Nibs used him like a handball took its toll. The swarthy African son had to be assisted from the ring by the "Bunny" following the second and ditto the third after absorbing some more kittenish antics on the part of 'is blinking Ludship.

The bally son o' sunny Surrey ran a spot berserk in the third fall, and despite the tugo' war tactics used by the referee on his chestnut locks, he really battered the Bo-Bo until he lay supine on the canvas. And to add to that he attacked him following the award of the bout, judo-chopping until La Bunny took a slug or two at the regal puss that sent him showerwards.

Actually during the first ten minutes of the first fall it looked as though the boys had repented and meant to mend their ways. There were no judo chops nor co-co bonks. They broke cleanly but just as the halos began to glisten atop their pates, it happened.

Bo-bo conked and Athol chopped. 'Is Ludship smacked the foeman loudly if not painfully atop the bosom while he lay in a "death-grip" then Bo-Bo leaned up, bowed gracefully with a crack heard in Podunkville and all friendship ceased on the spot. Athol shook the ruddy mist from his eyes and slipped a vicious chop to the African jugular and white eyes and teeth gleamed in the outside-ring gloom.

"Surprise, Surprise"

Then the lud took over and tossed the colored gent about the ring willy-nilly. But he made the mistake of attempting to flatten the foeman into a glistening black pancake when Bo-Bo back-flipped. 'Is Ludship stared at the rafters in amazement as La Bunny beat three times on the canvas so quickily it sounded like a rataplan, and that was that.

Came the second fall and Bo-Bo taking the aforementioned punishment while the third was an unreasonable facsimile of the second, or the small economy size.

Roberto Rico, a Mexican with an Aztec hair-do and a mincing strut, defeated the agile Pat Flanagan in one of the best bouts seen here in many a moon. It was fast, quick action with the Mexican winning after 20 minutes of rugged rough battling in which a taped hand figured conspicuously.

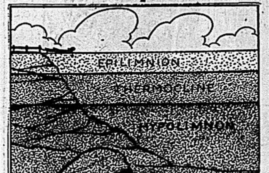
Lake Temperatures



By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solunar Tables.)

During the month of August a great many people go on their vacations. A large majority of them eventually wind up on the shores of a lake and most of these go fishing.

This news story is intended for those folks who spend their precious vacation days at lake resorts. Too few of them, I'm afraid, realize how much influence lake temperatures have on fishing success — or lack of it.

The temperatures in a lake have a way of arranging themselves according to a set plan. This is about the way things work out.

When the ice goes out in the spring, water temperatures are well down, usually in the thirties. Then the lake is pretty much the same temperature from surface to bottom.

This happy situation, however, does not last very long. Warm spring sunlight heats the surface water rather quickly. In a short time the lake sets up its typical temperature layers which maintain, to a greater or less degree, throughout the entire summer.

These layers are three in number — the thin upper layer of warm water, the epillimnion; the thick lower layer of cold water, the hypolimnoin; and the middle layer, warm at the top and cold at the bottom, the thermocline. A rough translation of "thermocline" would be "temperature slope" and that describes its function quite well.

All right, let us consider a typical lake during the month of August. Let us assume that this lake is fairly well sheltered from strong winds.

Warm On Top

The sun heats the surface water so that the upper layer can well be in the eighties — too high for comfort for trout or smallmouth bass. There being no strong winds, this upper layer probably is a shallow affair, as little sometimes as five feet but probably closer to ten.

The deep lower layer, which maintains the 40 to 50 degree temperatures which are attractive to such fish as lake trout or togue, takes in the large majority of the water in the lake.

The cushioning layer, the thermocline, lies between these two temperature extremes. Its depth varies but usually it is about 25 or 30 feet. Through this comparatively restricted area temperatures may vary as much as 40 degrees, 80 degrees at the top and 40 degrees at the bottom.

Bass, as you know, are warm-water fish. They can live quite comfortably in the high temperatures of the epilimnion. However, they prefer cooler temperatures if such are available, particularly the smallmouth. Sixty-seven degrees seems to be the temperature level he likes best. Largemouth like it somewhat warmer, probably around the 72 mark.

It is fairly easy to find the temperature set-up of a lake and it does not take very long. Simply tie your stream thermometer on a string and lower it over the side of your boat. You can measure the depth of your readings on the string.

Knowing the temperatures that bass prefer, your first job is to find out how far down in the thermocline you must go to find the 67-72 degree zone. Knowing this, then locate the rocky bars or shoals that are at this depth and there the bass should be concentrated.

Watch the Mercury

Some years ago a friend of mine visited a lake in New York State. The old-timers, who had fished the lake for years, were complaining bitterly of the lack of bass. They decided that the lake needed restocking.

My friend spent some time on the lake with his thermometer. He learned that because of an unusually windy summer the thermocline had been deepened considerably.

The old "hot spots," where bass were usually found, no longer produced purely because the water was too warm at those levels. As soon as he had located the new concentration areas in the 67 degree thermal zone, he had no trouble taking all the fish he wanted.

Every now and then a hard blow will "turn over" the water in a lake, completely deranging the temperature set-up. Continuous wind from one direction will drive the surface water before it.

As the water piles up at the end of the lake, a sub-surface current is created to take away the excess. Thus, the lake "turns over" and the temperature layers are temporarily mixed. However, it does not take long for the layers to re-establish themselves and you can easily take hew readings.

So there you have it. Knowing how the thermocline operates, you should have no trouble locating the levels where the fish will be waiting for you.

Trout like temperatures in the low sixties; bass, 67-72; lake trout, 50 degrees or colder; panfish, 75; walleye, 65-70 degrees; musky, around 75 degrees; great northern pike, around 75.

So take time out this season and find out something about your lake. Take a thermometer with you do and do a little research before you start fishing. Believe me, it pays off.

Yank Swimmers Break Records

KELOWNA, B.C. (AP) — A Canadian swim record set 12 years ago by Hamilton's Irene Barr was broken yesterday at the Kelowna regatta by two swimmers from Portland, Ore.

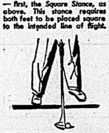
Virginia Pietz and Sally Becker ended one-two in the Canadian northwest championship senior women's one-mile swim, Miss Pietz with a time of 24 minutes, 50.5 seconds and Miss Becker a stroke behind in 24:52.3.

Both times were better than the mark for a 50-yard pool set by Irene Barr in 1940. Her time was 24 minutes, 55 seconds.

"COOL CONTROL"

THE STANCE

1-Square Stance
Balance and control are 'musts.' There are three basic stances — first, the Square Stance, as above. This stance requires both feet to be placed square to the intended line of flight.



2-Open Stance
All stances require the club to be soled directly back of the ball so that the bottom of the club sits evenly on the turf. If toe of club sticks up, you are too far away. If toe is down, you are too close. In Open Stance, left foot is drawn back from line of flight, and body is turned slightly toward left. Use when slice or fade is desired.

3-Closed Stance
Opposite from Open Stance. Draw right foot back from line of flight. Use when hook from right to left is required. Recommended for driving because of overspin imparted to ball when hit.

It's control that counts, in golf as in every sport — control which brings the balance, the comfort and the extra quality that sets one performer above the other. In the ability to approach things coolly, to control every move and moment, lies the answer to better results.

ROSLIN

Roslin—On Friday evening the Woman's Auxiliary of St. Paul's Church, Roslin, entertained a number of neighboring societies in the hall. The president, Mrs. H. Sills welcomed the guests and presided for the following program: Opening hymn, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus"; violin solo by Mrs. Leslie Brady Tweed, with piano accompaniment; solo by Miss Betty Cross, "God's Tommorows".

The guest speaker, Miss Gladys Alyesworth Reg. N., of Madco, who is home on furlough from an outpost hospital in northern Saskatchewan, gave a talk and showed moving pictures taken in and around the hospital and the surrounding territory.

During, the short summer, growth is very rapid due to the many hours of sunlight.

Travel is mainly by plane, boat, snowmobile and dog team. The nurse in an outpost hospital, takes the place of a doctor for most cases, with one doctor on call for a large area of the north.

The Indians who make up the large per cent of the population move from one territory to another as their occupations change from hunting to fishing.

Death Rate Reduced

Due to the work of the nurses and outpost hospitals the death rate has been reduced.

In speaking of the Indians, she said, they have no eye to the future, and what they learn at school is not often put in practice in later life. After learning to sign their name they often revert to the old custom of their family an X and sign that way.

Rev. Mr. Gardam thanked the speaker for her enlightening talk and spoke on serving one's neighbors.

Mr. Wm. Alyesworth of Madoc favored with two solos, "The Publican" and "The Road to Mandalay"; Mrs. Reg. Va[illegible] gave a reading "It isn't the Church, it's You!"

At the conclusion of the program, refreshments were served by the hostess branch and a social time enjoyed.

Guests were present from Madoc, Tweed, Moneymore, Thomasburg and Roslin.

Relatives from here attended a reception on Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Collins, Belleville, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Max Collins who were married recently.

Report Calls for Greater Social Contact Between Black, White Population in Great Britain

LONDON (CP)—A report called "Colored Peoples in Britain," prepared by the Bow Group, an association of Conservative students in East End London, emphasizes the need in this country for greater social contact between black and white population.

A summary of the report was published in the Times, along with editorial-page recognition, and an article dealing with progress towards complete equality of the American Negro.

The report finds there has been a great surge of colored peoples to Britain since the Second World War. Mostly, they are congregated in seaport centres of London, Liverpool and Cardiff. They are largely comprised of seamen and students. Altogether, the report states, there are about 40,000 colored people of various races in the United Kingdom.

The Bow report observes that although the colored worker tends to be unstable he is, as a rule, more law-abiding than is supposed. It also found little evidence of any widespread prejudice against him on the part of employers or fellow employees.

The Times agrees more social contact between colored and white people is desirable. But, it says, one of the report's assumptions, that the problem of these people is intrinsically different than that of other peoples who come to the United Kingdom, is open to challenge.

Never Proved

The students' report also states a sharp decrease in colonial students coming to this country would be regrettable because their presence serves as a valuable link among the races of the Commonwealth.

The Times says: "This assumption should be true but it has never been proved. On the parallel case of visits of foreign students to the United States, John W. Gardner of the Carnegie Corporation, has some interesting things to say in the current issue of foreign affairs. He points out that 'at the heart of the whole question of the potentialities and limitations of students exchange is the fate of the student after he has returned home.'

"He asks whether the returned student enters upon a more constructive role in his own society as a result of his experience abroad, what is the effect upon his capacity for leadership and whether he is a stauncher friend of the United States than he might have been.

"Some questions can not be answered."

Summer Dream

By Irene Ernhart

"How long will he be gone?" It was silly to feel so desolate at the thought of Steve's being gone.

"A week, maybe longer."

She walked the length of the garden, staring with unseeing eyes at the rose hedges. The turf was like velvet and the smell of the roses like nectar. She came back to where her father was. "Steve was furious with me last night," she admitted, "but it wasn't my fault."

"Of course it wasn't your fault that you fell asleep. Steve knew that. But the thing he was thinking of, Laurie, was that if Mrs. Jenner or someone had happened to see you leaving his house at that hour of the morning, it wouldn't have looked very good. He was thinking of you, And himself. He's well liked and respected here in Ridgeville, and you know how small towns are. Well, I don't suppose you do."

"My dear child," her father said. He stood up, brushing the dirt from his hands and looking at her keenly. "You sound like a jealous woman."

"I'm not jealous."

"Considering the fact that you are engaged you seem singularly interested in Steve's relationship with Evelyn Crane."

"I'm not. But he had no right to say such things."

"Just what did Steve say that you resented?"

"He called me a nit-wit and a spoiled brat. He told me to go back to New York."

"Hmmm." She could see her father's mouth twitch as he patted her shoulder. "Well, I suppose Steve was upset. When he comes back he'll have forgotten all about it and so will you, and you can go on being friends. Maybe this week I can keep you entertained."

"No one needs to keep me entertained," Laurie said. "I love it here. There's something real about it. This is the way people ought to live, close to things, like you and your flowers for instance, and the river, and going swimming and fishing. I know I sound sort of incoherent. But I do love it."

"I know what you mean,, Laurie," her father returned thoughtfully, "but if you lived here year after year you'd miss your cocktail parties and all that. Although Steve and Evelyn do get up to the city for all the good stage shows and sometimes the symphony concerts in the winter when the roads are good. He has pretty cultured tastes."

"Steve's wonderful." It slipped out. She hadn't meant to say it at all.

The week dragged. Laurie wheedled Mrs. Jenner into trying to teach her how to cook. Some of the things Laurie tried turned out pretty well and one dreadful pie had to be thrown out.

She received a cablegram from Fletcher in London that week. He missed her dreadfully, but was having an elegant time. There were letters from her mother and Mark. They wondered what Laurie found to keep her occupied in such a dead place. They were going to the mountains for a few weeks. New York! It was another world. Fletcher! Someone she had known aeons ago. She had actually run away from him. She was only now beginning to realize it. And one ran away from things one didn't want to face. Had Steve run away from her?

Steve returned at the end of the week, more bronzed than ever, and he seemed as glad to see Laurie as she was to see him. He came up for dinner the first night he was home and told all about the trip. Later he and Laurie sat on the front porch as though they had never spoken angry words to each other. He told her about the book he was writing.

"Evelyn's typing each chapter as I get it finished. She thinks it sounds good. Of course, she doesn't know a great deal about the Civil War. She teaches home economics, you know."

The next day Laurie rummaged in her father's library for books about the Civil War. It became important all at once that she know something about it. Steve was interested in fly-tying, too, and she found a book on that subject and tried to understand it.

She was falling in love with Steve Wysong. It should have been obvious to her from the beginning, but it hadn't been. It was so difficult from any other time she had thought herself in love. It wasn't kisses and moonlight and words. It was just a confused, terrifying, painful longing every time she thought of Steve or was with him. This time it was real and sure and forever. And part of her confusion and pain lay in the fact that Steve behaved only friendly. Nothing more.

The weeks went by swiftly. Too swiftly. Laurie's father showed some of his roses in a flower show at Capitol City and brought home some blue ribbons. Steve's bird dog Cass had puppies. Evelyn Crane and Johnny came out to Steve's and Laurie and her father went down to join them for a swim and a wiener roast on the big sandbar by the swimming hole.

And then one day something happened that changed everything.

Steve, Laurie and her father had gone fishing. Louis French had left his daughter and Steve to fish up the river beside an old log. Steve sat with his hat tilted over his face and his head resting against the enormous trunk of an old sycamore tree.

"You know, Steve" Laurie said thoughtfully, "there's more to you than any man I've ever known. You're — so different somehow."

"I'll miss you, Laurie," 'Steve said. "You'll be leaving before long now I suppose."

She looked at him, reclining against the tree trunk, probably half asleep under that old hat and neither knowing or caring what turn the conversation took. "You won't' miss me," she said tonelessly.

"Yes I will, Laurie," he insisted. "There's more to you too than I ever dreamed. This summer has been wonderful. It's going to be downright boring without you around."

"You didn't' mean those things you said that ngiht, did you?"

"What things?"

"About my being a spoiled brat, and that I should go back to my own kind. What did you mean—'my own kind'?"

"Oh I don't know, Laurie, I've thought about that night a lot of times since, and I'm sorry I talked to you that way. If it's not too late, I apologize." He lifted his hat back and grinned at her.

"Do you remember the way you kissed me?'"

Steve's grin faded. He got up suddenly and went over and began to reel in the line of his fishing pole. "Yes," he said after a moment, "I remember that too."

"Oh, Steve!'" she cried. He turned around to look at her. She had picked up a stick and was marking in the soft moist sand. He stared at the three words.

"Laurie Loves Steve."

She had marked the words in the sand with the stick. It was a childish thing to have done.

"Laurie!" Steve stood looking down at her, shaking his head, but there was a look in his eyes that brought Laurie scrambling to her feet and into his arms.

Somewhere in the sycamore tree a bird flung out a few bright arpeggios of song.

"That I'm in love with you?" she asked incredulously.

"The whole thing's just impossible."

"What's impossible about it? Steve, I know now that you're the reason I came here this summer. I just had to come and much of you. That's why I went crazy about you that summer — that other summer—"

"You were sweet then too, Laurie. And I want you to know that this summer has meant a lot to me, except that I've realized that I was beginning to think too much of you. That's hy I went on that canoe trip—to get myself squared away."

"Just this Laurie." His voice turned grim suddenly. "It would be wrong for us to care too much about each other. I would never work. I'm older than you for one thing—10 years, and that's' too much. Besides, your world and mine are two different places."

"Take me into your world," she whispered. She felt frightened at Steve's earnestness.

"My world wouldn't be enough for you, Laurie. I couldn't give you any of the things you're used to, like mink coats, and servants, and trips to Europe—"

"I don't need those things, Steve."

"Maybe you think you don't, but they're an ingrained part of you. You've never had to do without anything."

It was fantastic that she and Steve should be standing here saying these things to each other when all she wanted was for him to hold her, to feel his lips against hers, his arms about her.

"You'd better go back to New York, Laurie." He said it heavily. "You said once you didn't want to make a mistake like your mother did. Don't you realize this would be exactly the same sort of a mistake?"

It came over her like thunder. He really wanted her to go back to New York. He didn't really love her. She had thrown herself at him, and he felt terribly, terribly sorry for her because he was the sort of a person who would. He was good and kind and tender and he hated to hurt her.

"You see, Laurie," Steve went on, gently now. "Once you're back in New York this will all seem like a dream to you — a summer dream."

The sun went under a cloud and the world seemed dark.

"This is something you'll get over, Laurie. It's a crazy unreasonable thing. You know it as well as I do." He took his forefinger and tipped up her chin and got out his handkerchief and daubed at her brimming eyes.

Crazy or unreasonable, maybe, she thought, but she wouldn't ever get over it. "If you thought anything at all of me, Steve, you couldn't send me away."

He was patient with her, as he would have been with one of his pupils in school. "Our marriage would be wonderful for a while, but then it would start going to pieces."

fter a long silence she gave him a wavery smile. So she'd made a fool of herself. She'd better pull herself together now. "Okay. If that's really the way you feel about it."

She reached out the toe of a small yellow sandal and scratched out the words she had written in the sand.

28 Bodies Found After Collision Of Two Buses

Drivers of Both Vehicles Killed in Head-on Crash

WACO, Tex. (AP)—Just how many persons died in the flaming hell that resulted when two Greyhound buses crashed south of here early yesterday remained a mystery today.

At least 28 bodies had been recovered from the charred shambles of the big 37-passenger highway liners, but a pile of charred flesh and bone remained for classification. Twenty-five persons were injured.

Heat from the flames was so intense that molten metal and glass poured in little streams across the cracked highway. Police believed some bodies were completely cremated.

Meanwhile, officials of the Greyhound lines, local police and the Texas department of public safety tried to find out what happened, and why.

Drivers Killed

The two speeding vehicles rammed together and burst into flames about 4 a. m. Two young drivers, Milburn Berry Herring, 24, and B. E. (Billy) Malone, 23, both among the dead, were piloting their vehicles through the pre-dawn blackness of central Texas.

A passenger, Mrs. Dora Daniels, 17, said somebody hollered, "look out!"

Then the buses hit.

"It sounded like thunder," Mrs. Daniels said. "it would blow up and then blow up again, one after another."

There was wild panic, horrible misery and death aboard the bus. Outside there was death in the blazing gasoline that spilled over U. S. Highway 81.

Wild Panic

Bodies were thrown burning from the buses by the force of the impact. Men, women and children tried vainly to get out small windows. The safety exit on one of the buses was jammed by the body of the other vehicle.

Passengers thrown clear of the shambles pulled screaming injured from the flames. But the fire enveloped the wreckage quickly. Bodies burned on the pavement and alongside the highway right-of-way.

Identification of the dead was being made by personal belongings more than any other way. Last night only six were identified.

Purse Identifies Four

A heroic Negro soldier, thrown clear of the wreckage, went back and kicked out windows and pulled at least two persons from the blazing bus. In the chaos nobody got his name.

BUDGIE DIES

HAMILTON (CP)—Pat, the budgie who refused to leave church, died Sunday. The three-month-old bird lived almost a week in the rafters of Christ's Church Cathedral, refusing to come down. Saturday he was found hopping about the floor of the cathedral by Rev. C. M. Andrews and returned to his owners. They gave Pat a shot of brandy and put him back in his cage. Sunday they found him dead.

United States Beats 'The Queen' Across Atlantic

NEW YORK (AP)—The liner United States reached New York harbor yesterday 10 hours and 40 minutes ahead of Britain's mammoth Queen Elizabeth on their first simultaneous crossing, but nobody said there was a race.

Dipped Ensigns

The two ships dipped their ensigns in salute as the United States went by.

"There wasn't any race, we just raced away from her," said Commodore Harry Manning, skipper of the United States, on his arrival here.

Manning said he never changed his speed of about 31 knots and the Elizabeth was making 28 to 29 knots.

A Cunard spokesman said the Elizabeth had never gone all-out on a crossing.

OJC Makes Cash Offer to Purchase Hamilton Track

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario Jockey Club has made a cash offer to buy the Hamilton Jockey Club, Limited.

It was announced today the deal can be completed only after two thirds of the shareholders of the Hamilton club agree and they have been given until Aug. 29 to decide. Directors of the club are recommending acceptance of the offer.

Last month the Ontario Jockey Club announced purchase of the racetrack at Fort Erie. The club has agreed to purchase, later this year, the Stamford Park Track at Niagara Falls, Ont.

70 days racing

A club statement said acquisition of these tracks, plus operation of a proposed new track "on a site which will be readily accessible to the people of Hamilton, Toronto and other nearby communities," will allow racing for 70 days each year on tracks under the club's jurisdiction.

"While it is planned to utilize the major part of these days for racing at the new track, the Fort Erie track will be modernized and expanded and racing will be conducted there during the mid-summer months."

The statement said meetings at the new track, the site of which was not disclosed, will be held in the spring and in the fall and will be "of a longer duration than those now conducted at Hamilton and Woodbine."

Shares in the Ontario Jockey Club will be offered to the public in September.

MAN SEEKING HELP FLAGS DOWN GETAWAY CAR

Bandits Take $5,000 From Drive-In Theatre

HAMILTON (CP)—A young man jumped on the running board of an old-model car early today and said to the driver:

With Marcel Monjeon still on the running board, the driver headed the car for the Clappison drive-in theatre.

A stranger appeared at the door of the living quarters occupied by Monjoen and his wife and Monjoen's wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Dydzak, and spoke to the driver of the car.

Too late, Monjoen realized he had flagged down a getaway car waiting for the four armed men who were raiding the theatre.

On his return to the building, Moenjoen, who had slipped away to get help after hearing the thieves order his father-in-law to hand over his money, found his wife struggling with one of the intruders. He swung at the man but was knocked unconscious with a gun butt. The thieves fled in the car.

Dydzak, manager of the theatre at nearby Clappison's Corners, said the bandits forced him to open the safe and took week-end receipts of more than $5,000.

Three Ringleaders Are Arraigned For Kidnapping

JACKSON, Mich. (AP)—Three ringleaders in the April [illegible] southern Michigan prison were arraigned yesterday on kidnap charges and threw municipal court into an uproar.

The trio—"Crazy" Jack Hyatt, 28, of Leamington, Ont.; Earl Ward, 38; and James W. Hudson, 44—were arraigned on formal charges of kidnapping prison guards during the riot.

Hyatt, referring disparagingly to "Michigan justice," demanded a lawyer. Ward became infuriated when judge M. Grove Hatch informed him he was remanded to the custody of the warden until his examination.

"I see I'm faced with an obstinate individual," sneered the convict. "This is a fine fourt of justice. Whose pay are you in?"

RAIL CONCILIATION

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor Minister Gregg announced last night a conciliation board is being named in an effort to settle the multi-million-dollar wage-labor negotiations affecting 125, 000nn-ooperating railway workers. He has asked that one representative be nominated by the workers and one by the railways and expressed the hope that these two spokesmen will then be able to pick a third man as a chairman.

DEFIANCE SPREADS

PRETORIA, South Africa (Reuters)—The defiance campaign against segregation laws spread here yesterday with the arrest of 20 African natives and one Indian on charges of breaking "whites only" restrictions in a railway station. The campaign, organized by national organizations of Africans and Indians, has resulted in the arrests of hundreds in the last three weeks.

Hitch-Hiking Sergeant on First Jet Plane Ride Had to Take Controls

WITH U.S. FIFTH AIR FORCE, Korea. (AP)—A hitch-hiking air force master sergeant on his first jet plane ride recently found himself piloting the swift two-seat craft.

The sergeant had to take over the controls of the T-33 jet when the pilot passed out from lack of oxygen, the air force said yesterday. He flew the training ship until the engine quit. He then manoeuvred it carefully down to a level where the pilot regained consciousness.

Master Sgt. Charles E. Hilt, 31, never had been in a jet until he hitch-hiked a ride from Korea to Japan in the T-33 flown by Lieut. Robert W. Macduff.

They were buzzing along at 500 miles an hour 37,000 feet up when Macduff asked Hilt to hold the auxiliary control stick in the rear seat while the pilot worked a navigational problem.

"All I knew was that if you push forward on the stick you go down and if you pull back you go up," says Hilt. "I held to the course the pilot was flying."

The pilot's head nodded forward didn't realize that the pilot was undergoing convulsions caused by oxygen starvation and was unconscious.

But when Macduff failed to answer over the radio Hilt got worried. And he realized he had just become pilot of a 500-mile-an-hour jet. Then the engine quit.

But Hilt maintained control and by trial and error determined the slowest possible rate of descent.

At about 13,000 feet Macduff came to take over, got the engine restarted at 6,000 feet and landed safely.

Valuable Books Line Corridors Of Parliament to Dry After Soaking in Library Fire

OTTAWA (CP)—Multi-colored book covers today made a bright mosaic of the corridors of the Parliament buildings. They were strung along the stone hallways to dry after a 12-hour soaking from fire hoses as firemen fought a stubborn blaze in the roof of the 85-year-old building.

It will be days before the damage to the valuable book collection can be assessed. Most of it was caused by water cascading into the circular chamber from the high-domed roof where fire broke out early yesterday.

Worst Since 1916

The fire, most serious since a 1916 blaze razed the main block of the Parliament buildings except the library, sent three firemen to hospital. Two were overcome by smoke and a third, George deBellefeuille, required 22 stitches to close a head wound caused by a piece of falling masonry.

The firemen kept the blaze confined to the base of a spire which surmounts the stone-walled library wing facing the Ottawa River behind the Peace Tower. They quelled the flames after 12 hours of effort.

However, the library wing remained roped off inside the buildings because of the danger that the 15-foot, iron weather vane may fall through the weakened roof, bringing with it a huge cement cap at the top of the dome.

Many of the 500,000 to 1,000,000 books, periodicals and newspaper files were undamaged. But many others suffered from the water which rose three inches deep on the wooden floor of the library chamber.

Valuables Escape Damage

A senior library official, Robert M. Hamilton, said it will take time to sort out the damage. One book that apparently escaped serious injury was an original collection of bird paintings by the famous naturalist Audubon. Also saved was the painting "The Two Water Mills" by Hobbema, a present from the Netherlands government.

But librarians will work for days to see if other valuable items are intact, including reports of some of the first debates of the legislatures before Canada became a dominion.

Public works crews were ordered to make an appraisal of the damaged roof where copper sheathing hampered firemen's efforts during the height of the blaze. They will bolster it if possible.

Early reports said the blaze was started by a short circuit in the electric wiring but Fire Chief Gray Burnett said he isn't sure that was the cause. He said there wasn't much chance of sabotage, the suspected cause of the 1916 blaze that claimed seven lives.

Left in Woods Seven Days Without Food, Survives Ordeal

PRINCE RUPERT, B. C. (CP)—The terrifying ordeal of seven days in a wilderness without food is over for a Langley Prairie, B. C., prospector-farmer.

Arthur Cameron, 47, was brought out of the desolate country 22 miles north of Stewart, B. C., last night by his partner W. T. (Bill) Rowe of Vancouver who left him there a week ago without food. Stewart is about 120 miles north of here.

Rowe staggered out of the forest near Stewart last Friday. He said he had left Cameron beside the American River five days before without food.

Slipped, Lost Food

The two men had been prospecting in the mountains of that area when Cameron slipped coming down a steep mountainslope and lost his food pack.

For days the men only had half rations. When they arrived at the American River all the food was gone.

Cameron said he could go no further. Rowe started a fire, then fought his way through wooded mountainous country to civilization.

Found By Land Party

Rowe, more or less recovered from his ordeal, immediately set out with another man to bring in his partner as soon as he heard he was alive.

Cameron was taken to Stewart and was due to be flown to hospital here.

Five Members of One Family Killed by Train at Pembroke

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The end of the three-day Civic Holiday week-end found 28 persons killed in Eastern Canada. Traffic accidents accounted for 17 deaths and eight persons were drowned.

There were 18 fatal accidents in Ontario, four in Quebec, three in New Brunswick, two in Nova Scotia and one in Newfoundland.

Five In Family Die

Five members of one family were killed near Pembroke, Ont., when their car was struck by a train at a level crossing and two young brothers were drowned together at the resort of Wasaga Beach on Georgian Bay.

This week-end's tragedy toll was relatively low compared with many other week-ends. Last week 31 persons were killed in the six eastern provinces.

Shopping Trip

A level-crossing accident at Petawawa village, 10 miles north of Pembroke, brought a tragic end to a shopping trip.

Percy Touseant, 30; his wife, Evelyn, 25; and their three sons, Nelson, 5, Leonard, 3, and Edward, 2, were killed. A daughter, Idella, 7, suffered broken legs, chest and internal injuries.

The family had been shopping after visiting relatives when Mr. Touseant drove his automobile into the path of a slow-moving freight train at an unguarded level crossing.

Mrs. Touseant and her youngest son died on the spot. The other two boys died shortly after an army ambulance from Camp Petawawa brought them here to hospital. The father died six hours after the accident.

Other Traffic Deaths

Others killed in Ontario traffic accidents were: Arthur Williams, 22, of Roseland, near Windsor; William E. Shipway, 62, of Toronto near his home; Ross Armstrong, 28, of Cardinal, at Brockville; Charles J. Dagneau, 54, near his home in Chatham; Stephen Marynuk, of Sudbury, at Bracebridge.

Ontario drownings: Clark Stevenson, 2, in the Saugeen River at Mount Forest; Richard, 4, and Jack Carr, 5, of Toronto at Wasaga Beach; Thomas B. Lane, 49, of Kilworthy in Kahshe Lake near Bracebridge; Francis Gouthro, 22, of Glace Bay, N.S., at Toronto; Ernest Redner, 72, of Rednersville in the Bay of Quinte.

Police Arrest 84 Students Of Native College

CAPETOWN, South Africa (AP)—Police arrested 84 students of a native college in Bensonville, in eastern Cape Province, following a riot caused by the dismissal of a native teacher, it was reported here today.

The 84, who ranged in age from 13 to 26, were arrested early yesterday in nearby mountains to which they had fled when police arrived to quell the riot.

Police reported that all the college's thatched-roof buildings were destroyed by fire during the demonstration, which broke out Sunday night. Windows were smashed and most of the college's food supplies destroyed.

LEWIS SERVES NOTICE CONTRACTS END NEXT MONTH

Industry-Throttling Strike May Result

WASHINGTON (AP)—The spectre of another industry-throttling strike before the steel mills of the United States have had a chance to get back to full production arose today as John L. Lewis served notice that his United Mine Workers' contracts are ending next month.

Lewis, president of the Mine Workers' Union, wrote Joseph E. Moody, president of the Southern Coal Producers' Association, that his work contract will expire Sept. 30.

Sixty Days Notice

That's 60 days from the date on Lewis' letter. Terms of the existing contract provide termination upon 60 days' notice by either side.

The notice to Moody, following by 10 days' similar word to the Bituminous Coal Operators' Association, is certain to mean a shutdown of all but a small portion of soft coal mining by the end of next month unless Lewis, Moody and Harry M. Moses agree on new contract terms. Moses heads the Bituminous Operators' Association.

Lewis, it was also learned yesterday, has served contract-termination notice on the anthracite (hard-coal) industry, which employs 100,000 miners. Bituminous diggers number 450,000.

In the last 10 years or more, Lewis and the soft-coal operators have reached a contract agreement without a strike or slowdown only twice—in 1948 and 1951.

Industry Depressed

The coal industry as a whole is said to be in a depressed economic position. Exports have not lived up to hopes; the steel strike has weakened demand; and the present soft-coal stockpile is one of the highest ever.

Lewis is considered likely to demand an increase at least the size of that won by the C. I. O. steelworkers last month—21 cents an hour.

Basic daily minimum wage in the bituminous fields is $16.35, plus overtime or other extras which bring the average close to $18 a day. Anthracite workers average a little more than $17.

Marine Jet Pilot Shows Courage In Landing Plane

WITH THE MARINE AIRCRAFT WING, Korea (AP)—A marine jet pilot with a shattered arm made a one-wheeled landing with an unexploded bomb dangling from his crippled plane.

Capt. Edward Shamis, 28, of Pensacola, Fla., has been recommended for the bronze star for his heroic action, the Marine Corps said today.

Shamis, wounded by anti-aircraft fire after a bombing run, made his way to a distant field.

"Evidently the shell that got me had also torn up my landing-gear system," Shamis said, "I still had one bomb left, and believe me I prayed the wheel that was down was the side the bomb hung on.

"I put her down on the deck and for awhile that one wheel held up. But when my air speed got low, the plane fell on the wing with no wheel."

SEED FIRM HEAD DIES

TORONTO (CP)—Thomas Rennie, 83, president of William Rennie Seeds Limited, died yesterday. He was past president of the Ontario Curling Association, a trustee of the Dominion Curling championships and a past president of the Canadian Seniors' Golf Association.

Family Nurses Wounded Grizzlies, Makes Pets of Other Bears, Animals

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mr. and Mrs. James Stanton nurse wounded grizzlies and make pets of other bears.

At their home on Knight Inlet, 150 miles northeast of here, wild animals have the run of the place, digging for roots close to the house, tramping across the front porch and snoring loudly at night outside a bedroom window.

At one time this summer 27 grizzlies were digging for roots by the house.

Some years ago friends presented the Stantons with some south sea pigs. For almost seven years bears and pigs rooted and fed together, but the pigs rapidly increased because neither the grizzlies nor the Stantons could bear to eat the pet porkers. Jim and Laurel Stanton nearly went broke feeding them. Finally they reluctantly called in friends to do the slaughtering.

The Stantons have always been that way about animals. Mrs. Stanton buys crushed oats for the deer they winter each year, but the Canada Goose, rescued with a frozen leg, prefers rolled oats and milk. Occasionally its flies about the living-room.

Blue herons and three generations of eagles nest nearby and are fed on the beach in front of the house. They have three raccoons as pets, too.

Four Enemy Jets Shot Down, Six Damaged in Korea

78 North Korean Towns Warned of U.N. Air Raids

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — The United States Fifth Air Force said today U.S. Sabre pilots shot down four Communist jets and damaged six in aerial dog fights over North Korea today.

The smashing United Nations air victory announcement came only a few hours after the U.N. said it had warned 78 North Korean towns housing communist military installations that they are doomed and advised civilians tog eet out in advance of air raids.

Four Air Battles

The air force said Sabre pilots destroyed four MIGs and damaged five in four separate flights. The sixth MIG was hit by an F-84 Thunder-jet pilot. The red fighters ventured farther south than they had in recent months.

The program of heralding air raids is designed to spare non-combatant lives. It also has the effect of flaunting the allied air superiority over the Communist North Korean and Chinese commands.

At least two of the forewarned towns have been hit.

Lt.-Gen. Glenn O. Barcus, United States fifth air force commander, said the warning program has been underway in Korea since mid-July. Millions of leaflets telling of future bombings have been dropped by B-29s flying out of Okinawa and Japan.

Shortly before an attack begins, Radio Seoul advises the civilians in the target area to get out immediately. The broadcasts continue right up until the time the attack begins.

The bold program was announced as fifth air force fighter-bombers swept central and eastern North Korea Tuesday morning, bombing and shooting up targets behind Communist front lines. Pilots reported destruction or damage to 24 rail cars, nine buildings, a supply dump and one vehicle.

Little Ground Action

Fighting along the ground front was limited to small-scale skirmishes. A front-line officer reported no contact during the night with Reds in the vicinity of the western front hill Old Baldy, the battleline's hottest spot in the last few weeks.

U.N. naval headquarters in Tokyo said the British light cruiser Belfast was hit by a Communist shore battery Sunday while shelling in the vicinity of the west coast port of Chinnampo. The ship suffered only minor damage and was able to continue its patrol duty.

The program of warnings of air bombings seemingly was aimed also at counteracting Communist propaganda outcries against what the Reds claim were "wanton bombings" of women and children.

Ernest E. Redner Drowned in Bay While Fishing

Losing his balance as he pulled up an anchor while fishing from a boat off the Rednersville dock, Ernest Everett Redner, 72, of Rednersville, was drowned in the Bay of Quinte late Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Redner was fishing from a boat about 50 feet out from the dock. He was seen to stand up and pull in the anchor, then apparently lose his balance and fall into the water. He re-appeared at the surface and swam a few strokes and then sank into about 20 feet of water.

Belleville firemen were called and dragged for about an hour before the body was recovered. An inhalator was then used for about 15 minutes but he was pronounced dead by Coroner Dr. R. A. Thompson. There will be no inquest.

Mr. Redner was born at Rednersville, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Redner and had lived in the district all his life. He was a retired farmer and was a member of the Rednersville United Church. His wife, the former Blanche E. Peck, died in 1926.

He is survived by three sons, James Carrol Redner and William Bernard Redner, both of Rednersville, and Robert Keith Redner, of Colborne.

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Marion Joyce Ellison, 21, today was charged with murder in the strangling early today of her second son, Robert William Ellison, age five months.

Mrs. Ellison was remanded to Aug. 12. For her court appearance she wore a green sweater and a pink print dress.

City and District News

TRAFFIC HEAVY THROUGH CITY OVER WEEKEND

Traffic was exceptionally heavy through the city during the holiday weekend Officer Bill Evans of the local force reports, a great deal of traffic passed the four corners.

Yesterday was really the day for cars. There were probably more autos on the road then than throughout the whole weekend according to the policeman. The greater percentage of these were American cars headed east.

Despite the heavy traffic and the bad weather, accidents were at a minimum.

PAIR OF SHOES FOUND ON STREET

Who is walking around the city minus a pair of shoes? Sunday was a hot day as anyone will admit and as a result the tar on Dundas Street East became sticky. About three p.m. that day, a pedestrian found a pair of shoes, black in color and slightly worn, one in the middle of the road and the other near the sidewalk, held firmly there by tar.

The pedestrian, George Stouble visiting the city from Lake City, Florida suggested the shoes might have been placed there on purpose to indicate residents in the area are not too happy about the condition of the road.

SUNDAY EVENING ONE OF PRETTIEST OF THE YEAR

Nature is always news. People frequently find time to discuss the weather, its beauty, its power and its majesty. Sunday night was probably one of the prettiest evenings of the year.

Shortly after 8:00 p.m. a massive moon began its clumb into the heavens, bathing the entire city in its glow. Across the bay, a shimmering path of gold stretched to the horizon.

Even the heat of the day faded. It was truly a beautiful evening for those who noticed.

POLICE, FIREMEN TO STAGE SOFTBALL GAME AT FAIRGROUNDS

The Provincial Police and the local Firemen are at it again. Tonight at seven o'clock at the fair grounds, these softball squads will meet and the fur is likely to fly. The Police have not recovered from the beating they received in hockey last winter and are out to retrieve some of their lost glory. The Firemen on the other hand have been practising faithfully on their diamond at the back of the Fire Hall and are ready for the limbs of the law. The umpires have not been selected as yet and the arbiter wants to have all the answers ready because likely every decision that is made will bring an argument from one side or the other. These squads play good softball and it would be worth while to travel up to the fair grounds to have a look.

Bus Company Employees Hold Picnic at Cobourg

The employees of the Rawson Bus Company held their annual picnic at Cobourg last Sunday. Transportation and refreshments were handled by the company manager, Fred Rawson.

With the exception of those drivers working the city route Sunday, all employees were in attendance. Feature events at the picnic were a tug-o-war, races, swimming and ball games. Art Emerson, a former employee of the company umpired the ball games.

Percy Lewington, veteran driver for the company, drove the bus load of employees to the picnic site. En route from the beach on the return journey the picnickers dropped in for a visit with Mrs. Amy Rawson, mother of all Rawson Bus employees. Mrs. Rawson is presently holidaying at her cottage on the lake.

Four Accidents Mar Holiday Traffic Picture

In a rear end collision on 62 Highway, 13 miles south of Bancroft, Thorold Sutherland, 50, Carleton Place, sustained severe multiple face injuries and shock after his car collided with one driven by Reggie Carroll, Steenburg. Both cars were travelling north when the collision occurred as the Sutherland car was overtaking the other, causing the latter to lose control. His car then crossed the highway and mounted a rock cut before rolling on its side. Dr. F. R. Ross, Belleville, passing the scene on a holiday trip, rendered first aid and rushed the injured man to hospital.

Mr. Sutherland was bound for a weekend fishing trip and was alone in his car at the time. His car was badly damaged while the other car received only minor damage. Sutherland has been charged with careless driving.

A collision seven miles north of Bancroft on No. 62 Highway between two cars driven by Wilfred Evans, 56, of Brantford, and Albert Harte-Maxwell, 27, 188 Douro Street, Peterborough, wrecked both cars and caused injuries to Mrs. Mamie Evans and Harte-Maxwell. Mrs. Evans lost two front teeth and suffered cuts to the face. Mr. Harte-Maxwell, driving alone at the time, sustained bruises and face cuts. Both parties received medical attention at Bancroft and were allowed to go home.

The accident occurred on a straight road which is under construction at the present time. Evans was charged with two infractions of the Highway Traffic Act.

A minor accident on No. 62 Highway at Maple Leaf resulted in slight damage to cars driven by Earl Allison, 19, Maple Leaf and Raymond Hickey, 20, of Oshawa. No charges were laid.

Leonard Stewart, 20, Maynooth driving alone in his car early Sunday morning, lost control and struck the ditch, colliding with a telephone pole and breaking it. The pole came to rest on the roof of the car causing slight damage.

A charge of careless driving was laid against Stewart. He was unhurt in the accident.

All four accidents were investigated by O.P.P. officers John Hawkins and John Hutchinson who reported a busy evening.

Chinese Nationalists Quit Red Cross Conference

Saying that the Red Cross conference in Toronto had been turned into a political forum of the worst sort by the Communist delegates, Chinese Nationalist representative, Dr. J. Hang Liu, centre, gathered up his documents and, with his two aides, withdrew from the conference. He and his delegation had remained silent for most of the eight days in which they were in attendance in spite of a volley of abuse from the Red delegation. — Central Press Canadian.

Geraldine Gill Wins Amateur Contest at Carnival

Little Geraldine Gill, age 9, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Gill, 149 1-2 Bridge Street, W., was the winner of the amateur contest held in conjunction with the Kinsmen street carnival which wound up Saturday night after a four day run.

As the contest winner, Geraldine wins the free trip to New York for a television audition on the Ted Mack television program. Second place winner was John Raymond, baritone, of the RCAF, who won the Hamilton trip. All other finalists of the amateur show received cash prizes.

It was nip and tuck between the nine-year-old Gill girl and Raymond as to which was to get first place and the trip to New York. And even the applause meter used to place the contestants had then both tied for the honor. On a re-try the little girl sang her way into the hearts of her listeners and nudged out Raymond for the first prize.

Other contestants competing in the finals were Robert Burke, Helen Gill, Donald Butcher, Misses Leila and Donna McCall of Wooler, Jack and Emmett McPartlin of Trenton who did a piano duet, Susanne Cavers, and Buddy French.

Both the amateur contest and the street carnival were declared successful events by Kinsmen members. Proceeds of the carnival will go to the community swimming pool.

Girl Painfully Injured, Hook Catches in Eye

A 12-year-old girl is in Belleville General Hospital today following a fishing accident several miles north of this city yesterday. Ann McClatchie, holidaying in the area from Delhi, Ontario, was caught in the eye by a fish hook.

Hospital authorities report the hook penetrated the eye ball and came out again barb and all. The young girl was rushed to Belleville General Hospital early yesterday morning and emergency surgery was done to remove the hook.

The doctor in charge of the patient reports it is too soon to judge what damage may have been done to the eye.

Man Blows Self Up

OWENSBORO, Ky. (AP)—Wilbur Hicks, 32, blew himself up with an explosive in a tavern last night after telling his wife she could have a divorce.

The blast, which killed Hicks instantly, injured his wife and Harold Feldman, 32. The latter was sitting in a booth.

Officials said Hicks had hidden a half stick of dynamite or some other explosive in his belt under his shirt. It was set off when Hicks touched a wire wrapped around the explosive to a flashlight battery in his pocket.

Several Highway Accidents Injure Several Persons, Two Seriously

Provincial police were kept busy over the weekend investigating numerous highway accidents that sent at least half a dozen persons to hospital with injuries. Fortunately there were no fatalities and there were no reports of critical injuries although two persons were seriously injured.

Six-year-old Russell Huffman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Huffman, Milltown, suffered fractures of both arms and a broken leg when he was struck Saturday night by a car as he was crossing the highway.

The little lad was running across the highway when he is reported to have slipped and was struck by a car driven by Gordon Poitras, 281 William Street, Belleville. The boy was taken to hospital in Bush's ambulance.

Mrs. Jeanie McNay, Port Colborne, and Elsie Miller of Mille Rosches, near Cornwall, are in hospital with injuries suffered Monday in a three-car accident on highway No. 2 west of the city. Mrs. McNay suffered a severe cut on the head when she crashed into the windshield, while Mrs. Miller received bruises. Mrs. McNay went to hospital in Thompson's ambulance.

Mrs. Miller was eastbound when she was overtaken by a car driven by Charles Radford, Toronto. The Radford car went to pass but was forced back in line by approaching traffic. The Radford auto bumped the Miller car which went out of control and collided with the approaching McNay auto.

Two persons went to hospital from an accident occurring near Marysville Sunday afternoon. A car driven by John Lewis, R. R. 5, Picton, went out of control and turned twice end over end coming to rest against a tree. All five occupants of the car were thrown out of the rolling vehicle. Admitted to hospital were Miss Bessie Tinney of Deseronto and Russell Green, West Lake.

At Foxboro a car driven by Walter Fox, Murray township and a provincial police cruiser driven by Constable J. McBride, collided at the north end of the village. Fox was southbound on No. 14 and swung wide on the curve crashing into the police cruiser.

Also at Foxboro four Peterborough men came to grief when their car went out of control on a curve near the river. The men, Frank, Bill and Percy Jones, and William Leonard, coming to Belleville for the bowling tournament, arrived at the greens in the police cruiser.

On No. 7 highway east of Madoc a car driven by J. D. Phippen went out of control and a passenger Ivan Menenck, Toronto, received slight injuries.

SEOUL, Korea (CP)—Flt. Lt. A. Lafrance of Loretteville, Que., RCAF exchange pilot with the United States Air Force, was listed among those Sabre jet pilots credited with Communist kills today in air battles a few miles north of the 38th parallel.

The Sabre jets intercepted 14 Communist Russian-built MIGs four were shot down and damaged, the air force announced.

HOUSING No. 16-A

SERVICING OF NEW AREAS

To service a new area of land for Home purposes, as you know, requires not only planning, grading, sewers, water, roads, and walks, but educational facilities.

Until recent years land was subdivided to provide building lots and roads. Municipalities constructed the services necessary for the new home owners under a local improvement plan and generally everybody concerned was happy.

We are being told every day that "Our standard of living" is higher, that we are better educated — but the purchaser of a new home finds he not only has difficulty making the necessary down payment but is unable to meet the carrying charges.

If the complete answer was "Defence" no one would seriously object. One might beef but still be happy about it.

"Defence Expenditures" is not the answer. Although it does add to our troubles it is only in a comparatively slight degree.

Generally we are all better off. The average man is earning a living easier than he used to, but we cannot house our people in a normal way.

The government now is loaded down with Subsidized Pork. Shortly the Government will load down those municipalities that encourage it with Subsidized Housing.

It is not equitable for the Federal Government to draw taxes from municipalities to pay off the National debt and thereby force municipalities to plunge further into debt or do without necessities.

A refund, not a loan or grant from Ottawa to the Municipalities direct or through the Provincial Government, proportionate to the tax already extracted, for the moment at least, appears to be the first logical step.

TORONTO STOCKS

Trading started actively but slowed down after the first hour. Volume for the first three hours — 1,353,000 shares — was larger than in any similar period for weeks.

Base metals opened strongly, then continued to advance cautiously. Activity was great in East Rim and Sherritt Gordon, both of which traded about 20,000 shares and gained pennies. American Yukon traded actively for a fractional loss.

Industrial trading was moderate and many prices remained unchanged. Papers, agricultures and miscellaneous industrials showed strength and most others were mixed. Manufacturing and liquors dipped.

Several secondary gold issues were active and moved upward but losses in leading issues outnumbered gains. Anglo Rouyn, a junior producer, traded more than 50,000 shares in the first three hours for a gain of pennies. Senior golds were firm.

Losses in western oils were slightly higher than gains as trading covered a broad list of issues.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario Stockyards cattle prices today held steady on heifers, cows, bulls and stockers while steers and fed yearlings sold strong. Receipts: cattle 4,850; calves 500; hogs 650; sheep and lambs 250. The leftover from last week was 50 cattle. Included in fresh receipts were 1,180 westerns, mostly stockers.

Choice steers sold at $27.50-28.25 with a few tops at $28.50 and medium to good steers at $26-27. Good heifers brought $5.50-$26.25 while good cows sold at $18-20. A few good heavy bulls were at $16-18. Choice fed yearlings sold at $27.50-28.50 while medium to good stockers were selling at $24-25.50.

Hogs were $26 for grade A with sow prices not established.

Confessed Slayer Pays Penalty

VANCOUVER (CP)—Iron-nerved to the last, confessed slayer Arthur Bruce Cunningham, 65, was hanged at Oakalla prison farm today.

The rap was sprung at 6.03 a.m., PDT and he was pronounced dead 15 minutes later.

Cunningham, the second man in Canadian legal history to plead guilty to a murder charge, walked steadily and with head high to the gallows, showing no emotion.

Cunningham pleaded guilty May 12 at Prince Rupert, B.C., to a charge of murdering Albert Thorsen, 70-year-old farmer, at Endako, B.C., Oct. 2. Police said Thorsen had been killed in his lonely cabin for the $40 he had. The only previous case of a guilty plea to a murder charge occurred in Ontario in 1935.

ADMITS 1941 slaying

While waiting for his requested appointmentt on the gallows, Cunningham told prison officials that he was guilty of a 1941 murder at Prince George for which he was tried but acquitted.

He said he had spent 21 years of is life in jail and added in a conversation with Warden Hugh Christie that he "got a little harder after each prison term and would kill a man again for his pay cheque."

Cunningham's last meal was a steak dinner. He refused breakfast and played cards with his guards until a few minutes before the execution.

A bachelor with no known relatives, Cunningham refused to see visitors, even a former neighbor who went to the prison yesterday.

He declined to talk with a clergyman and walked to the scaffold unaided with steady, measured steps.

He was the hardest man we've ever had in here," said Deputy Warden J. McLeod.

Don Jail Guard Given Two Years

Morrison, 30-year-old Scottish immigrant who was on the jail staff three months, said in a statement Jackson asked him to smuggle in guns for an escape attempt and he agreed.

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP)—If those alleged "flying saucers" were ships from our outer space, they'd have to be manned by chaps with tolerant wives.

Round-trip travel to the earth from Mars and Venus—the only two planets in our solar system given even an outside chance of supporting life — would involve nearly three years for the Martians, just over two years for the Venutians.

And they'd have to spend that much time away from the wife and kids even though they had space ships capable of travelling at a 25,000-mile-an-hour clip!

Just suppose, for a minute, that Mars and Venus were populated by some kind of intelligent beings capable of launching a spaceship—saucer-shaped or what-have-you—and that they wanted to do some fancy spying on the earth.

While venus is "only" 25,000,000 miles from the earth at its closest approach to our planet—just a breeze, you might say, for a spaceship travelling 25,000 miles an hour—there would be much more to the problem than that.

Venus makes such a "close" approach only once in every 470 days; meanwhile, in its orbit around the sun, it gets as far away as 160,000,000 miles from the earth.

Anti-Corruption Drive in Egypt Gets Under Way

CAIRO, (AP)—Egypt's anti-corruption drive got under way officially today as Premier Aly Maher set up two commissions to probe bribery, graft and unlawful profits by government officials.

At the same time, the powerful Wafdist party — which governed Egypt during most of the time the official stealing is supposed to have taken place — launched a purge of its own ranks. It kicked out nine members, three of them former cabinet ministers, and set up a party commission to examine "any complaint brought against the probity of any Wafd member."

Maher, chosen "purge" premier by the army following its coup which led to the abdication of King Farouk, in two separate decrees last night.

1. Set up a commission of career judges to "investigate and punish administrative offences by government employees."

2. Ordered "all responsible officials or officials filling representative posts" to submit a full statement of their income to a second commission before the end of the year. If an official's income increases after he takes office, he retroactive.

The second decree also applies to officials' wives and to officials who have resigned since 1939. It specifically stated, however, that punishment will be administered only for misdeeds committed in the future and will not be applied

200 BOMBS WASHED UP

Negro Gambling Boss Killed From Ambush

CHICAGO (AP)—Theodore Roe, wealthy Negro gambling boss, was killed from ambush last night by assassins who blasted him with shotgun slugs when he stepped from his south side apartment.

Roe, 53, a reputed millionaire and last of the old guard to resist syndicate control over the lucrative south side policy wheel racket, was hit from fairly close range twice in the chest and once in the neck. He died soon after arrival at a hospital.

Police found four spent shotgun shell cases on the ground behind a signboard south of Roe's apartment building. Joseph Turner, an attendant at a nearby filling station, said he saw three white men in a car parked behind the signboard about 20 minutes before the shots were fired.

Kidnappings and threats were enough to drive other leaders from the multi-million-dollar policy racket when the syndicate started moving in, but Roe stayed on.

On June 18, 1951, Roe shot and killed Leonard (Fat Lenny) Caifano, a west side hoodlum. He contended he shot in self-defence when Caifano and three companions tried to kidnap him.

Roe and two others were acquitted last February of charges of conspiracy to violate the law by operating the games, a numbers racket in the form of a lottery.

These were filled in yesterday as the Star ran Brown's hand-writt-n obituary: age, 75; date, Aug. 4, 1952, at 11:30 a.m.

Mostly a Case Of Too Little And Too Late

CHICAGO (AP)—Light rain fell in parts of the United States' southern and eastern drought areas today, but it was mostly a case of too little and too late.

The drought that began n mid-June already has destroyed more than $500,000,000 worth of pastures and corn, tobacco, cotton, and vegetable crops. Farmers, faced with burnt-out grazing lands, have dumped cattle on the market by the thousands.

Rainmakers Ready

Professional rainmakers were ready to try their hand at bringing moisture to the drying tobacco and vegetable crops of Connecticut. Stationed in the hills went of the Connecticut valley, they were prepared to fire rain-producing crystals into the sky. They were awaiting favorable conditions—the presence of moisture-bearing clouds.

The U.S. department of agriculture summoned its agents from eight drought-disaster states, plus Texas and Oklahoma, to meet in Atlanta, Ga. Wednesday and Thursday. Plans will be worked out for getting immediate government loans to farmers to buy feed and replant crops wherever possible.

68 Soldiers Tried to Start Army Walkout

BRUSSELS (AP) — Sixty-eight Belgian soldiers made off with five trucks last night and tried to start an army walkout against the new two-year conscription term. When they couldn't attract reinforcements, they surrendered.

Shouting against the 24-month draft period and singing the Communist "Internationale," the freedom-seekers drove at full speed into the night from their training camp at Casteau, near Mons.

They went first to Mons for reinforcements. Soldiers in the barracks there would have no part of them. It was the same story at Tournai.

Finally, on the road to Charleroi, four of the truckloads surrendered at a police barricade. The fifth returned to camp and surrendered to military police.

The incident was one of many in southern and eastern Belgium during the last two weeks. They were blamed on the active Socialist and Communist fight against the 24-month conscription term pushed through by the conservative Social Christian government.

SLAYER SOUGHT

FOLCALQUIER, France. (Reuters)—Police today sought a slayer who murdered a man and his wife in their camper's tent last night in a hall of machine-gun fire.

The victims have not been identified—their pockets were rifled o fall identification—though it is believed they were foreign tourists.

AN UNJUST CHARGE

It is hoped that the editorial appearing in the Manchester Guardian which said Canada should "give up the posture of Olympian detachment she has lately assumed in Commonwealth affairs" does not reflect the considered opinion of the residents of Britain. This editorial comment followed an announcement made earlier by Prime Minister Churchill who said he would call a meeting of Commonwealth prime ministers for a conference on trade and economic matters.

It is Canada's proud boast that its per capita contribution toward the war was one of the greatest of any nation. Similarly, Canada has assisted England with outright gifts totalling billions of dollars. Western Canada wheat growers have been penalized so that wheat could be sold to Britain at less than the prevailing market price. The fact that England did not—or could not—keep its deal with Canada has resulted in the Canadian taxpayers being forced to accept losses totalling many millions of dollars because the Government bought pork from the farmers which had earlier been contracted by the British government. Besides gifts from the treasury and special considerations which have adversely affected Canada's economy, unknown millions of dollars have been sent to England in the form of volunteer gifts of cash or goods.

That is the record.

At this date it seems unfair for a reputable publication of the stature of the Manchester Guardian which has been renowned for its fairness, to charge that Canada has assumed an "Olympian" detachment in Commonwealth affairs. In her good judgment, the British Government decided to abandon the gold standard and for reason just as reasonable, Canada has retained the gold standard. Canada and the British Isles are now in different economic camps and this difference makes for a barrier which makes trading difficult.

If a meeting of Commonwealth prime ministers will help resolve the difficulties, it is certain that Canada's Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent will have his feet under the conference table. For the Manchester Guardian to charge that Canada has an "Olympian detachment" to the Commonwealth is unfair and contrary to fact.

PERHAPS WE ARE TO BLAME

As was anticipated when it was agreed to extend invitations to representatives of Communist-dominated countries to attend International Red Cross conference in Toronto, these delegates are using the conference to spread propaganda and attempt to undermine the United Nations.

Charges by these groups that germ warfare is being employed in Korea were expected before the conference and according to press reports, the conference went according to plan—i.e., the Russian plan. Those persons whose thinking follows a straight line, are apt to question why these trouble-makers from the Kremlin were invited to the conference. In answer to this question, members of the Red Cross explained unofficially that no excuse would be afforded these delegates to claim that they were excluded, thereby keeping the "international" aspect of the Red Cross intact.

The world is becoming bored with the nonsense uttered by the Red Dean of Canterbury, and James Endicott and others of similar ilk who claim that germs are being used by the United Nations forces in Korea. Here they give truth to the Marxist teachings that if a lie is uttered long enough and loud enough, it will be accepted as truth. But why should an agency of mercy such as the Red Cross be used as a sounding board by the followers of Karl Marx, Lenin and Stalin?

QUESTIONABLE BARGAIN

Montreal police have apparently admitted that half a loaf is better than no loaf at all and as a result of this reasoning have granted a suspect his freedom after the suspect led the police officers to the spot where half the loot of two burglaries was hidden. No charges were laid, the police explaining that after they threatened to "throw the book" at the suspect, the freedom-for-loot deal was arranged. Police admitted the agreement was arranged after it was decided that letting the man go was the only way to get the stuff back.

So long as police are willing to bargain with thugs, the integrity of a police force will be questioned. As a result of this action in Montreal, it is possible for other burglars to come out of hiding and surrender to police if they were assured of no punishment upon return of half of what they stole.

Some say that "crime does not pay" but it required the police detectives in Montreal to give this old adage a modern twist. In effect, they say: "Go ahead and steal and if you return half of what you stole, you may still be a free man."

It is to be hoped that other police departments do not follow the example of Montreal and call off the chase after half of the proceeds of a robbery has been returned.

THE RUNAWAY

A lovely little girl of three,
To run away inclined,
Said to her mother solemnly:
"I've maded up my mind.

"I'm going to travel far away,
Another home to find.
It's no use asking me to stay,
I've maded up my mind."

Her mother said: "If you should roam,
Which seems to me your wish,
I'll have no little girl at home
To lick the frosting dish.

"And on the mornings when I bake,
If you should go away,
I'll have no little girl to take
A cookie from the tray."

Since frosting dish and cookie tray
She'd have to leave behind,
With mother and at home to stay
She 'maded up her mind.'

Order Returns To Bordeaux Jail Near Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—Order returned to Montreal's Bordeaux Jail yesterday, replacing the upheaval and riot that held sway during the week-end.

Most of the 500 prisoners who broke out of their cells Friday night leaving a trail of violence and destruction behind them were back behind bars, their cell doors repaired and reinforced with extra locks.

The prisoners set a score of fires and clashed with police and guards in a series of skirmishes that left at least a dozen prisoners suffering from various injuries.

It was the second outbreak in three months. The first came in May. Both were said to be over food.

There was no immediate estimate of damage in the latest riot but one spokesman said it was not expected to be as high as that in the May revolt when damage was estimated around $800,000.

FIND BREEDING GROUND

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP)—Two United States wild life experts reported yesterday the discovery of the summer breeding grounds of the almost extinct whooping crane, a mystery that has baffled ornithologists for more than 50 years. Robert Henry Smith of Medford, Ore., and Everett L. Sutton of Aberdeen, S.D., said they spotted two adult cranes in marshes north of Great Slave Lake.

Communists Renew Campaign Against Religious Teaching In Occupied Territories

By HUBERT HARRISON

VIENNA (Reuters)—A new, all-out campaign against religious teaching and all religions, especially the Roman Catholic, is in the offing in Communist Czechoslovakia and Hungary.

Experts here say this was presaged in two recent attacks against religion in the two countries.

Until recently, after the initial "purging" of church leaders, such as Archbishops Mindszenty and Grosz, tactics of the Communists in both countries was to try to win over priests to their service.

But this did not suit the real doctrinaire Communists, who want to follow in detail the course mapped out by the Bolsheviks after the Russian Revolution.

In Czechoslovakia, the "extermination" attack was launched by Minister of Information Vaclav Kopecky at Prague in a speech to the Society for the Dissemination of Political and Scientific Knowledge.

Declaring war on "religious obscurantism, religious superstition and reactionary clerical thought," Kopecky added that there are only two kinds of people who go to church in Czechoslovakia nowadays:

Stop at Nothing

"There are people who go. . . only to demonstrate their opposition to the people's democracy and Socialism, to gain courage in church to invoke American imperialism in God's name and to conjure up war by means of prayer."

The other kind are "those who go to church because of superstition—people of antiquated thought. . ."

These, he concluded, must be taught better. When they have been re-educated and no longer go to church those left will all belong to the class of "conspirators" against whom "we stop at nothing."

A few days after this, Matton Horvath, a former journalist, rapidly emerging as an ideological expert in Hungary, told the central leadership of the Hungarian Workers' Party in Budapest a similar story.

"Most Unwise"

"The trials of Mindszenty and Grosz represented a heavy defeat for the enemy," he said. "But this does not entitle us to believe the followers of Mindszenty and Grosz have turned from the wolves of yesterday into innocent lambs of today."

"It is an intolerable situation that in certain places party officials take part in manifestations of the church," he said.

"How can anyone teach the people who allows to interfere in the education of his own children those who use every means of spiritual terror to make the children turn against the state and even against their own Communist parents," he demanded.

Experts in Vienna interpret Horvath's statement to mean that priests who help the party are still to be "used" until they are no longer needed and are then to be "liquidated."

They say a new full-scale attack is indicated by the fact that even in rural villages teachers are 'persuading' the parents that "it would be most 'unwise' to enroll your child for religious instructions."

Cheaper, Better Coffee Says Denver Firm In Marketing New Dunkable Coffee Bags

By BILL MINEHART

DENVER (AP)—A Denver firm is marketing a single-cup coffee bag it hopes will achieve the commercial popularity of the familiar tea bag and banish the coffee measuring spoon forever.

The company has distributed the dunkable bag in six cities. It is the only firm engaged in a country-wide campaign to woo the country's coffee-drinking millions to its formula for a cheaper, better brew, made in the cup to the drinker's own taste.

It admits, however, it may take "a few years" to match the tea bag sales.

For those who doubt the ultimate success of their product, company officials point to the scoffs and cynics who laughed when the Lipton Company first introduced tea bags in the early 1900's.

"Now," says Vice President Frank J. Haberl of the Cup Brew Coffee Bag Company, "more than half of total tea sales in the country are made in bags."

The evolution of Cup Brew's marketable product was a long one. "The New York tailor who sold Lipton on the idea of a tea bag was actually looking for a coffee bag," Haberl explains.

"He failed because the techniques of our day were not available to him."

The modern Cup Brew bag was developed by Leon Abrams, a Chicago inventor. Abrams assigned his patent to cup brew for commercial exploitation.

The Denver company does not manufacture the bags. Coffee distributors in Denver, Kansas City, Seattle, Minneapolis, Milwaukee and Philadelphia buy the rights from Cup Brew and produce their own bags. Machines for their manufacture are provided by the Colorado Corporation.

One machine produces 4,500 bags an hour.

Made of cellulose fabric, the bags are tastless, highly porus and non-wove. They look like folded filter papers. Because of different chemical properties, coffee bags made of cloth and paper carry their flavor into the cup. Tea bags made of the same materials do not.

The product was first introduced during 1950 in Denver with the co-operation of the University of Denver school of business which ran surveys to test the tea bags' response.

"The findings," Haberl says, "convinced us we had a product which was a mighty interesting one to the public." In addition to United States distribution, cup Brew has received inquiries from several Scandinavian and South American countries.

As to the price of cup-brewed coffee versus the traditional methods, Haberl contends coffee making with the heat-sealed bags is more efficient and slightly less in price—cup-for-cup.

He expects a gradual changeover. The bags, he says, will never replace dehydrated coffee.

Noting the success of the tea bag, Haberl predicts individual coffee bag sales eventually will account for most of the coffee sales in the nation.

HOW CAN WE STOP IT?

Communism is a religion — a religion in reverse. Its priests are commissars. Its high priests are the Politburo. Whereas a true religion requires righteousness of its members, the diabolical religion requires uprighteousness of its members. The true Church is holy, that is, apart from the world. This false religion stands over against the world also; not to do it good but to beat it into submission.

In recent months we have been witnessing all through the country the motion picture, "Quo Vadis." Here we have witnessed the extent to which the early Christians were willing to suffer for their faith. But communists are willing to suffer likewise. The Christians suffered for the Lord Jesus and because they are members of His invisible spiritual empire. The communists are willing to lay down their lives for the dictatorship of the proletariat. Christ came that men might have life and have it more abundantly. Marx came that millions might have death and that a few with heavy hands might take the seats of the mighty. Jesus was the divine Son of God; Marx was the most earthly son of diabolical forces, which may ruin the human race unless checked.

And communism will be checked, not so much by armies as by the removal of conditions in backward sections of the world which enables this false philosophy to thrive. Communism is a religion in reverse.

ORE TONNAGE DOWN

CLEVELAND (AP)—Only 1,903,672 gross tons of iron ore were shipped over the Great Lakes last month, during the big steel strike. The Lake Superior Iron Ore Association, reporting this yesterday, said that was 11,670,599 tons less than was shipped in July of 1951. Total shipped to Aug. 1, 1952, was 23,419,778 tons. For the same time last year, 45,615,970 tons had been shipped.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Signed Letters, Not More Than One Page, or 100 Words Long, Pertaining to Personal Health and Hygiene, Not to Disease, Diagnosis or Treatment, Will be Answered by Dr. Brady if a Stamped, Self-Addressed Envelope is Enclosed, Etc.

LET'S HAVE IT OUT

With straight face and all the ponderous dignity with which the medical profession expounds legends and theories for the—ah, ah, I'm still on probation—laity, a newspaper health columnist said the other day:

"Deposits of calcium in the walls of the blood vessels is" (sic) "the principal thing responsible for hardening of the arteries. Why calcium should be deposited...no one yet knows."

Although this balk statement fairly represents the prevailing medical thought, if one can call it thought, about arteriosclerosis or hardening of the arteries, the absurdity of it must be apparent to any medical student or physician who has an elementary knowledge of pathology. Why, away back in the nineteenth century Dr. Osler gave a truer view of it. He said:

"Calcification (that is, deposit of calcium) of the arterial wall follows fatty degeneration and sclerosis, and is associated with atheromatous changes. . . . It is by no means always a senile change."

No, children, calcium is not deposited in the walls of the arteries out of a clear sky. This change in the condition or structure of the artery wall occurs only as a consequence of degeneration.

In view of the wide circulation of this column it is the duty of any physician or pathologist who finds anything wrong about my teaching to point out the error. I promise to print, as the author approves, any reasonable correction or contrary view submitted, and I'll keep the author's identity secret or reveal it, as he or she may prefer.

There is a similar notion in the popular mind in reference to calcium deposits in or around the joints. This causes "arthritis" or rheumatiz, according to the legend or theory expounded by many medical practitioners.

Aside from arbitrary statements by doctors whose dignity is offended when patients evince any knowledge of nutrition or metabolism, there is no scientific ground for the fear that "too much calcium" in food, water or medicine, will cause calcification or the deposit of calcium in or around the joints.

In every instance such calcification or deposit of calcium is a consequence of sprain, strain, inflammation or degeneration. If any physician or pathologist differs with me about this I invite him or her to submit a brief statement for publication here and I promise to treat such communication with professional courtesy.

This is the first of a series of talks about calcium. The second will follow in a few days. It is an important subject and I think both doctors and laymen should know more about it.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Childbirth Without Fear

I have had my last two children by Dr. Grantly Dick Read's method and I think it is a wonderful experience. (Mrs. H. K.)

Answer—I advise every potential or expectant mother to read Dr. Read's book, Childbirth Without Fear, published by Harper & Bros. and available in your public library.

Thin Neck

Would like to know if using cocoa butter or a lanolin compound for a thin neck will be it out. (R. T.)

Answer—Nothing applied externally can fill out thin neck or flat or hollow places. Consume liberal amounts of milk, butter, eggs, ham, bacon, cheese and whole wheat bread if you want to fill out. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for pamphlet How to Gain Weight.

Off to the Asylum?

Years ago you said some people can sleep well only with their heads to the west, on account of the effect of the earth's rotation on the heart. I carried the clipping to prove to my friends that I am sound of mind, for I have known that all my life. Now I have mislaid the clipping and beg that you repeat your statement...(E. W. G.)

Answer—I'm sorry, old man, but I never made such a statement and I do not believe there is any ground for such belief.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

When anyone finds a particular nasty bite on his or her hide these summer days, the suspicion at once is that it is a spider bite. The truth is that human beings are not of the slightest interest to spiders. There are any number of insects that do love human blood: mosquitoes, black flies, deer flies, horse flies, midges and punkies. And any number of people are allergic to plants other than poison ivy, who come out in blisters or itchy spots when their skin is forcibly tapped or spiked by the plant's leaves or twigs. And if the mark on the skin is at all unusual, it is the spider that gets the blame.

The only time a spider will bite us, and he is thoroughly equipped for biting, is when we accidentally or unknowingly touch him, press him or otherwise interfere with his intention to get the heck off us. If human beings have no use for spiders, it may be said that the feeling is mutual.

But in the animal kingdom there is probably no more fascinating creature than a spider. There are hundreds of species of them in America, and probably thousands in the world. The best known ones build those orb webs that are the classic web of human mythology. But for one orb builder, there are dozens of tunnel builders. And there are those that run and jump, making no webs. And others that build the casual, catch-as-catch-can webs in window corners and the cobwebs on ceilings. Others build flat webs, like blankets on the ground and grass. Others flow out a thread of silk on the breeze and go sailing for miles. One of the jumping spiders, familiar on brick walls and stone window sills, is so gifted that when he takes a wild jump into space to catch a fly, he spurts out a thread of silk as he leaps, a threat just the length of his jump, whatever that may be. And having nailed his fly, he draws the silk back into his spinnerets, so hauling himself back uponto his diving platform. The second best thing to do with a spider is leave him alone. The best thing is to take a few minutes off and watch him. For he is a master craftsman, an engineer, a mathematician, a weaver and a jeweller.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

FINGERS

Never shall I cease to wonder as to the use of the fingers which we have on each hand. They write, they play musical instruments in a most expert and remarkable manner, they build homes and great skyscrapers, write books and letters, typewrite as I am now doing. What would we do without our fingers? And to think that thought is behind every movement that they make!

What would a carpenter or a mechanic do without his fingers? He wouldn't be a carpenter or a mechanic! Fingers are essential for almost everything that we do. And there is so much personality to fingers. The hand in itself is a key to character. Crooks are discovered by the impress print from their fingers. Sherlock Holmes used to put stress upon the hands in his solving of many a crime. Fingers paint great masterpieces. They point to things of beauty, and they gesture for the orator. Hands with their fingers mean so much.

Just think of the power and beauty to fingers that perform as those of a Kreisler always have on his ivolin. And what fingers, perhaps borrowed from heaven, that left the masterpieces of Michelangelo! Braille, the creator of the system that has enabled the blind to read with their fingers, was recently honored in Paris. I have a blind friend and I watched him read these raised characters, and it seemed remarkable. Most blind people are unusually intelligent. How much they owe this to their fingers!

I like to see fingers that show use. They emphasize character and personality. The manuscripts or letters of a great man or woman writer, in his or her own hand, grow more valuable with the years. Fingers of that man or woman created them. This value is not confined to writers, however. Note how eagerly people go after autographs of famous folk—because they are written with the fingers of such. Something of the person goes with the written name.

World's Largest Aluminum Smelter Under Construction in B. C. Wilderness

(Editor's note: A vast new aluminum industry is being built in northern British Columbia—a $50,000,000 project based on cheap electricity from the wild streams of beautiful Tweedsmuir Park. Dave Stockand, Canadian Press staff writer, describes the opening of a new frontier in this story, first of a series).

By DAVE STOCKAND
Canadian Press Staff Writer

KITIMAT, B.C. (CP)—Permanent is replacing temporary on the blueprints which promise British Columbia an aluminum industry in 1954.

The temporary is impressive, costly, and reward of a year's grappling with some of the wildest country in North America.

But this conquest is just a preliminary to the job which started here when winter gales quit pounding out of the North Pacific and sunshine sucked seven feet of snow from the ground.

First, some history. In 1948, the Aluminum Company of Canada, a subsidiary of Aluminum Limited, surveyed 12,000 square miles of northern B.C.

Alcan decided to tackle the project, which has been called the biggest ever undertaken by private enterprise.

World's Largest

Kitimat, 450 miles north of Vancouver and 80 miles southeast of Prince Rupert on the twisting coast, was chosen as site of what Alcan says will be the world's largest aluminum smelter.

It will be the payoff part of a $50,000,000 project that starts 140 miles inland with a dam across the Grand Canyon of the Nechako River.

Kitimat is where the aluminum will be made. But it takes thousands of horsepower to drive the industry. To create this power, Alcan has reached over the coast range to an untamed wilderness.

A 300-foot-high dam now being built on the Nechako will reverse the normal eastward flow of the water of a huge plateau, creating a natural reservoir 350 square miles in area with its water surface 2,800 feet above sea level.

With its eastern exit sealed the water will be backed up in the Ootsa-Tahtsa chain of lakes. From Tahtsa lake—head of the entire system—these waters will be drawn off to the west through a 10-mile tunnel through solid rock of the coast range.

Half-Mile Drop

From there, the water will plunge in a half-mile drop through pipes and penstocks to the powerhouse deep inside the coastal flank of the mountains at Kemano. The power site is 125 miles west of the dam.

From Kemano powerhouse, capable of eventually developing 1,600,000 horsepower, transmission lines over the mountains will carry the power 50 miles northwest to the smelter here.

A recent estimate placed expenditure so far at $84,500,000, including $13,500,000 by Kitimat constructors, an alliance of eight major B.C. firms handling construction at Kitimat

The first workmen arrived here about 15 months ago, pitching tents at the base of the mountains which rise from the shores of Douglas channel. Here they dug in.

As Guy Davis, an Alcan engineer, explains: "A project like this must be done in stages. First, we bring in 20 men to build a camp for 40 men. They build a camp for 200 men, who. . ."

Growth of Village

At the start a wooden wharf was built so supplies and equipment could be landed. Workers had to thin the trees down to the ocean

The camp grew to a village of 1,200 men and includes such conveniences as a dial telephone system for only 18 telephone numbers and one of Canada's largest and most up-to-date cafeterias.

Now workmen are dredging the harbor and construction is beginning on a permanent concrete wharf to serve freighters carrying alumina (processed from bauxite ore) through the Panama Canal from the West Indies.

There is no bauxite—primary source of aluminum—in British Columbia. But aluminum is refined by an electrolytic process. The cheapness of hydro-electric power makes it possible to ship ore to British Columbia for refining, despite the length of the sea haul.

Machines are clearing, stripping and reinforcing with gravel fill a smelter site one third of a mile by one quarter of a mile. They are working two nine-hour shifts a day to have it ready by autumn.

An access road is being driven to the Kitimat townsite, four miles up Kitimat valley from the smelter, and clearing has been started at the Kitimat city centre and in the area mapped out for storage facilities.

Production In 1954

The smelter, or aluminum-reduction plant, is expected to be operating by mid-1954 with an output of 80,000 metric tons (88,000 short tons) of aluminum annually.

Finishing touches are being put on a concrete-batching plant and a gravel-screening plant. A sawmill, cutting only timber which has been felled in the process of clearing, is handling 10,000 board feet a day.

At the smelter site, some machines are so big they gulp four tons of dirt in a mouthful. The waste material is carted away in heavy-duty ore trucks, some of which weigh five tons and carry 25 tons.

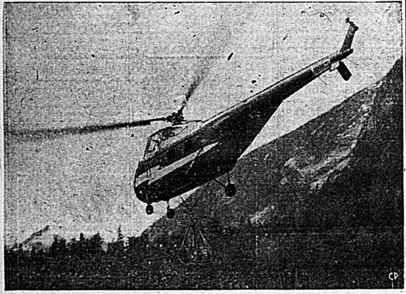
Dredging the harbor is necessary because the wharf must be near the smelter, which will be built partly on the delta of the Kitimat River.

The wharf will take about a year to complete and be 800 feet long, six feet high and 45 feet wide. A conveyor-belt system will lead from the wharf to storage buildings near the smelter. The harbor will handle deep-sea freighters as large as 12,500 tons.

Perhaps the most important thing to many of the men who live and work at Kitimat is the news that the first of 100 "married quarters" will be completed in a few weeks.

So far the female population has been nil.

Kitimat Airlift



Eagles and helicopters share Kildala Pass where a power transmission line is being built for the world's largest aluminum smelter at Kitimat, B. C., 450 miles north of Vancouver. Construction camp 11, which is 5,300 feet above sea level and 2,000 feet above timber level, has all its supplies brought in by helicopter, some machines making 25 and 30 trips daily. Kildala Pass summit is the loftiest summit on the 50-mile transmission line. The pass section covers 10½ dizzy miles. — (CP Photo.)

Power Tunnel

This tail-race tunnel, which channels water into the Kemano River, is one of a series built through the coast mountain range for the $550,000,000 aluminum industry under construction at Kitimat, B.C., 450 miles north of Vancouver. Water is backed up from the Nechako dam to create a 350-square-mile watershed and is carried through a tunnel to the power site 125 miles west of the dam. The water then is carried off through a tail-race tunnel to the Kemano River which joins the Pacific Ocean at Gardener Canal. — (CP Photo.)

RAWDON

Burton Bateman Congratulated For Road Cleanup

Rawdon—Mr. Burton Bateman of Bonarlaw, patrol man for Department of Highways, has received many congratulatory bouquets recently for his supervision of the road cleanup between Batawa and Trenton on the Iroquois Trail, know as Highway No 33. Burton supervises this stretch of highway from Stirling to Trenton railroad bridge, also a portion of No. 7 highway and No. 14 from Marmora to Belleville.

Early in July he and his men began an extensive cleanup along this much talked of road from Batawa to Trenton. The brush has been cut all along the way, truck loads of glass bottles, tin cans and other debris have been removed. A liberal application of white paint along the roadside fences and sign posts and the erection of guard rails at all the most dangerous spots has made motoring much safer for the public.

This week the McFarland Construction Co. has finished paving this stretch of road, which was 'washboardy' and dangerous in the month of June. In some places the original roadbed has been built up and also carried farther from the Trent River.

Scenic Beauty

Tourists are loud in their praise of the scenic beauty of this stretch of road as well as the added comfort of a better roadway. Many have taken time to stop and congratulate Mr. Bateman and his men for the fine job they were doing.

Those who frequently travel this road are loud in their praise. Several Rawdonians who just go that way occasionally have marvelled at so great a change in a few weeks and they are urging their friends to enjoy a motor trip in that direction as soon as possible and view of the beauty for themselves.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wescott, Eleanor, Elaine and Norman, Brooklyn, Mr. and Mrs. E. Wescott and granddaughter Miss Muriel Massey, Wallbridge, called on several relatives at Mount Pleasant on Monday.

Relatives in Rawdon received word of the illness of Mrs. Fred Vandervoort in Oshawa hospital.

Mrs. Ernest White and sons Harold and Lorne and Mrs. Marguerite McMullen visited Mr. and Mrs. Ray White, at Eldorado on Sunday.

URGES UNION FOR CLERGY

GUELPH (CP)—Agriculture Minister Kennedy wednesday suggested last night that rural clergy should have a union to ensure adequate salaries. Mr. Kennedy addressed rural clergy attending the third annual summer school at the Ontario Agricultural College.

BLAME BOYS FOR FIRE

TORONTO (CP)—Police yesterday said they believed a fire which did more than $25,000 damage to the A. E. McKenzie Seed Company warehouse was caused by boys who set fire to grass surrounding the building.

Cuban Police Thwart Plot To Kill Batista

HAVANA — (Reuters) — Police today reported they had broken a plot to overthrow the Cuban government and assassinate the president, Gen. Fulgencio Batista.

Former President Carlos Prio Socarras, ousted by Batista in a coup d'etat last March, had contributed $2,000,000 to the plot, the police said.

The alleged plow envisaged assassinating Batista after the bombing of strategic points in Cuba with planes which were to have been seized from the Cuban army.

About 12 men have been arrested, including five members of the police force.

The presidential palace issued a statement by Batista saying he had been informed, without confirmation, that several radio stations had been broadcasting reports of a military uprising. Condemning these reports as disturbing the public peace. the general said they were completely false

Some irresponsible elements, who had been maintaining relations with officials of the former government and contacting "gangster" elements in Cuba, had been arrested after being watched, he said.

HELD UP TO HOLD UP

HAMILTON (CP)—Hamilton and Dundas police rushed to the east-end bridge last night after receiving reports of a mass holdup. However, the holdup proved only to be a bus stopped to enable passengers to stretch. Passing motorists saw the passengers standing alongside the vehicle with their arms in the air.

Food for Thought

Summer Dessert Delights

By Mary Moore

This is my feeling about desserts. While the fresh fruits are at their peak of production and so plentiful and good, we should use them "as is". They are a lifesaver for reducers.

But a week each of eating a bowlful of strawberries, or raspberries, or blueberries or sliced peaches for breakfast, lunch and dinner and they begin to lose their appeal.

And the majority of us are not reducers or fresh fruit fiends (although by my mail you would begin to think we are a population of overweights!).

So I'm indulging my fondness for making beautiful, tasty desserts with the valuable help of the refrigerator, and you folks who must not eat them can indulge yourselves by making them for your loved ones, as I do. It's a grand satisfaction to see their eyes light up when you or your appointed waiter or waitress for the week, eagerly bears them to the table.

The first one—Chocolate Wafer Loaf —will send plenty of you off to the grocery store for chocolate wafers and evaporated milk. It requires no whipped cream.

CHOCOLATE WAFER LOAF

Pour 1 15-oz. can evaporated milk in freezing tray and chill until little ice crystals form around the sides of tray. Meanwhile soak 1 tablespoon gelatine in 1-2 cup cold water 5 minutes, then stir it over boiling water until gelatin is dissolved. While this is warm add 1-2 cup sugar to it and stir until dissolved. Chill this to syrup consistency. When the chilled milk is ready beat it in a cold bowl until stiff, then add 1-3 cup lemon juice and 1 teaspoon finely grated lemon rind, the chilled gelatin mixture and beat will. Brush a 2-quart loaf pan with oil and pour 1-3 of the mixture into it. Make a layer of chocolate wafers over this cream mixture. Repeat with a layer of cream mixture, a layer of chocolate wafers then the remainder of the cream mixture. Chill overnight. Unmold on serving dish. Crumble enough chocolate wafers to make 1-2 cup and carefully strew this over the loaf and around edge to make an effective garnish. Cut into slices with very sharp long knife.

GOOSEBERRY FOOL

Wash 1 pint of gooseberries, remove tops and tails, put in saucepan with 1-2 cup each water and sugar, and simmer until soft. Chill.

For the "fool" part scald 1 3-4 cups whole milk in top of double boiler. Beat 3 egg yolks slightly with 1-4 cup sugar and 1-2 teaspoon salt. Pour in hot milk while stirring, then return all to double boiler and cook, stirring, until custard coats spoon. Remove from heat at once and chill. When ready to serve put the chilled gooseberries in bottom of pretty glass bowl, or in individual stemmed glasses, and pour the chilled custard over. If desired this may be made a day before needed and kept cold in combination in serving bowl. A great favorite with our British brothers and sisters.

DELICATE CORNSTARCH PUDDING

(With variations.)

This is an excellent basic recipe for "blanc mange" and should be in your files. In top of double boiler scald 2 cups whole milk. Mix together 4 tablespoons (level, of course) cornstarch, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1-8 teaspoon salt, then stir into them 1-4 cup cold milk. Add this slowly to the hot milk in double boiler, stirring. Stir until thick. Cover and cook 30 minutes, stirring three times. Remove from heat and add 1-2 teaspoon vanilla. Pour into moistened molds and chill.

For Coffee Cornstarch pudding substitute 1 cup very strong coffee for 1 cup of the milk.

For Chocolate Cornstarch pudding reduce cornstarch to 3 tablespoons and melt 1 square of cooking chocolate in the milk while it is heating.

Note—Delicate Cornstarch Pudding makes an excellent base over which to serve sweetened fresh fruits. The fruits must be slightly sweetened as the pudding contains a minimum of sugar.

Queen Mother Observes 52nd Birthday

LONDON (AP)—Royal salutes boomed out from London tower, Hyde Park and all naval bases yesterday in honor of Queen Mother Elizabeth's 52nd birthday.

The Queen Mother spent this first birthday of her widowhood quietly at the royal lodge at Windsor. The lodge, smallest of the royal homes, is not far from the chapel at Windsor Castle where lie the remains of King George VI.

With her were her two daughters, the Queen and Princess Margaret, and her grand children, Crown Prince Charles and Princess Anne. The Duke of Edinburgh was in Oslo attending ceremonies marking the 80th birthday yesterday of Norway's King Haakon. Queen grandmother Mary sent best wishes from Sandringham.

Nancy Oakes To Marry Son German Count

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—The engagement of Nancy Oakes, daughter of Lady Eunice Oakes and the late Sir Harry Oakes, to Ernst Lyssard of Los Angeles was announced yesterday.

Nancy Oakes in 1949 won annulment of her marriage to Count Alfred de Marigny, after his acquittal on a charge of murdering her father, Canadian mining millionaire. Sir Harry's bludgeoned body was found in his Nassau, Bahamas home.

Mr. Lyssard is the younger son of the Baron and Baroness von Hoynignen Huene of Oberammergau, Germany.

IDENTIFY BODY

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A sister and brother yesterday identified a mutilated, headless murder victim as Betty Jack Stevens, 21-year-old Dallas waitress. The girl's nude torso, with the letters R-A-T carved into the abdomen, was discovered Wednesday near Yukon, Okla. The chief of the Oklahoma crime bureau said the girl had a criminal record in both Texas and Oklahoma. Officers believe she may have been the victim of bangland revenge.

'Grasshopper' Collection Shown In Paris by Schiaparelli

PARIS (AP)—Elsa Schiaparelli pepped up the Paris fashion scene last night with a gay "grasshopper" collection full of the first real fashion news this season.

Taking the grasshopper as a "design of near perfection," she borrowed the wings and put them on suit lapels, coat tails, under the arms and on the shoulders. Her motif, pinned on or embroidered, hopped about from the arm to the middle of the back, to just anywhere.

The grasshopper silhouette featured a "smoothly round, sleek and slender body, swelling back, bouffant skirt and jut-out wings." Some short jackets had a pointed and split tail. There was a hornet sting hat and hornet coat tail with a jutting point.

Other fanciful headgear imitated crickets—feathered or embroidered.

Women's Institute

PINE GROVE W.I.

Pine Grove Women's Institute met for their July meeting at Mrs. N. Parks' home with nineteen members and three visitors in attendance. The president, Mrs. H. Detlor, presided.

A committee was appointed to get information concerning the building of a school platform.

It was decided to send a parcel of tea to the South Molton Women's Institute in England.

Mrs. F. Finkle noted items of interest throughout the new issue of "Home and Country", mentioning particularly the Belleville Area Convention on October 16 and 17.

Mrs. J. Brown gave the Current Events. Mrs. L. Finkle conducted a quiz which she had prepared on the Canadian Bank of Commerce booklet "A Woman and Her Banking".

Mrs. H. Detlor presented two new members with F.W.I.O. badges and Mrs. A. Tanner gave the highlights of the golden wedding anniversary celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hamblin, which several Pine Grove members had attended in Peterborough on July 16. Mrs. Hamblin is a former member of Pine Grove.

Mrs. F. Lindenfield, Agriculture convener, spoke on "Business Management on the Farm".

In the early days the barter system was in use, but now the farmer must buy more. In order to have a profit there is more specialization, less variety and increased volume. Low cost of production is vital to success. The farmer should recognize that he must work in co-operation with those in other businesses.

Mrs. G. Bartindale read "The Pleasures of Planting".

Mrs. C. Ross gave an account of Foot and Mouth disease as told by one of the farmers in Saskatchewan.

An amusing poem "Back To The Farm" read by Mrs. H. Detlor, concluded this part of the program.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and committee and a social time enjoyed.

The August meeting will be held at Mrs. J. Campbell's home.

NEW ZEALAND CUTS IMPORTS

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (CP)—New Zealand's government, facing a financial deficit overseas, yesterday ordered imports cut to the bone. The order particularly affected woollen goods, hosiery and United States automobiles. The action was brought on by what Prime Minister Sydney Holland termed "crazy buying" following the lifting of import controls.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

That eternal triangle

Two letters that, by coincidence, arrived in the same mail recently. present two sides of that eternal triangle made up of a man, a wife and the "other woman".

In one of the letters, the wife announces here determination to hold on to her husband in spite of the fact that the woman in the case has asked her to give him up.

The writer of the second letter —and she might or might not actually be the mistress of this particular man, since they live in the same large city—wants to know if I don't think it's wrong for a wife to hold on to a husband who has told her he is in love with someone else.

Here's the wife's side of the argument:

"For the past three years my husband has been having an affair. Although he still supports me and our children, he recently asked me for a divorce, which I have refused since it is against my religion and, further, because I am convinced that in time he well get over his infatuation. But recently the woman actually came to my house and demanded that I give up my husband to her. Naturally, I refused.

"Do you think I am right in standing pat and trying to hold on to my husband? Or should I give him up and try to forget the past?"

So that's the way one wife feels about the particular triangle of which she is a part. As for those who believe a wife should freely relinquish her husband to the woman who has taken him over, here's what the one who wrote me has to say:

'A few years ago I met a man who told me, after our second date, that he was married and had several children. He still lives home and supports his family, but he has asked his wife to divorce him so he can marry me. She won't do this, as it is forbidden by her faith, and also because she declares she still loves him and knows they could make a go of their marriage if he would only try.

"Don't you think she is wrong in wanting to hold on to a man who says he loves someone else?"

So there we have both points of view, and who is right and who is wrong? The wife who wants to keep the man she married in the hope that they may eventually be able to reconstruct the happy marriage that was once theirs? Or the mistress who appears convinced that a wife should promptly assume that her husband's affair is a demonstration of perfect and permanent love for another woman, and so should hand him over to her at once, with her blessing?

My own position in any such argument is that, under most circumstances, no wife should be in too much of a hurry to push an erring husband out of the door. If there is no possible doubt that she has been definitely supplanted in his heart, or if the man has repeatedly proved himself to be just another opportunist who takes his pleasure where he finds it, then, I think, she would do well to send him on his way. But where a woman still loves her husband, even though he has cruelly betrayed her love, and still feels there is a good chance that they can be happy together again, is she is to fight for the cause in which she believes?

This is no time to revive the age-old controversy over the double standard. The point in question is not an argument over whether or not a wife should take a moral stand and refuse to have anything further to do with a husband who has been unfaithful to her. To say that a wife should try to hold the man she loves and with whom she wants to spend the rest of her life is not to be construed as condoning his infidelity.

All that is at issue here are the questions asked by the women in this instance, which are: Is it right or wrong for a wife to try and hold on to the husband who tells here he is in love with the woman with whom he is having an affair? And is the woman in the case righ or wrong in going to the wife to try and persuade her to give her husband up?

So far as I am concerned, the answers to these questions are that the wife is right to do what she can to save her marriage, and the "other woman" is wrong from the very beginning straight through to the end.

Personally, I can't see why any wife would want a man who has been double-crossing her for so long. But when she does, let her do what she can to salvage anything that may be left of their former happiness. And who knows? The final outcome may justify her love, her faith and her courage beyond anything anyone might predict.

Style Experts Say British Women Have a Lot to Learn From Their Tudor Forbears

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—British fashion writers looking forward to next year's coronation warn that historians will probably record the dress fashions worn at the start of the new Elizabethan era.

And the style experts say British women have a lot to learn from their tudor forbears—especially in attention to detail and consideration of the general effect of a gown.

With the coronation taking place next June, fashion critics have been sizing up this year's summer styles as worn in the streets, not in the fashion salons.

The result, they say, is depressing. It seems that warm weather brings out the worst in the British female—fashionably. She wears an ordinary cardigan over a full-skirted, stiff-silk dress with cut-out neckline and adds to that a flower-decked hat with floating veil.

"What's wrong with the net little bolero and primly-perched sailor hat," asked desparing critics. It seems the British miss never plans for the inclement British weather.

Strange Assortments

Chill winds common to English summer days inevitably bring out a miscellaneous assortment of old suit jackets, tweed jigger coats and cardigans—worn over the flimsiest and brightest of summer dresses.

But this is not the worst fault. One writer draws attention to the "mixers of strong patterns," who can be found yearly on British beaches and in city streets. The most famous of English seaside resorts have their quota of women wearing gaudy stripes, floral prints and polka dots—all at one time.

It seems that many British girls, smartly turned out for winter, "go to pieces when it comes to summer clothes."

GOOD MANNERS

Usual form for married woman's informal name

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In our club we have several recently-married girls (including myself), and at our meeting the other day we had a discussion as to whether a married woman should sign her letters to people she doesn't know very well, or her business letters, Mary Allen Clark, or Mary Elizabeth Clark. Which is correct?—Reader.

Either is correct, the choice depending on the woman herself. But definitely more practical, and generally preferred, is Mary Allen Clark, because this tells the maiden surname of the married woman. (This is the correct and usual form used by a married woman as the signature to her cheques, and here too the information as to her maiden surname is very often most important and helpful.)

Girls . . . please don't dance together in restaurant

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it ever correct for two girls (or women either) to dance together in a restaurant where there is dancing?—S. W.

No. . . .No! It's a most awkward and inappropriate thing to do . . . looks as odd and inappropriate as it is. It's true that some girls have the mistaken idea that if they dance together it will suggest to the men that an invitation-to-dance would be welcome. . .but their procedure is so unattractive that it generally doesn't even produce this result!

A senator is still "Senator Wells" even when he is ex-senator

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My cousin, whom we haven't been able to see for several years because he lives some distance away, is going to spend August at a summer place near us. He is an ex-senator. We haven't the slightest idea how to introduce him. . . is it, as we seem to recall, "The Honorable John Wells, former Senator from (then the name of the state)"?—M. L.

Introduce your cousin as "Senator Wells". (You do not add the state after his name, as you would on formal occasions if he were still in office.) Note 1: A senator is always addressed and introduced as "Senator" . . . even when he is no longer in office. Note 2: He should never be addressed by his title only, always with his surname after it.

. . .And when you eat ice cream, take only a mouthful on the spoon at one time. Even if it looks devastatingly alluring to you, don't, please don't take a huge heaping spoonful of ice cream and lick it off a little at a time, unattractively drawing the spoon in and out of your mouth as the "mound" decreases. You're grown-up now. . .remember."

BEAUTY

Selecting a perfume

Like the frock you are thinking of buying, you should "try on" perfume. Selecting a subtle, intriguing, uplighting fragrance is not an easy matter, like buying powders, creams and lotions. You want one that will appeal to your emotions, that will delight you and those with whom you come in contact.

Here is the test: try out three different scents at one time, and no more; because, no matter how keen a nose you may have, your olfactory nerve will probably be confused if you smell more than that number.

The correct procedure is to put a few drops on the inside of one wrist. Then, after it has dried, when the alcoholic content has evaporated, sniff—not just once, but two or three deep inhalations. Pause and ponder. It is exciting? If not, it is not for you. Make a second trial, repeating the process on the other wrist. If you must make a third test, put the perfume on another part of your arm.

You should "try on" perfume.

Take your time and do some heavy thinking. You wouldn't buy a new hat or a new frock without careful consideration, and you don't want to be disappointed in your perfume. Get a purse-size vial. The expense won't put much of a dent in the beauty budget and, if you adore the fragrance, you can indulge in a larger container. When you do that little thing, be sure to buy an atomizer, if you don't happen to have one. Spraying is more economical than tipping up the bottle.

Although the most popular scents are blends or bouquets, many of the straight flower odors are obtainable. You don't have to be old fashioned—remembering that Grannie says that she used only rose or violet in her young days—to appreciate some of these delicate fragrances. Motors Defeat Crawfords 6-3 In Replayed Game

By JACK BRETT

The replayed contest between Belleville Motor Car and Crawford Metals resulted in a 6-3 win for the B.M.C. team at the Alemite Field Saturday evening. This was actually the third game, but the previous game was written off due to a scorer's error.

Saturday's win gives the B.M.C. the right to meet Northern Electric in the finals of the local intermediate AA, O.A.S.A. playdowns.

B.M.C. took an early lead in the first frame. Miller singled, Cousins singled and the two batsmen scored on errors by Crawford's outfield. In the third frame with the score still 2-0 for B.M.C., Reid singled, gained second on Garvin's sacrifice hit and came home on Cousins' double to make it 3-0.

In the seventh, Massey doubled to left field. He took third on a passed ball and gave Crawford's their first run of the game as he stole home to make it 3-1 for B.MC.

As the Motormen came to bat in that inning, Walsh led off with a walk, Reid singled and Garvin went to first on a fielder's choice that forced Walsh at third. Miller singled placing Reid on third and Garvin on second. Cousins singled to bring in Reid. A fielder's error scored the other two batsmen aboard second and third for the 6-1 score.

Lewis Homers

Watson, for Crawford's, went to first on a fielder's choice in the eighth, gained second and third on errors by the fielders and was driven home as Lewis hit one over the fence for a home run and the final 6-3 score.

Dowsett went the route for Crawfords, walking one, striking out three and giving 10 hits for six runs. For B.M.C. Reid walked six, struck out six and gave five hits for three runs. Reid also was heavy on the batting end. He went to bat three times and had three hits.

Sport in Brief

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gene Tunney predicts a new heavyweight boxing champion of the world will be crowned when challenger Rocky Marciano meets aging Jersey Joe Walcott in September.

Tunney, who retired from the heavyweight throne in 1928, said Marciano hits harder with two hands than any fighter he has seen. That includes a man whom Tunney beat twice, Jack Dempsey.

Two Canadian power boat records were established yesterday at mile trials at Picton, Ont.

T. Hetman, a recent immigrant from Europe yesterday won the annual 100-mile bicycle road race ..Crossing the finish line after four at Hamilton.

Crossing the finish line after four hours and 24 minutes of peddling, Hetman outdistanced 34 other riders, only 17 of whom finished. Al Cole of Brantford was second.

Curiosity Credited With Bringing Us Many of Our Great Gifts in Life

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

Why are humans curious? Why are some more curious than others? What does curiosity have to do with intellectual achievements?

Curiosity can get cats and humans into trouble. But curiosity also is credited with bringing us many of our great gifts—from automobiles to better clothes, conquest of diseases, many tools and techniques of modern living.

Yet no one seems to have studied curiosity itself, says Dr. Harry F. Harlow, University of Wisconsin psychologist.

He and his associates, Drs. Margaret Kuenne Harlow and Donald B. Meyer, have made a start, with studies of monkeys.

Monkeys, they find, will solve puzzles out of an urge to manipulate things. They do it even when they get no reward.

They learn to solve the puzzle just as well, but not so fast, as monkeys which do get rewards for working out the puzzle.

The monkeys have some innate or inborn drive to work at the puzzles. This seems to be curiosity or something akin to it.

Curiosity studies of children from 18 months to two years old is planned next.

The children will be given various puzzles or problems to work out. The psychologists hope to learn what the range of curiosity is in humans, how they differ in what they are curious about, how curiosity develops and expands.

Curiosity in humans is believed to be one of the drives to mental achievement. Differences in curiosity might show ways to differentiate between dull and bright children who may make the biggest contributions to human welfare.

There may be a seat of curiosity, located in some particular part of the brain. Monkeys whose brains are damaged show less curiosity drive than normal monkeys. Neurosurgeons find less spontaneous drive in some people following certain brain operations.

All mammals show some curiosity. The play of a kitten or puppy probably is built partly upon some inborn curiosity drive, Dr. Harlow said. Chimpanzees and gorillas are more curious than monkeys, and humans more than gorillas or chimpanzees.

The studies may open the way to eventual better use or development of innate curiosity.

Yankees Bank on One-Two Pitching of Raschi and Reynolds to Win Flag

Raschi Wins 11th Straight Blanking Senators to Give Men of Stengel 3½-Game Lead

By JIM KENSIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

Remember when Hal Newhouser and Dizzy Trout combined their talents to hurl the Detroit Tigers to the 1945 American League pennant? Then Johnny Sain and Warren Spahn came along with the 1948 Boston Braves and delivered a one-two pitching punch that landed the National League flag.

Don't look now, but Vic Raschi and Allie Reynolds, a pair of New York Yankee moundsmen, are threatening to do it all over again.

Raschi tossed his 11th straight win last night, a 1-0 blanking of Washington Senators that brought his season slate to 13-2.

Reynolds Seeks 13th

Tonight, Reynolds faces the same Senators and will be shooting for his 13th in 20 starts. The two Yank righthanders with 25 wins between them have accounted for better than 40 per cent of their team's 62 triumphs.

Raschi scattered six hits and fanned eight while walking only one last night.

The Yanks won it in the sixth inning when Bob Porterfield walked Gil McDougald with the bases loaded to force over Hank Bauer with the game's only tally.

The Yanks now are 3½ games in front of Cleveland and another full game ahead of Boston, both idle last night along with the rest of the American League and all of the National.

It looks as if Raschi and Reynolds will have to carry the load through the last 49 Yankee games, 26 of which are on the road. After Labor Day they play 18 games away from Yankee Stadium and only three at home.

Cleveland, which is able to employ a set pitching rotation, has 50 contests remaining, 26 of them at home. And while the Yanks are on the road in the stretch month, the Indians won't leave home after Labor Day until the final two days of the season.

The Red Sox, too have a better schedule than the world champions. They have eight home dates in the crucial month.

Writers Little 'Off The Beam'

MOSCOW (AP) — Two Russian correspondents of the Literary Gazette today wrote from Helsinki that the officials of the United States delegation did everything in their power to set up an iron curtain around the American Olympic team.

The correspondents — Anatalii Sofronou and Nokolai Latyshev—said the American officials tried to hide their athletes in order to keep them from making friends with the Russians.

During the Olympic Games, U.S. and Russian athletes mingled freely. The rowing teams worked out together, swapped tips and friendly banter, and the rival coaches shared a single launch.

Rogers Hornsby Takes Command Cincinnati Reds

CINCINNATI (AP) — Rogers (Rajah) Hornsby takes over the managerial reins of the seventh-place Cincinnati Reds tonight as the Redlegs open a two-game series here with Chicago Cubs.

The Rajah, recently named to succeed Luke Sewell as Reds' pilot, said he will handle the third-base coaching chores tonight.

Hornsby said yesterday: "I'm no diplomat and neither am I a Simon Legree.

"I don't pat guys on the back for what they are being paid to do. In that way, perhaps, I'm not a diplomat."

He declined to say whether he will make any drastic line-up changes. "I'll have to wait and see what we have," he said.

'My men will practise hard where I think they need it most. And they'll never stop trying, because hustle wins close baseball games."

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—There are men in the sports world who employ more polished English than Casey Stengel, the former left-handed dentist, but none to our knowledge who can get to the kernel of a matter more surely.

For example there is Casey's clear, concise estimate of his boy Mickey Mantle, who is being widely hailed at 20 as the game's next super-star.

"You take him," says Casey, "and he strikes out three or four times and you get to thinking maybe he ought to be taken out for a while and then he goes up there with the bases maybe loaded and hits one out of the park and you don't feel like that any more."

One Man's Opinion

It was unfortunate that the Olympic committee ever let itself be talked into making baseball an official part of the games. Baseball would have been as logical and it would have provided even more dandy vacations for the badge wearers.

Inclusion of the cage game has made no friends for anybody, especially for the United States. It was a made-up American game, and United States superiority was so great from the start that it was strictly no contest.

Other countries have resented this, especially when the deck is stacked with seven-footers whom they cannot match. Bob Kurland took an awful hiding from London crowds four years ago because of his height advantage.

The other countries are getting better. Maybe they will all catch up one of these Olympics and then there should be a good fight or two in every game. Also point spreads.

An Old Story

Bobby Shantz' tremendous job of pitching for the Athletics has served to revive what may well be the best of all the many Dizzy Dean stories.

It was in 1934, the year he won 30 for the Cardinals. After he had racked up No. 25, the great man declared grimly "I ain't gonna win another one.

"If I do, and then don't win better'n 26 next year, the club'll cut my salary."

That afternoon he shut out Brooklyn in the first game of a double-header and then watched his brother Paul top it with a no-hit, no-run effort.

Cards' Spark

There's something about an old Cardinal, by the way, which seems to set him apart. They never lose that spark. Johnny Hopp is 36, on the way out, and yet the other day he raced home from third after Phil Rizzuto had pulled down a simple pop-up to deep short and then flipped the ball carelessly to his second-baseman. Helped Detroit beat the Yanks, too.

You simply don't do that to old Cards. The Boston Red Sox lost a World Series back in 1946 because their shortstop, Johnny Pesky, took himself a brief nap while Country Slaughter was running the bases.

Slaughter is 36 now, too, yet is enjoying one of the great seasons of a fine career. Weighs 191, three pounds more than when he came to the big show in 1938.

He doesn't know how Manager Marty Marion got the idea last season that he, Slaughter, needed to be given a rest every now and then. Shucks, Country is a strong young fellow who needs to play regularly to keep himself in shape.

Corbin Gold Cup Tourney Rained Out, Prizes Distributed On The Basis of One Game

Well it happened.

But once in ten years is not bad.

The Corbin Gold Cup trophy contest at the Belleville Bowling club was rained out on the holiday after one full draw had been played and the prizes were distributed on that basis.

Never in the history of the club were the greens in such perfect condition and had not the rain come some excellent bowling would have been the order throughout the day. Cliff Argue and his committee are to be complimented on the arrangements provided, the women under Mrs. Gordon Vince, president of the women's section, for the wonderful meals provided and L. E. McLean, greens chairman and Jack Smith, greenskeeper for the wonderful greens. The visitors to the tournament, included rinks from Montreal to Hamilton, stated that in all their trips to this tournament the greens were never better.

Opened on Time

Despite threatening skies, the tournament was opened sharp on time by general chairman Cliff Argue and Ray Grant, president of club who welcomed the visitors and hoped that a pleasant day was in store for the bowlers. The "spider" was played when all the bowlers throwing one bowl apiece at the same time at the "kitty" placed in the centre of the green and this event was won by A. V. Whitman of Cornwall and then the bowlers really got down to business of trying to win the valuable prizes that were up for competition.

By the time the first half of the first game of the first draw was over rain began to fall but the players were able to finish the game and the scond half of the first draw was started. It was raining quite hard by this time ad the chairman asked the bowlers to finish the end being played and call off hostilities for an hour. At the end of that time the rain was still falling and water was lying inches deep in some places on the greens. The sun broke through and it was thought the complete draw could be finished and the local members went to work, got the water of the greens and rolled the top green and were half way through rolling the bottom greens when the rain really came down and it was decided that the games played should constitute the tourney.

Unfortunate Accident

An unfortunate accident occurred to a rink from Peterborough. When nearing Belleville between Foxboro and the city, the car in which they were riding went out of control on the slippery pavement, hit a pole and was a complete wreck. Fortunately the players were not injured to any extent and they proceeded the rest of the way to the city in a police cruiser and incidentally won their game against "Davey" Davison. In the first half of the draw no Belleville rink was able to win a game.

The visitors took the rain in their stride and bridge and rummy games were organized while the rain poured down. Everyone expressed their regrets to the Belleville club for not being able to finish the tournament and all promized to be back again next year.

Czech Runner, Emile Zatopek, Hero of Games

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HELSINKI (CP)—The 1952 games will be remembered as the Zatopek Olympics.

In a Canadian Press poll of sports writers, Emile Zatopek, the incomparable Czech runner, emerged incontestably as the individual star.

The games formed a brilliant jamboree of sports, where anybody who didn't break a record was practically passe the next afternoon. But Zatopek, running like a refugee from a Finnish steam bath to win the 5,000-metres, the 10,000 and the marathon, was the unanimous choice of a half dozen newspaper men to head the Olympics "big six."

Zatopek was picked by Ted Smits of The Associated Press, Vernon Morgan of Reuters News Agency, Bob Busby of the Kansas City Star, E. W. (Slipp) Carr of the Sydney (Australia) Daily Telegraph, John Beavan of the Manchester Guardian and Barney McElwaine of the London Sunday Pictorial.

Few of the writers could agree on the stars in the Czech's shadow. Votes ranged widely among a cast of champions, nearly every one a record-buster.

Most were in the realm of track and field but Smits went beyond that in putting on his list Canada's George Genereux, the 17-year-old high-school student from Saskatoon who won the Dominion's only gold medal in the clay-pigeon trapshooting event.

Smits said he picked Genereux largely because of the marksman's youth as well as his brilliant performance.

Five votes went to Australia's Marjorie Jackson, 21-year-old typist who ran the 200 in 23.4 seconds, two-tenths of a second better than the old world mark. She had previously broken the Olympic record and equalled the world mark in winning the 100-metre dash in 11.5.

"COOL CONTROL"
OVERHEAD BAIT CASTING

1 Control is all-important. Index finger of right hand grips trigger of rod firmly. Thumb rests lightly on spool. Other fingers press handle of rod into palm. Thumb should be relaxed, rest of grip firm but not rigid.

2 Control comes with experience. Practise moving rod back for cast, applying thumb pressure to allow weight of bait to carry tip of rod back, for extra casting power. Relax thumb pressure when rod begins forward movement; apply again just before bait hits water.

3 Keep arm close to body. Movement comes from wrist and forearm. Fingers on handle open as rod moves back, close as rod comes forward. Concentrate on wrist movement for accuracy. Aim; come back fast; forward twice as fast. Remember — only experience gives perfect control.

•

Yes, it's control that counts, in fishing as in every sport — control which brings the extra-ordinary quality that sets one performer above the other. In the ability to approach things coolly, to control every move and moment, lies the answer to better results.

United States With Rousing Finish Wins Olympic Games Title

Historians Will Need New Book to Take Care of Gigantic Sports Carnival at Helsinki

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HELSINKI (CP)—The 1952 Olympic Games is history now and painstaking historians will need a new book to take care of this gigantic sports carnival.

The end came in a beautiful Finnish twilight Sunday. There was solemn dignity in the final ceremonies when the flags of 70 countries were paraded before 65,000 persons in huge Olympic Stadium.

The ritual of extinguishing the Olympic torch was carried out. The youth of the world was summoned to meet in Melbourne, Australia, in 1956. The Olympic flag was lowered, cannon boomed and the gracious Finnish hosts said farewell to their guests.

But, like the circus that comes to town, these 1952 games were bigger and better, more stupendous and colossal, than any of the 14 games of the modern Olympic era.

More countries were entered, more athletes took part, performances were amazing. There was a minimum of incidents.

Russia competed for the first time. Germany and Japan were back again—their first appearance since the Second World War.

There were 5,780 athletes, representing 70 countries, at the games. Forty-nine of the 70 broke into the unofficial scoring column, which records the first six places in each event.

The United States, with a rousing finish Saturday, topped the list with 614 points. Russia, leader for 12 days, was second with 553½ points.

From there the long list trailed off to little Singapore, in 49th place with one point—scored for a sixth in the weightlifting featherweight class. Canada was 24th with 30 points, compared with a 20th place tie and 35 points in the 1948 games at London.

Only one Canadian won a gold medal—George Genereux, 17-year-old Saskatoon youth, champion in the clay pigeon section of the trapshooting tournament.

Somehow it was fitting that "God Save the Queen" was heard in the great stadium on Helsinki's golden Sunday. Britain's team won the Prix de Nations, colorful equestrian event that closes out the games. It was Britain's only championship through the 15 days of competition.

Russia scored points in 79 of the 151 Olympic championships. The United States tallied in 69.

The United States won 41 gold medals and Russia 23.

If it hadn't been for a couple of sharp-eyed marksmen, especially Genereux, the point accumulation for Canada could have been lost in a fair-sized ant hill.

Ten of Canada's 30 points came on the gold-medal victory of the Saskatoon sharpshooter in the clay pigeon trapshooting. Gilmoure Boa of Toronto added three more points by placing fourth in the small-bore, Prone-Position Section

The biggest disappointment was the track and field squad—both the men's and women's sections.

Canada had no points in track and field until almost the last event of the last day of that branch of the games. Then the men's 1,600-metre relay placed fourth. That meant three points in the unofficial standing, which is based on 10-5-4-3-2-1 for the first six places.

Compared with other leading countries of the Commonwealth, Canada is the poor cousin, not only in wealth of points at Helsinki but in accomplishment since 1948.

At the games in London, Australia finished 13th with 85 points; in Helsinki 11th with 97 points.

Four years ago South Africa and Canada were tied for 20th place with 35 points each. This year South Africa finished 14th with 67 points, compared with Canada's 24th place and 30 points.

Even little Jamaica, carried along by a fleet quartet of running stars, showed progress. In 1948 Jamaica was 22nd with 29 points; this time 20th with 39 points.

Sport in Brief

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A beaming Sam Snead, his lost confidence restored, looks eagerly to Thursday's start of golf's most fantastic money chase—the $90,000 "world championship" at Chicago's Tam O'Shanter Country Club.

First award in this 72-hole scramble of leading pros is $25,000, an unprecedented golf payoff that sets Snead and all the rest straining at the leash.

Sunday Snead scampered through a downpour that struck while he was on the eighth hole for a fourth round 65. This gave him a 271 total to breeze to victory in Tam's all-American tourney.

His 17-under-par tally was good for the $3,420 first prize with an eight stroke edge over Tommy Bolt, who finished second with 279 and won $2,360.

Grouped at 280 were Wally Ulrich, Jack Burke, Jr., and Cary Middlecoff, the all-American defending champion and leading money winner of the season.

Well down the list were the Canadian entrants, Stan Leonard of Vancouver with 301 and Pat Fletcher of Saskatoon with 316.

Coach Les Lear of Calgary Stampeders football team and linecoach Ed Champagne reserved plea and were remanded to Aug. 7 when they appeared in court in Calgary Saturday charged with assault occasioning bodily harm.

The charge was laid by Mel Embree, Negro end trying out for the Western Interprovincial Football Union team. Bail was set at $100.

Embree said that Lear and Champagne asked him to come to the dressing room following a practice Thursday and offered him a contract. He said the amounts in the contract were half what he was previously offered and he refused to sign. He said Lear and Champagne then "jumped" him.

Moncton Hawks officially withdrew from the Maritime Major Hockey League and Saint John Beavers forfeited their franchise by not attending a league meeting at Charlottetown Saturday.

The other teams—Halifax St Mary's, Charlottetown Islanders, Sydney Millionaires and Glace Bay Miners—said they would remain in the league but made plans for a shorter schedule and lower salaries.

Jack Langmuir of Brockville piloted his Runnin' Wild II to victory in the 225 class division I race here Saturday to take top honors in the annual Gravenhurst power boat regatta.

Some 4,200 spectators saw Langmuir place first and second in the two top heats to claim first place and add valuable points to his season total for the Canadian championship.

Syracuse Chiefs Split With Leafs In Twin Bill

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Syracuse Chiefs have three hefty sluggers who are giving the International League fences a thorough going over.

Fenton Mole is the leader of this murderous band with 18 homers—second to Baltimore's Roy Weatherly, who has 20. Johnny Blatnik has poled 17 and Hank Workman 14.

It was three home runs in the nightcap of last night's doubleheader against Toronto that gave the Chiefs a 6-3 victory and an even split after the Maple Leafs took the opener 4-1. The Chiefs remain in second place, 6½ games behind Montreal.

Mole Smashes Two

Mole, the powerful first-sacker, smashed two home runs for the third time this year.

The two clubs were tied 3-3 after the first five innings of the second game. Then Carden Gillenwater put Syracuse ahead with a shot over the left-field barrier in the sixth and the Chiefs were never in danger again. John Griffore, who pitched five innings, was credited with his 11th victory.

In the opener, Leafs got to Syracuse starter Arnie Landeck, early, pushing across one run in the second and adding three in the fourth. The big blow was Grover Bowers' bases-loaded single.

Winner Hal Hudson and reliever Ray Shore collaborated to hold the Chiefs to five singles.

Rain washed out games between Rochester and Montreal and Springfield and Buffalo, and a doubleheader between Baltimore and Ottawa.

Three World Records Broken In Post-Olympics Invitation Meet Between U.S., Empire

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Three world records were broken, another was equalled and sundry other times went by the boards yesterday in the traditional post-Olympics invitation meet between the United States and British Empire.

The Americans won it, but the cheers went to four Australian girls in the women's 400-metre relay as amends were made for a disastrous baton-dropping incident at Helsinki that cost Australia the Olympic title.

The Aussies ran the cocky and confident Americans into the ground, won by at least five yards and rubbed it in with a world record-breaking time of 46.3 seconds. Canada was fourth with 48.0 in the five-team event.

CANADA REPRESENTED

Canada was represented at today's meet, and that's the best that can be said of the Maple Leaf athletes. Oakville's Jack Ross and Vancouver's Jack Hutchins were on the British Empire's two-mile relay team that finished a feeble second to the U.S.

Bill Parnell, also Vancouver, anchored the British Empire four-mile relay team.

Another fourth for Canada was made by the women's 880-yard relay team. The Canadians were last all the way around.

Canadian discus thrower Roy Pella of Sudbury ranked fourth in the discus throw with a heave of 153 feet 1½ inches. Winner was James Dillion of the U.S. with 173-7½.

Canada's Victory Over Mexico 7th Since 1913

MONTREAL (AP)—Canada's five-match victory over Mexico in Davis Cup play last week-end marked the seventh time since 1913 that this country has won a round in this international tennis classic. Four of the triumphs were against Cuba.

The victory sends Canada against the United States here next weekend. The winner of this series takes on Italy, winner in the European zone, for the privilege of challenging Australia, present holder of the cup.

Canada's biggest year was 1913 when she made the final round, only to be downed by the United States 3-0. The Americans then went on to challenge and defeat Britain which held the cup.

In the first round that year, Canada first put South Africa away 3-1 and then beat Belgium 4-1 in the second round. This country's next four victories were chalked up against the hapless Cubans in 1924, 1925, 1933 and 1951.

Canada's victory over Mexico was her first in the three times the two countries have met. Mexico downed Canada 5-0 in 1946 and 4-1 in 1948.

Canada and the United States have met eight times in the past. Canada has never won, and in most cases has been beaten in straight matches.

In the two final singles matches against Mexico Sunday, Lorne Main downed Mario Llamas 6-4, 3-6, 6-8, 6-4, 6-1, and Brendan Macken disposed of Manuel Galeana 6-2, 6-3, 6-4.

These two victories gave Canada a clean sweep of the five-game series following victories in the two opening singles and Saturday's doubles.

Russia Claims Over-All Win At Olympics

HELSINKI (AP)—Russia yesterday claimed an overall victory in the Olympic Games with 494 points against 490.25 for the United States.

Apparently the Russians decided first place was worth only seven points instead of the 10 points awarded by the unofficial standard scoring method used on all Olympic Games since 1920.

Under the standard scoring method, the United States won the team victory with 614 points against 563½ for Russia.

The Russian statement made no explanation of how the Soviets got their point total, but papers in Moscow published a point system giving seven points for first place instead of 10.

Soviet Determined to Win Next Olympics in Australia

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW (AP)—Russia is going to the next Olympic Games in Australia determined to beat the United States and every other country in men's track and field events and swimming, and they've a good chance of doing it.

Anyone living here knows with what zeal they are going to throw themselves into the task and the assistance they will receive from the Soviet government and Communist party

Four years ago the central committee of the party set two goals—to win world championships and set world records in all major sports. Much has been accomplished by Soviet athletes since that time. The biggest thing, of course, was their participation in their first Olympics. And according to their calculations, they won it unqualifiedly.

But Russian men lagged behind in track and field events and performances of their men and women in swimming left much to be desired. They also lost to the United States in basketball and to Yugoslavia in football.

One can be almost certain there will be improvement in coming years.

RAIN DELAYS SEARCH

All Three I. C. Games Washed Out by Rain

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The weather pulled off a triple play in Monday's senior Intercounty Baseball League schedule, forcing postponement of three games with heavy showers at Galt and Waterloo.

Guelph was scheduled to play at Waterloo in the afternoon and move on to Galt in the evening while London was to move in under the lights at Waterloo.

In yesterday's lone game, Tom McGratton slammed a ninth-inning homer over the left field fence to give the second-place Brantford Red Sox a 5-4 victory over the tail-end St. Thomas Elgins.

The win moved the Sox to within four games of the league-leading Kitchener Panthers who bowed 3-2 to London Majors Saturday. It was Russ Evon's two-run ninth-inning four-bagger that did the damage with two out and the Majors trailing 2-1.

London jumped to within a single game of third-place Guelph Maple Leafs while Guelph was bowing 5-4 to Waterloo Tigers in a 13-inning thriller. Phil Marchildon pinch hit with two out and two on in the 13th, rapping out a clean single for Waterloo's winning tally.

Saturday's other game saw Galt Terriers down Brantford 4-1 with Irv Schupp on the mound. Mike Pontarelli led the Galt plate parade with three singles in five trips.

The average man today should carry several kinds of insurance. He's foolish not to—the cost is so little, considering the protection it gives.

His house, his place of business his other possessions, his family . . . all call for insurance of various kinds.

He should have insurance against loss by fire, theft and lawsuits. He should be protected against accidents to himself and family. He should be protected in case he or his family causes accidental injury to others.

There are at least 100 kinds of insurance protection today. The subject can become quite complex. But we eat, sleep and dream insurance, and it's simple to us.

A master bridge player is often relentless in his search for information about a slam. It is not unusual for him to employ some drastic bid to find out what he thinks he needs to know.

A deal held these hands:

NORTH

♥K
♦A K 10
♣A K J 10 2

WEST

♠Q 7 2
♥9 8 5
♦8 6 3 2
♣Q 5 4

EAST

♠6 4
♥A J 10 7 6 4 3
♦Q J 9
♣9

SOUTH

♠K J 8 5
♥Q 2
♦7 5 4
♣8 7 6 3

The bidding started with an opening of one club by north. East flung in a bid of three hearts. South and west passed. North doubled. It was a double for takeout; a request for partner to bid something.

If east did not intervene with a bid, south was then forced to bid. He is expected to show first if he has any four cards or more in an unbid major suit. He had. His spade suit had four cards.

So, when east passed the double, south came in with a bid of three spades. When this happened, north was quite confident that a game was there in the digger suit.

By now also, north had a strong suspicion there might even be a slam in their pair. A slam might well depend only on whether or not south had any kind of a fit in clubs.

To get this information, north must use some signal that forces south to bid again. Not only must he force south to bid again. He must do so within limits; before going beyond the depth of their pair.

If south is found without club support, north may assume they are reasonably safe up to a bid of five spades. So he must find a signal that will get a south reply within that range.

Unable to find a true signal that might answer his purpose, do you know what north did? He bid four hearts in the hope that south would interpret this as an overcall in an opponent suit.

This bid is not recommended with a partner of ordinary ability. But the north and south pair were master players. And it worked well in their case. More than a few words are needed to tell why.

Soldier's Story Hard to Believe

WITH THE 25TH DIVISION, Korea (AP)—When Cpl. Raul M. Menzer of Newburgh, N.Y., turned up at a medical aid station for treatment of a shoulder wound no one believed his story.

Menzer admits the skepticism was understandable.

The corporal was standing in a front-line bunker when a Communist mortar shell exploded nearby. The concussion snapped a wire supporting a rifle rack.

One of the rifles dropped to the floor of the bunker and was discharged by the impact. The bullet struck an iron ceiling support, shattering the iron and sending a sliver hurtling into Menzer's shoulder.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—To paraphrase the well-known song, Janet Blair is in love with a wonderful show.

This show is a little number called "South Pacific," and Miss Blair's affection for it knows no bounds. She has devoted two years of her life to it, neglecting the movies and other phases of her well-rounded career.

"I've done 919 performances, as of last night," she said. "I've never missed a show, although there were times when I felt like it. Sometimes I've had colds and could do little more than talk the songs. But I've always felt better after having gone on."

Strong-Minded

Janet is a strong-minded girl whenever her career is concerned. Her former boss, Harry Cohn of Columbia studios, found that out. She spent seven years on the lot, and the headman wanted her to sign on again. She refused.

Branching out independently, she did a season of summer stock (her only stage experience before "South Pacific"). She was one of the first film personalities to appear on television. Then she teamed with the Blackburn twins in a highly successful night club and theatre act. From there, she signed on as Ensign Nellie Forbush. So far, there's no end in sight. She could end up an admiral.

SAFE BLASTED OPEN

CHATHAM. (CP)—Thieves last night blasted open the safe at the brewers' warehouse here and escaped with between $500 and $1,000. It was the second attempt made to open the safe in three months. Thieves failed to crack the safe in June.

AT THE CAPITOL — Joan Fontaine and Ray Milland enact a stirring romance in George Stevens' "Something To Live For," Paramount picture opening Wednesday at the Capitol Theatre. This frank drama focuses on three young moderns recklessly seeking happiness at any price. Teresa Wright is also starred. On the same program — it rocks the screen with suspense—"The Steel Fist," starring Kristine Miller and Roddy McDowall. Both hits are first showings.

SENTENCED FOR ROBBERY

KOBE, Japan. (AP)— The Japanese district court at Kobe today sentenced two British sailors, Derek Smith and Peter Stinner of the British cruiser Belfast, to two years and six months in prison for robbery. First servicemen to be tried by the Japanese since the Pacific war, they were convicted of robbing a Japanese taxi driver of his cab and 1,700 yen $4.72 on June 29.

ARREST 7 YOUTHS

TORONTO, (CP)—Police today announced the smashing of a shop-breaking ring following the arrest of seven youth, four under sixteen.

They said eas-end premises raided in a series of break-ins during the last month include a school, a coal company office and several used-car lots. Officers said the thieves seldom took anything but money.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR WEDNESDAY, AUG. 6, 1952

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Mild tendencies for most endeavors but financial matters are highly favored now. More patience, caution urged in personal interests, mental work.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Practical matters, industry, trades, sound business and finances have benefic vibrations. Personal affairs ask calm, patient treatment.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Your Mercury stresses need for calm, analysis of important undertakings, matters which could cause losses. Day has favorable trends; can be gainful if handled wisely.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Neither stimulating nor retarding inclinations in your Moon's sector. Jupiter helpful to all managing their work and other interests astutely.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—Favorable aspects from your natal Sun and from Jupiter. It should be a productive day. But be careful in personal affairs, Venus holds up a cautiously restraining hand.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Help another where you can, but don't be over-critical or too insistent upon your way. Others often have wise plans, suggestions.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Do all you can well and at steady, non-exhausting tempo. Be your optimistic, albeit practical, self throughout.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—No need for over-force; day will yield more quickly with quiet treatment, intelligent, pleasant persuasion.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—A happy, ambitious way today will shine like a magic path to future accomplishments. Work along that magic path.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—The Sun and Jupiter are friendly planets to achievement in sound business, useful and needed matters, domestic transactions. Both are in fine configurations now.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—You can be a good influence on others this rather mixed, perhaps at times confusing day. Be not over-zealous. Moderation!

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Hope and confidence are our birthrights; nourish these with right living, prayer and sound education. Today challenges ingenuity, faith.

YOU BORN TODAY: Scintillating, interesting personality, can make friends readily and hold them when true to your finer traits. You have leadership qualities, perhaps dislike irksome details or small tasks and taking orders. Birthdate: Daniel O'Connell, Irish statesman; Alfred Lord Tennyson, Eng. poet; Louella Parsons, famous columnist.

Canada Agrees To Keep Fighter Wing in Britain

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada has agreed to keep her most experienced fighter wing in Britain to bolster British air defences until they can be brought up to something closer to adequate strength.

This means that in 1953 she will have sabre-jet squadrons in three overseas countries, Britain, France and Germany.

The No. 2 wing will be the first to go to France to join the Atlantic pact air force, flying directly from Canada.

The second wing, under Group Capt. J. K. MacDonald of Antogonish, N.S., is due to go to the Metz area of northeastern France this fall.

The third wing is expected to go to a base near Zweibrucken, Germany, about 50 miles east of Metz in 1953.

The No. 1 wing is at North Luffenham, England.

Polio Cases Continue To Climb in Alta.

EDMONTON (CP)—Western Canada's count of poliomyelitis cases continues to climb.

Four new cases in Alberta and two in Manitoba were reported yesterday bringing to 312 the number in the four western provinces. The number of deaths jumped to 17 with a report from British Columbia that three have died from the disease there.

Alberta's new cases all were reported in the Calgary district and brought that province's total to 88. Five have died in Alberta.

In Manitoba, two boys, both with partial paralysis, were stricken yesterday, boosting the total there to 86.

Manitoba's death toll from polio still stands at four. Saskatchewan's totals at last report were 95 cases and five deaths. British Columbia has reported 43 cases.

In southern Alberta, air cadets from Lethbridge and Taber areas were told they will not be allowed to attend summer camp at Abbottsford, B.C., because of the polio situation. The cadets were to have left tomorrow.

Calgary wading pools have been closed and drained. Theatres there have been requested to prohibit attendance of children under 16. Lethbridge swimming pools and playgrounds have been closed.

Little Benny's Note Book

After dinner pop's head started to bob, and ma said, Now William, stay awake, you know it cuts into your nite's sleep when you take a nap after dinner.

I beleeve it does, at that, pop said, and ma said. You know very well it does.

That's a fact, I'm sure it does, pop said, and ma said, And besides, there are certain ethical points about a man falling asleep in his chair.

Well yes, I supose I dont look very pritty, with my eyes closed and my mouth open, instead of the other way around, pop said, and ma said, That's not what I meant. I was thinking of an article I read by a famous sycologist and marriage counsellor. I wish I could think of his name, she said.

Was it Jones; pop said, and ma said, No, but that doesn't matter. Anyway, he's quite well known, and he claims that the divorce courts are full of women who complain that their husbands fall asleep regularly after dinner, she said, and pop said, by gollies it serves the men ritc.

I remember the sycologist's name now, it was Dr. Strunkmeyer, ma said, and pop said, A dock with a name like that must surely know what he's talking about.

His main point was, the period directly after dinner is the ideal time for the friendly interchange of ideas and so 4th, ma said. But naturelly when the man falls off into a deep slumber, it just naturelly blots out all possible conversation like a proverbial wet blanket. And of course there's a good deel of truth in it, dont you think so, William? Oh dear, he's sound asleep. Oh well, he looks so blissfully comfortable, I wont disterb him, she said.

Picturesque Names of Birds Often Describe Characteristics

Written for The Canadian Press
By PERCY GHENT

A study of bird names is half the battle in identification. Picturesque names frequently describe physical characteristics.

Baldpate ducks are named for that snowy patch on their bobbing pates. Razor-billed auks really have sharp bills, but they never need a shave. Nuthatches wedge soft-shelled nuts into bark crevices and "hatch" the kernels. Hoot owls, unlike many human folk of the superior type, do give a hoot for everything. Chickadees announce their name in their calls. So do the whip-poor-will, the flicker, the bob-white, bobolink, and many other species.

Easily Identified

Turnstones do just that when hunting for lunch on the seashore. Canvasback and pintail ducks have names betraying their appearance, and you know what to look for when identifying the golden-eye and the shoveller ducks, for the golden eye of one is easy to see and the spatulate bill of the other is a grand tool for exploring the mud.

Laughing loons have a laugh bordering on the hysterical. Kingbirds hold regal sway, and fearlessly, over feathered associates whether smaller or bigger than themselves. Oven birds build nests like a small outdoor oven. Cedar waxwings carry a bit of wax on their wings. Catbirds, though they can sing exquisite songs on occasion, get their name for their commoner caterwauling.

And so the list goes on indefinitely. Cardinals from their vivid coloring; scarlet tangers for the same reason; the saw-whet owl from his call.

Mountain "Magnificence"

Just back from a trip to Banff, Jasper and the Canadian Rockies, a Toronto amateur naturlist, after his first trip to the west, was asked what impressed him most in the mountain magnificence. "Mountain bluebirds and magpies," was his response, "and the mountains too, of course," was added as an afterthought.

Surging Political Development Shake Thrones of Monarchs

LONDON (AP)—Kings of the world, such as there are left, are having troubles these days. King Farouk I of Egypt has been banished into exile by a military coup; other monarchs in the Middle East are under pressure by their peoples demanding better living.

Political upheavals of the Second World War wiped out six monarchies. Other kings have abdicated for various reasons. Some have regency councils ruling for them.

All told, after the surging political developments of this century, there are a score of kingdoms of more or less importance around the world, and an empire or two.

The oldest reigning monarch in Europe, King Haakon VII, 80, sits on the Norwegian throne. He was crowned in 1905.

In England there is Queen Elizabeth II, who succeeded her father King George VI on his death last February. Frederik IX rules in Denmark, Gustav VI in Sweden, Juliana in The Netherlands, Baudouin I in Belgium and Paul I in Greece.

Other monarchies exist in Europe in Luxembourg, Monaco and in Lichtenstein. Kings also hold royal office in Egypt, Iraq, Iran, Saudi Arabia, Yemen, Libya, Jordan, Afghanistan, Nepal and Thailand. Emperors sit on the throne in Japan and Ethiopia.

But a regency council is actually ruling in Jordan, where King Talal is suffering from a mental ailment —and also in Iraq, where King Faisal II is not yet 18 years old. And a regency council will act for the newly proclaimed King Ahmed Fuad II of Egypt, deposed King Farouk's six-months-old son.

Prior to Farouk, the last King to abdicate was Leopold III of Belgium. He stepped aside in favor of his 20-year-old son, Baudouin, July 16, 1951 after a reign of 17 years. His enemies had accused him of being pro-German during the war.

The Second World War saw the end of monarchies in Romania, Italy, Hungary, Yugoslavia, Bulgarja and Albania.

Cedargrain Siding Shingles are another of the famous Johns-Manville asbestos-cement products. They can't burn, won't rot and never require painting to preserve them. (A big saving in upkeep, itself!) With the lovely new colours recently introduced, J-M research developed a smooth-surfaced shingle that retains the smart effect of deep graining. On old buildings or new, J-M Cedargrains combine attractive appearance with permanent sidewall protection.

For free literature on Cedargrains see your J-M dealer or write Canadian Johns-Manville, Dept. 31, 199 Bay St., Toronto.

Asbestos Achievements

TRANSITE ASBESTOS-CEMENT PIPE

Transite is the efficient, practical pipe for all pressure lines, sewage disposal and drainage purposes. Non-metallic, it can't rust, won't rot or corrode. Factory-precisioned couplings assure permanently tight joints. This feature in Transite House Connection Pipe, for example, keeps out sewer-clogging roots.

J-M PACKINGS AND GASKETS

Through its research in asbestos, J-M has developed an almost endless variety of highly efficient industrial packings and gaskets. Asbestos has the natural toughness and ability to resist heat which makes it ideal in every way for this purpose.

Summer Dream

By Irene Ernhart

Louis French did not seem surprised at his daughter's abrupt decision to return home at once. "I hate to see you cut your visit short, Laurie, but I'm grateful you came. I don't suppose there'll ever be another summer like this, with just us two together."

"No," Laurie answered. "There won't sever be another summer like this." But she wasn't thinking of her father. She was thinking of Steve, who was fond of her, but not in love with her.

All the way up to Capitol City her thoughts flew in dismal circles. How could Steve have kissed her that way if he didn't love her? And if he did love her how could he let her go like this, knowing he would never see her again? The thought of never seelook as though the whole world inside her.

"Laurie," her father said, "I hate to see you go away feeling like this."

"What do you mean?"

He gave her a quick sympathetic look. "It's quite obvious that something happened between you and Steve. I was afraid all along you were going to be hurt. I've watched you together and seen it growing —all summer long. I'm sorry it had to turn out like this."

"How do you know how it turned out?"

"Steve didn't even come to the house to say goodbye. And you look as thought the whole world has fallen to pieces."

"I think maybe it has," Laurie said.

They pulled into the airport, and her father parked the car. He carried her luggage in and checked it, found Bruno in the waiting room and brought him back out.

"Have a nice summer, Laurie?" Bruno asked.

There was a catch in Laurie's voice as she answered. "Wonderful, Bruno."

"You certainly are brown as a berry. Going to get married when you get home?"

"I don't think so," she said absently.

"Laurie's kind of upset, Bruno," her father said.

And then Laurie saw Steve coming down the walk from the parking lot. She waved and he came through the crowd, his big shoulders swinging. She saw that his face was taut and drawn, as he drew near.

"I couldn't stand to think of your going away feeling so hurt. You don't hate me, do you, Laurie?"

She shook her head. The plane was being called now and she saw Bruno and her father motioning to her.

"I wish there was more time so that I could make you see—" Steve said. "I'm going to miss you, Laurie." He kissed her, a quick, awkward, impersonal kiss.

All the way back to New York she kept going over the summer, day by day, and always she kept coming back to those words of Steve's "Our marriage would be wonderful for a while, but then it would start going to pieces." And when he had said, "You said once you didn't want to make a mistake like your mother did. Don't you realize this would be exactly the same sort of a mistake?"

She had never known before how being in love with someone could hurt. She had never dreamed that she could ever be so confused and miserable.

Mark and her mother met the plane in New York. Bruno had wired them. They knew the moment they saw Laurie that something was wrong.

Mark put his arms around her and kissed her. "You look wonderful, Laurie!" he said heartily. "Have a nice summer?"

"Yes, Mark, just lovely."

"I don't think she looks wonderful at all, Mark," Emmy said when they were in the car and driving toward the apartment. "I don't know how we'll ever get your skin in shape by October, Laurie. And what has happened to your hair? You look positively unkempt."

"Don't badger her, Emmy. She looks fine to me," Mark interrupted.

He changed the subject, for which Laurie was grateful. It had started to rain and the windshield wipers made little clacking noises above the murmur of Mark's voice as he talked to her mother in the front seat.

Looking at herself in the mirrored foyer of the apartment house as they waited for the elevator, Laurie saw that she was very pale. She did look different somehow. Older? Wiser? Or just sadder?

She waited until Mark had fixed them each a drink before she told them she had decided not to mary Fletcher. She knew it would precipitate a scene. And it did. She did not tell them about Steve. And in the end her mother said, "it's all Louis's doing. I knew it was a mistake for Laurie to go out there this summer. He's responsible for this. He did it to hurt me! He waited all these years!"

"Nonsense, Emmy, Louis couldn't hold a grudge 10 minutes and you know it," Mark put in.

"Dad had nothing to do with it," Laurie said. She flushed and gulped her drink.

She was glad when she could escape and go to her own room. She went in and shut the door and went to the window and stood looking out. The rain had stopped now, but the trees were dripping. She watched the traffic go by, the lights of the cars sending long yellow pennants across the wet pavements.

It wasn't peaceful like the country. She missed the sound of tree toads in the woods, and water going over the riffle in the river. She missed a lot of things. Most of all she missed Steve.

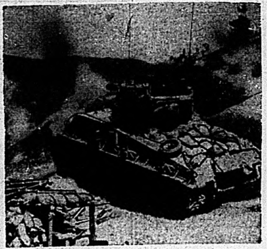
Action Limited, But Still Action



Although ground action in Korea continues to be light, according to communiques, this U.N. tank is blasting away at Communist positions in the hills. Heavy rains have practically ended fighting in some sections, but holding gained territory remains a problem.—Central Press Canadian.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was smoking to himself and looking glad of it, and ma said, I was reeding over that article by Dr. Strunkmeyer again William. You remember, the famous sycologist and marriage counsellor. He lays grate stress on the harmful effects of repression, she said.

Maybe he's got something there, pop said. I think I'll start to eat more and stop repressing the naturel instinct of my waist line to expand. It's not fair to an important section of my anatomy, he said, and ma said, What Dr. Strunkmeyer meant was, married cupples should speek out frankly to each other about their unconscious faults and blemishes, instead of allowing them to rankle in our subconscious. I'm sure I'm willing to be frank with you if you are with me, William, she said.

Oh, absilutely, I'll go ferst, pop said. Now for exzmple you have the darndest habit of making a noise like a peenut whissle in your sleep. I suppose it's your way of snoring, he said, and ma said, William Potts I do not.

How do you know what your unconscious faults are? pop said. And then another thing, when you eat cellery I often wonder if the peeple next store can hear you, he said, and ma said, Now really, I mean really, that's litterly beyond the pail.

I take it all back, pop said. The fact is, my dear, you have no faults or blemishes, either conscious or unconscious, he said, and ma said, Why William, how nice. Well, neither have you, William, I meen at least to all intents and perposes, she said.

Being the happy end.

Tribute Paid Great Economic Growth in Canada

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A United States congressman today pointed to Canada's great economic growth as one of the chief reasons for the understanding and good will existing between the two countries.

Representative William E. Miller (Rep. N.Y.) spoke to 400 governmental and business leaders of the two countries attending a luncheon here in observance of Canada Day.

Earlier, representatives of the U.S. and Canada met in the centre of the Peace Bridge to commemorate the 25th anniversary of the opening of the structure. The span connects Buffalo and Fort Erie.

Immigration Minister Harris of Canada said that any decision made by the U.S. in international affairs "is certain to have an effect on the destiny of Canada."

Mayor Joseph Mruk of Buffalo welcomed Mayor Charles H. Price of Fort Erie and other Canadian officials and businessmen.

Montreal Blast Remains Mystery

MONTREAL (CP)—A mysterious blast or explosion that shook widely-separated sections of Montreal Saturday remains just that —a mystery.

The blast described gentrally as a "jolt," was felt in the north, east and downtown sections. Police could find no trace or damage or injury, the fire department said no large fires were reported, the water works company could find nothing wrong.

An electronic expert said it could have been the shock caused when an aircraft reached the speed of sound but other experts said such a shock would only be felt over a half-mile area.

The theory of an underground explosion, perhaps caused by sewer gas collecting in water mains, was advanced but here too it was no dice.

INVASION FLOPS

BERLIN (AP)—The Communists labored to advertise a mountainous raid on West Berlin Sunday and brought forth a mouse. Only 2,000 blue-shirted Communist Free German Youth answered a clarion call to demonstrate for "peace and unity" along the frontier and also inside the western sectors. The ragged turnout puzzled West Berlin authorities, who had played it safe by bracing their entire police force for any eventuality.

Social Credit Party Returns to Power In Sweeping Win

Tidal Wave at Polls Drowns Liberal, C.C.F. Bid

EDMONTON (CP)—The Social Credit party, back in power in Alberta for its fifth consecutive term, again will have an overwhelming majority in the next legislature.

That was assured yesterday in the provincial general election when 43-year-old Premier E.C. Manning, youngest provincial chieftain in Canada, led his party back to about the same commanding position it held at dissolution.

When counting ended last night, this was the party standing compared with the results of the 1948 election:

SC	41	51
Lib.	1	2
CCF	1	2
Ind.-SC	1	1
Ind.	—	1
Doubtful	17	1
Total	61	57

The Social Credit tidal wave at the polls, especially at rural points, drowned the bids of the Liberals and the C.C.F. to break the government's 17-year hold on the oil-rich province. It all but washed away legislature opposition from party rebels and wasn't affected by the limited revival of the Progressive Conservative movement in the province.

Manning Heads Poll

Mr. Manning, who became premier after the death in 1943 of William Aberhart, party leader in Social Credit's first sweep in 1935, won personal victory in Edmonton where he headed the polls against 28 other candidates.

Liberal Leader J. Harper Prowse unsuccessful in his second attempt to become the first Alberta Liberal Premier since 1921, and veteran C.C.F. chief Elmer E. Roper also were re-elected in the seven-member Edmonton riding.

All but one of the nine cabinet ministers standing for re-election were returned. Attorney-General Lucien Maynard was leading in St. Albert constituency when vote counting ended late last night but a second count was necessary there. A second count also was required in Willingdon before it would be known if all of the 12 party originals of 1235 still loyal to the government would be returned.

The Cardston and Lacombe seats vacated by Mines Minister N.E. Tanner and Public Works Minister D.B. MacMillan, both retiring, were retained by Social Credit.

A shuffle of cabinet posts now is one of the first tasks of Premier Manning as he embarks on another term of office. He has announced he will take over the mines portfolio of Mr. Tanner himself and delegate the latter's lands and forests job to another minister. Mr. Manning also is expected to relinquish his post of provincial treasurer to someone else.

Fourteen Guards At Bordeaux Jail Are Questioned

MONTREAL (CP) — Fifteen guards at Montreal's Bordeaux Jail were questioned yesterday as a special provincial police board of inquiry began investigation of Friday's rioting.

It was the first step in efforts to uncover the identity of prisoners responsible for the second disturbance in less than three months in the jail.

Norbert Labbe, provincial police officer in charge, said that once sufficient evidence was obtained, a full report would be submitted to the attorney-general's department at Quebec.

Labbe said any action taken would likely include charges of inciting a riot, causing damage to property, conspiracy and assault against jail guards.

Six Red MIGs Drowned in Four Air Battles

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—The United States fifth air force said its Sabre jet pilots shot down six Communist MIGs today in four separate air battles over North Korea, raising to 10 the number of Russian-built jet fighters destroyed in two days.

The air force said one MIG was damaged in today's scraps, involving Sabre pilots of the 4th and 51st fighter-interceptor wings.

"We are happy to see them come up, . . the more that come up the more we can blast down," said Col. Harrison R. Thyng, commander of the fourth wing.

Swarm Over Targets

By noon today, the fifth air force said, Allied planes had destroyed four enemy boxcars and damaged eight, smashed four road bridges and one rail bridge and knocked out seven mortar positions.

On the ground, troops sweltered in 100-degree temperature. Fighting was generally light.

A U. S. Eighth army spokesman said only 84 Red soldiers were captured in July, believed to be a new low for the entire war. He listed enemy casualties for the month as 4,499 killed and 4,389 wounded—lowest since March.

Mossback Club Goes Into Action At Centennial

ST. THOMAS (CP)—It cost money for a man to show his face in St. Thomas yesterday without a beard.

The Mossback Club went into action, arresting beardless men on their jobs and hauling them before a special court where they were fined $1 apiece and given a shave permit. Bearded men escaped the penalty.

The club functioned in connection with the St. Thomas and Elgin County centennial celebration. It was Port Stanley Day and thousands of cars poured into the resort village on Lake Erie to celebrate.

Last night the Earl of Elgin laid the cornerstone of the new $3,500 000 St. Thomas-Elgin general hospital.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO — (CP) — Synopsis: Cool weather continues today over Ontario although most regions will see more sunshine than yesterday. A few light showers may occur over central regions tonight, otherwise skies will be mainly clear. Thursday will be generally sunny in all regions with temperatures the same as or a little higher than today.

HIGH POSITION

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — Leslie Loucks, an employee of the public utilities commission, had the task of painting the city's 79 metal lamp posts, using a none-too-steady 20-foot ladder. He said the height didn't bother him; only the thought that he might spill paint on some husky pedestrian.

BUSY ROAD-BUILDERS

GRANDE PRAIRIE, Alta. (CP)—Plans for the biggest road program in the district's history have been made by the county council. More than $150,000 has been earmarked for construction of more than 100 miles of road and surfacing of another 55 miles.

Boy of Seven Reads Encyclopedias, Almanacs, Studies Radio Engineering

TUJUNGA, Calif. (AP)—Leonard Ross' parents are trying hard to make him believe he's just like other youngsters, but it isn't easy. How many boys seven years old are studying radio engineering?

Or like to read encyclopedias and almanacs? Or can add fractions in their heads? Or memorize the names of the kings of England and presidents of the United States, just for fun?

Occasionally Mr. and Mrs. William Ross forget that Lenny is a boy and discuss such things as politics with him as though he were an adult.

Lenny recently passed two stiff federal communications commission examinations, one for a novice radio operator's licence and the other for a commercial radio operator's certificate. The second test required the ability to send and receive at least five words a minute in morse code.

A prodigy? Lenny's mother, a court reporter, tries to scoff at the idea. But she admits that her son has been reading since he was 3. He's used an electric typewriter, adding machine and an office calculator for three years.

SWEDEN FIRES STRONG PROTESTS AT SOVIET UNION

Hints She Might Take Quarrel to The U.N.

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Sweden fired two more strong protests at Russia yesterday and hinted she might take to the United Nations her quarrel with the Soviets over the shooting down of two unarmed Swedish planes last June.

Swedish Foreign Minister Oesten Unden summoned the Soviet ambassador, Rear-Admiral Constantine Rodionov, and handed him two notes, one of which asked Moscow to order its diplomats here to stop spying on Swedish military establishments.

In the fifth of a series of protests over the plane shootings, Sweden expressed "surprise and regret" at Russia's refusal to let the international court of justice pass on Swedish charges that the aircraft were shot down over international waters.

The note served notice that the Swedes "reserve their full right to revert to the matter in the form and at the time they will find suitable."

This was interpreted in diplomatic circles as an indication that Sweden might take the issue to the next session of the U.N. General Assembly. At stake, in the Swedish view, is freedom of the Baltic Sea where the planes were lost last June.

The note demanding that Russia curb Soviet spy activity in Sweden referred to the six-week trial, ended last week, in which two Swedish Communists were given life sentences and four others sentenced to up to seven years. They were convicted of turning over vital secrets of Sweden's northern military defences to the reds.

"By the sentence rendered. . .it has been established," the note said, "that the principal defendant in that case (Communist Fritiof Enbom) has had contacts with representatives of the Soviet intelligence service and acted in their employ and that he has received remuneration in money for his services."

Fourteen Red Leaders Indicted For Conspiracy

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Fourteen California Communist leaders were convicted yesterday on a federal indictment charging that they conspired to teach and advocate overthrowing the government by force and violence.

They are in jail pending a hearing today on a defence motion urging U.S. Judge William C. Mathes to reverse the unanimous verdict of the jury of eight women and four men.

The jurors had the case under deliveration since last Thursday. Their verdict against each defendant was unanimous.

The trial, longest in a Los Angeles federal court, lasted six months, compared with nine months required to try and convict 11 top Communists in New York city in 1949. The charges are virtually identical, the maximum penalties being five years in prison, $10,000 fine, or both.

Thirteen of the California defendants have been at liberty under $5,000 and $10,000 bail. The 14th, Mrs. Oleta O'Connor Yates, 43, San Francisco, northern California party secretary, was jailed Juhe 26 by Judge Mathes for contempt of court for refusing to answer questions about other persons suspected of being Communists. Mrs. Yates also faces sentencing on 14 counts of contempt.

George McCullagh, Publisher Of Globe and Mail, Telegram Dies Suddenly of Heart Attack

TORONTO (CP)—George McCullagh, who sold newspapers first when he was nine and became the publisher of the Toronto Globe and Mail and The Telegram, died last night at the age of 47.

Family physicians said he suffered three heart attacks in quick succession at his home in Thornhill, a Toronto suburb. Death struck unexpectedly at a time when he seemed to be recovering from a long siege of recurring illness.

Funeral arrangements will be announced today.

George McCullagh, son of a London, Ont., cabinet-maker, knew hardship in his youth. All through his schooling he delivered papers to help support the family. He had to get a full-time job after six months of high school.

National Figure

But in his 30s he had become a national figure, dubbed "Canada's Wonder Boy" by one magazine. He made a fortune in the Toronto financial field. Backed by William H. Wright, multi-millionaire mining man who died in 1951, he bought two Toronto papers and combined them in the Globe and Mail which he established in one of North America's most beautiful newspaper buildings.

Three-and-a-half years ago he bought the Toronto Evening Telegram for $3,610,000 to become publisher of two of Toronto's three dailies. The other is the Star.

Mr. McCullagh's widow, the former Phyllis Laidlaw whom he married in 1929, survives with two sons, Robert John and George, and a daughter, Ann Caroline. Other relatives include four sisters: Mrs. Harold Godber of Montreal and Mrs. Gordon Morris, Mrs. Ralph Blackmore and Mrs. Thelma Thompson, all of Toronto.

GEORGE McCULLAGH

George McCullagh's childhood was spent on Askin street in south London, a workingman's district: He died on a 100-acre country estate.

That change in circumstances is typical of his Horatio Alger career poor boy to rich executive. Leaders of church, state and business paid him tribute on his death.

"In every respect he was a truly great Canadian," said George Drew leader of the opposition in the House of Commons. "Few men have given more unselfish public service."

Premier Frost of Ontario was "inexpressably shocked" on learning of Mr. McCullagh's death. "Still a young man with a great contribution to make to his country, his passing is a very heavy loss. In his comparatively short life he was able to accomplish great things. A forthright, courageous man, he gave everything in the causes he espoused. He was generous to a fault."

United Nations Seen Embarking On Systematic Campaign to Break Resistance in Korea

By C. YATES McDANIEL

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United Nations command has embarked on a systematic bombing campaign deliberately calculated to destroy the enemy's will to hold out against an armistice in Korea.

Military officials here placed this interpretation on the Tokyo announcement that military targets in 78 North Korean centres have been selected for destruction, after civilians have been warned that bombs are coming their way.

A precedent for telling enemy civilians that their cities were doomed was established in the final chapter of the Second World War against Japan.

No Hint of Atom Bombs

Disclosure of the scheduled effort to smash North Korea's will to continue resistance held no hint, however of atomic bombings or the kind of mass-destruction raids that were launched against German and Japanese cities during the last war.

The U.N. command and more than 1,500,000 leaflets have told North Korean civilians that the allied air forces "must destroy all Communist military supplies and installations—and it knows where they are."

U.N. intelligence has known for a long time that the Reds have been using cities and towns to house troops and supplies and for important headquarters and military communications centres. The allies hit some of these objectives earlier in the war but generally tried to avoid bombing population centres unless urgent military needs dictated otherwise.

The psychological angle is frankly calculated to wear down the will of civilians and their leaders and thus to weaken the enemy's war effort.

IMPROVING CITY

MONCTON, N.B. (CP)—The 1952 paving contract for the city of Moncton went to a firm in Saint John, N.B., for sidewalk work and re-surfacing of several streets. City council passed an appropriation of $200,000 for the various projects.

BUILDING BOOM

REGINA (CP)—City building inspector H. A. Jones predicts 1952 will be Regina's biggest construction year since 1929. He expects total value of building permits will reach $7,000,000 by the year's end, up $1,000,000 from last year but still below 1929's record of $10,000,000.

Socreds Receive 54.2 Per Cent Of Votes Polled

EDMONTON (CP)—The Social Credit administration of Alberta was re-elected with an over-all majority of the votes cast, incomplete returns indicate.

A Canadian Press tabulation of returns from more than half the polls showed Premier E. C. Manning and his followers received 54.2 per cent of the votes. This compared with 56 per cent in the 1948 election and 52 per cent in 1944.

The Liberal party gained a higher proportion of votes than in 1948—with 24.9 per cent compared with 18 per cent.

C.C.F. support dropped from 19 per cent to 15.1. The share of independent and other candidates dropped from seven per cent in 1948 to 5.8 per cent.

The party vote compared with vote in the last two elections (percentages of total vote bracketed):

	1952		1948
SC	90,594	(54.2)	164,003	(56)
Ind	—	(—)	9,014	(3)
CCF	25,175	(15.1)	56,655	(19)
Lib	41,672	(24.9)	52,655	(18)
Others	9,718	(5.8)	12,734	(4)
Totals	167,159		294,793

(1,586 of 2,855 polls reported) ..

(These figures, however, do not indicate the total number of voters but the votes cast. In this election there were one six-member constituency in which each voter could mark his ballot for six candidates and one seven-member constituency in which he could vote for seven.)

Not Interested In Hitching Rides

PRINCE RUPERT, B. C. (CP)—James Cusack has started on a hike across Canada with a reminder to motorists that he isn't interested in hitching rides.

At noon yesterday Cusack strapped a 35-pound pack on his back and, with supreme confidence in the toughness of his feet, began a 4,000-mile journey from Prince Rupert to St. Johns, Nfld.

He plans to hoof it all the way with the exception of taking a boat from the mainland to the island province.

MINISTERS HEAD INTO TALKS FOR DEFENCE PACT

Australia, New Zealand And U.S. Taking Part

By LEIF ERICKSON

HONOLULU (AP)—Foreign ministers of Australia, New Zealand and the United States today headed into talks on formation of a military staff for the Anzus mutual defence pact.

One other item remains on the agenda of the ministers' closed session—relations of the Anzus countries with other nations and regional associations in the Pacific.

The conference was due to end today.

A spokesman said a discussion of Pacific security problems that began yesterday would continue this morning.

Seven-Hour Talk

State Secretary Dean Acheson of the U.S., chairman of the conference, and Richard G. Casey and T. Clifton Webb, Australia and New Zealand ministers of external affairs, respectively, spent seven hours yesterday discussing areas and situations of common concern. Details were not announced.

An Australian spokesman said there was a difference of emphasis in some of the views but no disagreement. A U.S. spokesman added that the exchange of views was frank, but that no decisions were sought or taken.

Military advisers of all three countries participated in the afternoon talks.

The discussion dealt with the Communist threat in the Pacific. Earlier, the conference reviewed the world strategic situation, a spokesman said, "with emphasis on the threat of Soviet imperialism."

Election May Open Door Says Paper

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says today that with the reelection of Alberta's Social Credit government the door may be open for construction of an all-Canadian natural gas pipeline.

The pipeline would transport Alberta gas to supply Ontario and Quebec gas needs.

The paper says in a newspage story that "top-level, top-secret negotiations" by Ottawa, Ontario and Alberta officials during the past month "brought the pipeline to the stage that virtually all that was needed was the return of the Marming government."

The project could be killed by the Federal Power Commission in Washington today if it grants an application by Toronto's Consumers' Gas Company and the Tennessee Gas Transmission Company for a pipeline to bring Texas gas to Ontario.

If Washington refuses the application "the all-Canadian pipeline should be feeding gas into Ontario by 1956."

PLANT MANY TREES

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask. (CP)—The provincial forestry branch planted 225,000 new trees in Saskatchewan this summer. Biggest single project was planting of 240,000 pine, larch and spruce trees in the Fort a La Corne district east of here.

Army Engineers Produce Man-Made 'Saucers' Says Washington Paper

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Evening Star says today that U.S. army engineers, working with a vacuum bell in a laboratory, have produced atmospheric phenomena which may explain the widespread reports of "flying saucers."

In a copyright story by W.H. Shippen, the Star says the experiments created airborne objects which "can speed up, hover indefintely, or disappear and reappear in a flash."

It adds:

'The man-made saucers" occasionally fly in formation. Moreover, they are believed to have substance enough to show up on the screen of a radar designed to track them."

What the experimentors did, the Star said, was use the vacuum bell as a tiny working-model of the stratosphere and reproduce "two forces—very low air pressure which is balanced against static electricity in a way to give off light."

"Experimenters in the research and development laboratory at Fort belvoir (Va.) believe these two are the primary factors responsible for saucer sightings by competent observers."

During a night of rain last night radar screens, scanning the skies over Washington, showed a flurry of mystery objects.

In line with the theory that they are atmospheric phenomena, an air force spokesman noted that the radar sightings—tiny blips on a fluorescent screen—started about the time a thunderstorm hit the area.

Canadian Dollar Hits Highest Level In Nineteen Years

Quoted in N.Y. at 1.04 3-16 In Terms of U.S. Currency

NEW YORK (CP)—The Canadian dollar hit its highest level in 19 years today when it was quoted at $1.04 3-16 in terms of U.S. currency.

Its all-time high was set Nov. 16, 1933, when it rose to $1.05½ when foreign-exchange dealers were acting on rumors of an increase in the U.S. price for gold.

Just a month ago it reached $1.04⅛ but dropped back slightly.

The low point of the Canadian dollar was 77.75 cents U.S., recorded between May 25 and June 1, 1940, when the fall of France created a wave of pessimism among foreign-exchange traders dealing in currencies of the belligerent countries.

That low, however, came at a time when the Canadian dollar was at a controlled price of 90 cents and the free market in New York was a limited one.

The other low mark of the Canadian dollar was in December, 1931, near the bottom of the depression when it was at a discount of 21¼ per cent.

The Canadian dollar began its present rise nearly two years ago when the Canadian government relaxed controls and left it virtually free to find its own level after having been at a 10-per cent discount.

It jumped to around 95 cents in terms of U.S. funds and when Canada dropped all foreign-exchange controls in December, 1951, the dollar's upward pace quickened.

Since then, spurred by demands abroad for Canadian currency and by an influx of U.S. investors into the Canadian market, the Canadian dollar has risen steadily.

Greece Orders Troops to Back Ultimatum Given

SALONIKA, Greece (Reuters)—Greece today ordered in troops, troops with shoot-to-kill instructions to back up an ultimatum handed yesterday to Bulgarian Communist forces occupying a frontier river island claimed by Greece.

The little island of Gama lies in the middle of the River Evross, which flows between Greece and the Communist state. Troops along the Greek shore have been ordered to take it over and to return fire if the Bulgarians resist.

The orders climax a long dispute over the island which broke out afresh last month when Bulgarians occupied it in a series of armed clashes.

Two years ago Bulgaria refused to accept a United Nations suggestion for a joint Greek-Bulgarian committee to settle the dispute.

The Greek authorities yesterday gave the Bulgarians an ultimatum to get off the island by today. Reports from the border said three Bulgarians were still on the island at dawn, but have since disappeared.

INDIVIDUAL TREATMENT

WINNIPEG (CP)—Finance committee of city council shelves a letter from the school board urging fluoridation of Winnipeg water supplies. Ald. Maude McCreery asked "can't they buy tablets or something and put them in drinking water for table use?"

Mrs. Ben Bernie Signs Complaint Against Showman

Mrs. Bernie claims that Rose libeled her in obtaining an affidavit from her former maid, Alberta Jones of Los Angeles.

In New York, Rose said the maid was one of his witnesses in his divorce action against his wife, and that he understood the libel complaint to be based on his use of the maid's affidavit.

Ten Homes Damaged By Heavy Blast

CRAIGS, Pa. (AP)—A truck loaded with dynamite blew up yesterday in this tiny mine-farm community, damaging 10 homes—the entire town—and injuring nine persons, one seriously. No deaths were reported.

Police said truck driver Frank Barnhardt, 23, had leaped safely off the truck before the terrific blast that was heard for miles around. The driver suffered injury when bowled over by the concussion.

The truck was blown to bits and a huge hole was torn in the highway.

R.A.F. Pilot Hammers Way Out of Plane

SOUTH GLASTONBURY, Conn. (AP)—An R.A.F. pilot, trapped in a powerless Sabre-jet F-86, hammered his way out and parachuted to safety seconds before the plane crashed yesterday.

Flt. Lt. James L. Dell, training here with the United States Air Force, was returning to Westover Field when his plane ran out of fuel.

Dell said he was about 10,000 feet in a heavy overcast when the plane failed. He pulled the button to open the canopy over the cockpit and eject him from the plane.

The mechanism jammed and Dell found himself trapped in the falling jet. He stood up and battered the canopy with his arms and helmet until it opened. He said he was at 4,000 feet when he finally freed himself and jumped.

The abandoned plane plowed into the ground in a patch of woods. The impact was followed by an explosion. The fire touched off machine-gun bullets carried in the plane and police and firemen had to take cover as the ammunition whizzed through the trees.

Girl Resting Comfortably In Hospital

Ann McClatchie, 12-year-old girl from Delhi, Ontario, who has been holidaying north of the city and who was injured in a fishing accident over the weekend is reported to be resting comfortably in Belleville General Hospital.

The little girl was injured in the eye by a fish hook on Civic Holiday. According to her mother, Ann was in a boat with her father, her sister and her brother fishing on Weslemkoon Lake at the time of the accident. She went to the rear of the boat and her brother, unaware of her position caught her in the eye as he was casting.

Hospital authorities say she is quite comfortable and eating and sleeping well. Mrs. S. F. McClatchie, the girl's mother, reports little will be known for at least 10 days as to whether or not the sight in the injured eye will be retained.

Firemen Win Softball Game From Police, 22-6

The police softballers are screaming for revenge today following a 22-6 beating they received Tuesday night at the fairgrounds from the hands of the city firemen.

It was the first clash of the two teams this year and on the night's play the Provincial Police proved no match for their firefighting opposition. The firemen scored in every inning to pile up an early lead and were never headed.

Halloran pitched a steady game for the firemen and the police boys had little success with his slants. On the other hand the firemen had no trouble with the offerings of Rackham and Tasker who tossed them up for the keepers of law and order.

The police boys say they are having a practice game with the air force boys at Six-Ardee Friday night and next week will seek revenge from the firemen.

Blaze Roars Out of Control At Arnprior

ARNPRIOR (CP)—A fire roared out of control in the heart of Arnprior's business section today, sweeping through a novelty shop and endangering adjacent buildings.

The flames gained considerable headway before they were discovered in the upper floor of a three-storey brick building housing Stedman's novelty shop.

Volunteer firemen, who brought every available hoseline into operation, concentrated on saving adjacent building.

Nearby premises threatened were the H.D. McCord drug store, a large chain grocery, the T. Eaton Company's mail order office and the Mainview photographic studios in the heat of this town of about 4,000 population.

Arnprior is 35 miles west of Ottawa.

Budget Features Tax Reductions And Revisions

CANBERRA (Reuters)—The 1952-53 Australian budget, introduced today by treasury chief Sir Arthur Fadden, features substantial tax reductions and revisions totalling £49,570,000 ($111,036,800.) Businessmen will be the chief beneficiaries of these concessions.

The budget also provides for increased pensions and social welfare allowances.

Fadden said he hoped tax revisions will "serve as an incentive to investors, businessmen and the community as a whole."

"We are making reductions to the very limit of our budget capacity," he added.

Tax Reductions

Main tax reductions Fadden announced were these:

1. Abolition of a special 10-percent income tax levy imposed last year.

2. Reduction of two shillings (about 23 cents) in public company tax rate on the first £5,000 $11,200 of taxable income.

3. Termination of system of advance payments by companies.

4. Reduction of general sales tax rates from 66 2-3 per cent to 50 per cent. Luxury goods, cosmetics, sports equipment, toys and radios are products which will be cheaper because of this measure.

Dew Worm-Bass Combination Best For Maskinonge

Marmora—A dew worm - bass combination is proving an effective lure for muskies in Crowe Lake, two miles west of this village.

He got the familiar "bass" strike and was hauling in the catch when a savage tug warned him of bigger game.

Then followed a 25-minute battle. The big fish, a fighting lunge, broke water six times before plunging in a spiral dive to lake bottom.

This was evidenced in the line which was found wrapped around its body when the muskie was boated. It measured 42 inches from nose to the "V" of the tail.

Later a small black bass which had taken the worm, was found in the muskie's stomach.

According to Austin Peters, Marble Point Lodge proprietor, this is the third time the worm-bass duo has proven successful.

Pickerel are biting well in Crowe Lake. Several ranging between five and seven pounds have been taken recently.

Canadian Soldier Given 3 Years For Shooting

SEOUL, Korea (Reuters)—A Canadian soldier was sentenced today to three years in prison for shooting an elderly Korean woman after a drinking party.

A Canadian court martial convicted Pte. Clarence Leo Mowers, 24, of Sillery, Que., on a charge of manslaughter. The original charge of murder was dropped after the woman's husband and brother pleaded for clemency in the cause of world peace.

Mowers had been accused of killing Mrs. Ho Jin in the small village of Shin Shan, last May.

Mowers pleaded not guilty to a charge of murder when his court martial opened July 30.

Another Canadian soldier, Pte. Kenneth Carleton of St. John's, Nfld., is alleged to have been Mowers' accomplice and is to be tried on a similar charge later.

Witnesses testified that two soldiers entered a house in the village May 18 and killed the woman. One Korean woman said the two men were drunk and one fired shots into the floor of her house.

Newly-Installed Water System Assists in Saving Driveshed

Chance demonstration to a neighbor of a recently installed water system was instrumental in saving a large driveshed from fire on the farm of Harold Woods, 4th concession of Ameliasburgh township.

Near the supper hour Tuesday Mr. Woods was showing a neighbor his new water pressure system and as they left the building saw the farm tractor in the driveshed ablaze. A chain was quickly hitched from a second tractor and the blazing machine was hauled to the roadway. Just as the burning machine reached the roadway the gasoline tank exploded.

The blaze had caught into a partition in the driveshed and was running up into baled hay but Mr. Woods was able to control the blaze until the arrival of the Belleville Fire Department.

Firemen stated that only small damage resulted to the driveshed, while the tractor was considerably damaged.

The tractor is believed to have caught fire from a short circuit as the machine had not been used for three days.

Pipeline Company Detonates Five Tons of Explosives, Blast Rocks Glen Miller

Trenton (Special)—A series of terrific explosions at Glen Miller, four miles north of here, rocked the countryside and wrecked havoc in the east side of this little papermill town at 7.30 p.m. last evening. Five tons of powerful gelenite blew 6,000 cubic feet of bedrock from the bottom of the Trent river sky high as part of an underwater ditch was blasted free for placing a section of an oil pipeline crossing the country north of here.

Only half of the blasting was done yesterday and in a week's time the other half will be blown. The concussion from yesterday's blast shattered scores of windows, shifted chimneys so they stand today in a crazy grotesque fashion and moved a garage six inches off its foundation.

This reporter was stationed on the east side of the river less than 500 feet from the explosion. A dull thud followed by a sharp report shattered the quiet of the countryside. Tons of water soared toward the heavens rising higher and higher until the main body appeared to blend in with the sky.

The explosions reminded one of the fire from a giant Vickers machine gun sweeping across the surface of the river. The earth underfoot trembled and the view appeaed fuzzy, like an out-of-focus picture.

The huge column of water appeared to be falling down on top of our head as it started falling earthward. Chunks of the riverbed could be seen flying through the air ahead of the water.

Took Cover

A shelter underneath a dock made of two inch plank found a willing customer when the first pieces of stone peppered on the pavement not too far away. The shelter could have been larger because several worried moments passed while pieces of shattered rock splattered on the riverbank behind us.

When we came out of hiding tiny drops of cooling water (reminding us of the mist in Scotland) fell down on our upturned face still watching out for falling debris.

We had not had time to witness the commotion that was going on in the village not more than 40 feet behind us. The roadway was a scene of strewn litter and the residents were running about talking in excited voices.

As we walked down the streets scenes from bombed towns in the south of England flashed back in our memory. Windows in houses fronting the blast were knocked out. A huge great dane dog was running around Sherman Peterson's yard barking wildly.

Chickens in coops behind the houses could be heard cackling excitedly. Residents were gathered in little groups all along the road gesticulating with their hands and pointing to their damaged buildings.

Women Frightened

One resident who freely admitted he took to his heels when he heard the rocks falling around him said he saw frightened women with babes in arms running down the roadway after the report shook the riverside community.

Children he said, screamed darting in all directions, while men took cover under cars.

The explosion was felt distinctly at Middleton Park, five miles south near Trenton where dishes flew off shelves and windows rattled dangerously.

The street running parallel with the river was littered with shattered rocks, some pieces the size of a pea, others bigger than a football.

Five minutes before the explosion was set off from a house on the west side of the river a provincial police car from Belleville patrolled sides of the river sounding a siren as a warning for residents to get back a safe distance and take cover.

Escaped Injury

Sherman Peterson and his wife were told their home would be a safe shelter. They were sitting in the parlor when a piece of bedrock as large as a man's head crashed through the kitchen roof a few feet away. The piece tore a gap in the ceiling and ripped a hole in the floor disappearing into the ground below.

Harold Wickens of Trenton was standing near his parked car within 500 feet of the blasting. A jagged chunk of stone whizzed by him smashing a deep gash in the side of his new car. "I can't figure out why somebody wasn't killed," he remarked as he viewed the damage to his car.

Damage to property may run into five figures a business man estimated. The residents of Glen Miller claim they aren't concerned however, because the pipeline company has promised to pay for the repairs.

Rough Water Cancels Flight

TRENTON. (Special).—A light plane on floats from Rochester, was towed back to the docks at the Trenton Air Station yesterday afternoon when the pilot decided not to take a chance of taking off in the rough, wind-swept water out in the bay. Two crash boats from the Marine section secured a line to the aircraft wallowing helplessly in rough water.

The pilot flying from Rochester to Westport, N.Y., dropped into Trenton to clear customs. His job finished he was continuing on schedule when the rough water halted the flight.

Flyers Rescue Sinking Sailors

TRENTON. (Special) — Two youths from Trenton were rescued from a sinking sailboat a half mile offshore from the air station yesterday afternoon after an alert reporter from the Ontario Intelligencer riding along highway No. 2 in a car saw the craft turn over and turned in the alarm.

Three members of the marine section at the south side rushed to the youths' assistance in a high speed rescue boat.

J. Anderson and Ronald Towns of Trenton, were sailing the Trenton Sea Cadets' whaler in rough water a half mile off the 5 R.D. road. The boat capsized in a squall throwing the two youths into the water.

The rescue boat secured a line to the whaler and she was towed back to the marine section dock.

The youths were soaked but none the worse for their experience. One of them felt terribly embarrassed because he happened to be a sea cadet with considerable sailing experience.

DRIVERS TOO SMART

VANCOUVER (CP)—A driving instructor here suggested that "dumber persons" make better drivers. "Once the dumb student grasps the mechanics of driving he remembers them," he said. "It's the briny ones that give us the trouble."

Greasy Pavements Given as Cause For Accidents

TRENTON. (Special) — What may have been their busiest holiday went down in the records of the Trenton Police Department Monday. A total of eight accidents were listed during the day, five of them happened in less than two hours between 6:00 p.m. and 8:00 p.m.

Considerable material damage resulted from the numerous motor accidents but no injuries were reported.

An unusual crash between two cars on the town bridge snarled traffic in long lines. Two cars travelling west on the bridge became involved and ended up sideways of the structure facing north. They were jammed tight together and a lot of pushing and pulling transpired before they were parted.

The costliest accident occurred at the top of Dundas street in front of Firhurst Manor. A truck and a car collided head on. Police figured it would cost $525 to fix both vehicles.

All told during the weekend police recorded 14 traffic accidents. Many of them were the result of greasy pavement caused by the rain.

TRAFFIC HELD UP

A carelessly thrown cigaret butt held up traffic here for a half hour last Friday. The lighted stubb lodged in a crevice on the swing section of the bridge crossing the Trent river causing a fire. Firemen with the pumper parked on the span took plenty of time making certain all embers were cold before returning to the firehall. In the meantime motor traffic glutted the downtown section of the town.

CAUGHT LARGE PIKE

Police Sgt. Gordon Steenburg on holidays was among local fishermen who had hefty evidence to show to his friends on return from a fishing trip to the pier at the mouth of the Murray canal on the Bay of Quinte side. He brought back a big pike, which weighed about 10 (not official) pounds. The day previous he bagged four pike in the two pound class. With him yesterday were his brother, Bill Steenberg and Lorne Vieau.

Pilot, Two Other Crew Members Missing in Crash

TOKYO (AP)—A bomb-laden B-29 Superfort, bound for North Korea, crashed and burned tonight four minutes after it took off from Yokota air base west of Tokyo.

Far East Air Forces headquarters said nine crew members made low-altitude parachute leaps before the crash but the pilot and two other crew members were missing.

Kyodo news agency quoted Japanese police that the three missing men had died in the crash.

The pilot released the bombs with fuses inactivated before the impact. Police said one exploded in some unexplained manner and slightly injured an elderly Japanese man.

Some Early History Of Ketcheson Family

The following account of the Ketcheson family from a newspaper clipping probably published in a Vancouver paper about 1900, was made available to the Ontario Intelligencer by Miss Martha E. Hamilton, 178 Bridge Street East. The clipping was found in Vancouver among the effects of Miss Hamilton's sister.

The Orono (Ont.) News of the 22nd inst., says: The name of the late Colonel Ketcheson found in connection with the wedding notice of one of his descendants in our marriage column, will revive the past in the minds of many of our readers. The Ketcheson family is one of the oldest and most substantial in the province, and its history is intimately associated with the history of the country, and with the history of the Methodist Church in Upper Canada.

William Ketcheson, the Colonel's father, was a Yorkshireman, who came when fifteen years of age with his grandfather to one of the New England Colonies. On the breaking out of the revolutionary war in 1775 he enlisted as a soldier and joined the dragoons After the war he carried his family to Nova Scotia, but a fire consuming all his property he came to Ontario in 1787, and settled at Hay Bay, in Fredericksburg. Here shortly afterwards he took an active part in the erection of the first Methodist church ever built in Canada. From a beam of this church, at the time of the centenary a few years ago, a handsome staff was fashioned, and this is annually transmitted as the insignia of office by the retiring President of the Bay of Quinte Conference to his successor.

Colonel William Ketcheson, the son of this Loyalist, dragoon and pioneer, was born in 1782. He served with distinction in the war of 1812. In the early decades of the century his well appointed home in Sidney was a centre from which radiated influences that were powerful and benign. He was one of nature's noblemen. To the weary Methodist clergyman of that early day Squire Ketcheson's home was a veritable oasis in the desert, and his hospitality was proverbial. The Rev. George Payter the historian, acknowledged his indebtedness to him for much valuable information pertaining to the work of early Methodism, and was wont affectionately to speak of him as "My old friend." The grand old man lived to a great age and left a posterity who are true to the traditions of their family and staunch supporters of the church of their fathers.

Two Masked Men Escape With $320 At Maidstone

MAIDSTONE — (CP) — Two masked men escaped with $320 early today after forcing the proprietor of a restaurant to hand over the money at gunpoint.

The two men stopped George and Gertrude O'Neill as they were walking from their restaurant to their home nearby. One man jammed a shotgun in O-Neill's back and forced him to hand over closing time receipts.

The two men then drove away in an automobile which was parked nearby.

Maidstone is eight miles southeast of Windsor.

Morgan's Expense Allowance Paid Off Says Witness

WINDSOR (CP)—The application of East Windsor hospital superintendent Dr. P. J. G. Morgan's $6,000 annual expense allowance probably saved the hospital 10 times that amount annually, a provincial government commission was told yesterday.

R. J. Moore, city budget director and a member of the hospital's financial advisory committee, told the commission which is investigating the hospital's affairs, that Dr. Morgan saved the hospital that amount "by politics and pull".

"A lot of good business can be done over a bottle of good whisky," he said.

He agreed with a suggestion by Norman Mathews, counsel for Dr. Morgan, that lobbying by the superintendent was responsible for a $1.10 per diem increase in the provincial government grant for hospital patients. From 1947 to 1951 the grant rose from 40 cents daily to $1.50.

Highway Patrol Appeals for Aid

WACO, Tex. (AP)—The Texas Highway Patrol, still trying to identify dead and find out how many were killed in Monday's bus collision near here, appealed for aid today.

Only 14 of 28 bodies recovered from the charred wreckage of the two Greyhound buses had been identified. Three other persons were known dead but a pile of blackened bones and shriveled flesh defied identification.

Capt. Sam Gardner of the highway patrol made the appeal for help in identifying the bodies. Authorities said it may take days to identify the rest of the dead.

Candidates May Have to Clarify Views on Issue

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mounting furore over civil rights may force the two United States presidential candidates to clarify their views on this controversial issue.

Conflicting interpretations cropped up in the Democratic camp on the stand being taken by that party's nominee, Governor Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the Republican nominee, said in a Los Angeles speech last night he favors making the promise of equality "a living fact for every American"—seemingly a stronger statement than any made in his party's platform.

Heat On Stevenson

Because some southern states bolted on the civil-rights issue in 1948, the heat is on Stevenson from opposing camps in his party to declare himself.

While Governor Hugh White of Mississippi was coming out of a conference with Stevenson yesterday to say he thinks the governor will take a moderate attitude on civil rights, Senator Herbert H. Lehman of New York was sounding a different tune here. Lehman said he expects Stevenson and Senator John Sparkman of Alabama, Democratic vice-presidential nominee, to "accept the full letter and spirit" of the Democratic platform civil-rights plank.

Called For Legislation

That plank called for federal legislation for equal opportunity in employment for negroes and other minority groups, security of person and for equal participation in political life. Another section pledged efforts to modify the senate debate rule under which filibusters have prevented action on civil-rights legislation.

Stevenson has said he favors state action on the equality in employment issue, with the government stepping in only when the states fail to act. Governor James F. Byrnes of South Carolina called that a sugar-coated view unacceptable to the south.

Lehman ridiculed a statement signed by 16 Republican leaders last Sunday asserting that election of Eisenhower would speed the enactment of federal fair employment legislation.

This statement indicated the group may have been putting pressure on Eisenhower to alter his view that civil-rights issues should be left to the states.

Junior CCF Group Wants National Health Scheme

TORONTO (CP)—The three-day national C.C.F. convention opened here today amid indications that some of the questions raised during the Co-operative Commonwealth Youth Movement conference will be discussed anew.

The 11th national convention of the junior C.C.F. group ended a three-day meeting yesterday in which delegates called for a national health insurance scheme.

Failing this, a resolution asked for a study by provincial governments of preventive medicine programs, a firmer approach towards the exploitation of Canadian resources by the United States and abolition of the Senate.

Delegates to the C.C.Y.M. condemned the use of atomic weapons and jellied gasoline bombs in a resolution that was not unanimous. A minority held it was illogical to condemn these weapons without condemning war itself.

The convention dealt with three other resolutions.

One concerned Tunisia and referred to the "most recent case of French colonial interest which denied the legitimate national aspirations of the people there."

Another expressed fear at Spain's application for admission to U.N.E.S.C.O. It called on Canadians to protest the possible admittance and to rouse public opinion against it.

The third, tabled indefinitely, asked the national C.C.F. to examine obstacles in the way of world peace and to ask the federal government what sacrifices Canada is willing to make for the establishment of world peace.

The idea, delegates said, was that the Communists should not have the sole prerogative in making peace proposals.

Crop-Reviving Storms Bring Welcome Relief to Farmers

CHICAGO (AP)—Nature—or professional rainmakers—brought crop-reviving storms to Connecticut's dusty-dry tobacco and vegetable farms yesterday, and more scattered showers sprinkled the drought-seared South.

Less than 18 hours after a firm hired by farmers seeded the clouds with chemicals, electrical storms raced from west to east across Connecticut.

The storms dumped from one-half to 1½ inches of rain over most of the state. The rainmakers were not ready to make any claims, however. A firm said results of a single day did not constitute conclusive proof.

The rain also hit other parts of parched ew England, Boston recording 2.33 inches.

The rainfall was the first substantial one in eastern Massachusetts in 37 days. It brought some relief from a multi-million-dollar drought that has withered thousands of acres of crops and caused hundreds of forest fires.

The drought has destroyed more than $500,000,000 worth of corn, tobacco, cotton and vegetable crops in the South and East. Withered pastures have caused a feed problem for livestock.

TWO YEARS NOT ENOUGH

Many will be inclined to believe that the two-year jail term imposed by a Toronto court on a Don jail guard who earlier admitted having agreed to smuggle hacksaws and guns into the prison to facilitate the escape of an alleged killer and bank robber, is not sufficient punishment to fit the crime.

As a guard in the penal institution, this man has demonstrated a betrayal of public trust. Because of his position on the security staff, this man realized the consequences of his act perhaps more than many other individuals. Yet for a few dollars (and he received payment in counterfeit money) he was willing to jeopardize the lives of innocent people by rearming a desperado for another shooting war with society.

The public has reason to believe that when thieves and killers are sentenced to jail, a sincere effort will be made to keep them behind bars. Public confidence is shaken when it learns that those whom it pays to keep inmates confined are conspiring to bring about their release. Had this attempted jail break succeeded and had more lives been lost, this guard would have faced a more serious charge. He was willing to take that chance, but it seems that a mere two years in the penitentiary is inadequate for this criminal act.

NOW A BIGGER AND BETTER LIBRARY

Those who have been privileged to visit the Parliamentary Library behind the House of Commons in Ottawa will keenly regret the recent fire which resulted in damage by water of thousands of volumes of valuable books. The Parliamentary Library was spared when fire destroyed the House of Commons in 1916 but Fate has willed that the entire library would not survive until the new library, promised during the last session of Parliament, is completed.

Besides books on countless subjects, the library contained the storied history of Canada, dating from before Confederation. Copies of every book published and every newspaper in Canada were to be seen at the Parliamentary Library. In addition to reading material, the library also contained some aspects of a museum because in the library were early Canadian coins, charts used by the early explorers and many samples of pioneer craftsmanship.

From the ruins of the old parliament buildings sprung the elegant Canadian East Block where the nation's lawmakers confer in reserved splendor. This structure reflects credit to Canada. So it will be with the new library when it is built. But it is hoped that when this building is completed, adequate precautions will be taken against fire and other loss so that the history of Canada may be kept in safety for future generations to see.

THE RAINS CAME

Hundreds of holiday makers had their Civic Holiday spoiled on Monday as a result of the rain which washed out many plans for holiday enjoyment. Because of the rain, play in the lawn bowling tournament here which attracted contestants from as far distant as California was suspended. Similarly, the entire program at Picton where the Canadian boating championships were to be decided, was not completed. The regatta also attracted many visitors from distant points.

Besides the sport tournaments, picnic plans were curtailed and the rain blamed for marring the mid-summer holiday highlight.

Despite the inconvenience, all will agree that the rain was a good thing. Crops in the district have been denied moisture for many weeks and prospects for a normal crop, were fast growing dim. Already the winter wheat harvest is far below expectations, the wheat ripening under the torrid sun without first filling out. With the rain on the holiday, prospects for a reasonable crop of corn and tomatoes have been enhanced. What is important is that the rain aided crops which were in dire need. Under these circumstances, the fact that many holiday plans were ruined is of no consequence.

JUST FOLKS

MY GLAMOROUS BLONDE

There is no fool, as we are told,
So silly as a fool grown old.
Yet there's a glamorous blue-eyed blonde
Of whom 'tis plain I'm overfond.
And loved ones say with some alarm:
"Grandpa has fallen for her charm."

It never once occurred to me
So captivated I could be,
And live to be the gray-haired chap
Who'd take a blonde upon his lap
While resting in his favorite chair,
And run my fingers through her hair.

Now as an old fool I behave,
About her loveliness I rave.
In all this world, it seems to me,
There's none so beautiful as she.
A gorgeous blonde! Must you be told?
She's Janny's baby — ten months old.

98,057 Immigrants Reach Canada in First Six Months

OTTAWA (CP)—A total of 98,057 immigrants reached Canada in the first six months of this year compared with 79,785 in the corresponding period of 1951, an increase of 18,272.

If the trend could be continued, Canada would have a near-record year for immigration. However Immigration Minister Harris has said he expects the movement of new citizens to this country to drop in the last six months. Certain categories of workers will not be admitted after October

A total of 194,000 immigrants were admitted in 1951—the largest number for any year back to 1913 when approximately 500,000 entered Canada.

The total for the first six months of this year included 54,103 workers and 43,954 dependents.

The number of British immigrants jumped 63 per cent—totalling 23,001 compared with 14,130 in the corresponding six months of 1951. The number of British exceeded by about 8,000 the total from any other country.

A slight increase was shown in the number of French immigrants. They totalled 2,767 compared with 2,272.

The total of all northern European immigrants was up about 40 per cent at 38,478 against 27,427. Arrivals from the United States totalled 3,931 compared with 3,688, an increase of seven per cent.

Canadians returning from the United States also increased by about 33 per cent with 2,404 returning in the first six months compared with 1,825.

Immigration from other than Britain, United States, France and northern European countries was down five per cent, totalling 32,647 compared with 34,540 for the first half of 1951.

Story of International Swindler Revived by Manitoba Historian

WINNIPEG (CP)—Seventy-eight years ago a notorious international confidence man and swindler committed suicide in the tiny settlement of Headingley, five miles west of here, rather than face justice.

In the space of six years before he died, Aug. 1, 1874, he swindled trusted friends on two continents of untold thousands and precipitated an international situation that threatened to become as stormy as his own brief career.

His identity remains a mystery. But as far as history is concerned, he was Lord Gordon Robert, possibly a Canadian.

His exploits have become a favorite topic among historians. The latest account is published in a pamphlet covering three papers recently read before the Historical and Scientific Society of Manitoba. The article was written by J. L. Johnston.

Started In 1868

Ostensibly a polished English gentleman, Lord Gordon as he was known here, first appeared at Glenisla, Scotland, in 1868. As the "Hon. Mr. Hamilton" he let it be known he was heir to the dormant earldom of Glencairn and to a vast fortune held in chancery.

Two years later he vanished with a small fortune bilked from friends and leaving unpaid accounts.

In the summer of 1871, he turned up at an hotel at Minneapolis, Minn., where letters were received addressed to "Lord Gordon Gordon."

Twenty-thousand dollars were deposited in a Minneapolis bank and overnight Lord Gordon became a local celebrity. He mixed pleasure with talk of transporting "poor" folk from his British estates to settle in Minnesota.

Natural Lure

Lord Gordon and his talk of settlers was a natural lure to railway agents. He was courted and entertained.

Colonel J. Loomis, land commissioner of the Northern Pacific Railway, "spent $45,000 of railway money but told his directors the noble lord would spend $5,000,000 with them."

Lord Gordon achieved his greatest success in New York and made his first blunder. Railway officials again were his prey after he produced excellent credentials.

He barely escaped after trying to swindle Jay Gould, U.S. railway magnate, of valuable stocks and $200,000. The money was returned and Lord Gordon arrested for felony. He fled to Canada when friends posted $37,000 bail.

Whisked To Border

Later he came to Manitoba and lived at a boarding house in Headingley. Two American detectives, armed with a doubtful warrant, followed him. Lord Gordon was seized and whisked to the U.S. border at Pembina.

The detectives were brought back to Winnipeg—then Fort Garry—and charged with kidnapping. Powerful protests from both sides of the border stopped when the men pleaded guilty and received a 24-hour jail sentence. Sir John A. Macdonald, then prime minister helped gain their release. Gordon, for the moment was free.

When British investigators caught up with him at Headingley he shot himself through the head.

Record of his life on this side of the ocean, including hotel bills, have been preserved, but his correct name has never been discovered.

One article published 53 years ago says his parents were cultured and well-travelled. But it adds they were leaders in a group engaged in international smuggling from the island of Jersey.

Churchill Govt. Reaches Summer Recess With Unity Intact

By FRASER WIGHTON

LONDON (Reuters)—The Conservative government reached the parliamentary summer recess at the week-end with its essential unity intact after nine turbulent months in power.

Public irritation has resulted from the government's handling of a number of minor issues but a few conservative falls from grace will not, in the long run, affect the country's assessment of it.

When the time comes for another election Prime Minister Churchill will stand or fall by the all-important job of putting Britain's economy on a firm basis.

The Labor party, meanwhile, is having a heavy time of it. Its period in opposition has revealed dangerous schisms and splits and the emergency of a growing struggle between Aneurin Bevan's left wing and the official Labor leadership headed by former Prime Minister Clement Attlee.

This serious breach was underlined last week in personal clash in which Attlee rebuked Bevan publicly for referring to confidential cabinet discussions in parliament. The left-winger threw the charge back in his leader's teeth.

Yet, public opinion polls indicate labor would go back into power if there were an election tomorrow.

A straw poll held recently showed 50 per cent of those approached said they would vote labor if there were an election, compared with 40 per cent still in favor of the Conservatives.

But there is no likelihood of an election in the near future. Churchill's over-all majority of seven in the 625-seat parliament is adequate for all purposes.

Letter to the Editor

Alarmed by Proposal

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

I read with interest the letter in Thursday's paper from "A Visitor" to Belleville in which he expressed admiration for Zwick's Island as a Beauty Spot. One has only to go there to understand how many have found a place for enjoyment. Two of our local clubs did an admirable job of reclaiming the Island and preparing a park, playground, and resting place for all.

In contrast to this, I have viewed with disgust and alarm, the plan of our city council to move the dump to the island's very border. Who could possibly enjoy a picnic, ball game or any of the present features with the stench that would inevitably cover the whole district?

There is approximately six feet of water in the marsh in question and how anyone proposes to dump the garbage in there and conduct it on the pattern of land fill is indeed a mystery.

I have been told on good authority that a high percentage of all the garbage collected could be burned. Why is it not feasible for Belleville to acquire 20 to 30 acres of waste land outside the city limits, dispose of the garbage in a trench to be burned and covered immediately. Several towns employ this method with complete success.

Immediately across the highway from the proposed site is a marsh that was built up a few years ago to an area of approximately seven acres. This was sold for $100 and remains an eyesore to all who pass.

Too, the intake to the city's water system will be about 200 yards from this garbage dump. Even with the sewage wall, is it not an alarming thought?

Is Belleville, then, to proceed with this dump project on her front doorstep or further develop Zwick's Island to be enjoyed by her appreciative citizens and to be remembered by her many welcome visitors?

Thanking you for your valuable space,

"Worried".

TONSILLECTOMY HAS A HIGH MORTALITY

Miss Jane Doe, we'll call her, age 18, died Monday while having her tonsils removed under anesthesia in the operating room at Patients' Hospital, we'll call it. Dr. John Doe, we'll call him, deputy coroner, said the cause was difficult to determine without an autopsy, and that no one could be blamed for the death.

The item is quoted from a newspaper report, except the identifying names.

A medical colleague sends it, with this comment:

"How right you are in your teachings. . . This time the 'cause was difficult to determine'. The girl, age 18, was too old for the scapegoat thymus or status thymicolymphaticus."

(——— ———, M.D.)

The coroner's deputy didn't know the cause of death, but he knew no one could be blamed for the girl's death.

That may be so, if there was no alternative for the major operation. I wonder how the doctor or doctors who advised the girl to submit to tonsillectomy feel about it.

For that matter, I wonder how any doctor who has figured in such a tragedy feels about it.

Once again I tell the world there is a comparatively safe alternative for tonsillectomy in most instances, namely, tonsillotomy, which means instantaneously slicing off the obstructing portion of the tonsil, a procedure which requires only local anesthesia. Tonsillotomy was formerly the standard method of "removing" tonsils. It went out of fashion only because the modern trick specialists, the ever-ready operators invented the slogan "get all the tonsil"—as though tonsil tissue in itself is harmful. With this wicked, unscientific invention, the ever-ready operators stampeded the dumb rank and file of the profession into wholesale tonsil and adenoid operations which amounted to wholesale malpractice in the early decades of this century.

As for the treatment of infected tonsils, it is my belief and advice that one subject to any trouble ascribed to infected tonsils should choose electro-coagulation (diathermy) treatment at the hands of a physician skilled in this method. It is safe, whether the subject is a good risk for surgery or not, and, so far as I can learn by long study and observation, it gives results at least as good as any one can expect from radical surgery.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

NATURE AND LAW

The laws of nature are universal ones, and they have been the same since the beginning of the world. Through these laws nature takes care of herself in a most remarkable manner. Injure a tree, or let it come by accident, and immediately nature's physician gets busy, working his chemicals and protection until the wound is healed, and the tree preserved.

Near my summer island retreat a destructive fire burned out many acres of wooded land where blueberry bushes were abundant, but after the fire those bushes sprang to life anew, and the berries were better and bigger than before. We can pasture in nature as the cows do, and gain contentment thereby, for nature is the "mother of humanity" as a great writer has stated.

Nature nourishes man as well as herself, but did she not obey the laws of nature there would be a different story to this world of ours. The farmer knows just when to plant and how to plant and cultivate because he abides by the laws of nature. God nourishes man and all nature. He made the laws by which she exists and he has never changed them since the beginning of time. And they are all simple laws.

Wouldn't it be wonderful if we humans could live by a group of simple laws instead of adding new ones year by year, about which but a comparatively few know anything? Self-made laws, created and kept, would be better. You can't get very close to nature without realizing how simple and permanent her laws are. Her chemicals are created and applied without any help from man. She teaches man all he has learned from life.

When we violate the laws of nature in ourselves we get rapid punishment without access to a human court of law, and there is no excusing of the offence. Nature is strict and stern! And she wastes nothing. If society adopted her laws this would be a better and a happier world in which to live. All of God is in nature.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

TRUE JOY

"Who for the joy that was set before him endured the cross despising the shame. . . ."

This verse refers to our Lord's reaction to the experience of crucifixion. He endured the cross because of the joy that was set before Him. This is incredible. Did He really enjoy suffering? No more than you and I enjoy it; but this suffering was the means to a great end, and the achieving of that end for Him the consummation of all joy.

The soldier does not like to be wounded, but he loves victory so much that he is willing to be wounded in achieving it. Would you not be willing to go through an experience of crucifixion for some loved one? Would you not pour out everything you are in order that a son or daughter or spouse or friend might enter into some great opportunity? Yes, you would do all his. You would gladly fashion your life after the great spiritual pattern which results in true happiness.

For happiness comes not from getting something for one's self but in giving something for someone else. It is the experience of self-effacement, sacrifice —crucifixion if you will—which brings peace and blessedness into one's life. The Bible bids us look "unto Jesus who for the joy that was set before Him, endured the cross, despising the shame, and is set down at the right hand of the throne of God."

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The old boy who cuts my grass and does the serious digging in my garden assures me that the real trouble with the world nowadays, especially the younger generation, is that they don't want to get their hands dirty. If there is one characteristic of these times, he says, that covers the whole trend of the era, it is the universal distaste for soiling one's hands.

Everything promotes the growth of this attitude. A few years ago, when all stoves were wood or coal burners, you had to get your hands dirty to light them. Now you turn a button. Even to light a lamp, you had to trim the wick or clean the soot out of the chimney. Now you push a button. In the domestic sphere, only a few years back, in the ordinary household routine, there was something you had to wash off your hands, dust from the cellar, juice from the oranges you squeezed, mud off the boots you changed when you came indoors. Now the juice is in cans, the cellar is a playroom, and you can't get mud on your shoes when even the side drive is paved, and you step from the car right into the house. Clean hands are the fetish of our time.

In industry, the pick and shovel have all but vanished, the forges are electric, the tools are greaseless, and all men stand back from their jobs with a length of steel between them and it. You never see a soiled mechanic any more, and rarely a murky laborer. A curly-headed youth can grease your car without getting a smudge, and the garage man can chang a tire by remote control. Overalls that used to be blue or black went to khaki, and lately are changing to white.

Blue jeans are garments of fashion now. And my old gardener can't get a young fellow to be his helper, because in gardening, you have to get your hands into it, and grab hold of it up to your elbows, in loam and rumps and mould and worse. A green thumb grows on a dirty hand.

"Somebody ought to remind this generation," says my gardener, bitterly," that there is such a thing as soap and water."

Apples, Pears, Plums and Grapes Will be Down

OTTAWA (CP)—There won't be quite so many apples, pears, plums and grapes around this year as there was in 1951.

The bureau of statistics in its first estimate of Canada's 1952 fruit crops, said yields of these fruits will be moderately smaller than last year. But output of all other fruits will be "up to some extent" and the apricot crop is expected to show a large increase.

The Canadian apple crop is at present estimated at 12,844,000 bushels compared with 13,613,000 last year.

The pear crop is put at 973,000 bushels compared with 1,201,000, plums and prunes at 623,000 compared with 674,000 and grapes at 88,275,000 pounds compared with 88,303,000 pounds.

The yield of peaches is expected to increase to 2,019,000 bushels compared with 1,766,000, apricots to 337,000 from 49,000 bushels and cherries to 635,000 from 428,000 bushels.

Partial Eclipse Of The Moon Scares Formosans

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—Superstitious Formosans beat drums and exploded firecrackers to drive away evil spirits they believed responsible for a partial eclipse of the moon early today.

A mild earthquake was noted in Taipeh this afternoon but no damage was reported.

A Chinese Nationalist newspaper reported that Yung Hung-hai of the Hualien water conservatory bureau saw a "flying saucer"—a disc-shaped object—rising from the southwest part of Huhualien, east coast city, Sunday night. There was no details.

Now a Communist republic, China was one of the world's oldest monarchies with a history reaching back to 2205 B.C.

Crippled Children to Enjoy Camp

"It's our turn now!" say Linda Frautz, left front, Margaret Farrow, right front, Helen Curletto, left rear, and Sharon Rushlow, right rear, as they took off for Merrywood-on-the-Rideau Camp, Wednesday morning. The boys had their innings — the Juniors from June 18th. to July 19th., the Seniors from July 9th. to July 30th. and now the girls take over.

This is one of three camps operated by the Ontario Society for Crippled Children, and it will accommodate 80 children at one time. Funds for operating these camps are raised largely by the Easter Seal campaigns, and allocated either directly by the Ontario Society or through local organizations such as the Rotary Club of Belleville.

Of this group of Rotary girls, Margaret once did a three-months "stretch" in the Hospital for Sick Children, while Linda spent a whole year at the Thistletown Branch of the same hospital. Sharon has been "commuting" to the Hospital for Sick Children for the past two years in an effort to get her little tendons moved into their proper place. She is seen frequently with new walking casts or lengthened braces, as circumstances dictate. Little Helen is a Rotary girl from Trenton who was "thumbing" her way with the Belleville party. And the driver is Nancy David.

To those who might think that this is just a merry outing for 3 whole weeks, a little explanation might be in order. Because of physical handicaps and regardless of financial circumstances, most of these children just could not think of attending a regular boys' or girls' ccamp; they would feel out of place in the ordinary activities involving group games, hiking, and swimming, etc. But in these special camps the entire organization is given over to the idea that all shall participate and that necessary allowances will be made for the various handicaps amongst those present. Such ball games and swimming they have; you would be surprised to see it. Moreover, their association with other incapacitated children invariably raises their morale. Each child seems inclined to feel that his own handicap—partially mastered by himself — is not nearly as bad as the other fellow's difficulty. So in addition to the fun and good times at these camps there is a background of experience and education that is impossible to acquire elsewhere. Three weeks is little enough for a child to absorb such very important philosophy. In 1951 a total of 579 of these children attended the three camps located in Ontario.

Here's hoping the weather will continue to be at its best for camping during the next three weeks.

Women Wave Undies Before Labor Board

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Two hundred women from a plant of BVD—"Better Ventilated Drawers"—flaunted starched underwear at the National Labor Relations Board yesterday.

The women and a sprinkling of men from BVD's Pascagoula, Miss., plant marched before the N.L.R.B. office waving the underwear in lieu of picket signs. Many wore the underwear over their outer clothing.

They demanded that the labor board call an immediate election to determine whether a majority of the 400 workers at the plant want union representation.

The International Ladies Garment Workers Union (A.F.L.) has been conducting an organizing campaign at the plant.

BVD is a large textile operation with several plants throughout the country. In its early days, it advertised "Better Ventilated Drawers," but in recent years has dropped the slogan and is known simply as BVD, Inc.

English Society Girl to Wed Earl of Dalkeith

The six-foot earl, 28, who prefers country life to city living will be the fifth of the princess' immediate circle of young men friends to marry.

Strong rumors of his engagement to the princess in January this year were swiftly followed by gossip that he was already engaged to Miss McNeill, at the time visiting her father, a Hong Kong lawyer.

Housewife Spends Spare Time Learning About Govt. And Men Who Are Leaders

WINNIPEG (CP)—A Winnipeg housewife is spending her spare time learning more about government and the men who determine the Canadian way of life.

Mrs. Charles Ives, a mother of a 15-year-old daughter, decided last fall that "a man's face is his own responsibility but that's not enough to make me vote for him." This spring she took time out from household chores to attend an extension course in municipal administration and public finance designed primarily for members of municipal councils.

Husband Started It

Her interest in political and public affairs began last fall when her husband asked who she was going to vote for in a civic election.

"I told him I would have to take a look at the pictures of the aldermanic candidates in the newspapers and he just laughed at me," said the pretty blonde housewife.

"He suggested I might do better to get some good literature on the candidates so I took his advance. "But I discovered for the most part the literature was a lot of bunk and I could tell more by just looking at their pictures."

Attended Legislature

Mrs. Ives used some of her leisure moments watching sittings of the provincial legislature during the winter, "just so I could see these people in action."

"I found that just by watching the members of the house from my seat in the galleries I could tell to quite an extent what they were like. And if I didn't understand some of the questions that were thrown onto the floor, I would interview the speakers concerned after the sitting was over."

Mrs. Ives says she gradually became "fascinated" with government and now can't keep away from conventions and sessions dealing with public affairs, both provincial and municipal.

"Before I used to accept practically anything that was said but now I find I question everything I read or hear," she says.

Women Needed

From her own observation, Mrs. Ives believes representative government is beginning to slip badly and that women should take a hand.

"After all, every nickel the government spends is ours and we must be interested."

But she insists on not joining any political group herself. By remaining on the outside, she hopes to get a broader view.

The one thing that worries her is that there must be hundreds of housewives like herself who, with a little effort, can find some good use for their leisure time.

Ten Per Cent of Commons Seats Should Go to Women Says Hamilton Member

TORONTO (CP)—Ten per cent of the seats in Canada's 262-member House of Commons should be occupied by women, says Mrs. Ellen Fairclough.

Mrs. Fairclough, Progressive Conservative member for Hamilton West, told Mrs. Tyrne Leivo Larrson that she "did not enjoy the distinction of being the only woman in the House." Mrs. Larrson is a member of Finland's parliament of 200 members.

The two were guests of honor at a dinner party here.

"I was surprised to hear that there was only one woman member of parliament in Canada," said Mrs. Larrson, one of 29 women in the Finnish house.

"Women got the right to vote and be elected to office in 1906," she said. Three of them have been cabinet members and she herself was a former minister of social welfare.

Politically Immature

"The idea that women are women's candidates is one of the things that keeps women out," said Mrs. Fairclough. "It is politically immature to think that women are exclusively women's choice, or that they are concerned only with matters of interest to women."

Mrs. Larrson said women in Finland have equal opportunity with men and the right to be elected to all kinds of state and educational offices — everything but the church."

Lady Internees Have No Cinch In Hospitals

TORONTO (CP)—Life as an interne at the women's College hospital here isn't any cinch for the eight girls now at the only hospital in Canada staffed by women.

They get three evenings off each week. They must work every other week-end, from 8 a.m. Saturday until 8 a.m. Monday, catching sleep whenever they can.

Working with a staff doctor, the interne sees between 40 and 50 patients daily at the obstetrical clinics and about 30 patients at the medical clinic.

"Home" is a residence, the third floor of the old brick building which houses the out-patient clinics.

Dr. Deana Dibb, a senior in obstetrics this year, received her degree from the University of Western Ontario in her hometown of London. She plans to become a medical missionary and hopes to go to India next year to learn the language and to study tropical diseases.

Dr. Aino Tenjunen and Dr. Janet Ross also are married and plan to mix marriage with medicine.

Another student interne is Helen Currie of Kingston, due to graduate from Queen's University in 1953. She plans to major in anaesthetics and pediatrics, and hopes to practice in Ottawa.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A sentence for wise teen-agers to memorise

If I could have one sentence printed up and distributed to all teen-agers to frame and hang on their walls where they would see it all the time, this would be the sentence:

"Remember that girls and boys in their teens fall in and out of 'love' many times before they are ready to choose the one they want to marry."

If I had this sentence already printed up, I would mail a copy to the girl who has written me the letter I am about to quote. I pick her letter, not because it stands out as different from hundreds of others that come to my desk, but for the very reason that it is so typical of all these others. It reads:

"I am in love with a boy who will soon be 17, and we plan to be married after he gets out of service, which will be in four years. I am but 15, but when I first meet people they think I am at least 19 or 20, so you can see I am very mature for my age.

"My first problem is that one of George's best friends goes with a girl I don't think is the right kind. This girl and her boy friend are trying to get George to go out with a friend of hers. I know he won't, but it's just the idea of them doing this that makes me mad. I've spoken to them about it, but the more I tell them, the more they do it. What can I do to stop this?

"The other problem is that I love dancing and George can't dance, and he gets mad when I go to dances and dance with the other boys. I said I'd teach him but he said no. I don't want to hurt him, because I love him very much, but why should I give up something I like just to please him if he won't learn?"

Now, naturally, I don't expect a 15-year-old girl to have the judgment that she will have five or ten years hence. But it doesn't seem to me too much to expect of a 15-year-old girl that she should realize herself that she doesn't have this judgment, and so be willing to wait and give it time to develop. It seems all the more reasonable to me in the case of a girl who claims to be "very mature" for her age.

At Odds on Two Points

I would venture to say that during the four years which she says she and her boy friend would wait before getting married, she will have at least three other boy friends, possibly more. I will also venture to predict that she and this particular boy friend will have broken up before the current year is out. At the moment, they are at odds on two points. What is most likely to happen is that there are going to be numerous other things that will come between herself and George until they both get disgusted and decide they're better off apart than together. I hope this particular girl is reading this and that she will write me another letter, say six months from now and let me know what has happened to this one romance of hers.

In the meantime, since she has brought up her two "problems", I will tell her what I think of them specifically.

Concerning the first I would say that she should find its answer in her own statement that the more she tells the other boy and girl to stop trying to influence her boy friend the more they do it. Her cue, I should think, would therefore be to stop talking to any of them about it and just ignore the whole thing. Anyway, it's up to George himself to decide what he wants to do. I suspect her real trouble is that she is not quite as sure of George as she makes out, so to soften the break that may already be on the way, I suggest she memorize the sentence I stressed at the beginning of this column.

As for the dancing problem it's certainly not very reasonable of George to refuse to learn to dance and then try to keep her from doing it. Here, again, I'm afraid I see a promonition of trouble, since she's certainly not going to be happy very long with George if he's going to try and control her actions in any such manner. I think in this instance, and in any other when George shows a tendency to boss her unreasonably, she had better stand up for her rights. If he's the sort of person who is unwilling to make a fair compromise on points of difference with others, she might as well know it right now.

De Luxe Swiss Steak
Boiled Whole Potatoes in Jackets in Parsley Butter
Sweet-Sour Green Beans
Apricot Sponge with Raspberry Sauce
Iced Coffee

DIRECTIONS:

I have not given you the recipe for Swiss Steak in this column for a long time and it's high time I did. The sweet-sour green beans I believe will be new to you, as will be the dessert. I certainly am going haywire on desserts this week.

DE LUXE SWISS STEAK

Ask the butcher to cut you a slice of round steak 1 1-2 inches thick weighing 2 lbs. Mix together 6 tablespoons flour with 1 teaspoon salt and 1-4 teaspoon pepper, and pound all of this into the surfaces of the steak. In a heavy frying-pan melt 2 tablespoons shortening and sear the floured steak in it, on both sides until dark golden brown. Pour over it 2 cups canned or fresh peeled tomatoes, 1 sliced onion, 1-2 cup chopped celery—using stalk and leaves if desired. Cover and reduce heat as low as possible and simmer for 2 1-2 hours or bake at 300 deg. Fahr. It may be uncovered during last 1-2 hour to reduce sauce to a rich thickness. To serve this cut with very sharp knife into 1-inch wide strips right through the width of the steak. This way each person to be served receives some of the tenderest portions.

You may remember that I was going on about serving potatoes with their jackets on, boiled? A good way to mask that skin for those who are a bit squeamish about it is to melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine and add 1 1-2 teaspoons flour or cornstarch, stirring it in. Add 1-2 cup boiling water and stir until thick, then add 1-2 cup chopped parsley or chives or 1-4 cup of each and if desired 1 teaspoon lemon juice. This needs salt and pepper and paprika to taste too. Pour over boiled jacket potatoes in bowl.

SWEET-SOUR GREEN BEANS

Cook until crisp 2 strips side bacon. Lift out bacon and drain on paper towel. In the bacon fat saute 1 chopped onion until it is transparent, then stir in 1 tablespoon flour. Stir in 3-4 cup of the liquid in which green beans were cooked, 1-4 cup vinegar, 2 tablespoons sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, and 1-4 teaspoon pepper. Bring to boil then add 2 or 2 1-2 cups green (or yellow) beans which have been cooked until barely tender. Stir until heated through, pour into serving dish and sprinkle the crumbled bacon over top.

APRICOT SPONGE WITH RASPBERRY SAUCE

In top of double boiler scald 2 cups milk. Beat the yolks of 3 eggs and beat into them 2-3 cup sugar. Add this slowly to the hot milk, stirring, and stir until it thickens just enough for custard to coat spoon. Add a shake of salt. Meanwhile have ready 1 1-2 tablespoons gelatin which have soaked 5 minutes in 1-4 cup cold water. Stand the custard off heat as soon as it coats spoon, then stir the softened gelatin into it until gelatin dissolves. Cool this to room temperature, then fold into the beaten whites of 3 eggs. Pour half of this into a moistened mold and chill until almost set. Remove from refrigerator and cover with drained halves of canned apricots. Cover with remaining custard. Chill until set—probably overnight. Serve with

RASPBERRY SAUCE

To 1 pint fresh raspberries add 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 teaspoon lemon juice and 1 teaspoon cornstarch. Cook, stirring, over low heat until reduced to sauce and a little thickened. Force through fine strainer. Serve very cold over sponge above or over delicate Blanc Mange or Tapioca Cream.

HELICOPTERS ARRIVE

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP)—Two United States helicopters—the first aircraft of their type ever to fly from the United States to Europe—landed here last night at the end of a record-breaking, 4,000-mile "grasshopper" mission. They started July 15 from Westover Field, Mass.

Fashion Flashes

RETURNING to the fashion scene next season is the fur-trimmed fabric coat. Fur trims range from mink—with plenty of accent on fine fox—through to the less expensive furs, but always handled in good taste. New values await the shopper looking for a fur-trimmed cloth coat, judging from those we have seen.

MANY A GIRL who doesn't want to wear a hat with dressy clothes, will settle for one of the new veil-caps. Corded velvet bands make the head-band of one little number that is balanced at either side by jutting lace leaves studded with tiny pearls and rhinestones. A fine French veil mists the head and eyes.

RIDING IN after a long abscence is the black hat, deemed to be important with all the spice shades, greens and reds that appear in fall collections. Many have tiny touches of white or color, such as a velvet bicorne trimmed with gold mesh butterflies, and a black velvet breton trimmed with a white lacquered feather wing attached by a seed pearl clip.

YOU'LL SEE RED come fall, for this color—in rich, vibrant berry tones, such as red currant—appears in many collections. A full-length, loose coat is reversible, one side of black alpaca pile, the other of red velveteen. When the black side is worn, the cuffs of red velveteen, also the collar and turned back flange, make a nice contrast to the black.

IT'S EASY to dress up informally, but smartly, at night with a couple of skirts and interesting tops. A wonderful skirt, wide and handsome, is of white Madagascar straw trimmed with a wide band of black lace horsehair that swings half way down across the skirt to form a smart, contrasting streak.

Mountain Climbing

Men and machines are tunnelling 10 miles through a mountain to provide cheap power for British Columbia's new aluminum industry. Deep inside the mountain, 1,400 feet underground, a bomb-proof, weather-proof powerhouse for the Aluminum Company of Canada is being scooped out. Some of the tunnelling is done from the 1,000 and 2,600-foot levels of the mountain. These camps are served by a cable tramline which creaks up an incline averaging 30 degrees with a 20-ton load on its back. —(CP Photo.)

Eagles, Helicopters Share Kildala Pass Loftiest Base of Kitimat's Power Lines

(Editor's note: Cheap power is the heart of the $500,000,000 aluminum industry being built in northern British Columbia. One of the tough jobs is building through the coast range a 50-mile power line strong enough to withstand heavy snow, extreme cold and hurricane-force wind. Dave Stockand, Canadian Press Staff Writer, tells in this story, one of a series, how the problem is being overcome.)

By DAVE STOCKAND
Canadian Press Staff Writer

KILDALA PASS SUMMIT, B.C. (CP)—Eagles and helicopters are sharing the pass to Kildala these days. So are bears and bulldozers.

The machines are taking the right-of-way as workmen concerned with building an aluminum industry fight to maintain a schedule regimented by the seasons.

Kildala pass summit is the newest and loftiest base on the 50-mile route of the transmission line from Kemano powerhouse to the Aluminum Company of Canada's smelter location at Kitimat.

Shortly, 100 men will be based at what is known as "Camp 11." They will remain until winter closes in with its payload of snow, plunging temperatures and 80-mile-an-hour gales.

Squatting on snow foundations, the camp is 5,300 feet above sea level, 2,000 feet above timberline. Tents would blow away, so huts are being built. Every board, nail and screw is coming in by helicopter airlift from Kemano.

Busy Helicopters

During construction, helicopters make as many as 25 and 30 trips daily, unloading without even "killing" their engines.

Carpenters' foreman Russ Boyington says he hasn't the faintest idea how much snow remained heaped on the summit at the end of July—nobody has found a sane reason for digging that deep—but he admits the soggy foundation brings up a problem in maintenance.

"It's going to take a couple of men working steadily to keep things on an even keel," he says.

On this summit a test cable span was erected in the fall of 1950 to test icing conditions. The tests showed that the ordinary wouldn't do.

So to withstand icing and transmit power at 300,000 volts, steel-reinforced aluminum cable will be used. With a diameter of 2.26 inches, this will be the largest such cable ever made. The transmission line will be the highest ever.

10-Mile Section

The pass section covers 10½ dizzy miles. Up top, workmen look down to locate the helicopters shuttling them supplies. Only eagles wheel above.

Engineers figure work on the pass will be limited to five months a year at most. That gives them this summer and next summer to complete the line on schedule.

Even summer is treacherous in this land criss-crossed with the wounds of snowslides and avalanches. Visibility is zero for days at a time because of clouds which sift down the mountainsides and clog the valleys.

Thirty towers northwestward out of Kemano, about 1,000 feet apart, mark the start of the line. The towers, placed during the last couple of weeks, spring from a right-of-way 325 feet wide which has been grubbed, chopped and burned through forest and undergrowth.

A switch-back road has been blasted beyond the fringes of the pass, where the shrill whistling of marmots mingles with sirens warning of pending explosions.

'Bottomless Pit'

From the summit, the draw leading back toward Kemano resembles a bottomless pit which, in the words of engineer Joe Hauser, "looks as if you'd have to pump daylight into it."

Work on the transmission line also is under way from Kildala Bay, 20 miles from Kemano on the Kitimat side of the pass, and from Minette Bay, near Kitimat.

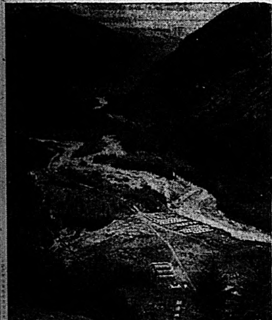
From the powerhouse, the first nine miles of the transmission system will comprise two double-circuit lines.

Then, from a switching station, two single-circuit lines will run over the pass. On the other side of the hump, at another switching station, double-circuit lines will resume for the remaining distance to Kitimat.

The 20 carpenters who camped on the glaring whiteness of the summit a couple of weeks ago are philisophic about their isolation. They've had it tough, for a time melting snow for drinking water and doing their own cooking.

But, as workman Ben Brauen says: "This is probably as close to heaven as we'll ever get."

Base Camp



The mountain rearing above this mushroom patch of quonset huts has no name, but it has a heart. Deep inside the mountain, 1,400 feet underground, men and machines are scooping out a powerhouse for the Aluminum Company of Canada's "project British Columbia." Two thousand men live in this temporary camp in the Kemano River Valley. The camp site is made up of quonset huts, cement silos, a bank, theatre, post office, baseball diamond and just about everything found in a regular town of comparable size.—(CP Photo.)

FOR WOMEN PATIENTS

SHEFFIELD, England (CP) — Broadcast commentaries of mannequin parades and style displays are to be relayed to women patients in a local hospital. The programs have been arranged by business men who organized sports broadcasts for male patients.

THE MODERN TOUCH

LONDON — (CP) — A welfare association investigating types of games played by the modern child found that, as always, "cops and robbers" headed the list. But they were not prepared for the second most popular game — "Tories and Communists."

SOCIAL CREDIT

The Liberals, strong in Edmonton appeared likely to better their standing slightly after completion of the involved proportional representation system of voting which applied there and in Calgary. In 1948, it took 19 counts in Calgary and 14 in Edmonton to complete the slates in these cities.

While three of Edmonton's seven members were elected last night, only one of Calgary's six seats was filled when Mrs. Rose Wilkinson, Social Credit, was re-elected.

Quick Decision

The simpler transferable ballot system used in the 48 single-member constituencies largely cleared up other results and made it possible for The Canadian Press to report the re-election of the Social Credit government 79 minutes after the close of rural polls.

Redistribution gives Alberta's next legislature 61 seats, four more than the last. It added two in Edmonton, one in Calgary and created the new northern constituency of Bonnyville which was won by Social Credit.

Standing of parties at dissolution was Social Credit 49, Liberals 3, C.C.F. 2 and Independent Social Credit 3. The government party fielded 60 candidates, the Liberals 55, C.C.F. 41, Progressive Conservative 12, Independent Social Credit six and others eight.

One Acclamation

One seat was decided nomination day when Provincial Secretary C.E. Gerhart was re-elected by acclamation after the C.C.F. aspirant failed to make the official nomination deadline.

Of the three rebel social crediters who were members of the last house, only R. Earl Ansley, ousted education minister, was re-elected. He won against the official Social Credit candidate and a C.C.F. nominee in Leduc.

Arthur Wray, persistent critic of the government since he was shunted to opposition benches before the 1948 election, was defeated in Banff-Cochrane by the government candidate. He had been in the legislature since 1944.

The third party rebel, A.V. Bourcier, was a hopeless last in a three-way race in Lac Ste. Anne. The government candidate led there.

P-C Leader Beaten

M.E. Manning, president of the Alberta Progressive Conservative Association, was practically eliminated in the race in Edmonton.

But his party had a chance to take two seats, one each in Calgary and Edmonton. In the latter riding, J. Percy Page, famous Edmonton Grads basketball coach still was in.

A tabulation late last night of returns from more than half of the polls showed that Social Credit received 54.2 per cent of the vote compared with 56 in 1948 and 52 in 1944. The Liberal vote jumped to 24.9 per cent from 18 in 1948 and C.C.F. support dropped from 19 per cent to 15.1.

The government, which has reverted from the radical dividends-for-all platform of 1935 to orthodox financing today, campaigned on its record.

In defending its policy of limited gas export, it gained support from a majority of voters. The Liberals and the C. C. F. had opposed export at this time.

McCULLAGH

E.B. Jolliffe, Ontario C.C.F. leader and a former newspaper man: "I deeply regret the death of George McCullagh at such an early age. I had known him since 1936 and though we didn't agree about too many things I cannot refrain from saying that he was a good newspaper man. He really believed, as he often told me, in presenting the news fairly and took pride in seeing his papers give space to news-worthy stories whether for or against his own views.

"He was a hard fighter but did not allow his own opinions—sometimes extreme opinions—to obscure his sincere appreciation of a good news page."

"I am sure the story of his life will be an incentive to many young Canadians to attempt to serve their country in their generation, as he did in his," said Most Rev. R.J. Renison, metropolitan of Ontario of the Anglican church to which Mr. McCullagh belonged.

Allan Holmes, publisher of the Galt Reporter and president of the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association, said: "Newspaper men all across Canada and many in other countries will learn of Mr. McCullagh's death with great regret.

Won Respect

"A publisher who did not fail to express his strong convictions in his newspapers, he had won the respect of his fellow publishers even if they often did not agree with his views.

"His newspaper success was an outstanding achievement for he became the guiding spirit of Canada's largest morning newspaper without the usual intensive training with which men who essay such a task are usually favored.

"The position that paper has attained speaks volumes for his achievement in its direction.

"The C.D.N.A. loses a valuable member and supporter in his death."

Sidney E. Smith, president of the University of Toronto, said:

"George McCullagh was a man who not only expressed but led public opinion. This was particularly true in the field of education. He regarded the office of journalist not only as a job of news gathering but as an education instrument.

His contribution to the University of Toronto as a governor has advanced the welfare and progress of that institution."

Loyal Supporter

W.A. Craick, honorary secretary-treasurer of the Canadian section of the Commonwealth Press Union: "Mr. McCullagh was always a very loyal supporter of what was the Empire Press Union and now is the Commonwealth Press Union. During the last Imperial Press Conference in 1950 he was appointed honorary chairman of the conference and was a devoted worker for our organization."

"He achieved the most objective news columns in the country; I know of no greater contribution a newspaper publisher can make," said R.A. Farquharson, editor of Saturday Night and formerly his managing editor of the Globe and ail.

"He knew many of us by our first names," said Lou Grossman, president of the Toronto Newsboys Association. "He was a regular fellow and one of the boys. We felt he was a newsie himself."

On Circulation Staff

Mr. McCullagh's first job was as a junior in the Merchants Bank, but soon he took a circulation job on the old Toronto Globe for which he had sold papers as a newsboy. He proved a super-salesman on out-of-town trips, was taken on the Toronto staff, sponsored a safety crusade in the paper that won him an international award.

His first efforts to join the news staff failed. Five years later, however, he quit his well-paid circulation job to become assistant financial editor.

He developed interests and connections in the financial field and in 1928 left editorial work to become stock exchange manager of Milner, Ross and Company in Toronto. Within five years he was a partner of the firm of Barrett, McCullagh and Company, members of the Toronto Stock Exchange.

Merged Newspapers

When he quit the Globe, Mr. McCullagh joked that some day he'd be back to buy the paper. In 1936 he did just that and five weeks later also bought the larger Toronto Mail and Empire. Backed with almost $5,000,000 from Mr. Wright, he merged the two into what is Canada's largest morning paper, the Globe and Mail.

Mr. McCullagh maintained that the Globe and Mail, and the Telegram which he bought 12 years later, were politically independent. At the start he supported the Liberal government of Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario. Later he became an equally energetic supporter of George Drew's Progressive Conservatives.

Mr. McCullagh's love for newspaper work was paramount, but he had wide interests outside that field. He was a keen sportsman. His horse High Archworth won the King's Plate in 1939 in the presence of King George VI. He was vice-president of Maple Leaf Gardens and rarely missed a football or hockey game for which he could spare time. Some years ago he was an ardent fisherman.

He did not run for public office, but had strong political views. In 1939 he broadcast, over a coast-to-coast group of radio stations, an appeal for a political awakening of the electorate. He supported none of the existing parties, assailed both Liberals and Conservatives.

Those talks resulted in formation of a Leadership League with branches across the country. Some claimed Mr. McCullagh was seeking political leadership but five months later he closed the league's executive offices "rather than have the league become the tool of any (political) interests."

Awarded Degree

Despite his lack of formal education, he was well-read and became a polished speaker. In 1936 he was appointed to the board of governors of the University of Toronto which subsequently awarded him an honorary degree.

He was a director of The Canadian Press, Canada's co-operative news-gathering agency, from 1939 to 1949.

Before the Second World War, Mr. McCullagh was honorary officer commanding No. 110 army co-operation squadron of the auxiliary air force. He was a squadron leader when the unit was put on active service but ill health prevented him going overseas. He retired from active service in May 1941, after a critical bout of pneumonia.

During and after the war, however, he visited Europe and other parts of the world, and wrote his impressions for the Globe and Mail. In 1949 articles he wrote from London, Paris, Rome and Geneva were compiled in a 30-page pamphlet entitled "Europe Today."

Tests Prove Supersonic Waves Can be Made to Speed Germination, Growth of Plants

EDMONTON (CP)—Barley seeds and supersonic waves seem a queer combination, but the alliance could be a potent one if the experiments of George Obelenski prove successful.

Already, tests being carried out by Obelenski in a laboratory of the University of Alberta's plant science department have proven that supersonic waves can be made to speed germination and growth of plants.

The "guinea pigs" for most of the experiments so far have been barley seeds but there's no reason, says Obelenski, why the treatment couldn't be applied to almost any plant.

The linking of supersonic vibrations and plants is an entirely new field and the Russian-born scientist says the surface has hardly been scratched yet although an encouraging start has been made.

German Device

In his experiments, he is using an ultrasonic generator, imported from Germany and used widely in a type of medical "deep massage" treatment for humans.

It sets up sound vibrations at the rate of 800,000 a second. This speed can best be imagined when one considers that the human ear can hear vibrations up to only about 16,000 a second.

Obelenski's method so far in treating seeds has been to soak them for periods up to 48 hours, thus starting the germination process, and then applying the vibrator to a vessel of water in which the seeds lie.

The effect is seen in small plots of barley growing in a greenhouse. The plants growing from treated seed are an average of six inches higher than those not treated and already are headed out.

"It is difficult to explain simply the biological effect of the treatment, but it best can be explained by saying that the seed is 'shocked' into faster development," says Obelenski.

Changes Produced

Dr. L. P. V. Johnson, professor of genetics and plant breeding, under whose supervision the experiments are being carried out, says: "There's some indication, too, that mutations or hereditary changes are produced. In some instances, the resulting plants have been almost albinos."

Dr. Johnson feels the findings of the experiments could be put to practical use first in the treatment of tomatoes and other garden plants. At the present stage of development, it would cost far more than it would be worth to treat enough seed for a barley crop.

Born in Moscow, Obelenski left Russia in 1920 after the revolution and has since gained agriculture degrees at the University of Yugoslavia and Vienna.

He won his bachelor of science degree at the University of Alberta last year.

Record Loading At Lakehead Is Reported

FORT WILLIAM (CP)—A peacetime record in the amount of grain handled at the lakehead was set during the 1951-52 crop year, Earl Baxter, statistician for the Board of Grain Commissioners of Canada said yesterday.

Some 450,500,000 bushels of grain were unloaded during the crop year which ended last Thursday. The record of 500,000,000 bushels was set in the wartime 1944-45 season.

PIGEON EGGS ON SALE

WOODSTOCK (CP)—If anyone wants to try something different, pigeon eggs are on sale at the Woodstock market. The building contains hundreds of nests which are evidently overcrowded. The birds have been laying their eggs on vendors' stalls.

Demand Spurring Canada's Effort In Uranium Field

OTTAWA (CP)—The "great urgency" of demand arising from the United States atomic bomb program is spurring Canada's intensive and varied efforts to increase her uranium production sharply and to find more and more of the vital mineral in the north.

The efforts are already paying off.

Production at the government's first mine has been boosted substantially this year by a spectacular construction program. A second mine is due to start producing next April. By then Canada hopes to be producing at least twice as much uranium as she is now.

Behind these and other phases of the hunt for more uranium and better ways to get it out is what officials describe as urgency of paramount bombs herself but this only makes it all the more important that she help the Americans who can and do.

The direct link is seldom mentioned publicly but the records indicate the big majority of Canada's uranium goes into U.S. bomb production.

REPORT "SAUCERS"

TIMMINS (CP)—Timmins hasn't escaped the "flying saucers" either. Three men and two children reported seeing strange objects in the sky during the week-end. They said most of them took five or six minutes to cross from horizon to horison.

EXHIBIT AT COLLEGE

ST. THOMAS (CP)—Several of Canada's finest paintings are on exhibition at Alma College this week as part of the Elgin County centennial celebrations. Two of the paintings are by Professor F. M. Bell-Smith, the first art director at Alma during the late 19th century.

The American party symbols—the Democratic donkey and the Republican elephant—were created by cartoonist Thomas Nast.

Egyptian Govt. Takes Properties Of Exiled Farouk

CAIRO (CP) — Egypt's reform government last night seized the properties of exiled ex-king Farouk, valued in some estimates at more than $2,000,000,000. The cabinet appointed a two-man board to administer them.

It is generally believed that the properties will be distributed by the government as part of a vast new land reform program now under consideration by Premier Aly Maher and his cabinet.

Among the royal possessions taken over were:

Four palaces with over 1,000 luxuriously furnished rooms; it is believed they will go to Egypt's universities which have already asked for them; more than 20 country villas; more than 100 fancy motor cars; and about one-third of Egypt's 6,000,000 acres of arable soil.

The decree taking over the properties banned any transactions involving them either by Farouk or others. It placed them in charge of former foreign minister Ahmed Kashaba and former finance minister Hussein Fahmi.

After fleeing the country July 26 Farouk told reporters in Capri he would be a comparatively poor man.

A prince, a doctor and a colonel were sworn in yesterday to act as the Egyptian crown until infant King Ahmed Fuad II comes of age.

The regents—Prince Abdel Moneim, Dr. Bahieddin Barakat, and Col. Rashad Mohanna—took the oath in a 90-second ceremony. As the regency council, they now hold the royal powers and prerogatives.

Shantz's 20th Win Takes Back Seat to Giant-Dodger Thriller

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

The Peterborough Petes, whose Bill Veeck-type promotion last Friday night converted 2,400 lacrosse fans into paying customers at the baseball box office, will be in town tonight fighting to take over first place in the COBL race on a percentage basis. The Petes, tied for second slot with Kingston Monarchs with a 7-7 seasonal record, can slip ahead of the Redmen this evening with a victory. The Injuns boast an 8-8 record which gives them the lead by half a game but leaves them even-stephen with the contenders in the battle of the decimal point.

* * *

The Petes, who were reported to be almost extinct earlier in the season, have been showing an amazing amount of vitality for a corpse. In addition to knocking off the Reds in the last few battles, they have shown an aggressive spirit in connection with the club's coffers. By offering a TV set as a comeon they pulled 2,400 fans through the turnstiles last Friday, and then, with the investors dreaming of Uncle Miltie proceeded to mesmerize them with a Frank Merriwell finish by scoring 5 runs in the bottom of the ninth to scalp the Injuns 5-4. The last run was pushed over on a squeeze bunt too. This sort of thing is hardly the work of a ball club that is sagging at the seams.

* * *

On the other hand, the Redmen, slumping badly after a sensational early season sprint that looked as though it would carry them to their greatest season since the post-war inception of the COBL, came untracked somewhat Saturday night when they blitzed the Prescott Merchants 12-3 with a 14-hit attack. Only 10 warriors and chief McCabe were on hand Saturday night however, and it is not known if the Reds can whip the vacation blues and the Petes or not. With first place at stake, a lively ball game seems assured.

* * *

The United States won the Olympics' unofficial championship according to regulation scoring, the Russian method of scoring, and on first places, second places, and so on. Actually the team championship is not official because the whole idea of Olympic competition is to pit one athlete against another, not nation against nation. However, it is inevitable in a competition as varied and as important as the Olympic games that comparisons are going to be made, and team totals assessed. Despite such unofficial addition the Olympic games proved to be a remarkable success. Except for two near riots in basketball, the games were singularly distinguished by the lack of arguments and fighting. With almost 6,000 athletes from 70 nations some unpleasantness was to be expected and it is to the eternal credit of the Finns that nothing more transpired.

* * *

Team statistics, unfortunately, have obscured the true dominance of United States athletes in the real Olympic events — the track and field events, Russia came up with a squad that was far more powerful than anyone expected but with the exception of some amazons who fractured records in the women's events, their track and field squads were in no way outstanding. The United States contingent scored an overwhelming victory, with firsts in almost everything but the five and ten thousand meters and the marathon, won by the amazing Czech ace, Emil Zatopek. The U. S. also swept the first three places in the shot put, the decathlon, and the pole vault. Actually, by keeping team totals over all events, including the Russian specialties — gymnastics and Greco-Roman wrestling, the astounding brilliance of the American track and field hordes has been unfairly dimmed.

* * *

The Olympic games should not include such things as gymnastics, horse-back riding, high diving, springboard diving, ornamental swimming, figure skating, or any other physical exercise whose excellence depends on the opinion of a panel of judges.

* * *

The only true test of athletic prowess comes in those events where the competitors strive against themselves, and not against an artificial standard of excellence based on the judgement of a panel of so-called experts. In track and field events, and races of all kinds, the competing individuals and teams are playing under the same conditions, at the same time, against each other, and not necessarily against a stop-watch, or an impossible standard of excellence that no one has yet attained, and which no one can ever attain, because the perfect performance exists only in the imagination of self-appointed critics. Basketball should not be included, neither should hockey, cricket, football or any other team sport of that kind.

* * *

All that judges at Olympic competitions should have to do is be sure the jumpers, pole vaulters, and shot putters do not foul the take off lines, and then be sure that the same ruler is used to measure the performance. It shouldn't be of Olympic concern whether a person's toes are pointed 35 or 45 degrees in doing a back somersault. Style should not count in the ultimate results. Emil Zatopek, who turned in the most sensational single effort recorded in the modern Olympics by setting world or Olympic records in the 5,000 and 10,000-metre runs, and the marathon, ran like a man in agony, with a peculiar rolling motion like a sea-sick sailor imitating a man on a hot griddle. He would have won no gold medals for style. But he earned his three gold medals the hard way. It hardly seems fair that men and women who have to outrun, outjump, and outthrow dozens of the world's best athletes to claim a gold medal, should be competing in the same tournament that gives gold medals to gymnasts for rhythm in free arm swings, and to divers for the excellence with which they "approach the board."

HITHER AND YON—

Glen Roy Juniors, who can expect a long layoff before resuming their quest for the Belleville and District League championship, take on the Bloomfield Sun-Joys in Picton this evening in an exhibition tilt. The Sun-Joys, by the way are reputed to be quite a squad, 'Tis rumored that they have whipped the potent Kingston Saints 6-4 in an exhibition game in Kingston, and that they defeated the RCAF Flyers in an exhibition tilt . . . Softball prexy Don Lee is huddling with Warden Allen of the Kingston penitentiary these days putting the finishing touches to a proposed softball tournament to be held at the pen in a few weeks. It is hoped that Bloomfield, a representative from the B. and D. league, a Kingston team and the Saints, can be persuaded to attend. The Saints are definite starters and have been accorded the favorite's position because of the fact that summer vacations will not disrupt the player personnel . . . Point Anne Cementmen are at the CNR Diesels this evening at 6:45 in the first game of a best-in-five series to decide a representative for the OASA intermediate A playdowns. New York Yankees Nip Former Mate Spec Shea to Hold Lead; Hornsby Wins First With Reds

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Even Bobby Shantz' 20th win for the Philadelphia Athletics takes a back seat today to the "morning-after" gossip about the 15-inning thriller between the Dodgers and Giants.

Little Bobby picked a tough night to cop his 20th. Everybody was gunning for a headline. Rogers Hornsby was making his bow as Cincinnati manager with a 4-0 win over Chicago. New York Yankees were meeting their old mate, Spec Shea, for the first time since he was traded to Washington, and nipped him 3-2 in a game halted by rain after seven innings.

Fantastic Game

And then the Giants and Dodgers had to hook up in a fantastic five-hour struggle. Don Mueller finally broke it up with an infield chopper that scored rookie Jim Rhodes from second base for a 7-6 win.

Mueller's infield hit, scoring Rhodes while pitcher Chris Van Cuyk threw late to first base, slashed the Dodgers' lead to 5½ games in the opener of a "big" series. The game seemed won several times. Gil Hodges' grand slam homer in the sixth broke a 0-0 tie and gave Billy Loes a 4-0 edge over Jim Hearn. But the Giants scored three in the sixth and tied it in the seventh on George Wilson's pinch homer.

Andy Pafko's 14th homer in the 14th snapped the tie but Bob Elliott hit a pinch homer with two out in the Giants' half to keep the game alive at 5-5.

Pafko's long fly drove home Pee Wee Reese from third to send the Dodgers out on top in the 15th, but the Giants came back to tie on Bobby Thomson's run-scoring single and win on Mueller's flukey hit.

Earliest Since 1946

Getting back to Shantz, the wee lefty became the earliest 20-game winner in the majors since 1946. That was the year Hal Newhouser made the grade July 27 and Bobby Feller, en route to a strike-out record, hit No. 20 on July 31.

In beating Boston 5-3, Shantz had to contend with both rain and Red Sox. A storm held up play for one hour and 11 minutes. Home runs by Sam White and Hoot Evers gave Boston its only earned runs. Bob's earned run average now is 1.55 for 21 complete games in 23 starts. His 20-3 mark is best in the league.

Irv Noren's triple and Phil Rizzuto's outfield fly won for the Yanks in the fifth after the Senators tied the score on Allie Reynolds in the fourth.

Cleveland Says

Cleveland dropped four full games behind the Yanks, splitting a twilight-night doubleheader with Chicago. Bob Lemon allowed only four hits in winning the opener 6-0.

Jim Rivera's first-inning homer and a five-run outburst in the second gave Chicago's Saul Rogovin a 6-3 win over Mike Garcia in the second game.

Bob Cain hit the win circle for the first time since June 27 as St. Louis knocked off Detroit 5-1 with Bobby Young driving in four runs.

Hornsby Debut

Kenny Raffensberger brightened Hornsby's debut at Cincinnati with a seven-hit shutout over the Cubs. Ted Kluszewski's two-run triple in the fourth was enough to win.

Del Rice's fly ball with the bases loaded in the 12th scored Solly Hemus for St. Louis Cards' 4-3 nod over Pittsburgh.

Russian Uses Own System to Give Reds Break

MOSCOW (AP)—Nikolai Romanov, head of the Soviet Olympic team at Helsinki and chief of the sports committee in the U.S.S.R., said today the Soviet Union and the United States finished the Olympic games tied at 494 points.

Romanov made his statement in an exclusive interview with Pravda, the official organ of the Communist party.

The point system which Romanov apparently used to arrive at this total gives seven points for first place with 5-4-3-2-1 for the next five points. The American system gives 10 points for first place and 5-4-3-2-1 for the next five. Under the American system the United States won, 614 to Russia's 553½.

Montreal Royals Win a Pair From Rochester

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The pace-setting Montreal Royals continue to blow hot in their runaway from the rest of the International League. They took a pair of close games from third-place Rochester Red Wings last night, 4-3 and 3-2.

Junior Gilliam smacked a double in the fifth inning of the opener to score Art Fabbro from second with the winning run. Fabbro, who relieved starter Johnny Podres in the fifth frame, got credit for his seventh victory.

Montreal scored all its three runs with two out in the first inning of the nightcap. A double steal after two walks and a bad throw to third accounted for one run. Jim Pendleton's double drove in another. The third marker crossed the plate on Ray Jablonski's errant throw to first on an infield roller by Jim Marchio. Ed Roebuck earned his ninth victory, although touched for 12 safeties.

Bob Keegan (16-8) tossed his fifth shutout, a three-hitter, and Fenton Mole hit his 19th home run to lead Syracuse to a 3-0 win over Toronto Maple Leafs. The chiefs were held scoreless from the second inning until the ninth, when Loren Babe's single, a triple by Johnny Batnik and Mole's two-bagger put the issue beyond doubt.

Roy Weatherly blasted a two-run homer to give Baltimore a 3-1 win in the first game of a doubleheader with Ottawa. The Athletics took the nightcap, 5-3, behind the pitching of Bill George, who scored two runs to help his own cause.

Springfield and Buffalo staged a wild slugfest, including six home runs, to split a twin-bill. Bisons won 9-8 on a two-run rally in the last frame of the opener. Jack homer in the 10th inning of the nightcap to give the Cubs a 10-8 win.

Hawaiian Fires Eight Under Par To Lead Field

NEW YORK (AP)—More than 1,000 were called but just 175 lucky ones were chosen today to make the trek to Seattle for the national amateur golf championship Aug. 18-23.

And if there is going to be a dark horse in the field of 200 at tee-off time—there were 25 exemptions—he will be 35-year-old Charles Makaiwa, the champion of Hawaii, who showed them all how it was done by firing an eight-under-par 68-66—134 in Honolulu yesterday.

So the members of the America's cup teams of the United States, Canada and Mexico, all of whom were exempt from qualifying, will have something to look forward to when they meet Makaiwa.

Hamilton Tigers to Open Season With Exhibition Squad Game

Double Blue Ready to Meet Winnipeg Blue Bombers in Toronto on Week Saturday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Big Four Hamilton Tigers need both cold cash and a good hard scrimmage. Coach Carl Voyles hopes to solve both problems with an inter-squad exhibition game tonight.

Assistant Coach Ralph Sazio will direct one team while veteran end Vince Mazza will handle the opposing squad. It is hoped that the starry array will draw close to 10,000 paying customers and swell the club coffers considerably.

The game looms as a battle of quarterbacks with Pat Brady throwing them for Sazio's side while Bill Mackrides will call the plays for Mazza's crew. Mackrides, former Philadelphia Eagle player, has looked good in practice and has only to prove his worth under fire. Brady is a fine kicker and could star in that department.

Toronto Argonauts have as yet to schedule their annual inter-squad game, but it is reported that Coach Frank Clair may call it for this coming Saturday. The Double Blue will meet Winnipeg Blue Bombers in an exhibition game at Toronto Aug. 16.

The Bombers, in fighting trim after a month of practice, move into Ottawa Saturday for a game with the 1951 Grey Cup champion Rough Riders.

The Riders, with plenty of new faces, look to the clash as the big test for the 35 aspirants. The fans are hoping for a possible passing duel between Indian Jack Jacobs and Ottawa's Tom O'Malley.

Coach Clem Crowe offered his usual non-committal comment on the effort. "We're coming along all right—I guess. Winnipeg should be a good test."

In Montreal, the Alouettes have cut their squad to 41 men under Coach Peahead Walker. The club has been driving hard and is ready for the first big test this week-end with a game in Calgary followed by an Aug. 16 date at Edmonton.

Vic Obeck, athletic director at McGill University, is working with the line. The red-sweatered club is said to be in its best mental frame of mind in three seasons.

More than 1,500 fans turned out last Sunday in Edmonton to watch the Eskimos go through their paces in an inter-squad contest. Mike King, Vic Mayson, Doug Swail and Joe Aquirre came through with touchdowns.

At St. Catharines, the Athletics moved up into fifth place by thumping Fergus Thistles 19-10. Jim McMahon with four goals spearheaded the winners' attack and Bill Nelson tallied three. Bob Dobbie, Ron Landoni and Jack Mann got two each for Fergus.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Somehow we had gained the innocent impression that everyone now conceded Emil Zatopek, the sizzling Czech, to be the greatest foot runner of all time, an even more magnificent athlete than fabulous Paavo Nurmi. We have just had our throat jumped down.

"All this talk about Zatopek makes me tired," the man said with iron in his voice. "Nurmi would have run right up his back. If I hadn't been too busy I would have written something about it."

We suggested, mildly, that he meant he would have backed Nurmi to lick the Olympic sensation at 5,000 and 10,000 metres. After all, we pointed out, Zatopek won the marathon, too, a distance of ground the Finnish hero never tackled.

Planned Marathon

"Oh, didn't he?" came the retort. "Paavo only ran the marathon distance a lot faster than it had ever been run before when he was training for the 1932 Olympics at Los Angeles. Of course, it wasn't in official competition, but the times he set left no question that he would have won it as he pleased if they hadn't kicked him out. He was nearly 35 then, and he intended to run only in the marathon and win it as his farewell."

We recalled vaguely that there was a great hullabaloo when Nurmi was declared ineligible on the eve of the '32 games, having been charged with taking large hunks of "appearance" money, but the business about the marathon had slipped our memory. We since have dug into the files and find this excerpt from an interview given by Paavo in 1946.

"Only once did I train for a special distance," he said. "That was for the marathon run at Los Angeles. And even today I am annoyed that I didn't get to run in that race and achieve a result which certainly wouldn't be approached even today."

Intentions Clear

That would seem to leave little doubt of what Paavo had intended to do. In the same interview the flying Finn said of the 1924 Paris Games, in which he won the 10,000-metre cross country, the 5,000-metre and the 1,500-metre, a feat of versatility which bears comparison with Zatopek's:

"During the Paris Olympics I felt myself so superior to the world's other runners that a counterpart of this situation will hardly occur again. I think it unique that in winning the 1,500 metres race I slowed down by a third in the closing stretch in order to conserve strength.

"I never concentrated on any special distance, but ran anything from 800 to 10,000 metres. Because the world's records for these distances were almost entirely in my name, I could not be spurred to beat them, which I most certainly could have done without any trouble."

"Did you know that Paava could have run a four-minute mile?" demanded the man who started this thing. "Well, he could have, any time he wanted to. I saw him in nearly every race he ran over here and I'm absolutely convinced of it. The trouble was that Paava wasn't interested in setting records for certain distances. The epitome of running to him was to see how far he could go in a given period—a half-hour, an hour, two hours."

Guelph Leafs Check 4-Game Losing Streak

By The Canadian Press

Guelph Maple Leafs checked a four-game losing streak at home last night and moved to within a single game of second-place with a 6-1 victory over the tail-end St. Thomas Elgins in the Intercounty senior baseball league.

In the only other game last night, sixth-place Waterloo Tigers upset the league-leading Kitchener Panthers 18-1 before delighted home town fans. The win does little for the Tigers, but holds Kitchener to nas four-game lead over the runner-up Brantford Red Sox.

Marchildon Wins

Phil Marchildon yielded 11 hits in pitching Waterloo to its fourth straight victory. He contributed a two-run triple in the fourth inning as well.

Righthander Lew Fauth gained his seventh win of the season at Guelph in limiting the Elgins to six hits. He lost his shutout in the sixth on a single, a double and an error.

Guelph playing manager George D'Addario led his club at the plate with a home run and two singles. He drove in three runs and played brilliantly at first.

Tonight, Waterloo plays at St. Thomas while Galt moves into Kitchener and Brantford entertains Guelph.

United States Davis Cup Team In Montreal for Zone Final

MONTREAL (CP)—The four-man United States Davis Cup tennis team arrived in Montreal yesterday for the final round of the North American zone tie against Canada. Three of them went through a light workout for the matches next Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Canada last week-end defeated Mexico in straight sets to go up against the Americans. The boys from south of the border put Japan and Cuba out of the way to reach the finals.

The winner of the series here meets Italy, European zone champs, for the right to challenge Australia, present holder of the Davis Cup.

Seixas Leads Yanks

The American team is made up of Vic Sexias, who doubles as captain, Bob Perry, Herb Flam and Jack Frost.

Seixas said he, Perry and Flam put in a few sets yesterday to loosen up. Frost, 17, the fourth member of the team won the American junior championship just a day or two ago.

The week-end tilt will be the first time any of the Americans have met Canada in Davis Cup play, but they are not all strangers.

Canada's Lorne Main last week defeated Perry in straight sets in the Pennsylvania state grass court tournament.

Lorne also admits to meeting Flam on several occasions when both were students in California, but the best he can say is that some of the matches were close.

Opinion around the courts here is that Seixas, ranked No. 1 in the U.S., and Flam will handle both opening singles and doubles chores for the Americans.

Announce Draw Thursday

Seixas said he would announce his starters at the draw for opponents Thursday at the Mount Royal tennis club where the matches will be played.

Dr. Georges Leclerc, Canadian non-playing captain, would not announce his starters until then either. Main and Macken handled the singles chores against Mexico, with Henri Rochon and Main teaming up in the doubles. Jack Spencer, fourth member of the team, did not see action. The Canadians also worked out comparatively lightly yesterday.

Canada and the United States have met on eight occasions in the past, and Canada has yet to win a round.

SPONGE IRON PLANT

STOCKHOLM — (CP) — A new plant for the production of sponge iron planned for an annual capacity of 30,000 tons is to be built in central Sweden. Production is intended mainly for the Swedish market.

Chatham Maroons Want to Play Senior O.H.A.

STRATFORD (CP) — Chatham Maroons have applied for entry into the Big Six Senior A League of the Ontario Hockey Association.

The application, along with entry fee, was filed by Jack Stewart, former defence star with Detroit Red Wings and Chicago Black Hawks, who recently took over management of the Chatham club, with D. M. Pinkney, group convener.

If accepted at an executive meeting here Aug. 10, the league probably would become the Big Seven.

Pinkney said teams expected to return to the league this season are: Kitchener Dutchmen, Hamilton Tigers, Brantford Redmen, Owen Sound Mercurys, Sarnia Sailors and Stratford Indians.

Classiest Field in History Ready For Starter's Bell

By JOHN CHANDLER

GOSHEN, N.Y. (AP)—The classiest field in Hambletonian history is slated to line up today for the $87,637 trotting derby at Good Time Park. Railbirds are convinced Duke of Lullwater can grab the rich plum if he tends to business.

Sixteen horses were due in the first heat at 3 p.m. EDT, with Walter T. Candler's Duke the early 3-to-1 favorite.

But none of the Grand Circuit veterans will climb onto a limb for anything in the star-studded lineup. Eight or nine of the three-year-olds entered are capable of barging home with the $47,236 first money.

Hit-Song Second Choice

Odds-makers posted Hit Song as the 4-to-1 second choice. Hit Song, owned by E. Roland Harriman and E. T. Gerry of New York knocked off the Duke four times, twice last year and twice this summer.

Then there's the real darkhorse of the race, Sharp Note, owned by C. W. Clark of Dearborn, Mich. Sharp Note's 2:02 2-5 in winning the western trot at Santa Anita last May never has been duplicated so early in the year.

Insurance is our life. It's simple to us

And we make it simple for you

The average man today should carry several kinds of insurance. He's foolish not to—the cost is so little, considering the protection it gives.

His house, his place of business his other possessions, his family . . . all call for insurance of various kinds.

He should have insurance against loss by fire, theft and lawsuits. He should be protected against accidents to himself and family. He should be protected in case he or his family causes accidental injury to others.

There are at least 100 kinds of insurance protection today. The subject can become quite complex. But we eat, sleep and dream insurance, and it's simple to us.

We can keep it simple for you.

Northern Wins Series Opener, Beats Motors 4-3

Northern Electric, after a three week layoff, rebounded into the Belleville and District Softball League's Intermediate AA playoffs last evening with a 4-3 win over Belleville Motor Car in the first game of a best-of-five final series.

The Electrics took full advantage of their opportunities to score three runs in the first inning, and then held off a strong Motor Car challenge in the final frames to preserve their victory.

Northern scored three runs in the first frame. Mulvihill walked to start the inning, and then Hatfield and Young struck out. DeRushie singled to score Mulvihill who had worked his way to third on passed balls. York walked and Bunton singled to left field. A two base error in left field let in DeRushie and York and perched Bunton on third. Bone struck out to end the inning.

Motors scored their first run in the third on a single by Shorty Miller, a passed ball, and a single by Earl Cousins that stretched into three bases on the left fielder's error.

Electrics went down without threatening seriously until the 7th frame as Jack Reid struck out 11 of the first 15 putouts.

In the seventh Jones opened with a single to left, and then with Holmes and Mulvihill out, scored as Bob Hatfield pounded a triple off the right centrefield fence.

Poor Base Running

In the eighth inning the Motors put up their most determined rally and with more energetic base running could have tied the game at least.

Cousins started the inning with a double to left and took third on an error at short that gave Miller a life. Callaghan grounded to short but Cousins slid home ahead of the relay to leave all hands safe.

The runners failed to advance. James then flied to left but DeRushie overran the ball. Callaghan moved to third on the error and was thrown out at the plate on Walsh's infield roller. Reid flied to centre to end the threat.

Motors had the tying and winning runs on base in the ninth but failed to score. With two out Cousins got a life on an error to the pitcher. He reached third on a passed ball and a wild pitch. Burley walked, but Callaghan's hoist to centre was caught to end the game.

Jack Holmes slow-balled his way to the win for Northern, walking four, striking out three, and giving up only four hits for three runs. Jack Reid turned in a neat chore on the hill for the Motors, walking two, striking out 12, and giving up seven hits for four runs.

Jones, DeRushie, and Bunton each had two hits for Northern, while Cousins, with a single and double in four tries led the losers.

Lineups:—

Motors: Garvin rf; Miller ss; Cousins c; Hurley 3b; Callaghan 1b; Thomson cf; James 2b; Walsh lf; Reid p.

Northern: Mulvihill ss; Hatfield 3b; Young 2b; DeRushie lf; York rf; Bunton cf; Bone c; Jones 1b; Holmes p.

Drive-In Bantams Lose Series Opener

The Drive-in Bantams lost the first game in the scheduled best-of-three series in the O.B.A. playdowns at Oshawa last night to the tune of 10-2 in favor of the Oshawa team.

The second game will be played at the C.N.R. Recreation field on Thursday at 6:30 p.m. If it is necessary, the third game will be played at Cobourg.

Team manager, Wally Bent said the team had difficulty finding the playing field and as a result they were a little less than an hour late getting started. The game was called at the end of five innings on account of darkness.

Hitters for the Drive-in team were: Thomas with a double, Ryan got a home run and a double and McCann doubled. For Oshawa, Fraser had a home run and a double and Hoyt got a double.

Sport in Brief

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The second day of the Ontario Rifle Association's annual shoot at the Long Branch ranges yesterday brought two Canadian victories in a tie-shoot and one match and a sweeping British victory in another.

Sgt. F. Wakerell of Ottawa scored 47 out of a possible 50 in the Gibson rapid-fire match. Competitors had to fire 10 rounds in 45 seconds.

CQMS. J. A. Draper of South Porcupine, Ont., won in the tie-shoot for the Bankers match honors, and the association's silver medal with five bulls for 25 points.

In the Gibson match scores of 46 were posted by Capt. J. G. Kirk, Listowel and CQMS. J. A. Draper.

Four former champions were in the field that started out today on the Cataraqui golf course at Kingston for the Ontario amateur golf championship.

Harold Banks, manager of the Ontario Golf Association, said 103 players entered.

Two former winners were missing: Phil Farley of Toronto, a six-times titleholder who couldn't get away from his business, and Jack Nash of London, a three-times winner who was forced to withdraw because of illness.

However, defending champion Jerry Kesselring of Kitchener is in the field. He's won the crown twice, as has Nick Weslock of Windsor.

Boxing promoter Jack Solomons said at London yesterday he is flying to the United States this week week determined to sign up world light-heavyweight champion Joey Maxim for a title fight with Britain's Randy Turpin.

Solomons claims he has an understanding with Maxim's manager, Jack Kearns, for staging the bout in London in September, though the contracts have not yet been signed.

Former heavyweight champion Joe Louis will play the part of Joe Louis in some scenes of a motion picture version of his own life story. Louis said at New York yesterday that he will play himself in many of the ring scenes, including re-recreations of some of his famous fights. A professional actor, still to be selected, will play the Louis role in other scenes.

AT THE CAPITOL — Kristine Miller and Rand Brooks, sworn enemies, are pictured in a scene from "The Steel Fist," Monogram expose of world plot, now at the Capitol Theatre today and Thursday. On the same program "Something to Live For," starring Joan Fontaine, Ray Milland and Teresa Wright. Both hits are first showings.

AT THE McCARTHY — Ronald Reagan and Doris Day share the romance and excitement of the baseball world in "The Winning Team," the new Warner Bros. drama which bows into the Odeon McCarthy Theatre on Thursday. Story of the fabulous Grover Cleveland Alexander, "The Winning Team," also stars Frank Lovejoy as Rogers Hornsby, dynamic sports personality.

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Look out, show business, here comes Hutton and O'Curran, Unlimited.

Betty Hutton is free of her Paramount contract for the first time in 12 years, and she's busting out with plans for her future.

"Yep, I'm washed up with Paramount after 12 years," she said. "Man, I never felt better in my life. . .

"The one thing I insisted on was that Charlie (O'Curran, dance director and her husband) gets his release, too. We've got great plans for our own company; everything we do will be done together. Gosh, he's terrific! He did a great job on my Palace act for New York, and he'll direct all my pictures. We're a package deal."

London Bound

"Have we got plans! We're going to spend two months late this summer in England, where I'll play the Palladium. Then we'll return to make the life of Sophie Tucker. I own the story, and Columbia and Warners are knocking themselves out to have us do it for them. We'll retain 50 per cent of the profits, of course.

"Then there's television. I'm getting into it right away, and Charlie will direct my films. They'll be half-hour shows and will go on once every four or eight weeks or something like that.

"And whenever we don't have something to do, I'll go out and play four weeks of personals. Oh, we'll be busy, all right."

Betty said her split with Paramount was the result of a long series of disagreements over scripts.

Best Films

Reviewing her long stay at Paramount, she cited her best films as "Perils of Pauline," "Incendiary Blonde," "Miracle of Morgan's Creek," "Stork Club," and "greatest Show on Earth." Her worst stinkers, she recalled, were "Dream girl," "Cross My Heart" and "Red, Hot and Blue."

She also hinted as to why she has been considered temperamental at times.

"I get along great with someone who knows what he's doing," she said. "For instance, Demille and I had no trouble, because we respected each other's talents. But when I'm working with jerks with no talent, I raise hell until I get what I want. After all, it's my career."

CLEVER BELLRINGER

BACTON, Norfolk, England — (CP) —Sexton James Capes of the Anglican Church here single-handed rings five bells that summon worshippers to service. Sitting on a stool, he uses both hands, both feet and an elbow to ring 280 changes. His instructions are chalked on a blackboard.

AT THE CAPITOL — Beautiful Joan Fontaine stars as a talented young actress whose career is threatened by her passion for drink in George Stevens' "Something to Live For," Paramount film drama showing tonight and Thursday only. On the same program "The Steel Fist," starring Roddy McDowall. Both hits are first showings.

DRIVE-IN THEATRE

"SIDESHOW"

On the trail of international jewel thieves, whom he believes to be working for a carnival, Don McGuire, Treasury department agent, joins the carnival as a handyman. The three men under his suspicion are Ray Walker, John Abbott and Jimmy Conlin, candy vendor. McGuire finds a new suspect when he encounters a diamond in candy made by Cashier Tracey Roberts. He later discovers other gems in the statues in Abbott's wax museum, waiting to be taken to the "fence" by others in the smuggling syndicate. When McGuire has all the necessary evidence, he and his fellow agents close in on the gang. In the ensuing melee, Abbott and Walker are killed and Conlin is arrested.

DRIVE-IN THEATRE

"TOMAHAWK"

Indian Scout Van Heflin is troubled on two counts: the government, violating a Sioux peace treaty, has built a fort on the redskins' last remaining hunting grounds; and among the garrison's officers is Alex Nicoll, against whom Heflin seeks revenge because Nicoll had been responsible for the massacre of Heflin's Cheyenne wife and baby. To the fort comes Yvonne DeCarlo with a travelling show-wagon; Nicoll, escorting her, kills an Indian boy en route. This incident causes the restless Sioux to ready for the warpath, and the tension rises as Heflin rides out to rescue Yvonne, who has fled to escape Nicoll's attentions. Nicoll, sent for help, leads his platoon into a trap and escapes, but subsequently is killed. The Indians are beaten off, Heflin wins Yvonne and a new peace treaty is arranged.

RAWDON

River Valley W.I. Holds Entertaining Children's Day

RAWDON.—The August meeting of River Valley Women's Institute was held one week earlier on July 31.

As this was "Children's Day", the meeting was held at the school house.

The new cupboards have recently been installed and painted at a cost of $200 and they made a great improvement. The ladies also renovated and painted the library, desk and chairs and freshened the plastic drapes and all this added to the attractiveness of the schoolroom. Thirty-five members, a few visitors and about 35 children were in attendance. The roll call was a fifteen cent prize for a child and the large array of picture books, balls, ornaments, plastic toys, chocolate bars and gum, provided prizes for the games.

The president, Mrs. Ed. Heasman, opened the meeting with the usual exercises

Mrs. J. L. Donohoe gave a full statement of the finances. The collection gathered by the directors for the cupboards amounted to $64.25. A small balance was left after the month's expenses were met.

Thanks Tendered

Mrs. Ralph Utman was able to be in attendance and extended personal thanks for her remembrance during her recent illness.

A card of thanks is to be forwarded to Messrs. Ernest Rosebush and Jack Bush in recognition of their special work in building the cupboards.

HIS WATCH TAKEN

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)— Constable O. J. Barker has more than a professional interest in solving a $10,000 jewelry store robbery today. Barker investigated the robbery of a store in which thieves cleaned out a stock of watches and gems Sunday night. One of the watches was his own, left at the store for repairs.

Lawyers Becoming Extinct In 'Iron Curtain' Countries

By HUBERT HARRISON

VIENNA (Reuters)—Lawyers are becoming extinct in the "Iron Curtain" lands of Eastern Europe because there's nothing left for them to battle over in court.

In Hungary, Rumania, Czechoslovakia, and Bulgaria, lawyers formed a wealthy and important class, with great political and social power. Now they are dying out, and survivors have lost almost every vestige of power and importance.

This decline is primarily due to the fact that property has been nationalized or taxed out of existence, fortunes have disappeared during currency reforms, and no one has been left anything worth fighting about to leave in their wills.

Hungary is typical.

Before the revolution, lawyers played an important role in Hungarian life. In every country town, there were dozens of them and all seemed to find plenty of clients to fight for in the courts.

Lawyers'Co-op

But it is no longer worth while hiring a lawyer to fight over the possession of something which has been or is being absorbed into a state or co-operative farm.

Many lawyers in Budapest and the bigger towns were liquidated or deprived of the right to work immediately after the revolution, as "class enemies."

The only escape was to join the official "Federation of Lawyers" and become a member of one of the "Lawyers Co-Operatives."

Both organizations brought their members under the thumb of the party. They could accept only work which was in the interests of the regime and had little to do.

All lawyers in the co-operatives have to march in the processions wearing black trousers, open shirts and no ties—to prove their loyalty to the proletariat idea.

Chosen By State

The basic principles of law have been abandoned and the great majority of arrests are for what are now regarded as political offenses. Shop lifting has become sabotage of the regime, for example, since all the stores are government owned.

Political cases are usually not defended. The state security police sentence prisoners without trial or hold in secret ones which need no lawyers for the defence.

Even in the big political trials such as those of Archbishop Groesz and Cardinal Mindszenty, the lawyers for the defence were selected by the prosecution and everything they proposed to say had to be submitted for censorship by the prosecution before they said it.

Summer Dream

By Irene Ernhart

September slid into October. Laurie French wakened early and she would go to her window and look out at the misty freshness of the morning in the park across the apartment, and she would try to think of what Steve would be doing. School would have started by now. But at five o'clock he probably still would go out and run his lines every morning while the mist hung heavy over the river.

The river would be beautiful now. He had told her once it was always at its loveliest in October. He said the trees in Indiana always turned such lovely colors, just like Vermont. And the leaves floated like little golden boats on the glassy surface of the water.

She had a long letter from her father. His roses were still blooming but it was almost time for frost. The river was low this year, because they hadn't had as much rain as usual. The weather had been wonderful, so sunny and warm. Fish had been biting too, but he'd had to fish alone because Steve was busy working on his book, and was keeping a lot to himself these days for some reason or another. Of course he had a lot of work to do in connection with his teaching. Steve was going to write to her one of these days. He just hadn't gotten around to it yet. He was, however, sending her a box of bittersweet. He said he remembered her saying once that she had never seen bittersweet after October had opened the orange berries.

So Steve remembered a little thing like that She had almost forgotten the remark herself.

What else did he remember? Did his mind, like hers, keep going over the whole summer, recalling all the times they had been together, the hours of companionship, the few times when he had held her in his arms, and the way he had kissed her?

The box of bittersweet from Steve arrived and Laurie put the bright orange and red berries in a blue bowl and set it on the window sill in her room.

Fletcher came back from Europe the last of October. He was so glad to see her and had missed her so dreadfuly that it was difficult to tell him face to face she wasn't going to marry him.

When she did, he gave her a pink-faced smile and ran his hand through his blonde hair like an embarrassed schoolboy, "you don't need to feel so badly about it, I've been braced for something like this ever since you went out west. I felt that something wasn't quite right."

There wasn't any reason why they couldn't go on being friends. So, Laurie went places with him.

Her mother was delighted. She was sure that eventually Laurie would forget whatever mysterious thing it was that had happened during the summer. She saw to it that Laurie and Fletcher were coupled at any parties their friends gave. It was so obvious that even Fletcher was apologetic about it.

"I don't want to make a nuisance of myself, Laurie," he said one Saturday afternoon as they returned from a luncheon. "Emmy is determined to throw us together, but if you'd rather not be with me so much I'll have another engagement when she arranges these things."

"It's all right Fletcher," Laurie said. "I'm very fond of you. Only it doesn't seem fair to waste your time—"

"My time isn't being wasted, Laurie." He gave her a quick sidelong glance and a smile. "I have hopes that eventually we'll sort of take up where we left off. There isn't anyone else I'd ever want to marry."

That was the afternoon they came back to the Park Avenue apartment to find Steve, looking big and brown and awkward, sitting on one of Emmy's gilt and brocade chairs in the long living room, having a drink with Emmy and Mark.

Steve!

Emmy was saying, "So Louis went on with his grubby down-to-earth' way of living and I made a lovely new life for myself with Mark here. I've never regreted it. Those things — somehow just never work out do they?"

Steve had caught sight of her now. He set down his drink on the fragile table at his side and got up. "No, they never do,'" he said. Then Emmy and Mark saw her and Fletcher.

Mark said, "Hello, Laurie — Fletcher—come in."

Emmy colored. "Oh, yes, Laurie, your friend here Mr.—"

"Wysong," Steve said.

"Oh yes," Emmy said, Mr. Wysong, I want you to meet Mr. Sturdevant, Laurie's fiance. The two men shook hands. Laurie stood there trembling, until Mark came over and put a drink into her hand and smiled down at her. Good old Mark, she thought.

Emmy's high voice went on and on. "As I was saying, Mr. Wysong, those things just simply have a way of not working out. I'm sure, looking back now, that it wasn't Louis's fault or it was not mine. The essential factor was that we weren't the same people."

Mark broke in. "You're boring Mr. Wysong, Emmy. I'd like to hear more about this book he's written."

Mark flushed ever so slightly and set down his drink and cleared his throat. "There's not much to tell," he said quietly. "I brought the manuscript to a publisher but he doesn't think too highly of it. A lot of people have written books about the Civil War."

"A lot of people have written books, period," Mark said. "Just because one publisher turns down a book is no sign that it isn't any good you know."

Steve Wysong chatted a few minutes, then stood up, picked up his hat and topcoat from the divan. He turned to Emmy.

"It was fine meeting you, Mrs. Carr." He shook hands with Mark and Fletcher, then turned to Laurie. The line of his jaw tightened and he spoke awkwardly. "Glad I had a chance to see you, Laurie, if only for a few minutes. Louis said to tell you hello.."

"You're not leaving town already?"

Steve nodded. "Got to get back to the classroom." He managed a grin. "That's where I belong, teaching history to a bunch of kids."

"But, Steve, why don't you stay and try to see another publisher about your book?" Panic swept through her. He couldn't go away. They had so many things to talk about. She'd missed him so and here he was now. Steve, don't go. She didn't think she could bear to let him go away again.

Mark was showing him to the door and then there was the sound of the door closing and Mark came back.

There was a long silence in the room. No one looked at anyone else, and Mark busied himself mixing more drinks.

Finally Emmy said, "So that was the reason you came back from Indiana looking like the world had fallen apart." Her unbelieving laughter rippled. "Oh, Laurie, how could you let yourself get involved with someone like that."

No one said anything for a few moments, and then Fletcher muttered, "I've got to be running along Laurie, if you'll excuse me." He leaned and kissed her cheek and patted her shoulder. "I thought he seemed a very nice sort of a chap darling," he whispered.

After Fletcher was gone, Mark turned to Laurie and said, "your mother did a very thorough job, Laurie, didn't she? But I thought it was going a little too far to introduce Fletcher as your fiance. Why didn't you speak up?"

"Mr. Wysong knew, even before I said that," Emmy put in, "that it just wouldn't do. It wasn't really the book that brought him to New York. I knew that the moment he started talking. He'd come to see Laurie. He'd come to smooth over whatever trouble there'd been between them and I wanted to make sure he understood that I wasn't going to stand idly by and make the same mistake I made when I married Louis!"

Mark had turned his back to them and was looking out of the window, but suddenly he wheeled around, to face them. There was an odd look on his face.

"I think, Emmy," he said slowly and firmly, "that it's time we were truthful, for Laurie's sake, and for the sake of her happiness." His mouth was drawn and there was a look of pain in his eyes.

"Why Mark," Emmy cried, "whatever do you mean?"

"I mean just this, Emmy. Ever since Laurie has been old enough to be interested in men, you've been choosing them for her. You picked out Fletcher for her to marry because it was such a suitable match," Mark Carr said quietly.

"You must admit that Laurie and Fletcher do make a lovely couple!" Emmy countered.

"You've impressed it on her over and over that she must never make the terrible mistake you made, by marying someone like Louis!"

"And why shouldn't she profit by my mistake?" Emmy had turned pale. "I don't know what you are trying to get at, Mark."

"Laurie," Mark said, "your mother's big mistake was not in marrying your father. It was in giving him up. She had promised to love, honor and cherish —to cling to him, and live his life, but when it came right down to doing it, she was too much of a coward. She refused to meet him even half way."

"You can see for yourself, Laurie," her mother cried "knowing Louis and knowing me, just how impossible it would have been. I couldn't have stood it there in Ridgeville, among all those horrid provincial people. I had to leave him!"

"But you have regretted it ever since!" Mark put in softly. "You have wished a thousand times that you had stayed with Louis in spite of everything. You've never really been happy with me."

"Oh, Mark, yes, there've been times. What are you saying?"

But Emmy knew what her husband was saying. Her eyes admitted it and now she walked toward him, her glance fell. Even before Mark spoke, Emmy's question had been answered.

Mark's voice was calm but insistent. "You don't have to pretend any longer, my dear. I've known it for years. Let's face it. You were young and young people do impulsive things. But let's not let Laurie ruin her life. If she loves Steve, then his world is the place for her. Besides, she is Louis's child more than she is yours. She's like Louis in many ways, Emmy, and there's no use in your trying any longer to make her over into your own image."

"Mark, you're being sentimental and old-fashioned." There was, however, a suggestion of a tremor in Emmy's voice. She stared at Mark, who returned her gaze for a long silent moment. Finally, Emmy turned to her daughter. There were tears in her eyes now "I guess he's, Laurie. I think you'd better go and find Steve, if you're really in love with him."

Laurie shook her head. "What you both seem to overlook," she said, "is the fact that Steve does not want me."

Mr. Dennis was using a worm for bait which attracted a small fish, the species of which he did not determine, as when reeling it in, it was grabbed and swallowed by the muskie. It took about fifteen minutes to land the large fish. Mr. Dennis was accompanied by Dr. Egan, of Buffalo, N.Y.

Rains Too Late To Save Billion Dollars of Crops

Drought Produces Sharp Rises in Produce Prices

CHICAGO (AP)—Drought-cracking rains splashed down today on New England and parts of the southern United States—too late to save nearly $1,000,000,000 worth of burned-out crops and pastures.

But the moisture was a life-saver for corn, tobacco, cotton and vegetable crops still surviving in these drought-singed areas, and gave promise of reviving some pastures by fall.

The drought, one of the worst in years to overall U. S. food production, already is having these effects:

Boost Prices

Some sharp increases in produce prices, scattered set-backs to rural trade, cuts in milk supplies in southern Missouri, a decline in farm labor employment in the stricken area and some "scare" buying in canned fruits and vegetables.

Unless the rainfall pattern returns to normal, some government spokesmen predicted that sales of farm implements will be hurt and that a water-power shortage will develop in New Hampshire and in oil-producing Oklahoma.

As the rains came, the federal government raised to 10 the number of entire states listed as disaster areas. It added North Carolina and the remainder of Arkansas to the list. Other states are South Carolina, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, Massachusetts, Maine and 44 Missouri counties. Oklahoma and Texas have been carried over from the 1951 drought.

Farmers in these areas are eligible for government loans.

Agricultural spokesmen said the drought was broken in southern New England and in parts of the south. Arkansas had general rain but the weather bureau said it was not enough to break the drought there.

Brooklin Man Instantly Killed Near Kaladar

Crushed when the car in which he was riding left the road north of Kaladar on Highway 41 and smashed into a big rock, Stan Irwin of Brooklin, north of Oshawa, was instantly killed early today and his two companions are in Belleville General Hospital.

In hospital with head injuries, shock and concussion are Jack Schell, 21, and Allen Nancekivell, 27, also of Brooklin. Their condition is not critical, according to Dr. F. R. Ross who attended the two injured men.

The three young men were driving north when about two miles north of Kaladar the car went off the right side of the highway, travelled along the ditch for some distance and then struck the large boulder. The entire right front corner of the car was crushed, the force of the impact bouncing the car back onto the highway where it came to rest. Irwin was crushed in the car.

The accident took place about midnight on a section of highway running through a huckleberry rock district. Bush's Ambulance of Tweed brought the injured to hospital. Cpl. Jack Hatch of the Ontario Provincial Police at Madoc, investigated.

Judge Orders Finnish-Born Worker Deported

BOSTON (AP)—A Finnish-born mill worker, who signed a Communist party membership application in 1934 because "they told me they wanted to win a strike in which I was involved," was ordered deported yesterday.

Judge Charles E. Wyzanski Jr., ruled "with reluctance" that Carl A. Latva, 49, who signed the application, paid 50 cents and "never heard from them again," must be deported to Finland.

Wyzanski said that under the McCarran anti-subversives act he was bound to uphold the deportation of Latva.

Latva said at his home last night: "An immigrant like me. . . I don't know right from wrong because I hadn't been here very long. Then 20 years later because I tell the truth they want to break up my family and take me away from the country I love."

In 1949 Latva, applying for U.S. citizenship, told immigration officials that he had joined the Communist party in 1934 because he understood its aims were "organizing unions, and if there was a strike they appealed to all local groups to raise funds to help strikers."

Toronto Stores Warned of Bogus U.S. $10 Bills

TORONTO — (CP) — Police today warned shopkeepers to be on the lookout for "a great many well-made" counterfeit United States $10 bills circulating here.

Three such bills have turned up here in the last two days. Each had the same serial number— M-30343147A.

Police said they believed the counterfeiting gang originated in the U. S., probably Buffalo.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP) — Synopsis: The pleasantly cool summer weather of the past few days will continue today throughout the province. A disturbance moving across the north country will spread cloud and a few showers into Northern Ontario tonight and central regions Friday. Southern counties will continue sunny Friday.

Man Kills Girl, Wounds Escort Then Kills Self

CHICAGO (AP)—A young man crying, "I love Sally," darted suddenly from the bushes in Grant Park yesterday and sprayed bullets at a young couple listening to music. His bullets killed the girl and critically wounded her escort.

Then the man embraced the girl—apparently a stranger to him—as she lay dying on the ground, and shot himself to death.

The action took place as hundreds of office workers spent their lunch hour in the park, listening to rehearsal of the Grant Park Symphony orchestra.

The victims were Patricia Kahler 17, and Herbert A. Hoffman, 17, wounded in the neck, chest and back.

The dead gunman had a Detroit hotel receipt in his pocket which bore the name of R. Walker. However, police said fingerprints showed the killer was Bernard Richardson.

DUKE HAS STOMACH ACHE

VIAREGGIO, Italy (Reuters) —The Duke of Windsor is suffering from stomach trouble. The Duchess said today he is suffering from pains and loss of appetite.

The Duke and Duchess arrived at this coast resort last night from the island of Elba on a cruise in their yacht Amazon.

Willie the Panhandler Doing Good Until Police Break up Racket

OKLAHOMA CITY. (AP) — Willie the panhandler told police yesterday he thinks Oklahoma City people have hearts of gold.

Willie arrived from Dallas, Tex., Tuesday because things were getting slow in the Texas City. So slow, in fact, he couldn't afford to keep up the payments on his new Lincoln and give his chauffeur $35 a week.

His first day in Oklahoma netted him $64, he said, and yesterday was going about the same.

Willie, 34, is paralyzed from the waist down since childhood because of infantile paralysis. He travels in a delapidated wagon which he propels with his hands while begging.

Police arrested Willie when his chauffeur tried to change $50 worth of nickels and dimes into paper money.

"This boy ain't doing anything wrong," Willie protested. "I gave him the money. I pay him $35 a week as my chauffeur.

"My overhead with the chauffeur is $283 a month before I get a bite to eat or buy my clothes," wailed Willie.

Police said they wouldn't file charges if Willie left town.

JET EXPLODES ABOARD CARRIER, EIGHT KILLED

12 Planes Destroyed By Fires After Blast

WASHINGTON (AP)—An explosion of a jet plane aboard the United States carrier Boxer in Korean waters killed eight men and injured an unannounced number of others, the navy reported today.

Twelve jet planes were destroyed by raging fires that followed the explosion. Helicopters and lifeboats picked up 63 crew members driven overboard by the flames.

A naval officer said the 27,000-ton carrier, which normally carries a crew of 2,900 officers and men, suffered the tragedy about 50 miles off the coast of Korea Tuesday night.

No enemy action was involved. The officer said he did not know how many men were injured. He said damage to the ship was comparatively slight.

Just what caused the jet plane to explode was not known, officials said. It is believed that an accumulation of gasses built up after a landing, and caused the blast.

Caller Directs Police to Body Of Man Killed

CHICAGO (AP)—A telephone caller last night directed police to the body of a man beaten to death with a hammer in a hotel, and then played hide-and-seek with them after threatening to "kill again."

After the tip-off on the slaying, the man called police at least four more times, warning that he meant to strike in two other hotels.

Lieut. John Golden finally made an appointment with the mysterious caller to meet him in a bar. The man failed to keep the appointment.

The victim of the hammer slaying was identified tentatively as Thomas Actor, about 35, of Birmingham, Ala. His body was found after a phone caller told police to go to room 414 of the hotel and "you'll find something bloody."

Ten Firemen Overcome by Chlorine Fumes

HAMILTON (CP)—Ten firemen were overcome Wednesday by chlorine fumes while fighting a fire at the Clewood products plant.

Heat from the flames caused the gas to seep from tanks stored for shipment to an army camp near London. Chlorine gas was used as a weapon during the first world war. Hospital authorities said the overcome men were treated with oxygen during the night.

As firemen staggered from the burning building and collapsed they were taken to hospital in police and press cars. The tanks holding the gas were finally removed from the building and the gas released while water was sprayed over the tanks.

Cause of the fire was not determined and there was no estimate of damage.

POTATOES STOLEN

KITCHENER (CP)—Buyer resistance to the current high price of potatoes is taking a new turn here. A district farmer reported thefts from his market stand while city residents say potatoes have been disappearing from their gardens.

Agricultural Policy of Govt. Criticized by CCF Convention; Many Resolutions Adopted

TORONTO (CP)—The federal government's agricultural policy was criticized yesterday as the national convention of the C.C.F. adopted a long list of resolutions concerning agriculture.

"Failure of the government to implement an adequate price program for marketing of agricultural products has resulted in grave instability and insecurity," said one resolution adopted in the day and night sessions.

"Forward prices" on farm products, to assure the farmer of stable prices for his products, were advocated, and steps were urged to seek markets abroad.

Parity Price

It was urged that wheat sold by the Canadian wheat board on the domestic market "be not tied" to the international wheat agreement, but be based on a parity price with things the farmer has to buy. Various resolutions urged:

A federal livestock marketing board; addition of producer-membership to the Canadian wheat board; maintenance of the quota system of grain marketing; maintenance of the "car order book" for the 1952 and subsequent crop years in accordance with rights under the Canada grain act.

Another resolution called for "adequate compensation to farmers whose cattle may be destroyed as part of the government's program." It also asked for "price support and price control to prevent profiteering by processors, and the use of meat surpluses as part of economic aid to the United Kingdom and other European countries."

An international wheat agreement with adequate prices, was favored, and "continuation of the Canadian wheat board as the sole marketing agency for wheat.

Attention of the board of transport commissioners was called "to the congested conditions of grain elevators" with a request that "we do not want to experience a repitition of the bottleneck of last fall."

Wants Prices Probed

A parliamentary committee inquiry was asked "into every aspect of the price of farm machinery."

A resolution, presented by the Ontario provincial council, would have urged "all possible steps to insure that the proposed pipeline to carry natural gas east from Alberta will not cross the United States border." This resolution, however, was referred to the national council for further study and research.

Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan said natural gas resources are for the Canadian people, but he doubted whether delegates had at present sufficient technical knowledge to say a pipeline should not cross the American border.

He said he was not in a position to argue the merits of the matter. but serious questions had been raised as to the feasibility of an all-Canadian route to the east. It had been suggested that it might be better to make an exchange arrangement under which Eastern Canada would be supplied with gas from the United States, while Western Canadian gas went to western states.

Some Ontario delegates, however stated that an industry worth many millions of dollars is being built up at Superior, Wisconsin, as a result of its being the terminal for the oil pipeline from Alberta; whereas, they added, the line could have been kept in Canada for an expenditure of an additional $10,000,000.

The principle of increased immigration was endorsed, but with provisions to safeguard standards of living. Discrimination against immigrants because of the "color of their skin" was condemned.

The three-day convention, which opened yesterday, has more than 160 delegates in attendance, including:

From British Columbia 14; Alberta 3; Saskatchewan 38; Manitoba 6; Ontario 40; Quebec 3; New Brunswick 3; Nova Scotia 6; Prince Edward Island 1. Other delegates are from trade unions, the national council, and associated bodies.

First resolutions to come up yesterday advocated a "vigorous initiative" by Canada in favor of freer trade at the forthcoming commonwealth conference; and expansion of Canadian production of iron and steel "through a publicly-owned iron and steel industry."

Fraternal greetings included a message from the Socialist Democratic party of Germany.

Egypt Seen Holding Key To Middle East Defence

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The western powers and Turkey are considering shelving their long-stalled proposal for a Middle East command in favor of a Middle East defence organization. This would have the more limited task of planning the defence of that area against possible Russian moves.

Political developments in Egypt are regarded here as holding the key to what is done. Many American officials hope the new Egyptian government, with an eye to modernizing the country's armed forces, may reverse previous opposition to joining forces with the west and at least participate in a planning group.

The establishment of a Middle East defence organization would provide a political basis for military assistance by the United States and possibly other western powers to co-operating countries.

It is understood that, because of antagonisms between Israel and the Arab countries, the Jewish state would not become a member, but would receive military assistance from the U. S.

There are some differences between Washington and London over when and with whom M.E.D.O. should be organized. Britain is understood to favor going ahead as soon as possible with formation of the planning group, incorporating those countries that are willing to join and leaving others out, temporarily at least.

The U. S., on the other hand, asserted the view yesterday that any organization set-up should have maximum membership in the Middle East if it is to be useful.

ANYTHING TO OBLIGE

TORONTO (CP)—This pike was rather obliging. When the 10-pound fish broke Sam Canton's line at Lake Simcoe, it didn't swim away but jumped into the boat, Canton's plug still in its mouth. Three friends vouch for the story's truth.

TONNAGE HIGHER

CORNWALL (CP)—Shipping through the Cornwall Canal showed an increase of 66,170 tons during July this year over July, 1951. Tonnage during the month was 1,346,628 while last July's figure was 1,280,158 tons.

Rhee Returned In Unofficial Returns Given

PUSAN, Korea (AP)—Aging President Syngman Rhee was swept back into office by an overwhelming majority in nearly-complete unofficial returns from the election of chief executives.

Rhee's choice for vice-president —Ham Tai Yung, an obscure Presbyterian minister—piled up a commanding lead over eight opponents in late returns from Tuesday's election.

Rhee, 77, puttered in his Seoul garden as the vote couht assured his return to office for four years. He declined to make a statement or pose for photographs.

Inauguration August 15

The inauguration is set for Aug. 15—fourth anniversary of the republic.

Returns from 161 of 163 counting places gave Rhee 4,939,299 votes to 762,772 for Cho Bong Am, vice-chairman of the national assembly and former Communist leader; 748,945 for Lee Shi Yung, former vice-president, and 241,489 for Hugh Cynn, former ambassador to Japan.

Returns from 140 counting places gave Ham 2,158,529 votes. His closest opponents were Lee Bum Suk with 1,454,024 and Chough Pyung Ok with 505,255.

Official returns are to be announced Aug. 13.

Until Rhee forced constitutional changes in June, the president was elected by the one-house national assembly.

FIRE DESTROYS COTTAGE

COLLINGWOOD (CP)—A $5,000 fire which swept through a summer cottage near here left the owners with nothing but their bathing suits. Robert McKean, his wife and family were swimming when the blaze broke out. Even keys to the car were destroyed.

GROMYKO VISITS QUEEN TO PRESENT HIS CREDENTIALS

Audience Conducted With Great Dignity

LONDON (AP)—Top-hatted Andrei Gromyko, Russia's new ambassador to Britain, rode in a gilded coach to Buckingham Palace today and presented his credentials to the Queen.

There was nothing proletarian about the show. It was conducted in an atmosphere of cast-iron dignity that even an unruly horse could not disturb.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden introduced Gromyko to the Queen. The Russian envoy spent 20 minutes at the palace. He was accompanied by seven senior embassy officials and Maj.-Gen. Guy Salisbury-Jones, marshal of Britain's diplomatic corps.

Going and coming, Gromyko was his usual unsmiling self. If he felt self-conscious riding in a coach that looked like something out of Cinderella, he did not show it.

In keeping with protocol, the palace sent three landaus—massive high coaches of crimson, black and gold—to the Soviet Embassy to pick up Gromyko and his party.

At Hyde Park corner, a busy intersection, one of the big bay horses reared. Then it kicked the driver's box, bouncing the scarlet-cloaked driver about.

A police sergeant and one of the liveried coachmen finally made adjustments to the harness and got the big bay quieted down.

Gromyko was received with shouts of "go home" when he arrived in London July 28. He replaced Georgi N. Zarubin, who has been appointed Soviet ambassador to the United States.

Detroit Mother Drowns When Boat is Rammed

DETROIT (CP) — Detroit mother of two was drowned last night and seven other persons were rescued without injury when their 30-foot cabin cruiser was rammed across the bow by a speedboat in Lake St. Clair.

The seven, including the victim's two young children, were rescued by fishing boats as the cruiser grounded on a sandbar a quarter mile off shore.

Dead is Mrs. Virginia Ward. Her body, wearing a life jacket, was found floating near the scene of the wreck. She was apparently knocked unconscious by the crash impact and was later drowned.

RETURN ON AUGUST 12

OSHAWA (CP)—Most of the some 7,000 factory employees of the General Motors of Canada, limited, plant here will be back on the job by 1 p.m., Aug. 12, it was announced today.

Passenger car department employees will return to work Monday morning when the annual, two-week vacation shutdown ends.. Employees of the packing department will probably be called in on Aug. 14.

FIRST ORE SHIPMENT

HAMILTON (CP)—The S. S. James Norris, which docked at the Dominion Foundries and Steel Limited yesterday, left today after delivery of 18,000 tons of ore. The shipment was the first to arrive at the plant from the Mesabi range since the steel strike in the United States.

Wife Seeking Husband, Daughter Who Disappeared Two Weeks Ago

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Joseph A. Normandeau, 38, returned to Union station here again today in the hope of finding some trace of her husband and 13-year-old daughter who disappeared from there two weeks ago.

The family arrived at the station July 23 on a train from Bigwood, about 60 miles south of Sudbury.

"Joseph went uptown to visit the National Employment Service office and Shirley asked to go along to buy some comic books," Mrs. Normandeau said. "That was the last I saw of either of them."

A construction engineer, Normandeau had worked on projects in many parts of Canada, French West Africa and the Yukon.

Mrs. Normandeau later picked up the family luggage at a station check room.

"We've had our ups and downs but we've never been parted before," she said.

Great Expansion In Steel Industry States Spokesman

Denies CCF Charge Canada Too Dependent on U.S.

HAMILTON (CP)—A steel industry spokesman replying to criticism at yesterday's session of the C.C.F. convention, states that it is not economically possible to manufacture special shapes in Canada. Until the population grows, certain shapes and wide sheets would be rolled in the United States where steel mills have the necessary facilities.

"It just is not practical to put up heavy mills to build heavy H-beams or wide mills to roll extra-wide automobile sheets required on body building," he said.

The national C.C.F. party in convention charged yesterday Canada is dependent on the U.S. and other countries for essential iron and steel supplies.

Eventually, as Canada grows, the picture will change, but that is in the future, said the steel spokesman.

A C.C.F. charge that the steel industry had failed to keep pace with Canada's industrial needs is not borne out by current expansion programs, the spokesman added.

Last year steel production totalled 3,567,361 tons; in 1940 production was over 1,000,000 tons less.

Stelco's current expansion program will increase capacity by 50 per cent, and add about 700,000 tons of production to the Canadian figure. Dofasco has built a blast furnace unit; Algoma and Dosco both are increasing production facilities.

Red Underground Being Probed By Japanese

TOKYO (AP)—Japan's top crime investigator says there are signs that the Communist underground movement is seeking to overthrow the government.

Itaru Seki, director of the public security investigation agency of the attorney-general's office, said his agents have seized many Red documents calling for revolution in Japan.

"But," he added in an interview, "it is very difficult to get evidence that is good in court."

He gave no hint of plans for immediate action under Japan's new anti-subversive law—except watchful waiting by his 2,000 "public security agents."

Didn't Disclose Details

Seki, who did not disclose any details of the evidence uncovered, said his majojr concern is 55,000 former registered Communists who no longer admit they belong to the party. The nucleus of an active Red underground came from this group.

The anti-subversive act was bitterly opposed by Japanese labor groups on the ground it could be used to suppress the labor movement. Seki said some Japanese labor unions are leftist, but none could be called Communist.

Hustle Women In Shorts Out Of Public Places

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (AP) — Women with bare legs have been giving too much competition to the natural beauty of the city's parks, according to the park board.

So police have been ordered to hustle women in shorts out of such public places.

"The only limbs we want to see in our parks are those growing on trees," said Paul L. Snyder, chairman of the board.

Govt. Extends Beef Floor Price Till Sept. 30

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government yesterday extended its 25-cent-a-pound floor price for beef another month to Sept. 30. Agriculture Minister Gardiner said it will support the Canadian cattle industry as long as the United States market remains closed to it.

The current floor price—25 cents a pound, basis good steers at Toronto—was to have expired Sept. 1. But Mr. Gardiner announced that the cabinet decided to extend it "through September."

The government still was undecided whether to change the floor level in October when the flow of beef to market begins to reach annual peaks. Farmers, said Mr. Gardiner, will be advised before the end of September.

At Washington U.S. agriculture secretary Charles Brannan said his department has "not taken under consideration" the question of lifting the embargo on the Canadian livestock. The embargo was imposed Feb. 25 following an outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in Saskatchewan.

Brannan indicated, however, that the embargo may be lifted in advance of the usual one-year rule, but the agriculture department first will be "very, very careful" to make sure there is no foot-and-mouth disease in Canada.

$250,000 Fire Destroys Inn At Honey Harbor

HONEY HARBOR, Ont. (CP)—One guest was unaccounted for late yesterday after a $250,000 fire destroyed the 75-room Delawana inn.

About 100 guests, most of them from the United States, were driven from the 54-year-old frame hotel by the flames. Others were on fishing trips in the district and officials of the resort expressed hope the missing man, whose name was not revealed, might be among the anglers.

Fire departments from Waubaushene, 15 miles away, and Coldwater, 18 miles distant, answered calls for assistance but arrived only in time to see the last wall tumble into the flames.

The inn was owned by brothers, S. S. Grise and F. D. Grise. The luxurious structure was built in 1898 and remodelled periodically since then.

Barbara Black, a waitress, said the fire apparently started on the third floor and was "quite small" when first noticed. She and other waitresses joined a bucket brigade to pass water to men fighting the blaze.

Lake Level Drops Slightly During July

The level of Lake Ontario during July was four and one-half inches lower than in June, it was reported today by the Canadian hydrographic service. The level was taken at Kingston.

There is a great variance in lake levels from year to year, according to the report. The level of last month was three inches higher than in July of last year; was 58¾ inches higher than the lowest July and 25¼ inches higher than the average.

This year, however, is not a record for high water. During one July, the report did not say which, the level topped by three quarters of an inch, the level of last month.

Winter Wheat Yield Better Than Expected

Combining and threshing are in full swing in the Bay of Quinte district with Hastings farmers reporting winter wheat yields at between 30 and 40 bushels per acre. In Northumberland farmers are reporting that wheat is turning out better than was anticipated and is selling readily.

Threshing of oats has followed directly the harvesting of winter wheat. The straw is short and the crop is light.

The milk flow has fallen off sharply due to dried pastures. In Prince Edward County it is stated that cows are receiving little more than exercise as they roam the pastures looking for feed.

Farmers in this area are becoming interested in irrigation equipment to irrigate field crops. The dry weather this year has had a serious effect on canning factory crops. Tomatoes have small vine growth and early ripening fruit has blossomend rot.

Three Children Have Birthdays On Same Day

Ron Smith, Madoc buttermaker and Mrs. Smith have three sons, Larry 1, Patrick 2, and Michael 3, and their birthdays are all on the same date—August 7th.

So the Smith's had a birthday party for their three boys on Wednesday, because it was Dad's "day off", and all the neighborhood kids were invited. The party was complete with a three-in-one birthday cake holding a candle for Larry, two candles for Pat and three candles for Michael.

A native of Madoc district, Mr. Smith has been associated with a creamery at Alexandria near Cornwall for the past six years. Three months ago he returned to Madoc to operate the local creamery.

Potatoes were 85c per basket or $5 per bushel; cucumbers sold at a nickel each with large cukes at $1 per 11-qt. basket. Corn was 35c and 50c per dozen ears and tomatoes 20c per box or $1. per basket.

'Soak-the-Rich' Tax Presented By Mossadegh

TEHRAN (AP)—Premier Mohammed Mossadegh presented to his cabinet last night proposals for a sweeping "soak-the-rich" tax law aimed at balancing the budget of this impoverished, uneasy country.

Iran's main sources of revenue dried up when Mossadegh nationalized properties of the British-controlled Anglo Iranian oil company. Britain promptly blocked off world markets and Iran was stuck.

Communist Czechoslovakia moved in yesterday. A five-man trade delegation arrived to discuss buying oil and arranging a barter agreement. Previously Britain has prevented Iran exporting any oil.

The new tax proposals are aimed at the wealthy families who control most of the land. Some single families own hundreds of villages whose inhabitants till the surrounding land in sharecropper fashion.

The Times describes him as "approachable and youthful in manner as in years."

The Daily Telegraph, also pays tribute:-

"Mr. McCullagh's death. . removes a shooting star from the Canadian journalistic, financial and political scene, though his brilliance had been dimmed for several years by serious illness."

The attack came after Bulgarian troops had been noticed on the island during last night, the announcement said.

Today's army announcement said the United Nations peace sub-committee was present when the Greeks attacked, and that just prior to opening fire the Greeks warned the Bulgars by loudspeaker.

News of Trenton

Glen Miller Clears Debris Of Giant Pipeline Explosion, Prepares For Second Blast

Trenton — (Special)—The village of Glen Miller with a population off 500 people has not fully recovered from the giant explosion which moved some 6,000 cubic feet of bedrock in the bottom of the Trent River Tuesday night.

The people, however, seemed tranquil yesterday while repair crews from the pipeline company fixed broken windows in stores and houses along the roadway in the east side of the little riverside community.

The residents who experienced the first blast dread the thoughts of a second explosion coming in one week's time.

While the roofs of some houses were caved in by falling rocks and parked cars were smashed, the damage to the village is greater than was first estimated. The bridge linking the west half of the town with the east half was jarred by the concussion and last night was closed to motor traffic awaiting official inspection. Falling rocks. it was reported, cut parts of the bridge's steel structure making it unsafe for truck and car travel.

The two-lane span, the second traffic link across the Trent river for the eight miles between Trenton and Frankford, was used as a vantage point by scores of spectators who came for miles to watch the blasting for the pipeline's underwater ditch.

More than 1,000 feet away from the explosion most of the onlookers froze when the roar of the first explosion shattered the rural stillness. A Glen Miller resident, Emma Coulter, fainted during the excitement and needed help to her home nearby.

Force of the blast can be realized by looking at the size of some of the rocks which dropped through villagers' houses and on their property. A chunk weighing 40 pounds fell on Gordon Ferguson's front lawn barely missing his house with 7-year-old son Bobbie inside. Pieces of jagged steel casing literally rained down around the Ferguson barn across the road from the homestead.

It was surprising that the underwater blasts killed no big game fish. Hundreds of suckers were observed floating on top of the water after the explosion and there were numerous tiny pickerel, pike and bass. The big fish apparently sought deeper water when the river was lowered several feet before the charges were placed.

The second series of blasts is not expected to be as heavy as the one Tuesday but west side residents closer to the danger zone this time are taking no chances.

They plan to evacuate their homes and park their cars in safe territory just in case rocks fall down out of the sky as they did on their across-the-river neighbors Tuesday night.

Pipeline officials supervising the blasting toured the blast-shattered section of the village immediately following the explosions. They ordered glass replaced in window frames and the debris strewn street cleared. The drillers boring more holes for the next blasting operation started early yesterday.

Four More Jets Shot Down by U.S. Air Force

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—The United States fifth air force said its Sabre jet pilots today shot down four Russian-made jets and damaged four in the fourth straight day of jet battles over North Korea.

On the ground, grenade-tossing South Korean infantrymen won back a central front height called Capitol Hill three hours after they had lost it at dawn. A U.S. eighth army briefing officer said it was the sixth time in two days that the hill had changed hands.

Today's toll of Communist jets boosted the Reds' losses to 15 Migs destroyed and 17 damaged in four days. U.S. losses, if any, will be announced later in a weekly summary.

The see-saw battles for Capitol Hill were fought in sweltering heat. Wednesday was the hottest day of the year—106 degrees.

Action was reported light on the eastern and western fronts.

Recount Ordered For One Seat In Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—A recount from British Columbia's June 12 election will be held "forthwith" in Vancouver-Burrard riding.

The recount was requested by the C.C.F. party which hopes, in this manner, to take a one-member edge in the Legislature over B.C.'s new Social Credit government.

A ruling granting the C.C.F.'s court-hopping application was made in supreme court yesterday by Mr. Justice J.V. Clyne.

C.C.F. candidate Grant MacNeil lost by 246 votes in Vancouver-Burrard to Social Credit's Bert Price.

A C.C.F. victory there would reverse the present Social Credit-C.C.F. standing in the 48-seat Legislature, 19 Social Credit to 18 C.C.F.

See Little Change

But most political observers say a C.C.F. victory would not noticeably change the over-all political picture in B.C.

They say that while the lineup then would be 19 C.C.F., 18 Social Credit, the Socreds could count on the support of the seven Liberals and three Progressive Conservatives in any private enterprise-versus socialism duel.

In an oral judgment Mr. Justice Clyne ruled that County Court Judge J. A. McGeer erred in refusing a count because of a technical error in the original C.C.F. application.

Had No Jurisdiction

The C.C.F. then took their application to the Court of Appeals in Victoria but the court ruled it had no jurisdiction under the elections act to hear the case.

A short adjournment was called in yesterday's court case when it was learned a writ declaring Social Credit elected already had been forwarded to Victoria.

In his judgment, Mr. Justice Clyne questioned the authority of the returning officer to do so while the case was still before the courts. The writ will be held in abeyance until after the recount.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Prices drifted generally lower in slow early afternoon trading with only industrials holding firm.

Trading was sluggish and confined to a narrow list of selected stocks in industrials and golds. Base metal and western oil trading broadened. Volume for the first three hours totalled 985,000 shares.

Base metal losses outnumbered gains almost three to one but some leading issues drew good support. Quebec Labrador and Silver Miller gained pennies, each on a turnoer of more than 35,000 shares.

Most industrial sections were mixed but manufacturing and miscellaneous issues slipped. Liquors banks, foods, and agricultures were firm.

Junior golds showed strength but holding companies were weak. Senior golds were mixed but some prospects drew speculative support. Hoyle and Partanen gained pennies.

Leading issues in western oils showed gains but were outnumbered by a scattered list of losses. Anglo-Canadian, Husky, Sapphire and Home Oil drew support but Gridoil, Trans-Era, Punch and Albermont dipped.

Belleville Utilities Commission

Cheese Exchange

Buyers showed little or no interest in white cheese on the Belleville Cheese Exchange Wednesday night as the board reopened after a three-week layoff while price negotiations were carried out.

Two buyers, W. S. Cook and Son, and Kingston Cold Storage bought 1,356 colored cheese boarded at 30c but there was no offer to purchase the 8,044 white cheese offered and they were sold to the marketing board. There was a total of 16,536 cheese offered, including 7,136 specials.

Farmers were not too clear about what price they would receive for their cheese under the new minimum guarantee of 30c per lb for first grade cheese. Board officials, however, said it was their understanding the price was to be 30c f.o.b. factory and the farmers would receive this amount.

Three weeks cheese were offered at Wednesday night's board, while two weeks cheese will be offered at the meeting next Tuesday.

Following are the factories offering cheese on the board:

GEORGE McCULLAGH

With the sudden passing of George McCullagh, another newspaperman joined the ranks of a vanishing race of hard, two-fisted metropolitan newspaper publishers who projected their own personalities into the news columns of their papers.

A newspaper man with a flare for the dramatic, it was George McCullagh who early in his career realized that he could never accumulate sufficient capital to purchase a newspaper while working for a newspaper and he left his job as a financial reporter to work in the office of a stock broker. At the time he left the old Toronto Globe he made a promise that he kept—someday he would be back to buy the paper.

While selling stock on Toronto's Bay Street, McCullagh met William Wright a multi-millionaire bachelor whose wealth stemmed from the Wright-Hargreaves gold mine in Kirkland Lake. McCullagh became Wright's financial adviser, and as Wright's adviser, a friendship based on respect for ability, emerged. Later, when Wright supplied the cash to purchase the Globe and then the Mail & Empire, a national news magazine carried pictures of the two men. A caption under Wright's picture read: "Wright found gold." Beneath the picture of McCullagh, the caption-writer observed: "McCullagh found Wright."

McCullagh developed into a fighting newspaper man, starting first as a backer of the Liberal's Mitchell Hepburn and later aligning his papers solidly behind George Drew and the Conservative political party. He was an ardent supporter of Britain and the British, but among his first acts after purchasing the Evening Telegram, was the removal of the Union Jack from the top of page one.

It was George McCullagh who helped perpetuate a newspaper trend that had its start a few years before he entered the newspaper field. That trend involved the system of chain ownership and the amalgamation of smaller papers into one larger holding. By amalgamating the Globe and the Mail & Empire, he was able to dominate the morning newspaper field and later, after his purchase of the Evening Telegram, he joined the ranks of the newspaper-chain proprietors. Whether this practice is good for the newspaper business remains to be seen.

The passing of George McCullagh brings to an abrupt end the saga of a modern Alger Boy. Born poor and receiving little formal education, he lived to be rich and powerful, a member of the board of governors of the University of Toronto and one who was accepted by newsboys and by kings.

But what George McCullagh always wanted to be, he was: A newspaperman's newspaperman. The trade is poorer for his passing.

UNWANTED THRONES

History is replete with bloody wars fought over thones. Somebody was always claiming a better right to occupy a certain throne, through line of heritage or other reason, than the occupant. Somebody always was trying to push someone else off, so he could get on.

Even after European dynasties began to collapse, there still remained claimants to the non-existent thrones. They have been wandering around Europe, even after a century or more, following a forlorn hope.

There is a current recognition, however, that thrones aren't all they are cracked up to be. Their Royal Highnesses Prince and Princess Chumbhot Phong Boriphot, delegates to the International Red Cross conference in Toronto, were delighted when news came to them of a nephew being born, a crown prince of Thailand. It meant Prince Boriphot had a barrier placed between him and the throne, by the advent of this direct heir. The Prince felt a huge weight lifted off his shoulders, while the Princess said: "Who wants to be king and queen?"

Thailand is geographically situated in the path of trouble in southeast Asia. And if trouble comes, the King will be in a tough spot.

In Shakespeare's King Richard, the cry of desperation was heard: "A horse! a horse! my kingdom for a horse!" In modern times, King Edward VIII, now Duke of Windsor, abdicated his kingdom for the woman he loved.

THE REAL TEST

American genius has created a "handy-sized" elctronic brain designed to test guided missles, compute firing tables for artillery grounds, do all kinds of accounting and higher mathematics, and as an aid to income tax calculators. These "brains" indicate the brilliancy of the human brain in matters of technological and mechanical matters. They also emphasize the incapacities of the human mind in the field of policy. Policies determine the use of gadgets, and for that delicate balance we still have to rely on the extremely fallible human mind.

The Selkirk and Gold Mountain ranges, west of the Rockies, have more snow because they are nearer the Pacific Ocean.

GOOD CITIZEN

I can't make a speech and I can't write a song.
I have little of talent or skill.
As a citizen I am just one of the throng,
But the little I can do I will.

What's the best for my country
I want to assist.
Although I am only one man,
And my name won't appear on the leadership list,
I will do the little I can.

My country, and our way of life to defend,
As long as I live it's my plan
To work for them, fight for them, down to the end
By doing whatever I can.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

WHO IS THE DELINQUENT?

At a prominent and expensive boarding school five boys were recently dismissed for stealing. Two were older boys, but they employed three very young children to do most of the stealing for them. The authorities were amazed at the artfulness of the whole plan. It was consummated in a forgery of documents which made it possible for the older boys to take the money and go out and buy fire arms, preparatory evidently to the starting of a real gang.

And this, understand, among children from homes able to pay a large tuition each year for the education of their children. Furthermore, none of the youngsters, individually, seemed to need the money, for they were supplied with liberal allowances.

Some were inclined to blame the situation on movies, on crime stories set forth in TV, and on the wrong kind of comic books. Back of it all undoubtedly was a lack of adequate spiritual training in the homes from which these children came. The parents perhaps were interested more in pleasure and money-making than in anything else. Materialism has a way of exterminating in people the basic spiritual qualities with which God has endowed them.

Again we maintain that juvenile delinquency stems from adult delinquency.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The little things we fall in love with are often extremely trivial. Men fall in love with old hats; women with old purses. Both men and women develop an abiding affection that mounts up to a passion for certain old shoes. Our love for husband or wife may have its ups and downs, its cool spells, its stretches of mutual ennui. Friends blow hot and cold. We see a lot of them, and we pass them up for weeks or months. For a time, we are infatuated with movies, or reading or bridge. But we tire. We have spells of being very aware of our dogs. But dogs can be very boring, after while.

Each of us, however, has something very insignificant and very dear, in relation to which our feelings never suffer any shift or change. It may be an old alarm clock, or a belt or a penknife. It may be a coat hanger or a jar on the dresser; a cigarette lighter or a whisk we have had for twenty years In my case, it is a nail file I lost for ten years and missed every day of its loss. I never forgot it. It was no ordinary nail file. It was made of heavier steel than the ones you buy. And its point had a very slight inward curve to it. Probably it was a familiar style of nail file forty years ago. I got it when a student, and it became a part of my familiar and intimate passessions. When I married, I took it away from my home to my new menage. It went to the first war with me. A hole succession of other toilet tools, razors, brushes, combs, came and went, over the years. But with a growing affection and a sort of miniature jealousy, I guarded my nail file. I would allow no other near me. If I had ever been in a fire, I am sure it would have been the nail file I would have rescued first, and at the risk of my life.

Then, about ten years ago, I lost it. At first, I supposed it to be just mislaid. Then I staged a frantic and exhaustive search for it. Weeks of conscious and subconscious fretting followed. But in the years of its loss, I never used a file without remembering my lost love. Last week, while rooting through an old candy box at the summer cottage, in which thread, buttons, adhesive tape and such are kept, I found the old, thick, curve-tipped file. And now I go about with the feeling millionaires must know when they look at their bank balances.

Administration Costs Lower Says Witness

WINDSOR (CP)—The chairman of the board of the 350-bed East Windsor Hospital for Incurables said yesterday that administration costs at the hospital are lower than at similar hospitals elsewhere in Ontario.

John McKeon told the provincial government commission investigating the hospital's affairs that figures published in the provincial government's blue book show that the hospital is being operated efficiently.

He said that from 1946 to 1948 per patient costs at the hospital were lower than the same costs at similar Ontario hospitals. These had risen at East Windsor because the hospital had assumed the cost of a pension plan.

Low operating cost at East Windsor was due, he said, not to a poor grade of service but to efficient operation.

Four Suffocated As Play-Time Cave Collapses

GLADSTONE, Man. (CP)—A play-time cave dug in a loose sand-clay bank collapsed and suffocated four children near here yesterday.

Three of the children were members of a family of 11. The fourth was a visiting cousin survived by seven brothers and sisters.

Dead are Leslie William, 10, John Keith, 9, and Gladys Evelyn, 3, children of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Griffiths of Mayfield district; and Phyllis Shirley Brown, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brown of Kelston, Man.

ELIGIBLE FOR PAROLE

JOLIET, Ill. (AP)—Nathan Leopold, 48, one of the thrill killers of 10-year-old Bobby Franks in 1924, will become eligible for parole next January. If granted parole, he said in Stateville prison Tuesday, he hopes to get a job in Chicago or some other city and start life anew. Leopold and Richard Loeb were convicted of murdering the Franks boy. Loeb was slain in a prison knifing in 1936.

PROMOTION FOR CASSELS

LONDON (Reuters)—Maj.-Gen. A. J. H. Cassels, commander of the Commonwealth division in Korea since its formation a year ago, will return to England soon for promotion, the war office announced last night. He will take over in December as commander of first corps in England with the temporary rank of Lieutenant-General.

Forest Closure Hits Lumber Industry in B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia's $525,000,000 lumber industry, still reeling from the effects of a 45-day strike, was hit again yesterday by forest closure.

The provincial forest service shut down its Vancouver district, richest in the province, because of the fire hazard.

Logging was at a standstill for the second time since 32,000 woodworkers went on strike June 15. They went back to work a week ago.

The forest closure also hit the tourist industry. No person is permitted to enter any forested area to hunt, fish or travel without first obtaining a permit. Mining, construction and road-building projects in the woods also came to a halt.

More than 60 forest fires were reported in the province, 16 of them in the Vancouver district.

Dagger Wielder Kills 2, Slashes Two Others

NEW YORK (AP)—A man wielding a five-inch dagger slashed up a husband and wife yesterday when they refused to produce their daughter at his command, then killed two neighbors who tried to block his escape.

The man, identified as Ralph Martinez, 30, pounded on the door of the Bronx home of John and Georgiana Rosada about 4:30 a.m. and demanded that they produce their daughter, Gloria, 19.

When they tried to slam the door in his face, he slashed them with a knife and fled.

Harrison Bailey, 53, a Grand Central station porter and father of 10 children, and Ambus Love, 53, father of six, tried to stop the man and were knifed to death.

Personal Health Talks

HOW TO BE HAPPY THOUGH AGED

Why do you persist in making people unhappy, asks a reader, by telling them we begin to die as soon as we have reached full maturity? Any one can figure that out for himself. (F. J.)

If any one already knows it, probably nothing I can say will make the poor fellow more despondent, and I keep telling people so in the hope of interesting them in the study of v-i-t-e, at least sufficiently interested to send me 25c and a stamped self-addressed envelope for the booklet The 7 Keys to V-i-t-e.

Vite means, for one thing, extension of the prime of life in both directions. Some of us attain the peak of growth and development at say 35, and others at 40, and a few at 45. Whether we reach the peak at 35 or later, the next instant we begin to die. I'm as sorry as F. J or any one else can be about this. But let's not deceive ourselves. Somewhere between youth and age every one destined for longevity reaches the pinacle—it is for each contestant to determine for himself or herself, by the way he lives, precisely what time to pass the summit.

The way one lives on the way up determines the moment of the long slide down the other side, which begins the instant one passes the summit.

As F. J. observes, any one can figure that out for himself. If so, why should the fact make any one unhappy? Must one be unconscious in order to be happy?

Shucks, I've been dying now for many years, since Tony was a pup, and, as nearly as I can judge, I'm as happy in my dotage as I was when I owed everybody in town and worried about it and everybody in town owed me and I worried about that, too.

Reader F. J. goes on to remind me that few people have the time or will take the trouble to buy wheat and grind it in the coffee grinder as I advise people to do. He informs me that a proprietary product that comes ready-to-eat is just as good.

Being an obstinate, crabbed, penurious old geezer, and a health instructor if not a health authority, I concede that few people will bother to buy and grind fresh every day or two their own wheat, but I must dissent from the reader's assertion that the processed cereal product is just as good.

Unfortunately for the vite of North Americans, it is indeed an inconvenience to buy plain wheat and crack or grind it in hand or power mill at home, especially to people who drive an expensive car but live in a glorified chicken coop complete with doorman and room service. Mut if your thought reverts to the relation of everyday refined diet and the state of your health, do send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope and ask in writing (clippings are likely to be lost in the handling of the mail) for the pamphlet, Wheat to Eat. You may learn why wheat is better than any fancy wheat products and how to be reasonably healthy, save money and enjoy good eating.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

TO BE WANTED AND LIKED

To gain success, renown, or wealth, is not the great purpose of life. To be wanted and liked is so much greater than any of these. I was on a selling trip in the south when one morning I read of the death of Vachel Lindsay. That death by suicide remains as one of the most tragic in American literature. Lindsay was a great poet. It is said he took his own life because he felt that he was not wanted or liked.

Had Lindsay written but one poem—"Abraham Lincoln Walks at Midnight"—his fame would still remain secure, but he wrote any number of great poems that will live for so long as thoughts from the heart live.

How many there are all about us, living silent courageous lives, yet with a hunger in their hearts because—like Lindsay—they feel they are not wanted and liked. Our usefulness and happiness rest largely upon being appreciated, loved and wanted around. It is so simple to give encouragement, and takes only a matter of the will to do so.

This encouragement, however, should be given at the right time. Had Lindsay received this earlier, we might have had him with us today, for he loved his Springfield, his beautiful family, and Oh how he loved America! A thing so simple as that of sending a letter to a soldier boy, or loved friend, may work a miracle! How quickly the dumb animal reacts to a little kindness and love, but how much more a human being.

There is something very great about the genius as an artist. Many a one, because of his innate pride and integrity, refuses to sacrifice that art by playing up to popularity or personal gain. It may make that one not wanted and liked, but he will have preserved his immortal soul, as Lindsay did.

11 Seats Still Undecided, S.C.'s In Firm Control

EDMONTON (CP)—A few seats are still in doubt, but a thumping majority in Tuesday's election has left the Social Credit party in as firm control of Alberta's government as ever.

With 11 seats still undecided, the Social Crediters, led by 43-year-old Premier E.C. Manning, have gained 45 seats of the 61-seat legislature. They are leading in six more.

The latest standing:

Elected:
Social Credit	45
Liberal	2
C.C.F.	1
Progressive Cons.	1
Independent-S.C.	1
Leading:
Social Credit	1
Liberal	3
Progressive-Cons.	1
C.C.F.	1
Total	61

Reach Fifteenth Count

In Edmonton, with four of its seven seats still undecided, weary election workers reached their 15th count of ballots under the proportional representation system, and 12 of the original 9 candidates had been eliminated.

The Progressive - Conservatives after a 17-year absence from the Alberta Legislature, re-entered the scene with the election of Paul Brecken in Calgary on the 22nd count.

Premier Manning's cabinet got through almost intact, with the exception of Attorney-General Lucien Maynard, who was running in the St. Albert riding north of Edmonton.

Start Second Count

A second count in St. Albert will be started today. Second counts also are necessary in Redwater, Willingdon, Vegreville, and probably in Leduc. Winners were reported in the latter two constituencies on election night. Other rural ridings still to be decided are Grouard, Lac La Biche, Lac Ste. Anne and Spirit River.

The Social Crediters fared well in Calgary, which almost traditionally votes Conservative in federal contests. There the Manning forces won four of the six seats, with the others going to a Liberal and to Mr. Brecken.

SUPPORTS CHATHAM

WINDSOR (CP)—Board of Control yesterday approved a city of Chatham resolution requesting legislation which would enable municipalities to compel financially responsible children to support indigent parents.

British Protest Prison Terms Of Two Seamen

TOKYO (AP)—The Japanese foreign Office is investigating the case of two British sailors sentenced to 30 months' imprisonment for theft of a taxicab and about $4.

A spokesman said "it is too early to comment" on the British government's protest that Japanese courts have no jurisdiction over United Nations troops. Shigenori Shima, Foreign Office special assistant on European affairs, left for Kobe last night to discuss the case with legal authorities.

Kyodo News Agency quoted foreign office sources as predicting that the government will reject Britain's demand to hand over the two seamen from the cruiser Belfast. Kyodo said Justice Ministry officials and the Foreign Office agree that the seamen—Derek Smith and Peter Stinner—were not on official duty when they took a Japanese taxi and 11,700 yen on June 29.

Furthermore, Kyodo said, the agreement covering occupation forces had expired and a new United Nations agreement had not been written.

British forces were part of the Allied occupation of Japan but since the Japanese peace treaty went into effect, a new agreement has been signed only with the United States.

Son of German Baron Confirms Announcement

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Young Baron Ernest Lyssard said yesterday the first news he had of his formal engagement to beauteous gold mining heiress Nancy Oakes was when he read about it in the papers.

Nevertheless, the 22-year-old Mexico university student confirmed the announcement in an interview. Nancy's mother, Lady Eunice Oakes, announced the engagement of her 28-year-old daughter two days ago in Niagara Falls, Ont.

Lyssard, the son of Baron and Baroness Hermann von Hoyningen Huene of Oberammergau, Germany, is studying economics in Mexico university.

He said the prospect of becoming the husband of a rich woman would not interrupt his studies.

Lyssard said he had no personal fortune and depended upon funds sent to him by his parents to maintain himself here.

He understood his fiancee now is in Laredo, Texas, and he is awaiting a telegram informing him when she would come to Mexico.

Nancy's first husband, French Count Alfred de Marigny, was tried and acquitted on charges of murdering her father, millionaire Canadian gold miner Sir Harry Oakes, in Nassau nine years ago. The murder was never solved.

Weddings

HAYES—ASSELTINE

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, on Saturday, July 19, with the Rev. J. V. Buckley officiating, uniting in marriage Margaret Bernadette Asseltine, Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Asseltine, to Wilfrid Leo Hayes, Belleville, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Hayes.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Reginald J. Asseltine, of Guelph, was beautiful in her gown of white Skinner satin with a Queen Anne neckline and sleeves coming to points over the hands. The bodice of Chantilly lace was form-fitting, and the bouffant skirt fell in graceful folds into a cathedral train. Her full-length medallion-trimmed veil was held by a tiara of seed pearls, and she carried a crescent bouquet of red Bettertime roses, stephanotis and adiantum fern.

Miss Joan Doyle, of Belleville, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid looking attractive in her gown of buttercup-yellow net over brocaded satin and wearing a crownless picture hat of the same color. She carried a bouquet of Talisman roses.

Mrs. W. J. Ott, Belleville, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, lovely in a strapless gown of orchid net over taffeta, with jacket of French lace, the long sleeves falling into accordion pleated fan-shaped cuffs at wrists. She wore a crownless picture hat of French lace and carried a bouquet of tawny gold roses.

Little Miss Linda Huffman, Belleville, cousin of the bride was flower girl, a demure picture in lime green net over organdy. Her headdress was a tiara of Sweetheart roses and lily-of-the-valley. She carried a nosegay centred with yellow roses, orchid pom 'mums and baby's breath.

Miss Mary Flurey was organist, accompanying the soloist, Mr. Ted Collins, of Montreal, who sang, "Mother Beloved" and during the signing of the register "Ave Maria".

Mr. Raymond Hayes, of Peterborough, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman. The ushers were, Mr. Frank Hayes, of Peterborough, brother of the bridegroom; Mr. Gordon Doyle, of Brockville, and Mr. Lawrence Bradshaw, of Toronto.

The reception was held at Tobe's County Gardens with the bride's mother receiving the guests, wearing a formal gown of teal blue crepe and matching picture hat with navy accessories. Her corsage was of pink and red rosette roses. Assisting her was Mrs. Douglas Embury, Belleville, sister of the bridegroom, wearing navy with white accesories. Her corsage was red rosette roses.

The bride's going away suit was a brown summer gabardine with beige accessories. Her corsage was yellow Sweetheart roses. For their honeymoon the couple motored to Northern Ontario and the United States, and on their return they will reside in Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were present from Montreal, Toronto, San Francisco, Detroit, Peterborough, Rochester, Guelph, Picton, Brockville and Lonsdale.

IN JAIL WEDDING NIGHT

TORONTO (CP)—A wedding celebration which began July 20 had its sequel in court yesterday when Charles Puddicomb, 20, was sentenced to seven days in jail. He pleaded guilty to drunk driving. Four other charges were dismissed against the Toronto bridegroom, who spent his wedding night in prison after nearly colliding with a police cruiser.

'Royal' Fittingly Describes Fall Fashions Presented By Ten London Designers

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—The simple adjective "royal" probably describes most fittingly the fall fashions presented by London's Top Ten in the designing field.

There may be the Swan Look, the Gaucho Look, the Elizabethan and Victorian Looks, but the difference in cut and style takes nothing from the general effect of regal magnificence, that is the keynote of every big collection.

A young Queen with a fashion-minded sister will be crowned June next, and Britain's fashion forum is not going to let us forget it.

Royal Thoughts

In other worlds it will be a winter for royal thoughts—fairy princess gowns, the brocades, furs and satins that suggest champagne sparkling in crystal glasses against gilt-and-mirrored walls, red plush and polished wood.

Crinoline cocktail and evening dresses have a sumptuous width that cries out for the accommodating interiors of the horse-drawn carriages of earlier years. Even in day clothes there is a definite regal flavor.

The royal ladies' love of velvet is stressed in the billowing skirts of neatly-waisted coats with rounded shoulders and stand collars. Princess Margaret, who has bought more than one outfit from Victor Stiebel, might have been the inspiration for his wide-skirted turquoise velvet coat with immense grey fur cuffs and tiny matching hat, little bigger than a half-hat.

Fit For Princess

The princess could certainly wear with sophisticated distinction, the white nylon dress with short, accordian-pleated skirt billowing over a crinoline foundation, the diaphanous shawl collar pleated to cup the bra-line. With low, square neck, the tight bodice beaded in silver from bra to waist and the waist caught by a narrow silver kid belt, it is a type of gown the princess favors often.

Royal preference would no doubt incline to all-round pleated day dresses in light-weight wools and heavy silks, worn with tight-waisted jackets, rather than the big-shouldered gaucho suits with waistless jackets over knee-tight skirts.

Varied Styles

The varied styles of box jackets, from loose, waist-length to tight-hipped, half-belted effects, will, however, be the best-seller for smart business girls with modest bankrolls. The voluminous, knife-pleated skirts cannot possibly sell at competitive prices.

Dull though they are, the winter woollens achieve an under-color richness suggestive of royal brocades in the Elizabethan era. Take, for instance, the latest thing in "poodle" cloths, under dark bubble surfaces of black, grey or bottle green, glow rich reds, deep blues and clear royal purples. The outstanding winter color is green in every shade from true grass to the darkest peacock shot with blue and tawny gold.

Women's Institute

CANNIFTON-CORBYVILLE W.I.

The July meeting of the Cannifton-Corbyville Women's Institute was held in the town hall with Mrs. Helen Shorey, 1st vice-president, presiding. The meeting was opened in the usual manner, with a good attendance of members. Two visitors were present.

Cards of thanks were read for flowers received; the picnic was discussed and will be held on the 20th of this month at Club Cedars, and includes members with their families and grandmothers, as well. It was also decided to donate $10 to the C.G.I.T. girls; the bazaar was also discussed and will be held on September 17. The standing committees gave their reports.

Following the business portion, the meeting was turned over to Mrs. Mary McColl for "Home Economics". A reading, "When and Why to Call a Doctor", was read by Mrs. Ewing. A contest, "What Do You Know About Marriage?", was enjoyed, and won by Mrs. Urch, as well as one on "Who Can Build a House?" This portion was concluded by a sing-song, enjoyed by all.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Cora Matthews and her assistants, bringing the meeting to a close.

Women's Activities

BOWERMAN'S W.A.

Allisonville—Bowerman's WA July meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Morden on Wednesday afternoon with the president, Mrs. Robert Wood in the chair and Mrs. Warner McFaul presiding at the piano for the hymns.

Mrs. Harold Johnston took charge of the devotional period. Psalm 24 was read. Roll call showed 13 members and eight guests present. A 'thank-you' letter was read from Mr. Charles McFaul. It was decided that all bills be paid. Two readings were given, one by Mrs. Ferguson and one by Mrs. Harold Johnston.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Morden and her assistants.

August meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Clifford McFaul.

Designers Bring Skirts Down About an Inch

PARIS (AP)—Madam, do you want to resemble a grasshopper, a jet plane, a turtledove or a sea siren?

These are the fashion silhouettes offered this season by—respectively—Paris designers Schiaparelli, Dior, Vanvin-Castillo, and Carven.

But you needn't throw away your wardrobe and start over. Dresses are not as drastically different as they sound. If there's room, however, you can let out your hems an inch to an inch-and-a-half; the designers have brought skirts down to an average length of 12 inches from the floor.

There are two main trends. One is a soft "freed" silhouette with rather loose waists, lowered "Middy" lines and pleated or flared skirts.

This influence appeared in nearly all collections except Dior's. He touched a completely different hourglass figure with pinched waist and padded hips.

GOOD MANNERS

Serving iced tea or fruit drink at table

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My question concerns the correct service (or a correct service) of iced tea or a fruit drink with a tea-base (a favorite recipe I've developed) at either an informal luncheon or dinner. With my limited (usually no) service, would it be correct for me to fill the tall glasses with the ice drink when I fill the water glasses before I call the guests to the table? If this isn't proper, what convenient service would you suggest?—Sue G.

It is correct service for you to set the tall glasses, filled with the iced tea or fruit drink, on the table next to the water glasses, before the meal. Though not, please, so far ahead of time that the ice will entirely melt and too-much weaken the drink . . . Or a very good way to do, and practically as convenient, is to set at the places the glasses filled with ice only. . .have the prepared drink in a pitcher on the sideboard or buffet or on the lower shelf of the serving-table by your side; then pour the drink after the guests have sat down or after they have been served the first course. If you yourself are too busy with other details, you may ask someone to serve the drinks or have the pitcher passed from guest to guest. . .Remember that under each glass should be either a small plate, which is the best plan, or a coaster to catch the drip.

How to address baby-congratulatory cards

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My neighbor and I are having a discussion as to how to address the envelope of the card of congratulation for the arrival of a baby. She insists that the envelope should be addressed to the mother only. But I think that the envelope should be addressed to "Mr. and Mrs." What's the proper way?—Clara E.

If the envelope enclosing the congratulatory card is sent to the home, it should be addressed to "Mr. and Mrs.". . .it's father's day as well as mother's day! But if the envelope is addressed to a hospital, naturally it's addressed only to the mother. . . but the card enclosed should have a message to father, too.

Correct to send formal announcements of small, informal wedding

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Because of special circumstances our daughter is to have a very small, very informal wedding, in the chapel of our church. However, since both she and her fiance have many relatives and friends in different parts of the States and Canada, and Europe, they had planned to send out formal announcements of their marriage, to be sponsored by my husband and me. But yesterday someone told my daughter that "of course" it is incorrect to send formal (engraved) announcements to announce an informal wedding. Is this true, Mrs. Beeckman?—A. V.

That is not true. Formal (engraved) announcements may be sent whether the wedding is formal or informal, large or small. As a matter of fact, formal announcements are more often sent after a small, informal wedding because in this circumstance more relatives and friends must be informed that the marriage has taken place, and where and when.

Food for Thought

Picnic at The Fair

By Mary Moore

The camp-fire type of eating-out tramp cannot understand the dainty clean picnic-basket thermos bottle ladies and gentlemen who sit on chairs with one eye cocked skeptically on the only little cloud in the sky—and, bless my soul, afraid of ants.

Believe it or not I actually know, and have visited in the home of, a lady who carried along on a picnic: 1 collapsible bridge table and 4 chairs; rotary beater and glass pitcher in which it fitted to whip cream for strawberry shortcake; damask tablecloth and napkins; knives and forks and dessert forks; a portable radio; a thermos jug for both tea and coffee, and dishpan and soap flakes! She left only water to chance.

For fun that's not for me.

But utility, practicability and expediency enter into today's plan. (Impressed with those 4 and 5-syllable word?) For we are expecting to go to the Fair. The good old days of being able to buy a good dinner for the whole family, served by the Ladies' Aid of First Church, at 60 cents a plate, are gone; service is poor; food is worse; prices are so high we are very lucky to have a grassy spot under a tree to eat our own carried lunch. That lunch, girls, can be one of your proudest meals. Make it so good they won't forget that day at the Fair even when next year's rolls around.

PICNIC BASKET MENU

Fried Chicken Legs
Or Chicken for Slickers
de Luxe Potato Salad
Watercress Sandwiches
Celery Hearts Sweet Pickles
Ambrosia Spanish Bun
Iced Water and Iced Fruit Punch
in Glass Sealers
Milk Thermos of Coffee or Tea

DIRECTIONS:

FRIED CHICKEN LEGS

Buy 2 chicken legs for each person to be served at the picnic at the shop where they have them all cut up. Wash, dry well and shake in a paper bag containing a mixture of 1 cup flour, 2 teaspoons salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 1-2 teaspoon celery salt, 1 teaspoon paprika. (Paprika gives good finished color.) Place in heavy deep frying-pan containing 1-2 inch hot fat which is part butter. (Use best quality shortening or margarine for the other part.) Brown on both sides over not too hot burner. Cover snugly. Turn heat as low as possible, and cook 35 minutes, turning 3 times during that period; to make the crust crisper cover may be removed during last 5 minutes. Drain these and cool them for carrying on paper towels; when cooled to room temperature wrap each piece in waxed paper and chill in refrigerator until ready to leave on picnic.

CHICKEN FOR SLICKERS

(Mock Chicken Legs)

On 6 wooden skewers impale a 2-inch cube of lean pork. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Now wrap each in a 5 x 4-inch 1-2-inch thick pieces of veal. Hold in place with 3 toothpicks. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, roll in fine breadcrumbs, dip in egg, then crumbs again. Cook same as chicken legs, but instead of the long cooking over low top-stove heat, bake in oven of 325 deg. Fahr. covered, for 1 1-2 hours, adding 1-2 cup hot water to baking dish. Finish same as chicken legs.

To ordinary potato salad add chopped hard-cooked eggs, chives, capers, slivers of cucumber, radish and celery, and some fresh cooked green peas.

The ambrosia is carried in quart sealers and is fresh orange sections, sliced bananas, very few fresh sliced peaches, 1 cup fine shredded fresh or canned cocoanut and 1 small jar maraschinos, sliced, juice and all plus a little extra sugar.

SPANISH BUN

Cream 3-4 cup margarine with 2 cups brown sugar until fluffy. Add 1 teaspoon vanilla and yolks of 2 eggs and beat hard. Sift 5 cups sifted cake flour with 1 teaspoon baking soda, 1 teaspoon each baking powder, cinnamon and salt, 1-2 teaspoon each nutmeg and cloves. Add alternately to creamed mixture with 1 1-4 cups sour or buttermilk. Beat until smooth. Pour into buttered and floured pan of about 9 x 13 inches. Beat whites until frothy, slowly add 4 tablespoons sugar and 1-8 teaspoon salt while beating stiff. Spread over batter. If desired sprinkle with chopped nuts. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 1 1-4 hours. (375 at high altitudes.) Cake should be cooled in pan in which baked, then cut into squares.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

He's bashful—she's too young

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm a bashful sort of chap of 15 who would like some advice about how to act around a girl, how to talk to her, how to ask her to go out with me and how to get her interested in me. She is bashful, too, but she is only 13 and I guess hasn't had much experience going around with boys.—T. D.

Dear T.D.:

Don't you think a girl of 13 is a little young for you? If you were, say, 21 and she were 19, the two years wouldn't make any difference, because at those ages young men and women have common interests and it is normal for them to go out together.

Those two years do make a difference, though, at your present ages. Presumably, at 15, you are in high school, and I doubt that a girl of 13 is out of grade school yet. Therefore, the things you like, or should like to do, are those which boys and girls of high school age enjoy, and you would be a lot more immature than you should be if you preferred grade school activities such as a 13-year-old undoubtedly has.

I would feel that you would be wiser of you let this girl alone to find her friends in her own age group and you do the same. It may well be that the big reason why you find this child congenial is because you are so bashful that you don't feel comfortable with those of your own age. Because you are older, you are something of a "big shot" to this younger girl and so you feel at ease, whereas you probably find it difficult to be yourself, and hence at ease, with the older ones.

Married too young, her husband has left her

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 16 years old and married. My husband left me four months ago and I would like to know what to do about it.

I know now that I was too young to marry him, but I love him. I don't know what made him leave me.—P. C.

Dear P.C.:

If you have no idea why your husband left you, after knowing him as well as you must, how could I possibly guess what the trouble was, when I don't know any more about either of you than this very short letter of yours? And of course anyone would have to know the details before being able to suggest what you should do about it.

The only sensible thing for you to do is to go to somene at a welfare organization in or near the town where you live and tell them your whole story from beginning to end. In that way, you will be able to get the advice you need.

Or, if you prefer, you might go to your priest, or the minister of your church, and explain the situation to him. He should be able to tell you what plan to follow, either in trying to get your husband to come back, or, if there is some reason why it isn't wise for him to come back to you, then what you should do about your own future.

Women's Institute

MELROSE W.I.

The regular meeting of Melrose W.I. was held at the home of the president, Mrs. A. English, who cordially welcomed the 24 members and two visitors who were present.

The meeting opened in the usual way and the president took charge of the business session. The short course entitled "Home Care of the Sick" in charge of Miss G. Hamilton, Reg.N., will be held at the home of Mrs. Clarence Hagerman. Articles for the display at Shannonville Fair are to be brought to the next meeting.

The convener for Historical Research, Mrs. G. McLaren, gave a most interesting talk on "History of Government Land Reserves in Ontario". Due to the unavoidable absence of the guest speaker, Mrs. Brant, she also dealt thoroughly with the topic "Canadian Indians".

Mrs. Lorne Weese favored with an instrumental solo after which Mrs. E. Pascoe, Jr., gave a humorous reading, "Women, Collectors of Things".

All members responded to the interesting roll call, "Who Lived at My Place", and much knowledge was acquired from the answers.

A spelling-match in charge of Mrs. Jack McLaren, followed, and the leaders were Miss B. McFarlane and Mrs. S. Demill.

The hostess and her assistants served refreshment which brought a pleasant meeting to a close.

BEAUTY

Dowdy ears are a good looks liability

8-6
Distributed by King Features Syndicate

Back of the ears is a nice place for a touch of perfume.

If you have beautifully formed ears, then the fairy godmother must have kissed you in the cradle because this beauty asset is a rare one. With skun-back hairdos, attractive ears add a charming note to the facial ensemble.

Ears vary in size and contour to a marked degree. Sometimes they aren't mates—like hands and feet—one being larger than the other. A little joke on the part of mother nature who must have a funny bone.

There are ears with long lobes, those with fat round ones, others with no lobes at all. There are tall, long, satanic ones and any girl who has them should curtain them with her tresses, no matter what the coiffure modes may be. Girls with round, full-moon faces are likely to have fat round little ears.

Heavy eaters who get more protein than they need often have ruddy ears, just as they may have florid complexions. Finicky eaters, restricting the diet to a few favorite dishes, depriving themselves of necessary vitamins and mineral salts often have pale ears.

When playing with the make up items do not neglect to powder yours ears lightly. If rouge appears on the cheeks and chin a tiny film should be applied to the lobes.

Back of the ears is a nice place for a touch of perfume. It wafts upward when a girl is dancing and the "Best Feller" gets a floretted whiff. Nice! There's something that is romance-developing about a delicious scent. Some men say they don't care for perfumes, but don't you believe it. It has appeal.

Now that we are on the subject of ears, let us remind the older beauty-questers that just in front of them is a spot where the first wrinkles may appear for some reason or other.

When doing the bedtime creaming of the complexion, using light tapping movements on chin, cheeks and forehead, do rotary movements in front of your ears. Just one cream-laden finger doing little circles.

Heavy earrings should never be worn unless they are held by a tiny bit of metal that hooks over the top of the ear. They will drag down the lobes, in course of time will cause the flesh to become soft and sagging. Long ones should never be worn by girls with thin narrow faces anyway. Pretty button earrings are more becoming for that type.

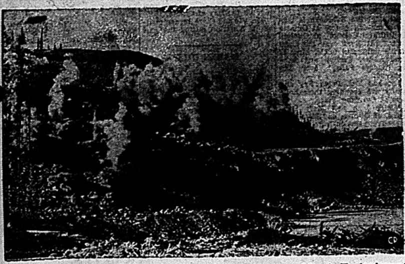
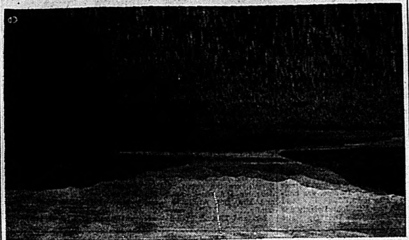
OPENS TREASURE CHEST



Power is a vital part of the $550,000,000 aluminum key being cast near a wilderness treasure chest in British Columbia. Blasting crews are working on the Kenney Dam to straddle the Grand Canyon of the Nechako River. This will reverse the flow of a watershed of 5,400 square miles to provide power for the smelter at Kitimat, 125 miles westward, of the Aluminum Company of Canada. The development 450 miles north of Vancouver also will unlock an area rich in natural resources which have given B. C. her lifeblood so far — timber, minerals and fish. (CP Photo)

KITIMAT TOWNSITE



In this British Columbia wilderness of trees, lakes and mountains architects have drawn up blueprints for a "model city" with everything planned in minute detail for a population of 46,500. It is the townsite of Kitimat, heart of a $550,000,000 aluminum industry under construction by the Aluminum Company of Canada. Aluminum Company's Industrial City Key to Wilderness Treasure Chest

Editor's Note: A $550,000,000 aluminum plant is being established in northern British Columbia. But the vast project will mean more than one new industry for the frontier country. Dave Stockand, Canadian Press staff writer, tells in this story, last of a series, of the new opportunities it will create.)

KITIMAT, B.C. (CP)—An aluminum key is being cast near a wilderness treasure chest in British Columbia.

There is every reason to believe this key will open the natural lock which guards the potential wealth of the region.

In itself, the Aluminum Company of Canada's Kitimat smelter won't be extraordinarily impressive. Aluminum smelters never are.

But a staggering amount of power is needed to produce aluminum—10 kilowatt hours to make just one pound of the metal. Raw materials must reach the plant and the finished product must be transported to market.

Facters For Wealth

Noting all this, observers base their predictions of great growth on the following points:

1. It's no secret that wealth is waiting in untapped areas of B.C., and such regions take in nine-tenths of the province's 336,255 square miles. The main problems are gaining access and finding outlets. Alcan will help crack these barriers.

2. Cheap electrical power will be made available, with Alcan welcoming secondary industries into the region it is pioneering.

3. B.C. is just beginning to tap its water resources. When power harnessed by Alcan has been alloted, the proposed dam at Moran on the Fraser River could add another 1,500,000 horsepower in central B.C., meaning muscle for other major industry.

4. Prospects look good for selling manufactured goods. For example, the Peace River country is considered a logical market and Alaska is worth investigating.

5. Other than industry, the development will unlock an area rich in the natural resources which have given B.C. her lifeblood so far—timber, minerals and fish.

Central Gateway

Peering farther into the future, there is hope a road will be built through the Bella Coola Valley, a natural outlet to the sea midway between Vancouver and Prince Rupert.

So far this is a hope and nothing more, but settlers contend such an undertaking would provide a gateway for the whole of central B.C.

At present the spotlight is on Kitimat. This construction camp 450 miles north of Vancouver seems likely to become a major city by B.C. standards.

Architects have drawn up blueprints for a "model city," everything planned in minute detail for a population of 46,500.

Kitimat, expected to have a population of 7,500 at the start of aluminum production in 1954, will be a seaport and a railway terminus as well as a smelter site.

The harbor is being dredged and a concrete wharf built to serve freighters which will carry alumina from Jamaica. Obviously, these vessels won't want to sail away merely with ballast.

Vital Rail Link

Construction will start soon on a $10,000,000 railway leading out of Kitimat to link 46 miles to the north with the Edmonton-Prince Rupert line of Canadian National Railways.

A C.N.R. vice-president, S. W. Fairweather, says he "wouldn't be surprised if this branch line turns out to be one of the most profitable moves the C.N.R. has ever made."

Alcan says business and industry are interested in moving to Kitimat. While it is still too early to name names, queries have been pouring in.

Announcement has already been made that Canadian Liquid Air will build a plant at Kitimat. A pulp mill is almost a certainty.

"It wouldn't be politic just to have a one-horse industry," says Walter Abrahamson, assistant to the resident engineer at Kemano where a powerhouse is being built in the heart of a mountain.

There will be power to spare. In fact, says Mr. Abrahamson, the sale of power may be a factor in how soon the Aluminum Company starts on the second phase of its project.

Initial authorization provides for equipment to generate 450,000 horsepower, but the main hydraulic works now being built are sufficient for 1,000,000 horsepower.

The second phase—which would bring the project cost to beyond $550,000,000 — would be accomplished by enlarging the powerhouse, drilling a second 10-mile tunnel, and diverting the Nanika watershed into the reservoir being trapped by a rock-fill dam on the Nechako River, 140 miles east of here.

Thus, a power output of 1,650,000 horsepower could be realized, providing sufficient power for the annual production of 500,000 metric tons of aluminum.

Natural Resources

Now, for natural resources. The rail line will make accessible huge stands of timber—some spruce, but mainly hemlock, larch and balsam.

Kitimat may become one of the ports where B.C. fishermen land their catches of halibut and salmon. Indian fishermen, especially are hoping for this.

Mining is an optimistic question mark, especially inland in the watershed area, parts of which have been opened up by highways needed for construction and also by the use of barges, a means of transportation which will become more and more practical as the level of the lakes rises.

Thomas Elliott of the B.C. and Yukon Chamber of Mines says: "The Alcan project will open an area known to be rich in mineral occurrence."

He adds that several mines developed in the past are not yet producing, and mentions silver-lead-zinc deposits as predominating.

A 110-mile road between Burns Lake and East Tahtsa runs near the Emerald Glacier lead-zinc mine which western mining men have termed "promising." Burns Lake is on the C.N.R. so with these connections the mine no longer is an island in the wilds.

Agriculture Likely

Even agriculture can't be counted out. Limited use of the soil—most likely for vegetable growing—will be possible in the Kitimat Valley, once some of the forest has been cleared. Terrace is farther north than Kitimat, but there are fruit trees in many backyards there.

Since spring the number of men working on the project has swelled to more than 6,000. Even in the early stage of production the manpower needs of the smelter will be able to absorb many of them.

"Lots of them plan to move over to Kitimat and make permanent homes there and undoubtedly many of them will," said one Alcan official.

Pop was drinking his coffee behind his paper this morning, and ma said, William, I had the most flattering dreem last nite.

I'm sure you deserve every wisp of it, my dear, pop said. You must tell me about it sometime, he said, and ma said, I'll tell you rite now, it's just too good to keep to myself. I dreemed I was amung the 10 most honored women, by populer vote, she said.

You're the entire 10 in my personel popularity contest, pop said and ma said, But William, this was a contest with thousands of candidates in every line of distinction, and the votes poured in from every nook and cranny of the country, by the millions. And at last the grate day of judgement arrived, and the results were announced over the radio, she said.

I'm glad you happened to be listening, under the circumstances, pop said, and ma said, The ferst winner announced was Mrs. Roosevelt, for her werk in international relations.

A good choice, pop said, and ma said, The other names were all new to me. The 2nd winner was a Mrs. Katz, or maybe it was Klatz. She was honored as the most distinguished mother. It seems 6 of her sons were college presidents.

This suspense is killing me, what about yourself pop said, and ma said, My tern was number 10, last but not least, as the announcer said. I was honored as the married woman able to wear slacks the most becomingly. Of course the idea is wildly exaggerated, but the dreem was so vivid I couldn't help feeling inspired, and really, I meen really, William, I'm going to diet seriously, she said.

Being what she does anyways.

Insurance is our life. It's simple to us

And we make it simple for you

The average man today should carry several kinds of insurance. He's foolish not to —the cost is so little, considering the protection it gives.

His house, his place of business his other possessions, his family . . . all call for insurance of various kinds.

He should have insurance against loss by fire, theft and lawsuits. He should be protected against accidents to himself and family. He should be protected in case he or his family causes accidental injury to others.

There are at least 100 kinds of insurance protection today. The subject can become quite complex. But we eat, sleep and dream insurance, and it's simple to us.

We can keep it simple for you.

Australian Government Prints New Best Seller "How to Find Uranium"

By JEFFREY SMITH

MELBOURNE, Australia (Reuters)—The current "best seller" in Australia is a government pamphlet on "how to find uranium."

Part-time prospectors are scouring Australia's rugged "outback" country in a country-wide drive to find new uranium deposits to add to the country's already large known sources of the atomic raw material.

They are being stimulated by a government offer of up to $56,000 for discoveries of radio-active ores.

The new army of prospectors is spurred by the same lust for adventure and quick money that sent the diggers to the Australian goldfields a century ago.

The fever is not as virulent as in the gold rush days. Few seamen are leaving ships, bank clerks are not forsaking ledgers or husbands deserting wives to join searchers in the outback.

Holiday Prospectors

But farmers, newspapermen, unemployed actors and full-time prospectors are among the growing numbers who are already "catching" the fever.

Schoolchildren are among the most enthusiastic seekers. City-dwellers are spending their vacations searching outback territories in the hope of finding ores—and making a quick $56,000.

Mining experts say that no really adequate search has so far been made in Australia for radio-active ores—despite rich uranium finds at Radium Hill, in South Australia, and in Rum Jungle, in northern territory, which authorities say will make Australia one of the world's big five producers of atomic materials.

Australian minerologists believe if people moving about in country districts become aware of what they see, there are excellent chances of finding more deposits of uranium and thorium, chief radio-active ores.

Amateur prospectors studying the government booklet are learning all about the Geiger-Muller counter, whose accelerated click responds to radio-active ore; the ultra-violet lamp; the spinthariscope and electroscope.

For these are the tools of trade of the modern prospector.

Home-Made Tools

The booklet tells the enthusiast how he can make a simple and inexpensive electroscope to determine whether ore is radio-active.

A lump chimney (or tube of glass made from a bottle by removing the neck and base), a tobacco tin lid, a carpenter's nail with pointed end flattened, a cork, some sealing wax and two pieces of aluminum foil are the only needed materials.

The nail is soldered by its head to the tin lid, then pushed through a sealing-wax-filled hole in the cork and the assembly eased to a snug fit into the glass tube. The pieces of aluminum foil adhere to each side of the nail point by means of a touch of shellac

The uranium seeker tests his ore by placing it near the electroscope. If the strips of aluminum come together quickly then radio-active ore is indicated.

The booklet also describes the country where there are the best chances of finding uranium and thorium.

In general, it says, the veins and loades containing these ores are located where other metals such as tin, gold, lead, copper and zinc have already been found.

"COOL CONTROL"

FLY CASTING

1 Begin with basic grip—thumb on back of rod checks the back cast, gives essential control. With rod extended, clear line and leader from water by tensing rod upward slightly.

2 When fly is surfaced, snap rod upwards sharply—this sends line smoothly behind you. This pick-up should be swift and snappy. Movement is done with wrist and forearm. Check movement of rod when it is straight up.

3 When rod is perpendicular, wait for line to straighten out behind. When tip bows with back pull snap rod forward to horizontal position. Do not use force—a smart snapping movement with wrist and forearm will give proper control.

Yes, it's control that counts, in fishing as in every sport—control which brings the extraordinary quality that sets one performer above the other. In the ability to approach things coolly, to control every move and moment, lies the answer to better results.

This is one of a series designed to increase the pleasure of Canadians who participate in sports.

ANOTHER FAMOUS PLAYERS' THEATRE

George Forhan, Veteran Manager of Belle Theatre, Keen Student of Public Preference

GEO. J. FORHAN

George Forhan, manager of the Belle Theatre here since 1929, is one of the few veterans of the administrative side of show business who has watched theatre business expand from the old-time silent nickelodeons to its present proud status.

This slim, impeccably dressed man who strides briskly from his house to the theatre office daily has kept a firm finger on the theatre's pulse since the day he started work for the late Ambrose Small in St. Thomas, Ontario.

They might not have acclaimed George Forhan as the "theatre-manager-most - likely-to-succeed" back in the good old days when a piano player strummed "Hearts and Flowers" during turbulent love scenes on the silent screen, but if they didn't the prognosticators were wrong for once.

For George has been and is a pronounced success in his life's vocation. He possesses that trait which is one of the first requisites of a man who meets the public, and that is knowing what the public wants and gets it. If not he exercises the faculty of satisfying it in a manner that the greatest critics in the world go home feeling they have had an evening well spent.

George did not let his job confine itself to merely booking attractions, selling tickets at the box office, seeing that the theatre was kept clean, and listening to gripes of people who felt they had been "gypped."

Knows All Angles

Far from it. He studied the job from all agnles. He sought out what his public demanded not only in entertainment but in theatre comfort. He stressed courtesy on the part of members of his staff.

In fact he is proud of the fact that he is the first to have his office staff greet a telephone call with "Good Morning, Afternoon or Evening" as the case may be. The idea caught on quickly. Now several business and industrial firms use the pre-conversation greeting.

The magic of the "talkies", the glamor and eye-pleasing appeal of technicolor, and the full length magnificence of "musicals", have not dimmed the memory of a man who was practically born in a theatrical atmosphere back in the days of John-Bunny, Fatty Arbuckle, Harold Lloyd the famous Charlie Chaplin, Rudolph Valentino, Pola Negri, the Barrymores and other well-known silent screen stars.

But he has kept up with the trend of the times. He has seen the temporary "death" of vaudeville and the legitimate theatre in the smaller centres.

Handled Everything

Unlike younger managers of the modern era, George Forhan has run the gamut of theatrical attractions. In fact he modestly relates he has "handled" everything except a circus—and he may come to that before he calls his lifework a day. He has booked and met several big mames in vaudeville including Vesta Victoria, James J. Corbett and Joe Howard.

He has booked in his day many great musical comedy stage successes. He has seen outstanding road shows come and go and has seen many stars who got their start in stock companies. And by way of diversion he spent two summers operating an amusement park. It all came under the head of experience.

George was born in Toronto and at a youthful age became a protege of the late Ambrose Small famous theatrical magnate whose mysterious disappearance years ago made world-wide headlines. Working under Small, Mr. Forhan was sent to St. Thomas where he made his debut into the life of the theatre, backstage, or front office.

He was sent to St. Catharines a shot time later and in 1916 was transferred to Belleville where he was made manager of the Griffin Opera House then located at the south-west corner of Church and Bridge Streets.

Much Experience

By a strange quirk of fate, Mr. Forhan again made the circuit leaving here for St. Thomas where he managed the Princess Theatre for a short time then back to St. Catharines where he managed the Palace Theatre and thence to Belleville as manager of the Famous Players Theatre, the present Belle, which was purchased from its builder Mr. J. C. McCarthy, who later built the theatre that bears his name.

That was in 1929 and Mr. Forhan has been looking after the interests of the Belle Theatre since that date.

He is a member of the Famous Players Canadian Corporation.

Mr. Forhan married the former Ada Kathleen Moxam and has two daughters and a son. Barbara is now Mrs. Bob Bunton, while Carolyn is at home. George Jr., running true to family form is also engaged in the theatrical business and is manager of the Famous Players Montcalm Theatre in Hull, Quebec.

Mr. Forhan takes a justifiable pride in the attractive appearance of the Belle Theatre which opens its doors on Friday after extensive alterations and redecoration.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Eve Arden has abandoned the movies for television because she's "tired of playing Eve Arden roles."

"Don't get me wrong—I like making movies," said the actress. "But I can't seem to get the producers to think of me in any other role except the stereotype of the wisecracking friend of the heroine.

"I've never been able to get enthused about Eve Arden roles. . . I'm not at all like the roles I have played.

Of the many films she has done, she remembers with relish only a few—"The Doughgirls," "Three Husbands," "Night and Day" and "We're Not Married."

Tied to TV

The latter may well be Eve's last picture for a long spell. The reason is that she has wedded herself to television. Her radio show, "Our Miss Brooks," will blossom out as a TV opus in October.

She already has made a few of the TV films, with film cameras recording the show before an audience.

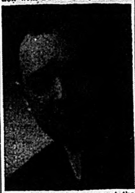
"I don't mind TV a bit," she enthused; "in fact, I like it. It's the nearest thing to summer stock, yet it doesn't have the drawbacks of summer stock. You get to do a different show every week with competent actors and technicians.

"The hours are great for a lazy cuss like me. I never could get used to getting up at six in the morning for movies."

Belgium is essentially a manufacturing country but agriculture and forestry are also important industries.

Morris Stein Has Had Wide Experience

Morris Stein, supervisor of districts "B" and "C" for Famous Players Canadian Corporation, Limited, which includes the city of Belleville, has had the distinction of serving in many branches of the entertainment industry before assuming his present position with Famous Players.



Upon leaving the army at the close of World War 1 he became one of the organizers of the Michigan Vaudeville Managers Association in Detroit, where he arranged vaudeville bookings for several large groups of theatres. Prior to that, Mr. Stein held positions as theatre musician and projectionist. His wide experience soon brought his genius to the attention of a group of business men who prevailed upon him to come to Hamilton, Ontario, to operate the Tivoli Theatre. There his outstanding work attracted the attention of N. L. Nathanson, who took him to Toronto as manager of Canada's largest theatre, the Imperial. Mr. Stein's next advancement with Famous Players was to the head offices of the company, where he was made supervisor of Toronto's suburban and downtown theatres. Since then he has been assigned the supervision of all the company's theatres in Eastern Canada.

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—An air force B-36 with eight aboard exploded within sight of hundreds of persons and crashed into the ocean just off mission beach today. Six survivors were taken to naval hospital.

J. Harper, Supervisor, Praised For Work Done at Belle Theatre

One of the busiest men and one who kept his finger on all phases of work during the renovation period at the Belle Theatre was none other than John Harper, supervisor of construction and maintenance for Famous Players Corporation Ltd.

For the past eight weeks Mr. Harper has been "on the job" at Belleville directing operations and seeing that plans were carried out in the minutest detail. And all the time he was working against the deadline of the pre-arranged date for the re-opening of the theatre.

During the past few years Famous Players have been pushing a 15 million dollar construction and renovation program for its theatres across Canada. Mr. Harper is the supervisor acting in Eastern Canada and came to Belleville from Chatham, where a theatre there was renovated. Renovation of the Belle Theatre here is the last project of the $15 million program.

It is to Mr. Harper possibly more than any other individual who has received plaudits from Theatre Manager George Forhan for the completion of the Belle Theatre and its re-opening on schedule. "It's sometimes difficult to be a good guy and at the same time see that work is done and plans carried out according to schedule, but Mr. Harper has just that ability," Mr. Forhan said.

Belle Theatre Transformed by Extensive Program of Alterations and Redecorations

Ray Tubman, District Manager for Famous Players Canadian Corporation who supervises the operation of the Belle Theatre. Mr. Tubman makes his headquarters at Ottawa.

Famous Players Corporation has done it again.

Through the wizardry of art and the magic of mechanical genius the Belle Theatre has been transformed into a new place of beauty and comfort.

Belleville's well-known theatre has undergone a redecorative period that should make its many thousands of patrons pleased beyond measure.

The theatre which has been closed for some time for alterations and redecoration will open on Friday with the tuneful musical "Singin' in the Rain" starring Gene Kelly, Cyd Charisse and Donald O'Connor. A fitting vehicle for an auspicious event.

Nothing has been omitted by Famous Players to make their Belleville place of entertainment the last word in beauty, color and patron comfort.

From the brand new film elevator which carries films to the projection room, to the gleaming white plaster cast lighting fixtures in the main auditorium, nothing has been spared to make the Belle the Number One theatre in the district.

Gleaming Beauty

For weeks workmen, artists, electricians, mechanics have been toiling to reconvert the Belle into a place of gleaming soft-colored beauty. Friday sees the climax of their efforts when the new Belleville opens its doors to the public.

Soft blending colors of light terracotta and grey form the chief decorative motif. Brand new chairs, the last word in comfort have been installed, and are positioned for screen-view ease. In order to do this a few seats have been sacrificed. Each end seat has a guide light installed to assist ushers and late-coming patrons to find rows and seats.

The color scheme of the main auditorium is eye-pleasing and a work of a master's art. A large panel of soft grey occupies the central part of the ceiling, and is bordered with the terracotta. The upper parts of the walls are done in terracotta with the lower in the same shade of grey. Filigree designs add another touch of beauty.

The main curtain is a delicate mushroom shade with side drapes in a soft shade of rose. The proscenium arch is of pure white with gold filigree work as are the miniature balconies on each side of the stage.

An outstanding feature of the auditorium is the lighting system. Gleaming white candelabra throw suffused light from its indirect system. The candelabra hold six lights above and six others hidden in the spacious bowls that form the base. The lights can be lowered to the floor of the theatre through the medium of hoists to facilitate cleaning.

The facade of the balcony is done in colors the same as the ceiling and walls with white and gold filigree standing in relief against the soft grey and terracotta shades.

Along the walls soft lights shine from the same gleaming white plaster holders. The entire lighting fixture system was designed and cast by artists of Montreal. The head is a Belgian who has designed decorative work for many important buildings.

Another new feature of the Belle is its foyer which opens directly on the street and ramps gently upward to the spacious corridor that leads to the aisles proper. The foyer is done in the same color scheme as the auditorium with gleaming white plaster corner decorations enhancing the angles of the walls.

The box office has a modernistic touch and faces directly on Front Street. It is located on the north side of the foyer giving ample space for patrons to enter the theatre.

Spacious Canteen

A spacious canteen will greet patrons as they enter the theatre from the foyer. Here the ubiquitous popcorn will hold forth as will candies and other sweets dear to the hearts of the kiddies and not a few grown-ups.

Heavy-napped rugs cover all floors and stairs of the theatre. A unique off-diamond shape design features the carpeting in the auditorium while a lighter gayer color features the stairs leading to the second floor.

Manager George Forhan's office is situated on the ground floor to the right of the foyer. It is tastefully decorated in a lime green with blending shades of marboleum covering the floor.

Upstairs the theatre projectionist, J. Barrett Fralick, has his place of work. In the balcony proper where smoking will be permitted, the same color scheme is evident. The new coral-shaded seats are here too with special lighting arrangements facilitating the location of the seats.

The ladies' powder room is a place of beauty. It is attractively decorated with special mirrors installed to enable milady to refresh her beauty between shows. The men's rest room is also extremely well done. Both these rooms are a distinct credit to the new scheme of things and evidence of the management's efforts to provide the utmost in clientel comfort.

New Front

The Belle presents a brand new attractive "front" which is another feature of the redecorative scheme. The name of the theatre "Belle" stands out in large letters facing in two directions. In the centre a sign "A Famous Players Theatre" is prominent. The lighting of the entire front is another work of art, while on each side of the curving top of the marquee are spaces for advertising of current and coming attractions. The whole is a colorful asset to the theatre, one in keeping with the general motif.

The lighting, decorating and electrical system was designed and done by Oscar Glas and Son of Lachine, Que., and New York City. They are members of the Belgian Art Studios, and have achieved many works of structural art in Canada and the United States.

The Belle has been a theatrical landmark of this city since 1929. Built by the late John C. McCarthy it brought the first talkies to the city and has been productive of high class entertainment since.

The Famous Players Corporation acquired the theatre in 1929 when Manager George Forhan took over his duties.

If You Can Carry it, Horgan Has it!

Jim Horgan is head of a magic department known as Hand Props at the M-G-M studios. If it's something you can carry, Horgan has it. It takes 25 ledgers to list items in his charge and every item has a number. When it is checked out for a movie set, it is Horgan's job to list the items number as well as the number of items. This procedure works in reverse when the items are returned.

"It takes six of us to check things in and out when the lot is going full blast," he says. "Everything's fine until a couple of the set decorators happen to want the same item. That's when I disappear into the china room and let 'em fight it out."

Scavenger hunts during his early Broadway days with the late Flo Ziegfeld have aided Horgan in systematizing his department to make it easy for prop men. He cites M-G-M's new Technicolor musical, "Singin' in the Rain," showing tomorrow at the Belle Theatre.

"In the old days it would have taken a Hollywood prop man months to scout up the necessary items for this story of the Roaring '20's. But we had 'em all nice and handy."

Mr. Horgan flipped open a nearby cabinet. Inside was a comprehensive display of articles pertinent to the reign of the Flapper. Among the items gathered for the use of Gene Kelly, Donald O'Connor, Debbie Reynolds and Jean Hagen in the musical were movie director megaphones and puttees, silver mesh bags (an indispensable in the Flaming Youth era), John Held, Jr., drawings and statuettes, ukeleles by the score, vanity cases (forerunners of today's compact), King Tut jewelry, beaded lamp shades, hip flasks, pennants, racoon coats and even a stack of Rhythm Boys recordings!

Debbie Reynolds Hits Stardom, Or 'How High School Girl Makes Good'

Debbie Reynolds is living proof of the fact that the American school system works.

She sings, dances, twirls a baton, plays the French horn, can keep her check book straight, can recite the preamble to the United States Constitution, has a working knowledge of French, can hold her own in a discussion of current affairs and, within a record-breaking time has risen at M-G-M from a one-song part in "Three Little Words" to a co-starring role with Gene Kelly and Donald O'Connor in the new Technicolor musical, "Singin' in the Rain," starting Tomorrow at the Belle.

The fact that the French horn was included in her school curriculum surprised everyone but Debbie. "I admit it was sort of an accident," she says, "When the preference cards were distributed, I put in for a clarinet. But somehow or other, the card was lost and by the time the teacher got around to me, all that was left was a French horn. So I learned to play the French horn."

All of this, the nineteen-year-old actress relates, took place in Junior High School. By the time she entered Senior High she was good enough to have a chair in the regular orchestra, and before she graduated she was proficient enough to be chosen as a member of the Burbank Symphony Orchestra.

"School?—I loved it," states Debbie, enthusiastically. "There is so much more to it than subjects like English or history or mathematics. You learn about people, how to choose friends and keep them. It teaches tolerance and understanding because pupils come from all over rather than from a segregated level of society."

That Debbie chose her friends wisely is proved by the fact that she still has them. Her closest associates are not players she has met through her work at the studio but the boys and girls of Burbank's John Burroughs High School. The fact that she is well on her way to becoming one of Hollywood's brightest stars has not affected her relationships.

"I consider what success I may have had in motion pictures a matter of plain luck," she says. "In fact, it's still hard for me to believe that I am Gene Kelly's partner in "Singin' in the Rain." It wasn't too long ago that I went to a matinee in Burbank with a girl friend and we both wondered what it would be like to play June Allyson opposite Mr. Kelly in "The Three Musketeers". I never found out about June's reaction, but I know my own now. It's wonderful."

Gene Kelly, Donald O'Connor, Debbie Reynolds Shine in MGM's Big Technicolor Musical "Singin' in The Rain"

(Prepaired Review)

Hollywood, during its frantic transition from silent films to pictures that "talked," furnishes the locale and period of M-G-M's star, laugh and song-loaded new Technicolor musical. "Singin' in the Rain," now on view at the Belle Theatre, with Gene Kelly, Donald O'Connor and Debbie Reynolds forming as merry a trio of leads as you have seen in some time.

Kelly and O'Connor enact a vaudeville song-and-dance team who crash Hollywood in the Twenties, when the Charleston was the rage and silent-film directors dressed as though they were riding masters. Starting as a "mood musician," indispensable in putting a star in the right mood in those days, Kelly becomes in turn a stunt man and then the swashbuckling hero of costume action pictures opposite the beautiful Lina Lamont (Jean Hagen). Unfortunately, the alluring Lina's beauty is confined to her face. With the thinking apparatus of a four-year-old and a rasping voice, she is frankly a dumb bunny, so dumb, in fact, that she believes the fan magazines when they say she is Kelly's sweetheart off-screen as well as on. This leads to a number of heated repercussions when Kelly falls in love with pert, young singer Debbie Reynolds. But the real crisis occurs when the success of "The Jazz Singer," the first talkie, revolutionizes the old silent-film technique. It looks as though Lina, with her frightening voice, is a goner. How she plots to save her career at the expense of her rival, Debbie. who has been employed to "dub" her voice in place of Lina's in a musical, and how this plot is thwarted by Kelly and O'Connor, makes for an hilarious tale studded with memorable song hits from the pen of Arthur Freed and Nacio Herb Brown and felicitous hoofing upon the part of all three principals.

In the impressive musical score are such nostalgic heart-warmers as "All I Do Is Dream of You," "You Were Meant For Me," "You Are My Lucky Star," "Beauti- You," "Good Morning," "Beautiful Girl," "I've Got a Feelin' You're Foolin'," "The Wedding of the Painted Doll," the title song and a number of others. An elaborate fashion show revealing the now-hilarious fashions of the flapper era in a highlight. Kelly and O'Connor prove themselves an adroit hoofing team in song-and-dance routines done respectively to "Fit as a Fiddle" and "Moses," while the film is brought to a stunning climax with the brilliant fifteen-minute "Broadway Melody Ballet," featuring Kelly with Cyd Charisse in the dance drama of a young hoofer who achieves fame on Broadway.

Kelly, fresh from his outstanding success in "An American in Paris," is delightful as the ex-vaudevillian who rises to the crest of silent-picture fame. Not content to star in the production, he also co-directed it with Stanley Donen and has done a masterful job. As his partner, Donald O'Connor has some of the funniest lines in the Adolph Green-Betty Comden screen play and also proves his mettle as a dancer in his routines with Kelly. The fast-rising newcomer, Debbie Reynolds, steps into her first starring role in "Singin' in the Rain" with a fresh talent and ingratiating charm, and the cast is well rounded out in the expert performances of Jean Hagen as the dim-witted Lina Lamont, Millard Mitchell as the head of Imperial Studios, and Douglas Fowley as an harassed director of the silent-picture era.

The producer of the picture is Arthur Freed, who seems unable to make an unsuccessful musical. He may add "Singin' in the Rain" to such other of his memorable films as "An American in Paris" and "Show Boat."

When Gene Kelly's Feet Go Dancing On Screen, They Start to 'Talk'

Feet are handy gadgets. You can use them to walk with, to run with, to kick with, to dance with. But there's one dancer in Hollywood who demands even more of these pedal extremities. His must talk!

"No dance is worthy of the name unless it tells a story," declares Gene Kelly. "It is supposed to say something. If there's nothing to say, there's nothing to dance."

Kelly insisted on this one qualification for dance numbers early in his career, when he rehearsed for Cole Porter's musical, "Leave It To Me." The director was Robert Alton with whom Kelly has worked many times since casting his lot with M-G-M.

As Alton recalls it, he called Kelly over and explained that he was to do a gliding soft-shoe number among a group of restaurant tables.

"Why"?-Kelly asked him.

"Why what?" came back a baffled Alton.

"Why do I. do the dance?" asked Kelly.

"Because the action is slow, the dialogue is too wordy but can't be cut and the dance will liven things up," Alton explained patiently. "Get a little pathetic humor into it if you can."

At this point the director was called away. When he returned, he found a dejected Kelly sitting on the floor of the stage. "I can't do it," he told Alton. "There's no real reason behind it. There's nothing to say."

Alton thought fast. "But there is," he insisted. "Plenty. You're lonely. There's a girl at that table over there with a man she doesn't love. She's lonely, too. Lonely right here in the middle of a big, noisy crowd. You know how she feels because you feel the same way. You want her to know that you sympsthize and think she's too beautiful to be blue."

"Why didn't you say that before?" Kelly shouted, as he jumped to his feet and started creating his choreography. Within an hour it was completed. During the run of the musical his dance proved a show-stopper.

Kelly has been talking with his feet ever since. His pedal-prattle in "Pal Joey" led him to Hollywood. Here he told the story of a lonely G. I. with nothing but a mop for a dancing partner in one of his early dancing roles in "Thousands Cheer." He told the fairy story of a selfish king and a cartoon mouse in "Anchors Aweigh," the tragedy of a slaughter on Tenth Avenue in "Words and Music," and the never-to-be-forgotten "Alter Ego" in "Cover Girl." The expansive ballet in his recent 'An American in Paris" told still another story, that of a romantic painter whose love eludes him.

Now, in his newest Technicolor musical, "Singin' in the Rain," at the Belle Theatre, Mr. Kelly has himself a time interpreting the bounce, noise and carefree gaiety of the Terrific Twenties in a Hollywood story depicting the transition from silent pictures to talkies. Donald O'Connor, Debbie Reynolds, Jean Hagen, Millard Mitchell and Cyd Charisse share in this romp.

When it comes to dancing partners, Kelly boasts the most unusual collection of any artist on stage or screen. He has danced with a mop, a broom, a mouse, a statue, a dog and a pillow. But like all men, he has a favorite. A girl!

Eighty-Seven Tee Off in Quest Of Closed Title

EDMONTON (CP)—A field of 87 teed off today in quest of the Canadian women's close golf championship, won last year by petite 18-year-old Marlene Stewart of Fonthill.

With the weatherman promising a scorching day, the 6,655-yard Edmonton Mayfair's par 79 is expected to be broken regularly.

The confident, capable champion broke par twice in practice with 78s, and the veterans couldn't come close. Ada McKenzie of Toronto, a mate of Miss Stewart on the Ontario team, and Mrs. Graeme Pyke of Montreal hit the 81 bracket and Babs Davie of Vancouver wasn't far behind.

Mary Gay In 80s

The Ontario champion, Mary Gay of Kitchener, was in the low 80s and Alberta's young hopeful, Rae Milligan, 18, of Jasper, fired a number of low nine-hole scores.

Six teams have entered the interlocking inter-provincial team competition which covers 36 holes and winds up Friday. The close goes 54 holes over the tree-lined fairways and finished Saturday.

British Columbia's team was not complete yesterday when Marjorie Todd of Victoria failed to appear, but she was expected today. Junior member Shirley Fry of Esquimalt will move up if Miss Todd does not arrive.

Joanne Goulet of Regina shot a 92 in a practice round yesterday but said she expected to improve her irons play today.

$90,000 at Stake In World Meet For Golf Pros

CHICAGO (AP)—Golfdom's biggest gold rush is on today. With $90,000 at stake, 80 men pros and 11 play-for-pay gals start swinging in the "world championship of golf" at Tam O'Shanter course.

Promoter George S. May's "world" meet also has amateur competition for men and women in a sort of four-ringed circus, but the pro showdown for a $25,000 men's first prize and $5,000 feminine top grab hogged the spotlight.

Snead Favorite

If last week's curtain-raiser means anything, Sam Snead is the man to whip. Snead strolled off with the all-American with a 17-under-par 271, eight strokes ahead of the field.

Chasing him will be a select crowd, including 24 players who broke 288-par in the all-American scramble. Sambo's chief trouble may come from runner-up Tommy Bolt, Cary Middlecoff, Jack Burke, Wally Ulrich, Doug Ford and Jim Turnesa, all bracketed within three strokes in the all-American.

MAY ABANDON SHAW FUND

LONDON (Reuters)—The Bernard Shaw memorial fund launched last November with a target of £250,000 has failed to reach £1,000 and may be abandoned. Appeal committee chairman Ivor Brown said last night the committee would meet soon to decide.

CONSULTANT NAMED

TORONTO (CP)—Anna P. Lewis, director of women's institutes branch of the Ontario department of agriculture, yesterday announced the appointment of Jean Scott of Stratford as field consultant to all provincial home economists. Miss Scott is home economist for the counties of Bruce, Huron and Perth.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—If you should see a furtive looking fellow walking along close to the buildings and casting nervous glances aloft, the chances are good that he's a big league manager wondering when the old axe is going to fall. It's a precarious profession these days.

A glance through the records discloses that the 16 major league clubs have within the last five seasons employed a total of 42 managers, with a couple of months still to go in the current scramble. A team which isn't paying salaries to at least two pilots, past and present, is considered a reactionary.

Quick, now, and with no caching, name the manager who has enjoyed the longest tenure with his present club. It is necessary, obviously, to set a rather short time limit for an answer, because time and the present crop of jittery club owners stand still for no quiz program.

Meyer The Man

The correct, if improbable, answer is Billy Meyer, the lovable and long-suffered commander of the last-place Pittsburgh Pirates in the National League. He is the only member of the dugout clan who has been at the same stand ever since the 1948 season began, and it is open to violent debate whether Billy deserves congratulations in vew of what Branch Rickey has done to him this year.

Leo Durocher is the runner-up, having taken over the Giants in mid-'48, and Casey Stengel is the elder statesman of the American League as he heads toward his fourth full year at the Yankee helm.

Most of the other pilots have made a practice of renting apartments on a month-to-month basis and unpacking only a couple of bags.

Chicago White Sox, for instance, are working on their fourth managers of the record since the panic ers of the reord since the panic set in. Nine others have had three.

Five This Year

Three National League teams—Philadelphia, Cincinnati and Boston—and two American—Detroit and St. Louis—have discovered it was all a terrible mistake since the present races opened.

There are times when one gets to thinking about it and wonders why the average big leaguer dreams of some day handling a lot of sweaty, big-headed athletes and taking his chances with some owner who, the chances are, made his fortune in dress goods.

It's a precarious career. There are only the 16 top jobs, and after that the minors with their overnight bus trips and cold-water dressing rooms.

Sport in Brief

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A crowd of almost 10,000 football fans turned out at Hamilton last night to watch the Big Four Tiger-Cats stage their first public workout of 1952 in the form of an inter-squad game.

Quarterback Bill Mackrides, the former Philadelphia Eagles star, proved the outstanding player on the field and generalled his squad to a 34-0 victory over Ralph Sazio's whites.

Pat Brady, quartering for the whites, looked good, but wasn't given protection. Despite the fact that most of the cats' first-string linemen were in white livery, they were continually outrushed by the victorious yellows.

Chicago's Bob Satterfield, 175½, a 7-2 underdog, last night scored a surprising upset in gaining a split decision over hard-punching Harold Johnson, 175, in a 10-round fight.

The fight was dull and lacked slam-bang action, considering their punching reputation. Satterfield outboxed his heavily-muscled opponent and scored the only knockdown after a flurry in the fifth.

The verdict of the two judges and referee Tommy Gilmore was split. Gilmore and judge Edward Hintz gave Satterfield the nod. Judge John Bray voted for Johnson.

Born in Montreal, Mr. Wall played hockey for the old Montreal Shamrocks, Stanley Cup winners in 1899. His position was coverpoint, obsolete now but similar to the modern defence position.

Coaches Red Douglas and Trip Trepanier of Sarnia Imperials yesterday reported 60 players are aiming at positions on the Ontario Rugby Football Union team.

Back for the seventh season as first-string snap is Bruce Mattingly, who last year was voted the O.R.F.U.'s most valuable player. Other all-stars in camp were flying wing Jon Florence, middle Dutch Davey and halfbacks Johnny Chorostecki, Al Farris and Corky Duchene.

Kid Gavilan, Havana's idol and world welterweight champion, will defend his title at Havana against Billy Graham of New York some time during the first week of October in a 15-round bout.

Contracts were signed yesterday. The Cuban government's sports department is putting up a $40,000 guarantee.

Terms weren't announced, but it is understood that Gavilan will get $30,000 and Graham $18,000.

Seating capacity of Clarke Stadium at Edmonton will be increased by 2,100 in time for the exhibition game between Edmonton Eskimos and Montreal Alouettes Aug. 16.

The present seating capacity is 11,000. The new seats will cost an estimated $10,000, including installation.

Rocky Marciano, unbeaten Brockton, Mass., heavyweight challenger, signed yesterday at New York for a three-round exhibition at Pittsburgh, Aug. 18 against Tommy Harrison, a sparring partner from Los Angeles.

Marciano is considering a series of exhibitions pending his proposed title fight with champion Jersey Joe Walcott in September.

Two Toronto men and a Briton tied for first place in the Duke of Cornwall and York match yesterday, the third of the Ontario Rifle Association's annual four-day shoot.

Maj. A. C. Carter, Sgt. F. Wallace and Lieut. S. Wheeler of Esher, Eng., scored 85 points each.

Lt.-Col. W. H. Blake of Kingston posted an 84 and CQMS. J. A. Draper of South Porcupine an 83.

Dave Sheppard, star batsman for Cambridge University, Sussex County and England, yesterday became the first cricket player to top 2,000 runs this season.

He hit the mark when he scored four against Lancashire and went on to make 70.

Quinte Club Wins Tennis Matches

Quinte Tennis Club intermediates defeated the St. Andrews-Holloway Street Church Combines 3-2 in a scheduled Bay of Quinte Intermediate Tennis League match played last evening.

Results of the play were:

First men's doubles — Paul Temple and Ed. McClay, Quinte; defeated Clive Joyce and Ron Pollard, 6-4.

Second men's doubles—Ron Fox and Bruce Law, Quinte, defeated Bill Redquest and Jim Hill, 6-3.

First mixed doubles — Les Digby and Carol Norton, Quinte, defeated Bill Spencer and Jean Draycott, 9-7.

WINNIPEG STRIKE CALL

WINNIPEG (CP)—Winnipeg civic employees will strike tonight at midnight to back up demands for pay boosts and shorter working hours. Strike action was decided when city council refused to grant federation demands for a pay increase of 7½ per cent and a 40-hour week.

Four Light Standards Broken As Stock Car Drivers Put On Thrilling Series of Races

They are busy out Shannonville Speedway direction today industriously repairing the posts supporting the lighting system. The whole trouble seemed to be a dislike of lamp-posts last night by the drivers as they knocked down no less than four posts in a shower of electrical sparks and tangled power cables.

From the vantage point in the mor-'lonesome press box' it looked like 24th of May as the swift-moving autos hit the posts. Morley Shephard of Trenton snitched the first pole on the east turn in the consolation event as his car went out of control on the bend. That was Shephard's second pole this season.

With a good field of cars competing, the feature race was one of the finest exhibitions of skillfull driving to be seen this season. No fewer than 11 cars started and when it was all over, there were seven autos left. Frank Andre showing some of the fastest driving this year won the feature 20-lap, 10 mile event as he lapped again and again the other competing cars. Jimmy Edgar of Napanee followed closely on his heels. The other three posts claimed three of the contesting cars as the boys climbed them in rapid succession.

Ted Broad of Belleville won the consolation in his battered number nine. The battered number nine got that way as Clarence Johnston rolled last week and put himself in hospital. Dusty Sandford placed second in consolation.

A freak accident in the second qualifying heat claimed six feet of guard rail. Mark Foster driving "Old Smoky" piled into the guard rail in front of the spectators. Foster was on the straightaway at the time he hit and he was pushing his car to its utmost. As they towed it away, six feet of guard rail could be seen embedded into the front of the car.

First qualifying heat—Elwood Dopkins, Odessa, six laps, 4:11. Jack McCrory, Belleville.

Second qualifying heat—Bruce Kempt, Belleville, six laps 4:12. Roy Johnston, Belleville.

Fast car heat—Jim Edgar, Napanee, six laps, 3:51. Warren Day, Kingston.

Consolation—Ted Broad, Belleville, six laps, 4:50, Dusty Sandford, Belleville.

Feature—Frank Andre, Napanee, 20 laps, Jim Edgar, Napanee.

Move is Made To Reorganize Egyptian Army

CAIRO (Reuters)—Gen. Mohammed Naguib, leader of last month's coup, moved yesterday to reorganize the Egyptian army, the war ministry and defence factories.

The budget of the ministry of war and marine will be separated from the state budget and the ministry reorganized by military and legal experts to avoid government "red tape," said a spokesman for the general.

Armament factories will be set up in Egypt, he said, to give Egyptian troops the most modern weapons and equipment.

Egypt formerly obtained arms from Britain under the Anglo-Egyptian treaty of 1936 but Britain in October, 1951, revoked all licences to export arms to Egypt when this treaty broke down.

The government has been purchasing arms from Sweden and certain police equipment from the United States.

Petes Move Into First Place of Loop With 3-2 Win Over Redmen

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

It has been said that the greatest play in football is the fumble. Well close to 650 followers of the Belleville Redmen will tell you that the costliest play in baseball is the lowly, and much scorned error. Last night two errors, and three of Peterborough's five hits, broke up Bob Bunton's masterful five hit pitching chore and gave the Petes a 3-2 decision and first place in the Central Ontario Baseball League. The loss dropped the Injuns into third place in the three team loop behind the Kingston Monarchs. With last night's victory the Petes registered their eighth win in 15 starts while the loss was the Redmen's ninth in 17 games. Kingston has a 7-7 record thus far.

* * *

However, it was not only two bad plays that wrecked the Redmen's chances last evening. The biggest factor was lanky Phil Clancy, who came on in the fifth with men on second and third and no one out, to quench the Belleville blaze. He did such a neat job in fact, that he struck out seven, and gave up only two hits in the last five innings. One of those hits was a scratch single by Sam Mulholland off Clancy's glove which was wiped out when Stewart registered an unassisted double play all the way from third base. It happened like this. With one out, and Mulholland at first. Pettitt tried to register the hit in the hit-and-run combination. Sam was doing plenty of running. So much so in fact that he was almost at second when Stewart reeled in Pettitt's blooper between third and the mound. Stewart then crossed the diamond to make the putout at first himself.

The Injuns, who have been slumping badly these past few weeks, will be trekking to Cardinal this Saturday for a game with that St. Lawrence league entry. Next week they will be unable to hold any home games as the Belleville Fair moves in for four days, followed by all the grounds keepers, bulldozers, earth movers, etc. that are necessary to iron out the kinks in the playing field left by horse and cattle parades. Ah well, the Fair only comes once a year, and besides it provides an excellent alibi for bad bounces.

Lord Athol Layton, who has been inciting near mayhem at the weekly wrestling matches in Memorial Arena for the past several weeks has been pitted against Yukon Eric in this week's feature event. The powerful Yukon, who has crushed more than one scoundrel to his manly chest with devastating results, has exhibited no fear of the Athol specialty, the judo chop, and feels confident that his own brand of muscle bending can take the measure of 'Is Ludship. Yukon himself is hardly a knight in shining armor, but the local fans will acclaim him second only to Sir Galahad if he can reduce Lord Layton to the status of a non-combatant. Indeed the sooner Yukon can render Lord Layton into a quivering mass of ex-wrestling star, the better the patrons will like it. It should be a delightful evening with two such powerful men staging a pier six brawl in all likelihood.

The supporting card has the Australian badman, Fred Atkins pitted against Ray Villmer, while the Masked Marvel takes on Dave Simms in the opener.

One of the finest minor baseball league double headers offered followers of the younger ball players will be held this evening at the Fair Grounds. Oshawa Dairys meet Drive-In Theatre bantams in the second game of their best-of-three OBA elimination round in the first game which commences at 6:30 p.m. In the afterpiece, Checker Cab and Canadian Legion hook up in the deciding game of their series for the city juvenile baseball title and the right to represent the league in the OBA playdowns. The Checker Cab and Legion squads have played four games already to decide a best-of-three series, with each squad winning one game and two games tied. This deciding contest will be played under the lights to a finish. Those fans who want to see a neat double header, and at the same time help along minor league players, shouldn't miss this twin bill tonight, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Jim Furow (that is what the man's name looks like from here) pee wee baseball convener, informs us that entries in the pee wee division include: Western Counties, Kingston, Belleville, Eastern Ontario Baseball Association, Weston, Greater Niagara, Niagara District Association, Barrie. Intercounty Baseball Association, and Hamilton. The draw is expected in the next few days.

George Polmanter, a two-fisted welterweight who gave local boxing fans some of their most bristling moments during Belleville's boxing revival a few years ago, is back in the ring and doing quite well from all reports. A week ago he fought a five round draw with Guelph's Mike Zaduk in Trenton, and last Saturday night in Brockville edged Ottawa's Ronny Lacelle in a split decision. According to all accounts from Brockville, Polmanter built up an early lead with smashing rights to the head, and then held his own in the late stages despite some fancy infighting by the Ottawa flash. It is rumored about that George is thinking of turning pro in the fall, and is tuning up on the local amateurs before making the big jump.

Phil Clancy Lowered Boom On Locals After Coming in For Relief Job in Fifth Frame

Lanky Phil Clancy lowered the boom on the Belleville Redmen last evening with five innings of masterful relief pitching as the Peterborough Petes took a 3-2 decision at the Belleville Fair Grounds, to move into first place in the Central Ontario Baseball League with their eighth win in 15 games. The loss was Belleville's ninth in 17 starts and dropped them past Kingston into third place in the three team loop.

Clancy came on in the fifth frame with runners on second and third and no one out, and the score 3-2 for the Petes, and proceeded to strike out Tony Pettitt and Vern Goyer, before retiring Dick Fitzpatrick, second-to-first to end Belleville's last real threat.

From there on in Clancy gave up only two hits while walking none, and striking out seven. Sam Mulholland's seventh inning single off Clancy's glove was wiped out when third baseman Joe Stewart hauled in Tony Pettitt's pop fly on a hit and run play and then trotted on to first to catch Mulholland in an unassisted double play.

Bunton Goes Route

Bob Bunton went all the way on the hill for the Redmen and turned in a magnificent job in limiting the Petes to five hits. He struck out five and walked two. Errors, however, paved the way for his defeat.

The Redmen opened the scoring in the first frame with Mulholland beating out an infield hit with one out. He stole second and scored standing up on Pettitt's single to left field.

The Injuns counted their second tally in the third with pitcher Bob Bunton leading off with a walk. He took second on Gilmour's weak pop behind the mound that was fielded by Garvey in time to nail Gilmour at first. Bunton came to third on a wild pitch, and scored after Mulholland's fly to centrefield.

The relay to the plate to nail Bunton was bobbled by catcher Menzies. Bunton missed the plate but managed to outscramble Menzies to the dish on his second try.

Score All in Fifth

The Petes garnered all their runs in the fifth frame when they put together three of their five hits and two of the Redmen's three errors.

Young opened the inning with a weak grounder to short that turned into 2 base error as Fitzpatrick's throw sailed over first. Padgett singled to score Young and took second on the throw to the plate.

Whitehill singled to centre to move Padgett to third. Lowrey flied to left to score Padgett, but Whitehill stayed at first. Edger grounded to third forcing Whitehill at second but went on to second himself when the second baseman threw wide in an attempt for a double play.

Garvey then delivered the winning run from second with a Texas league double into left field. Menzies ended the rally by grounding out third-to-first.

The Petes did not threaten in any other inning. They failed to get a man past second in any frame but the fateful fifth as Bunton mowed them down with precision.

Mulholland, with three singles in four trips, led the losers at the plate, while Padgett had two for four for the winners.

Americans Favored to Win Final Round of Davis Cup

By MAX McMAHON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—The draw for opponents in the final round of the North American zone Davis Cup tennis tie takes place today. Although the United States is favored to win, Clubhouse experts are not counting Canada out.

Possible starters are Vic Seixas and Herb Flam for the U.S., and Brendan Macken and Lorne Main for Canada.

Canada has met the United States in eight other Davis Cup rounds but has never won.

Main Canadian Hope

Main is the only Canadian who has come up against any of the Americans, and it is on his performances that the experts are basing their hopes.

He has met, and defeated, Bob Perry, as recently as a couple of weeks ago when he took him in straight sets. Perry isn't thought a possible starter, but he might well play doubles Saturday.

Then too, the 21-year-old, three-time Davis Cupper has come up against Herb Flam, ranked No. 2 in the U.S., when the two played intercollegiate matches in the United States.

Main has never beaten the shifty Flam, but he has given him some close matches.

If Macken comes up against Flam, he may be a threat. Main is ranked No. 1 in Canada on the basis of past performance, but Brendan is definitely tops this year and can take Main.

Seixas Strong

Seixas is another matter. He is considered well able to defeat either Macken or Main, but then he has had his off days, and has fallen before Flam.

Starters in singles Friday switch opponents Sunday, unless the round is already won, in which case junior team members are often given a chance.

Canada last year defeated Cuba and in turn bowed to the Americans. The United States went on to defeat Sweden, European zone finalists, but lost out 3-2 to Australia, Davis Cup champs.

Ole Satch Paige Puts Great Game Into Record Books With 1-0 Win

Cleveland Indians, Cardinals Gain on Yankees, Dodgers; Some Games Washed Out

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Even if he is "43 going on 49," as some folks say, Satchel Paige still has the stuff to bewilder big league hitters.

Satchmo deserted the bull pen last night for a starting role—the second time he'd tried it this year. In fact he hadn't pitched an entire nine innings since 1949.

Locked in a 0-0 duel with Detroit's Virgil Trucks, he pitched nine shutout innings. After Trucks gave way to a pinch hitter in the 10th and Hal White took over, Paige still was in there throwing goose eggs at Tigers in the 10th, 11th and 12th.

Yielded Seven Hits

Bob Nieman's bases-loaded single with two out in the 12th finally got him home with a 1-0 win, his eighth of the year. The box score showed only seven hits for Tigers—six of them singles. Satchel walked only two and struck out nine in his brilliant effort.

In the 10th Tigers loaded the bases with nobody out. Paige made pinch hitter Johnny Pesky and Johnny Groth ground into force plays at the plate. Then he struck out Neil Berry on three straight called strikes.

Walt Masterson pitched Washington Senators to a 6-4 victory over New York, striking out 11 Yanks. He whiffed Mickey Mantle four straight times and Hank Bauer, Yogi Berra and Harry Schaeffer twice each.

The loss shrunk Yanks' lead to three games because Cleveland won its day game from Chicago, 7-1, for Early Wynn's 13th victory. Larry Doby, who hit his 24th homer off Bill Kennedy in the first, ruined Wynn's shutout bid when he fumbled Eddie Robinson's single permitting Minnie Minoso to score the lone White Sox run in the ninth.

Rain washed out the Boston at Philadelphia night game in the American and the Philadelphia at Boston twi-night doubleheader in the National. Brooklyn and New York got in one inning at the Polo Grounds before rain forced a postponement, Dodgers leading 1-0.

Cards Gain Ground

Paper Drops Report 9 Refused To Return Home

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—The Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter today dropped its earlier report that nine Hungarian Olympic athletes had refused to return to their Communist homeland. Neither the paper nor Associated Press correspondents could substantiate the report in Helsinki.

The paper had carried the report in editions last night under a Helsinki dateline Repeated checks in the Finnish capital could find no basis for the report and it was dropped from editions today.

The report had said that the nine had taken refuge in western legations at Helsinki.

Ottawa Athletics Take Twin Bill From Baltimore

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The cellar-dwelling Ottawa Athletics pulled a major upset in the International League last night, sweeping a doubleheader from Baltimore, 7-2 and 4-0.

Home runs by George Moskovich and Jack Littrell and three double plays—giving the A's 121 for the season—helped Mario Fricano to his 12th victory in the opener.

Charley Bishop scattered eight Oriole hits in the nightcap to record his 10th win and fourth shutout. His mates bunched all their three hits in the sixth inning.

Two home runs, by pinch-hitter Bob O'Neal with one on and Hank Workman, in the ninth inning gave Syracuse a 4-3 victory over Toronto. Reliever Ernie Silverman won his second game. Ray Shore, replacing starter Vic Lombardi, absorbed his fourth loss.

Montreal's sizzling Royals swept a three-game series from Rochester by handing them a 6-4 licking. The Royals did all their scoring off Jack Faszholz with two runs in the second inning and four on five straight hits in the fourth. The Red Wing centre-fielder, Rip Repulski slugged three tremendous but futile, doubles.

Ken Johnson, former Detroit southpaw making his debut for Buffalo Bisons, hurled a four-hitter to shut out Springfield, 4-0.

Sixteen Horses Set For Postponed Hambletonian

GOSHEN, N.Y. (AP)—Sixteen finely tuned horses brought their argument for the three-year-old trotting championship down to Good Time Park track today—weather permitting.

Rain interrupted their plans to settle the argument yesterday. It still was coming down early today, and plenty of sunshine was needed to forestall another postponement.

Several thousand fans already milling around the track when Bill Cane decided there had been too much rain to permit the valuable equines to take the track in quest of the purse of $87,637.55.

It was the second straight year that rain had forced postponement of the trotting horse derby. In 1927 it rained all week at Syracuse and the stake finally was raced off at Lexington.

The weather didn't make any change in the odds. Duke of Lullwater from the barns of W. T. Candler of Decatur, Ga., and driven by 32-year-old Johnny Simpson remained the 3-to-1 choice to take the best of three heats, starting at 3 p.m. EDT.

Hit Song was the 4-to-1 second choice. At least one-half dozen others were well considered. They include Crystal Hanover, Lu Peck, Scotch Victor, Theme Song, Diplomat Hanover and Hardy Hanover.

Layne Favored To Whip Charles In Heavy Bout

OGDEN, Utah (AP)—Rex Layne, Utah's hope for the world's heavyweight championship, ruled a 6-5 favorite today to whip Ezzard Charles in their 10-round fight tomorrow night.

A possible shot at the winner of the Rocky Marciano-Walcott title go in September may be the prize for the winner.

This time he did it at Picton with Canada Maid II, in the 225 class hydroplane. The Saturday preceding, he had beaten a strong field at Gravenhurst. Tom Carruthers Knocked Out Of Golf Contest in 2nd Round

KINGSTON (CP) — Thirty-two Ontario golfers took to the fairways at the Cataraqui Golf and Country Club in the third round of the 30th annual Ontario amateur golf championship.

By night fall only eight will be left. The 16 morning survivors meet in the fourth round in the afternoon to determine Friday morning's quarter-finalists.

103 Starters

Yesterday 103 would-be champions started out on the first round. With few upsets, the 32 remaining at the day's end were in the main those conceded title chances when the draw was made.

Gerry Kesselring of Kitchener, the defending champion, stood firm with a second-round 6 and 5 victory over G. E. Thomas of Toronto after drawing an opening round bye. Eight defaults in morning play allowed as many byes into the afternoon round.

Nick Weslock of Windsor, Bruce Bradley of Oshawa and Sonny Adams of Toronto successfully completed yesterday's play. They are all former titleholders.

Two Minor Upsets

There were two minor upsets in the afternoon's play as Terry Malone of Toronto, the golfer who surprised everyone in the morning by eliminating Jerry Knechtel of Kitchener, turned back Bobby Fair of Toronto while Doug McKellar of Toronto knocked off Emerson Creed of London.

Keith Kirkpatrick, possibly the fourth man on Ontario's Willingdon Cup team, was another bystander at the finish of yesterday's rounds. Little-known Dick Latham of the host Cataraqui club sunk a putt from the edge of the 18th to nip Kirkpatrick two-up.

Six matches went extra holes. Joe Lamb of Cataraqui took 22 holes to knock off Frank Russell of Aurora. Knechtel's match went to 20 as did two others and a pair ended on the 19th.

Results included:
First Round:
Ted Holmes, Brantford, defeated E. F. Mooers, Kingston, 2 and 2.

Brantford Only 3½ Games Off Loop Leaders

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Brantford Red Sox defeated Guelph Maple Leafs 6-1 last night to move within 3½ games of Kitchener Panthers, Intercounty Baseball League leaders.

The Brantford victory momentarily stopped Guelph from threatening the runner-up position, spreading the gap between the teams to two games.

Kitchener Wins

Kitchener kept up its front-running pace with a close 7-6 win over fifth-place Galt Terriers. Leftfielder Dick Blanchard stole home in the bottom of the ninth for the winning tally.

In the only other game played last night, tail-end St. Thomas Elgins outscored sixth-place Waterloo Tigers 10-8 in a game which meant little to the standings. The Tigers are 9½ games off the pace while St. Thomas trails by 13.

Allows Five Hits

Billy Gibbs scattered five hits for the Brantford win. Paul Pilarski was charged with the loss, but contributed to his team's lone run with a single in the sixth. Marve Rich brought him home.

The Kitchener contest was a close one all the way with Galt tying it 6-6 in the top of the ninth before Blanchard's daring steal for the win.

Bob Griffith who relieved Ed Niwinski in the seventh was the winning St. Thomas hurler while Whit Graves was charged with the loss for Waterloo.

Cementmen Derail Diesels In First Game Intermediate 'A' O.A.S.A. Playdowns by 9-7

Point Anne Cementmen, showing a surprising amount of power at the plate, and plenty of daring-do on the bases, derailed the CNR Diesels 9-7 last evening at the CNR Field in the first game of their best-of-five series for the right to represent the Belleville and District Softball League in the OASA Intermediate A playdowns. The second game is slated for the Point tomorrow night.

The Pointers hammered out three runs in the first inning and were never headed. Elliott's double, walk to Strahan, Mallory's single to right field and a two base error to the catcher on the throw to the plate were good for two runs. Carl Wood got a life on an error in left field that let Mallory score.

The Cementmen erected a five run lead in the top of the third inning with singles by Strahan and Mallory, a fielder's choice, a passed ball, and the second of Graham Horwood's three sacrifice bunts being good for the tallies. Singles by Green and Buchanan, with two out, knocked Boyle out of the box and Al Adams came in to retire the last man.

CNR recovered three runs in the third on singles by Fitzpatrick and Sword and a three base error in left field on Sword's smash. A walk to Glen Young and Corbett's triple to centrefield brought in the third run.

Blasting Away

Point Anne kept blasting away scoring three runs in the fifth on singles by Wood, Green and Burshaw, and a double by Mallory.

They added their final run in the seventh on a walk, a single and an error in centrefield.

Diesels came up with three runs in the seventh on a fielder's choice, a single by Don Adams and a two base error to the centrefielder on a throw to third base, and Glen Young's two run homer to right field.

An error and two singles counted a single run in the ninth with only one out, but Pat Maracle came on to relieve Buck Burshaw and retire the side without further damage.

Burshaw pitched to everybody but the last two Diesel batters. He walked six, struck out three, and gave up 10 hits for all CNR runs.

Don Boyle walked one, struck out two, and gave up six hits for five runs in two and two-thirds innings. Al Adams walked two, struck out five, and gave up six hits for four runs over the rest of the route.

Mallory, with two singles and a double in five tries, led the winners at the plate. Glen Young hit a single and a home run in three official tries for the Diesels, while Corbett hit two singles and a triple in five appearances.

Lineup: Point Anne: Genereaux cf; Elliott c; Strahan 1b; Mallory ss; Wood 2b; Horwood 3b; Green lf; Buchanan rf; Burshaw p, relieved by Maracle in 9th.

CNR Diesels: Ronsky 3b, Fitzpatrick 2b, replaced by Rogers in 5th; Sword ss; D. Adams lf, cf in 8th; G. Young c; L. Goyer cf, replaced by J. Hunter, lf, in 8th Corbett 1b; Culkin rf; Boyle p, replaced by Adams in 3rd.

Council Wants Investigation Of Twp. Affairs

TORONTO (CP)—Suburban Toronto Township council last night passed a resolution asking the Ontario department of municipal affairs to conduct a complete investigation into township financial affairs.

Deputy Reeve Lloy Herridge said the investigation was justified in view of mounting criticism of officials and council members by rate-payers.

Capital expenditures were halted by council yesterday when it was learned a Toronto bond house has withdrawn its agreement to buy $1,500,000 in township debentures.

Reeve Sidney Smith blamed the action on statements made at a recent ratepayers' meeting called to discuss protests over tax increases. Residents have held three mass meetings over the increases ranging up to 30 per cent this year.

We had liver and onions in pop's honor, and ma said, William how is the meat?

My dear, it melts in the mouth, and points south, pop said, and ma said, I didn't meen whether it was tender or not.

I thought that was a very nice thing to say about it, pop said, and ma said, Yes of course, if you want to compliment the animal and not the cook. I meen how is it seasoned? she said.

Oh, perfectly, pop said. It was agenst my better judgement that I added a few more grains of salt, and now I regret the thoughtless gesture, he said, and ma said, How are the vegetables?

Tasty, very tasty, and I dont meen tender, pop said, and ma said, Then I dont regret the sacrifice.

The which? pop said, and ma said, I dont think I told you, William, but all 4 of the Wensday afternoon bridge ladies, including myself, are deeply intristed in dieting to keep our figures down. Well, one of the ferst rules in dieting, if not the very ferst, is to guard agenst incessant taisting while you are cooking, so we formed a little club, called the Anty Taisters, and any one who breaks the rules is automatically expelled from the club for a week. Well, everything seemed so good while I was preparing dinner this evening that I was inspired to make it even a little better for your sake, and that required quite a bit of taisting as I went along. But now that you have fully approved of the result, I dont care, I'll just tell the ladies that my husband is my ferst consideration, she said.

And I'll tell the gentlemen that my wife is my ferst consideration, let the waistline fall where it may, and I'll prove it very shortly by passing my plate for more of everything, pop said.

Which he did.

Trans-Canada Two-Lane Highway Coming Closer to Fulfilment

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The dream of driving from coast to coast in Canada over a modern two-lane highway is coming closer to fulfilment.

The third year of construction work has started on the Trans-Canada Highway scheduled for completion by the end of 1956, but the job may take longer than that.

A Canadian Press survey shows bulldozers and paving machines busy on the road at scores of places across the land. All provinces except Quebec have entered into agreements with the federal government for the building of the 5,000-mile, $300,000,000 hard-surface road.

Works Independently

Premier Duplessis of Quebec said in 1950 the agreement offers insufficient guarantees for provincial constitutional rights. His province is improving its existing highways without committing itself formally to the national plan.

One objection by Quebec authorities is that building the road to the width specified by the federal government — 22 feet paved, with a minimum right-of-way of 100 feet — would involve demolition of houses in some Quebec villages through which it would pass.

The federal government is contributing 50 per cent toward the cost of the highway. The provinces make up the rest and choose the route. When completed, the highway will be the property and responsibility of the provinces.

The Trans-Canada Highway will cross Prince Edward Island. It is expected to thread across the southern part of Quebec, probably linking the major cities along the St. Lawrence River. Its mileages in other provinces have been announced as: Newfoundland 590; Nova Scotia, 310; New Brunswick, 383; Ontario, 1,432; Manitoba, 307; Saskatchewan, 414; Alberta, 287; and British Columbia, 628.

In many places, existing roads are being improved to meet Trans-Canada standards. Elsewhere, as in the rugged section of northern Ontario northeast of Sault Ste. Marie, the road will open up new country, as it will also in parts of Manitoba, Newfoundland and possibly British Columbia.

Toughest Stretch

Along the north shore of Lake Superior, rough country makes the work difficult and expensive. Rock hills must be blasted to ensure a smooth grade.

West of Fort William, muskeg is encountered. Muskeg up to 10 feet deep can be excavated. But where it is deeper, perhaps up to 40 feet, it is blasted out and the space is filled with rock.

Newfoundland—two major gaps to be closed, 45 miles on the western end of the island and 83 miles still unsurveyed between St. John's and Clarenville.

Nova Scotia—already has spent $8,000,000 of its $12,000,000 share of the highway's cost in the province; road expected to run from New Brunswick border to Strait of Canso, with offshoot to Pictou for P.E.I. ferry terminal, across Canso Strait on new causeway and then across Cape Breton to North Sydney to connect with ferry to Newfoundland.

New Brunswick—connects with Quebec's highway 2 about 11 miles from Edmundston and with Nova Scotia's highway 2 near Aulac, after linking Woodstock, Fredericton, Moncton and Sackville.

Ontario—since federal-provincial agreement was signed in April, 1950, contracts have been let for 257 miles for culverts, grading and paving. About 175 miles have been completed to Trans-Canada specifications. Estimated total cost of all contracts to date is $23,000,000, with $16,000,000 of this spent to date.

Manitoba—has spent $4,400,000 since 1946 and plans to spend $4,152,000 this year; expects to have 139 miles paved within a few months. Work this year will include considerable surveying.

Saskatchewan—107.5 miles paved at present, with 97.5 miles of this to be widened, altered or otherwise reconstructed to meet federal standards; 141 miles gravelled at present.

Alberta—$2,850,967 spent to date, $5,700,000 to be spent this year.

British Columbia—$38,000,000 spent to date; $9,000,000 to be spent in near future on reconstruction and bridging on a 32-mile stretch.

Successful wireless telephone communication between England and Australia was established in 1924.

Summer Dream

By Irene Ernhart

Emmy turned to Mark, who shook his head. "It didn't look that way to me," he told Laurie. "He's mad about you."

"But you don't understand," Laurie told her stepfather. "Steve sent me back to New York—after I'd practically asked him to marry me. He made it quite plain that he didn't want me."

"I understand better than you think," Mark said. "Before your mother came in and gave him that big song and dance, your Steve and I had a long talk. He admitted he's in love with you. He told me just about what had happened and told me he had been wrong. He just had to see you again. It wasn't that confounded book that brought him to New York. He could have sent it by express, or mailed it, and saved train fare. He came to see you."

"But he's gone back to Indiana—"

"Sure he's gone. Your mother introduced Fletcher as your fiance, and you stood there like a school-girl not saying a word to deny it. Why wouldn't he leave? Do you know why you stood there silent and unprotesting? Do you?"

Laurie shook her head.

"It was because you were still afraid, subconsciously, that maybe your mother was right, maybe Steve was right. You've always had that fear inside of you somewhere, that you'd make a terrible mistake when you married. Even Steve sensed it."

"Oh, Mark, I love Steve."

"The fear is all gone now, isn't it?"

"Yes, Mark," she whispered.

"I have no intentions of being a John Alden in this thing," Mark said, laughing. "Get your coat, and go out to the airport and see if you can't find Steve around some place waiting for a plane. Let him speak for himself."

"Oh thank you Mark." She put her arms about her stepfather's neck suddenly and gave him a kiss.

"I'll phone the airport and see if I can get a reservation for you and your mother will pack a bag and we'll meet you there."

Laurie ran into the hall to get her coat. She heard Mark saying, "Emmy for heaven's sake, don't start crying. Don't you see that it hasn't ever mattered? I've loved you just the same, and I always will."

She found Steve leaning on the wire fence at the airport watching the planes. He had his hat tilted back and a moody look on his face as he puffed gently at his pipe. She stood there for an instant before he was aware of her. When he turned his face had a closed look, as though he weren't sure he should be glad to see her or not.

"Laurie?" His voice at the end of her name, "what in the world are you doing here?"

"I came to see you off, darling. You see," she tipped her head and smiled at him, "I didn't have a chance to talk to you at all. You rushed off in such a terrible hurry after Fletcher and I came."

He looked away from her for a moment. After a while he said, "there wasn't a great deal to say, was there?" He knocked out his pipe against the fence and put it in his pocket. "Though I suppose I should have at least stayed long enough to wish you happiness, or something. Your Fletcher is a-a-"

"He's not my Fletcher, darling. Mother said that because it suited her purposes to say it. I broke my engagement to Fletcher as soon as he came home from Europe. We're just friends. We won't ever be anything more than that."

Steve's eyes roved hungrily over her face, and she felt her pulses suddenly begin to pound and a warm sweet weakness go through her.

"I'm going to marry you, Steve," she said softly, "that is, if you'll ask me. I get tired of always being the one to do the proposing, you know."

His face twisted a little. "I wouldn't want you to make a mistake, Laurie."

"I wouldn't want to make one. That's why I'm here." She stood there waiting patiently, making no move toward him. "I love you, Steve."

"Laurie!" Her name seemed to be wrenched out of him, and then his arms were around her and his mouth was on hers rough with all the hunger and longing of the past few months. His hands were on her face then, moving to her temples and back to her throat again. She was breathless when he let her go.

"Will you marry me, Laurie?" His voice was husky. "Can you forget my stupidity, and the things I said to you. How I've regretted all the hateful things I always seemed to be saying to you? Will you forgive me?"

"Yes," Laurie whispered, "oh yes!"

He put his hands on her shoulders. "I kept thinking to myself, if I sold the book and it turned out to be a best seller, then I could ask you to marry me, then I could give you all the things—"

"Things!" Laurie scoffed. "There's only one thing I want from you, Steve, and that's your love."

There was a great gust of wind from the propellor of a big plane wheeling on the runway near the fence. It whipped at them as they clung together.

Mark's voice came to them from a long way off. "You two realize that your plane is getting ready to take off? You'll have to hury if you want to catch it."

They turned to look at him with gay incomprehensive faces, and then went into each other's arms again. They didn't seem to have heard at all, for they were caught in a dream, a summer dream that was going to last a lifetime.

Had Weak, Nervous Stomach Ever Since I Was a Child

Woman Describes Symptoms and Tells How Even After Long Suffering Relief Came Through Using Syntona.

"There has been such a definite improvement in my health since I've been taking Syntona Herbal Compound that I want other people who suffer as I did to know about this fine medicine," said Mrs. Margaret Wikinson, 1087 Trafalgar St., London, Ontario, in a recent report.

"I have been troubled with my stomach ever since I was a child. Any sort of rich foods have almost always caused indigestion, gas, bloating and heartburn. I was subject to throbbing headaches, my nerves would become so upset that I couldn't sleep and more recently I developed sore, aching pains in my limbs and joints.

"But, now my condition is so improved that for the first time I can really enjoy my meals. This relief started with the first bottle of Syntona and gradually all the gas, bloating distress and pains and soreness went away. Now I am also free of headaches, and my nerves are calmed down so I am getting more sound, restful sleep and do not get up mornings feeling listless and fatigued as I did before."

Made from 12 of Nature's Finest Herbs and Roots, Syntona acts on the stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels. It aids in the elimination of excess acids and impurities and promotes better assimilation of food for increased strength and energy. Thousands of former sufferers tell how it has helped them.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville at DOLAN THE DRUGGIST.

Iran Willing To Reopen Talks On Oil Issue

Government Dispatches Note to Great Britain

TEHRAN (Reuters)—Iran has sent a note to Britain offering to reopen negotiations with the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, the huge British concern which it took over last year amid bitter British protests.

The note said Iran will negotiate with a view to finding a means of "investigating the just claims of the former oil company and reciprocal claims of the Iranian government."

It added: "If no agreement is reached by direct negotiations between the company's representatives and the Iranian government, the company may pursue its claims in a competent Iranian court."

The note expressed hope that the British government, majority owner of A.I.O.C., would recommend the oil company to appoint representatives for this purpose.

Negotiations would be conducted under the nationalization law, one of the first acts passed by Premier Mohammed Mossadegh when he took office last year.

(In London it was learned that the note is being urgently studied at the Foreign Office. A spokesman declined to discuss details, but it was understood the note returned the situation to where it was about a year ago.

(Negotiations at that time got nowhere, although Britain sent a minister to Tehran and Averell Harriman, President Truman's special envoy, used his influence to get the dispute settled. Eventually A.I.O.C. withdrew its staff. The refinery at Abadan has since then been virtually idle, with Iran unable to dispose of the stocks of oil on hand.)

P-C Re-Elected On Decision Of Appeal Court

VANCOUVER (CP)—A. R. MacDougall, Progressive Conservative, was "re-elected" in Vancouver-Point Grey yesterday when the British Columbia appeal court tossed out a recount of votes in the riding.

Mr. MacDougall won the seat on the first count of ballots in the June 12 provincial general election.

Liberal T. R. Burnett was declared elected in a recount. Mr. MacDougall then took the case to the appeal court and won his seat back.

The appeal court ruled that some ballots had not been properly packaged and sealed and that the recount judge erred in counting them.

Two Escapees Are Recaptured In Apartment

TORONTO (CP)—Donald Frost, 19, and Roger Thornton, 17, both of Toronto, who escaped Wednesday from the Ontario reformatory at Guelph, were recaptured yesterday in a west-end rooming house.

The search for the two youths swung to this city when a guard's car, taken from the reformatory at the time of escape, was discovered in west-end High Park.

Early yesterday Toronto harbor police spotted the two youths in a canoe on Lake Ontario. They gave chase in a speed boat and the youths scrambled ashore and raced out of sight through High Park.

'Copter Crash In Quebec Kills Oshawa Man

TORONTO (CP)—A helicopter crash in northern Quebec yesterday killed Robert McLean Cooke, 33, of Oshawa.

Cooke was employed by Kenting Aviation Limited of Oshawa, the aircraft operating company for Photographic Survey Corporation of Toronto.

An announcement by Photographic Survey Corporation said the helicopter piloted by Cooke struck a wire and crashed into the Bersimis River near the site of a proposed Quebec hydro dam 100 miles north of Baie Comeau. Cooke was alone in the aircraft.

His widow and two children live in Oshawa.

Jail Term Doubled

OAKVILLE (CP)—Three words doubled Clayton McCutcheon's jail sentence yesterday.

Convicted of causing a disturbance outside his home, he was sentenced to 30 days in jail.

McCutcheon said: "That's fine justice."

The magistrate said: "That's 30 more days."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP) — Synopsis: The pleasant summer weather of the past few days will continue today throughout most of the province, although cooler air is edging into northwestern Ontario. During the day northerly winds will push this cool air across northern Ontario with showers occurring ahead of it.

A disturbance over Nebraska is expected to move toward Ontario today pushing cloud ahead of it into southern regions tonight and bringing showers and thundershowers to southern and central Ontario on Saturday.

Fur-Labelling Act in Effect

WASHINGTON (CP) — Skunk's skunk, from now on.

President Truman's fur-labeling act, signed a year ago, goes into effect today.

The law says all fur coats and other fur garments must be advertised and sold under "the true English name of the animal from which the fur was taken."

Scratched are such "aliases" as "black marten" for skunk, or "baltic lion" for rabbit, or "blue japanese wolf" for goat.

In Canada it is the practice to bracket the correct name of the fur after the trade name.

SC Govt. Adds Three More Seats

EDMONTON (CP)—The Social Credit government yesterday added three members to its already impressive majority as late returns from Tuesday's provincial election trickled in.

Two of the government members elected in Edmonton, where a Progressive Conservative and a Liberal also were returned to complete the seven-member roster in the Alberta capital.

Social Credit candidates have won 48 of the 61 seats compared to three Liberals, two Progressive Conservatives, one C.C.F. and one Independent Social Credit. Last night, six seats were still doubtful—Social Credit leading in four, a Liberal in one and a C.C.F. in one.

NAVY TELLS STORY OF CARRIER BOXER FIRE, 9 KILLED

Crew Members Brave Smoke to Save Ship

By GEORGE McARTHUR

TOKYO (AP)—United States Far East naval headquarters today described how heroic crew members saved the aircraft carrier Boxer from flaming explosions which killed nine shipmates.

Minutes after flames broke out below decks at dawn Wednesday, crew members braved the smoke and heat to unload bombs and ammunition from planes readied for strikes against North Korea.

Other seamen donned oxygen masks and rescued comrades trapped by smoke and flames. Their skipper called it an "inspiring performance."

The navy here said the fire and explosions injured 32. The injury toll reported in Washington was 75, but a navy spokesman here said that probably included those temporarily overcome by smoke.

Other Differences

The Washington account differed in other respects. The navy department said one exploding jet plane touched off the disaster and 12 other planes were destroyed.

Headquarters said the cause was undetermined and did not reveal extent of the damage.

The fire and explosions seared the 27,000-ton flattop's hangar deck.

A naval court of inquiry was ordered to investigate.

Although Capt. Marshall B. Gurney said the Boxer was able to carry on its mission, the carrier was sent to Japan for repairs. The explosions occurred 90 miles east of Wonsan, Korea east-coast port.

The nine dead included a navy doctor and two hospital men who braved flames to care for wounded shipmates.

Anti-British Moslem Leader New Speaker

TEHRAN (CP)—Ayatullah Kashani, a fanatically anti-British Moslem leader of the national front which keeps Premier Mohammed Mossadegh in power, was elected yesterday as speaker of Iran's lower house of parliament, the Majlis.

Of the 62 deputies present, 47 voted for the bearded little mullah (priest) whom many consider the real behind-the-scenes strong man in Iran. He himself has boasted he could "summon an army of 1,000,000 martyrs for any cause."

Kashani replaces Dr. Hassan Imami, another religious leader bitterly opposed to the premier, who resigned and left for Geneva last week shortly after nationalist violence swept Mossadegh back to power.

Seating Kashani as speaker forges the final link of nationalist control over the legislative body which has been asked to give virtual dictatorial powers to Mossadegh for six months.

GLOOMY MASTER

LONDON (CP)—Philip Wayne, a high school headmaster, told a meeting that boys today do not think for themselves as much as boys did 20 years ago. "Lack of mental enterprise may be due to films, television and lack of discipline," he said.

Farouk's Divorced Wife Plans To Claim Guardianship of Daughters

CAIRO, Egypt (Reuters)—Former Queen Farida, divorced wife of Farouk, plans to claim in the Islamic court the guardianship of her three daughters, now with the deposed king in exile on the Isle of Capri, it was learned here today.

She intends to plead that the young princesses will be "exposed to temptations if they continue to stay with the ex-king."

Farouk's three daughters by his first marriage are Ferial, 15, Fawzia, 13, and Fadia, 9. His second wife, Narriman, bore him a son, now seven months old, in whose favor Farouk abdicated.

Since her divorce in 1948 Farida has led a secluded life. Farouk forbade her remarrying or making any public appearances. Nonetheless she has always been greeted with cheers whenever seen at the theatre or driving through the capital.

Farouk referred to his three daughters when he gave a press conference at his home-in-exile July 31.

"My wife has chosen to be with me and so has each of my three daughters of their own free will," he said. "I want to make it clear that it is I alone who am in exile. My wife and children are free to return to Egypt."

300,000 Well-Armed Troops Face Each Other Across Border Both Sides Ready to Fight

(Editors note: Russell Brines, former chief of the AP bureau in Tokyo, talked to leading officials in Greece and Turkey last November during a first-hand survey of Western European countries, and has kept in close touch with the situation since).

By RUSSELL BRINES

WASHINGTON (AP)—The spearheads of nearly 300,000 well-armed troops face each other across the Greek-Bulgarian border, where a skirmish was fought yesterday for an outpost.

Greek and Bulgarian soldiers have been mobilized along the border for years. Both sides are ready to fight.

The skirmish was over tiny Gamma Island in the Evros River which forms the border. The Greeks, who claim the island, said the Bulgarians had invaded it, and opened a mortar attack to drive them back.

Any clash between these hostile neighbors could have serious results. They form one part of an uneasy line stretching from the Mediterranean to the North Sea. Behind them are the massed forces of the West and East.

Depends On Kremlin

But most United States officials in Europe believe that a border incident would mushroom into major conflict only when the Kremlin decides on a bigger gamble than it has taken so far.

Nevertheless, the incident highlights the status of the explosive Balkans where the first shots of the First World War were fired almost 40 years ago.

Greece, one of the newest members of the orth Atlantic Treaty Organization, is one of Russia's veteran opponents in the global hot-cold war. The Greeks fought and won a bloody campaign against Communist guerrillas, ending in 1949. The United States since 1947 has supplied arms and training to build a modern Greek army.

10 Divisions

This force totals about 10 divisions — nearly 150,000 men — with supporting air and naval units. Picked army units are stationed along or near the Bulgarian border in Thrace, from whence any land assault would come.

The Bulgarian army is estimated to total between 11 and 15 divisions of approximately 10,000 men each. They are armed with modern Soviet equipment, and at least two divisions are believed to be armored.

The Bulgars also face border forces of the modernized and tough Turkish army in Thrace, where the boundaries of Greece, Bulgaria and Turkey join.

Bulgaria is one main invasion route from central Europe for any thrust toward the vital Mediterranean, believed to be a prime Soviet target.

Strong Pleas for Unity Made At Closing of R.C. Conference

TORONTO (CP)—The three-week 18th International Red Cross conference closed here yesterday with pleas for unity among the 62 countries represented.

Almost daily since the conference opened in the downtown Royal York Hotel, Communist delegates attacked the Red Cross, the United States and the United Nations. Last week James T. Nicholson, vice-president of the United States Red Cross, told delegates that the Red Cross had been placed on trial before the world by the Communist attacks. He said the Communist delegations were at the conference to create conflict.

Red Delegates Silent

Yesterday the delegates of the Soviet bloc and the Peoples' Republic of China were silent as western speakers took the rostrum to ask that the Red Cross be retained as a symbol of mercy throughout the world.

The Countess of Limerick, vice-chairman of the British Red Cross, made the first and most impassioned appeal. She said:

"I believe that the world has been watching, not merely with interest, but with anxiety to see whether the Red Cross would emerge from this conference a weakened body, torn by dissensions, or a more vital body reaffirming those fundamental principles of freedom, justice and charity on which the future of the organization depends."

"Men of goodwill should unite in the service of humanity no matter what differences of politics, religion or nationality might divide them," she said. "Human welfare is above the confusion and brutality of the battlefield."

Red-Cross a Beacon

"In a world torn by dissension and unrest the Red Cross stands out as a beacon—an enduring active focus of kindness, an impartial and international bond of humanity, an ideal in which we can all share and for which no effort can be in vain."

U. S. delegate Nicholson said the conference was forced to lay aside the purposes for which it was convened.

"Instead it was forced to determine whether the Red Cross was to continue as a non-partisan instrument of mercy or whether it should lend itself to partisan aims."

Paul Ruegger, president of the International Committee of the Red Cross, was not disappointed in the conference.

Baptism Of Fire

"We may be able to say one day" he said, "that the 18th International Red Cross conference was one of the great meetings that made it possible for the universal ideal of the Red Cross to be submitted successfully to its baptism of fire."

The work of the Red Cross did not depend on conferences, he said. "The idea of the Red Cross was not born at a conference, and one conference could never kill it."

Umpire Accused Of Insulting Sports Writers

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Bill McGowan, 56, an American League umpire for 27 years, has been suspended indefinitely for an incident in which he was accused of insulting sports writers covering a game at Sportsman's Park.

McGowan was suspended by Will Harridge, league president, after strong protests had been made yesterday by the Globe-Democrat and the East St. Louis (Ill.) Journal.

When McGowan ejected pitcher Billy Hoeft from the Detroit bench in Wednesday night's contest between the Tigers and the St. Louis Browns, the writers asked McGowan for information. They were not sure which player had been chased.

McGowan's reply, the writers said, was "I'll write you a letter." Sports editor Ellis Veech of the Journal said McGowan later made obscene gestures toward the press box.

Crown Attorney Says Ownership Forms Useless

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw said yesterday he considers a new type of automobile ownership form issued recently in Ontario "useless from a legal standpoint."

For that reason, he asked in court that charges against two motorists of speeding and of passing a traffic light be dismissed. Both drivers pleaded innocent.

The forms, issued by the Ontario highways department to establish ownership of motor vehicles, do not bear any official seal or signature. On them are typed a licence number and what purports to be the name and address of the car owner.

In traffic charges, the Crown must prove ownership of the vehicle.

POPULAR OCCUPATION

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Professional and part-time fishermen manned as many as 40 boats for the squid fishing at Holyrood. Crews ranged from boys of 12 to men over 70 in the lucrative pursuit of squid which is used as bait by commercial cod fishermen.-

WAFDIST LEADER WANTS TO DRIVE OUT BRITISH ARMY

Members Ready to Give Lives to Liberate Nile

By GILBERT SEDBON

CAIRO (Reuters)—The government today considered a bill to regulate political parties as Wafdist leader Mustafa Nahas issued a new firebrand declaration against British ocupation of the Suez Canal Zone.

The government's bill follows complaints of dictatorship by party leaders and "ignorance in which members are kept on the financial position," a spokesman said.

Ignoring dissension within his party, Nahas said the prime aim of the WAFD, largest political force in Egypt, is to purge the country of occupation forces and unite Egypt with the Sudan.

'Wicked Conspirators'

He said the WAFD would have succeeded last winter "but for the wicked conspirators who burned Cairo and ousted the WAFD from power."

Nahas, prime minister at the time of the violent guerrilla campaign against Britain which culminated in the "Black Saturday" riots in Cairo Jan 26, outlined WAFD policy in a statement to Aly Maher last night. It was issued today.

"We shall not be deterred from our big task. . .and have reorganized our ranks for the great mission ahead," he said.

"We shall give life and blood to liberate the Nile valley and give happiness to its people."

Nahas praised the "brave Egyptian Army" for its success last month, under the leadership of Gen. Mohamed Naguib, in ousting the administration and forcing Farouk from the throne.

Despite Nahas' firm policy declaration, the WAFD party is split over the purge within its ranks following last month's coup. Scores of members have demanded election of a new party executive. The executive is still dominated by Fuad Serag el Din, millionaire secretary-general of the WAFD and Nahas' right-hand man.

Dr. Hamed Zaki, former minister expelled from the party, is organizing other expellees to consider "the best means of removing persons who at present control the WAFD party."

U.N. Command Asks Communists For Information

MUNSAN, Korea (AP)—With United Nations planes pounding North Korean military targets in redoubled fury, the U.N. Command today asked the Communists for more information on how they mark their camps for U.N. prisoners of war.

The Reds have declared that all their prisoner camps are marked properly. But the senior U.N. truce delegate, Maj.-Gen. William K. Harrison, has told them that U.N. reconnaissance planes have been unable to find camps marked as described.

A note from Harrison asking more information was given the Communists at Panmunjom today at a 20-minute meeting of liaison officers.

In a second not. Harrison rejected a Red charge that a U.N. plane flew over the Panmunjom neutral zone Aug. 4.

Armistice negotiations, in a second week-long recess, resume Monday.

Czech Middle Class Residents Being Shipped Out of Border Cities

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Czechoslovakia is shipping middle class groups out of her key cities by the trainload and now has begun clearing political suspects out of villages along the Austrian border, usually reliable sources said today.

Informants said the Red regime has been shipping hundreds of such suspects from towns in a Czech "security zone" which skirts the Czech-Austrian frontier. A similar zone exists along the Czech frontier with West Germany.

One effect of the move is to cut down the number of anti-acommunists escaping to the west. Counter measures along the frontier already have cut the number of such escapes. Lately about 50 persons a month have been slipping across the line.

Thousands of families were reported being driven from their homes in Prague, Bratislava and other cities. The move is similar to that being carried on in Czechoslovakia's fellow satellites, Hungary and Romania.

Usually reliable sources reported the Czech deportations last night and said, as in the other two Red countries, they apparently have a two-fold aim—to break up concentrations of the business and professional class and to make housing available for favored workers.

Strike On N.Y. Central Railroad Called For Monday

Claims for Back Pay, Other Grievances Cause Dispute

NEW YORK (AP) —A strike of engineers, firemen, enginemen and conductors will start against the New York Central, east of Buffalo Monday at 2 p.m. EDT, officials of three unions announced today.

The national mediation board only last night had asked the union to postpone any strike action and had called for a union-management conference with board representatives today.

Union officials, in announcing the strike, declined to comment on the mediation board's efforts.

The dispute revolves about claims for back pay and other grievances by the union.

Will Hit Commuters

A strike, besides tying up the road's long lines, would hit 50,000 or more New York City commuters.

The strike was announced in a statement signed by Thomas J. Harkins, assistant grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; C.H. Keenen, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive firemen and Enginemen, and J.F. Casey, senior vice-president of the Order of Railway Conductors.

A fourth union involved in the dispute, the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, would be prevented from striking by a probation imposed last fall by the Cleveland, O., federal court after a "sick strike," a union spokesman said.

Members of this union, including brakemen and yardmen, would be virtually made idle, however, by a strike of the other three, the spokesman said.

Streets Not Unsafe Controller Claims, Chides Toronto Mayor

TORONTO (CP)—Controller Louis Shannon said today Mayor Lamport's promise last night to "make the streets safe for innocent citizens" conjures up a startling situation which has no basis in reality."

"There is no need to unduly alarm the public," Controller Shannon said. "Actual crime figures show the police are doing an excellent job and have the situation well in hand. The streets are certainly not unsafe by any means."

Police officials declined comment on the mayor's announcement that he is opening a drive against criminals.

U.S. Bomber Crashes Ten Killed in Japan

TOKYO (AP)—A navy patrol bomber crashed early today on Shikoku Island in southern Japan killing all 10 crew members, the United States Navy announced.

Verifying earlier reports of the crash, the navy said an air force land rescue team had located the wreckage three miles south of the town of Nagahama on Shikoku's northwest coast.

A helicopter later was flown to the scene to remove the bodies.

President Says Prairie Papers Face Problem

REGINA (CP)—A. W. Hanks of St. James, Man., president of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers' Association, today said that Prairie weekly newspapers are facing a costly problem in the over-payment of the federal sales tax on newsprint supplies.

Mr. Hanks told the annual meeting of the Saskatchewan division of the C.W.N.A. the sales-tax is being paid on the invoice price at Prairie wholesale distribution points. Wholesalers said they were unable to provide a breakdown between freight costs and the remaining invoice cost. Tax, therefore, was being paid on freight rates.

Mr. Hanks said the problem was peculiar to the Prairies. A cost breakdown was provided to Ontario points.

Rabbits Assist In Discovery Of Ancient Town

LONDON (CP)—Burrowing rabbits in the River Gray region of Bexley, Kent, recently uncovered fragments of pottery which have led to the discovery of other relics believed to date back to the first and second century.

Since the pottery remains were found a party of archaeologists has started excavations on the site which historical records indicate once was a Roman settlement.

Until the rabbits got busy the actual location of the settlement was unknown. But now pieces of roman tile and other finds have disclosed the presence of a large farmstead and a village of flimsy huts.

A discovery of particular interest is a small kiln used either for firing pottery or roasting corn.-

NEAR TRAGEDY AVERTED BY ALERTNESS OF BUS DRIVER

A near tragedy was averted last night in Parkwood Heights due to the alertness of a local bus driver.

Bob Lloyd, driver of the Rawson bus had stopped to dispatch some passengers around 6:30 yesterday evening, when he happened to glance at his rear view mirror. As he did so, he spotted a little girl of about three go behind the bus. He did not see her emerge on the other side of the bus. The driver opened the door of the vehicle and asked his former passengers, where the little girl was. She was hanging onto the back of the bus.

The little girl was taken off the bus by the passengers and placed on the sidewalk.

BOY OF THREE TRIES HAND FIXING WAGON

"Kids" are funny. One can never tell what they will do next. The other day, a young man who had reached the mature age of three sat on the front lawn of his home earnestly studying his father work over the family car.

The little gaffer sat and watched for quite some time. Finally after he had absorbed enough information on mechanics, he got up and approached his father for the loan of a wrench. The boy's father handed over a heavy wrench and the little guy went off and got his wagon.

When last seen, father was bending over the engine of his auto and the son was stretched prone beneath his wagon working the bolts with the wrench. Like father, like son.

THREE COUNTY BRIDGES WILL BE PAINTED THIS YEAR

Three bridges in the County of Hastings will get that new look after August 12, the deadline set for submission of tenders for a scraping-priming-painting operation on the structures. Bridges slated for treatment include the two-span bridge which crosses the Moira river at Tweed, Fairfield's bridge over the Moira river eight miles north of the city and the Lonsdale bridge four miles north of Marysville.

In calling for tenders, it was suggested that the finishing coat would likely be aluminum.

The hospital serves an 800-square-mile area north of Toronto.

Largest Entry in History As Fair Ready For Opening

With the opening only three days away, the stage is all set for the four-day Belleville Exhibition which this year promises to be bigger and better than ever.

Fair secretary, Thomas Walker, reports the largest entry list in the history of the fair and it is expected that all exhibition classes will be well filled when Monday, the opening day rolls around. There will be a big livestock exhibit, while there are also heavy entries in other exhibition classes

Possibly the No. 1 attraction of the fair will be on opening day, August 11th, when both afternoon and evening the famous Royal Canadian Mounted Police musical ride will be given before the grandstand.

There has been a keen demand for tickets for both performances of the event and fair officials state that additional bleachers will be constructed to accommodate as many as possible of the fair patrons desirous of seeing the famous attraction.

Also in front of the grandstand will be a stage attraction by a troupe of artists under the direction of Bill Garden, well known to Belleville fair-goers. The stage show will be given on all four days of the fair.

Conklin's Midway, the biggest attraction in Canada will be on hand with scads of rides and other attractions. On Monday, which is "Children's Day" all rides will be reduced.

Wardens to Open Fair

Official opening of the fair will be Monday evening prior to the RCMP musical ride. Warden Lee Grills of Hastings County, and Warden Calvin Hughes of Prince Edward County will share the fair's opening honors.

Another opening day attraction is the baby show which each year attracts more and more entries. This year's baby show promises to top all previous events as in addition to the entries already in a flock of last minute entries are expected.

Horse lovers will see the best in horse flesh exhibited while for the racing fans there are six classes of harness racing scheduled.

Junior events also promise to be well filled as boys and girls from Hastings and the neighboring counties demonstrate their judging abilities and showmanship.

So the stage is all set, the grounds are in shape and many of the buildings have been painted in readiness for the annual fair, claimed by officials to be the biggest four-day event of its kind in the province. All that is necessary for a successful fair-breaking attendance records is a continuance of fair weather.

With western grain approaching the harvesting stage, plans are already being made to fill the prairie labor demand and it is expected that harvest help will be recruited from Belleville within the next few weeks.

Steel Shortage Holding Up Construction of 4-Lane Road

The current steel shortage is holding up construction of the new four-lane highway which was planned for commencement this summer, it was stated yesterday by Elmer Sandercock, M. L. A. for Hastings West.

Early is the year it was announced by the highways department that construction of the stretch of four-lane highway between Trenton and Belleville would be started this year.

Quoting the Honorable George Doucett, Ontario Minister of Highways, that "nothing is more discouraging than miles of completed highway grading and no bridges." Mr. Sandercock said that steel for bridges and cloverleafs could not be secured in sufficient quantity to proceed with the work.

He pointed out that on the highway stretch between Trenton and Belleville there would be crossings over the Trent River and over the Moira, as well as cloverleaf intersections to build. Grading operations could keep pace with bridge construction once this was commenced, it was pointed out.

Mr. Sandercock said, however, that the highways department is purchasing the right-of-way for the new highway stretch north of the city.

As a result of demanding to be locked up at a recent dance, Laverne Doxsee, R.C.A.F. man, paid a fine of $10 and costs for creating a disturbance in a public place.

Phil Scott, Maynooth, paid $50 and costs on a conviction of being drunk in a public place. This was his second offence.

Two Whitney residents, Oscar Parks and Rachel Bowers, paid fines totalling $30 each plus costs, on charges of careless driving and driving without a licence, arising out of the same accident.

Wilfred Evans, Brantford, and Alec Carmichael were assessed $10 and costs each for failing to leave half of the road free to an oncoming vehicle. Evans was also convicted on a charge of driving without a licence and was fined an additional $10 plus costs.

Thorold Sutherland, Carleton Place, paid fines amounting to $40 plus costs of $7 on a careless driving conviction and an infraction of the Liquor Control Act.

Two other local men paid a fine of $10 and costs each, imposed for traffic offences.

Two counts of forgery against a Faraday township and a charge of driving while his ability was impaired against a local resident, were adjourned until August 20.

Fines and costs collected by the court totalled $259.

STRONG PLEAS

Most Rev. Ildebrando Antoniutti, Apostolic Delegate to Canada and representative of the Vatican at the conference, earlier thanked the Red Cross "for the aid it has given and is continuing to give to suffering mankind."

Ban On Atomic Weapons

Last business at the conference yesterday was the adoption of a resolution urging national societies to request their governments to support a ban on atomic weapons. The resolution, originally introduced by the Soviet delegation, had been passed by the general commission with a United Kingdom amendment.

The general commission, under the chairmanship of Andre Francois-Poncet of France approved and presented to the plenary sessions 23 resolutions during the conference.

Among them were resolutions urging ratification and application of the Geneva conventions, repatriation of victims of war, concerning international law, atomic weapons and legal assistance to refugees.

Somehow lost in the recurrent clashes between east and west were reports of work of the Red Cross. Little note was given to the news that the International Committee has sheltered 43,922 persons from Poland and 16,470 from Czechoslovakia from March, 1950, to December, 1950, until they could join relatives in Western Germany.

Much Relief Work

The League of Red Cross Societies, the federation of national societies, reported contributions of relief for refugees in Greece, Burma, Austria, France, Germany, Italy, Lebanon, Syria, Jordan and Western Germany.

In Korea, league members made available more than $1,000,000 in relief supplies and provided five medal welfare teams during 1951.

Since the 17th conference in Stockholm in 1948, the league has contributed $20,000,000 in relief assistance in connection with earthquakes in Iran, Ecuador, Peru, El Salvador, Turkey, Japan; floods in Canada, the United States, Mexico, Guatemala, Italy; typhoons in the Philippines, a mining disaster in Belgium, famine in India, Pakistan and Burma, hurricanes in Jamaica, cyclones in Martinique and avalanches in Yugoslavia.

Blind Woman Helps

HAMILTON (CP)—A blind woman came to the aid of a man who collapsed yesterday on a busy downtown street.

The tapping cane of the old lady touched the body on the sidewalk.

"There's someone lying here," she said. "Will someone tell me what's the matter?"

Then the people who had been passing by without seeming to notice went into action. The man was taken to hospital where he now is resting comfortably.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO. (CP)— Prices were mixed in early afternoon stock market trading today but industrials pushed cautiously higher.

Volume for the first three hours totalled 1,017,000 shares.

Good support buoyed all industrial sections except liquors as trading became active. Textiles, banks, refining oils, manufacturing and miscellaneous issues showed strength.

Base metals drifted lower as outnumbered gains in trading that spread fairly evenly over many issues. International Nickel, Steep Rock and Rix Athabaskan showed strength but Consolidated Smelters, Falconbridge and Noranda slipped.

Senior golds and junior producers were weak and holding companies mixed but prospects drew some speculative support. Marbenor, a prospect, was the heaviest trader, losing pennies on a turnover of more than 30,000 shares in the first three hours. Gunnar and Athone showed strength.

Selected issues in western oils traded actively. Sapphire and consolidated Rochette gained pennies in heavy turnovers.

Three More MIGs In Fifth Day Of Jet Battles

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—The United States Fifth Air force said American pilots shot down three Communist Migs today in the fifth straight day of jet battles over North Korea.

The action brought the five-day Allied toll of Russian-built jets to 18 destroyed and 19 damaged.

U.N. planes also gave powerful front-line support to ground troops who Thursday withstood the hottest day of the year—a searing 108 degrees on the western front.

On the central front, Allied planes today attacked Chinese troops who Thursday night failed to recapture rugged Capitol Hill from South Korean infantrymen.

The swift attackers by noon demolished three Red troop bunkers and silenced four gun posts, the air force said.

The steep outpost had changed hands six times in three days.

SOUTHAMPTON, England (Reuters)—Bill Thompson, 80, of Peterborough, Ont., arrived here last night for a visit with his brother Ben, 76—their first in 49 years.

The Canadian, a former Newcastle-on-Tyne man, left for London, where his brother lives after disembarking from the liner Scythia.

He is accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Lillian Seguire and his granddaughter, Joan Seguire, 19, a hospital nurse from St. Catharines, Ont.

They intend to stay for three weeks, but Mr. Thompson said tonight that would not give him time to revisit his home.

They won three games and were only nosed out of first place by a slightly lower score. At the same time another rink of Margaret Fairbairn, Mrs. Nora Kyle and Mrs. Harry Thompson as skip won the one game high score. All received lovely prizes.

On Tuesday at Deloro, Mrs. Charles Mott, Mrs. Nora Kyle with Mrs. Harry Thompson as skip went to Deloro and captured the one-game high score for the tournament.

On Thursday afternoon at the local bowling greens, Mrs. Boyle, Mrs. M. Edgar, Mrs. B. Humphries with Mrs. Gordon Vince won the afternoon play with Mrs. Frederick, Mrs. Herman, Mrs. B. O'Connor and Mrs. Charles Mott winning the lucky prize. Mrs. Cliff Argue, Mrs. C. Frederick and Mrs. W. Herman were the hostesses for the tea that followed. It was a delightful afternoon for bowling.

A rink of Harold Parker, C. B. McGuire and Walter Elliott as skip won the three-game high total at Madoc on Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Parker was a member of the rink that won the trophy last year. Nothing like being consistent. The rink won their third and final game from Archie Myers of Campbellford.

LESS TAXES—MORE MONEY

The world will watch with interest the proposals set out in Australia's budget which provides for substantial tax reductions while increasing pensions and social welfare allowances. In announcing his budget. Treasury Chief Sir Arthur Fadden expressed the hope that the tax revisions would serve as an incentive to investors, businessmen and the country as a whole for further development of Australia.

Among the items on which government taxes have been reduced is income tax, the budget providing for the abolition of a special 10 percent income tax levy imposed last year. Company taxes have also been reduced, along with taxes on so-called "luxury" items.

Businessmen have long argued that high taxes stifle business and when business sags, unemployment results. With reasonable taxes, business may continue to operate and this results in greater employment. With more people working, the tax load is shared more evenly and a greater volume of taxes finds its way to the treasury.

Like Canada, Australia is a new country rich in undeveloped natural resources. Today, the Treasury Chief told parliament, there was a need to promote the free enterprise system to develop its country and free enterprise cannot survive under an excessive tax burden.

Although moderate tax reductions have been made by the Canadian government, further reductions are indeed possible because already the greatest surplus in the history of the country is anticipated. A treasury surplus retards the development of a country because it is evidence of excessive taxation—taxation which could be put to better use if left in the hands of private investors.

It is hoped that the Australian government has sparked a trend which will become popular with other governments. Tax reductions will always be welcomed by those whose dollars must pay the taxes.

THE LIGHT OF DAY

An English miss who recently recovered her sight after spending 17 of her 18 years in darkness, finds the world a frightening place today. But what frightens this young lady is not the communist menace or the tension in the Middle East or the horror of the atomic bomb. Instead, she found her terror after seeing a horse for the first time. Of a fried egg, she declared its appearance at breakfast made her ill.

Perhaps it is reasonable to suppose that within the next few weeks, horses and eggs will cease to be frightening to this young woman. During the interval she may have an opportunity to see more horses and more fried eggs. Then she may see beauty instead of fear.

This once-blind girl's reactions to her first encounter with the commonplace provides an object lesson to those who see with eyes yet are blind. Often misunderstanding or prejudice is a blinding influence which is only erased by knowledge and tolerance. Perhaps a horse frightened this English girl because she had never before seen a horse. Similarly, those possessed of eyes may see beauty in all things.

TORONTO'S IMPORTANCE GROWS

A short time ago, the New York Times, which is not easily excited, expressed something like amazement when a seat on the Toronto Stock Exchange sold for $75,000, as compared with a price of $44,000 which a New York Stock Exchange seat had brought just previously.

Well, since then another seat on the Toronto Stock Exchange has been sold. This time, the price, according to the Toronto Telegram, was $90,000.

It is true that one or two swallows do not make a summer, but it is also true that these stock exchange seat prices indicate that Toronto, as a financial centre, is becoming a really big town, even if it still has a long way to go before it equals New York.

Perhaps some day in the dim future the expression "Bay Street" may pass into the language and replace "Wall Street" as a synonym for "great concentration of wealth and financial power."

It is popular in some circles to refer to Toronto as "Hogtown," but that, we think, is not a very desirable attitude. Toronto is really the Queen City and those of us who live in the smaller centres of Ontario should take pride in the fact that our capital is right up there among the great cities of the world, outranking many that are much larger in both population and area.

The islands of the Canadian Arctic contain considerable deposits of coal, varying from lignite to bituminous.

JUST FOLKS

SMALL BOY TROUBLE

Time was I lived the summer through
A strange, bald-headed lad,
And "bald head" is description true.
No hair to comb I had
"Just clip it off!" my mother said.
"'Twill keep him neat and cool.
No boy needs hair upon his head
Until it's time for school."

Care follows care, as life has proved.
'Tis plain exempt is none.
When one ordeal has been removed Another follows on.
The mother, done with tousled
hair,
Had this despair to meet,
Since I went barefoot
everywhere:
Two very dirty feet.

Through pools of rain and mud
I'd slosh.
Before she'd let me dine,
My mother ordered me to wash
Those awful feet of mine.
From bad to worse her worry led,
Which seems to be the rule.
"I will be glad," the mother said,
"When it is time for school."

COST OF ADMIRATION

What kind of "grown-up folks" do the young people admire?

Many would say that they admire most the good-natured, easy-going, tolerant, broadminded adults who take life easy themselves and want life to be easy for everybody else.

But you are dead wrong, brother, if you think so. The people who are really admired by young and old alike are the people who are demanding—who toe the line themselves and make everybody else toe the line. The good-natured, easy-going person has nobody's respect least of all the respect of young people. The type of person universally admired is the person who believes something and who stubbornly sticks to his beliefs and is demanding both on himself and everyone else.

But the thing everybody requires in exchange for his admiration is that the admired person be sincere and just. Everybody hates a hypocrite and a compromiser. Everybody is ready to gang-up on the chap who acts one way with one person and a different way with another person.

Be just and sincere, and everybody, even your enemies, will admire you. Human beings do not want to be indulged; they just want to be treated with dignity and fairness. What all persons in this world want is a fair deal and a sincere appreciation of their personal worth.

Letter to the Editor

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

One who knows humbly but a little of what "the considered opion of the residents of Britain, is, trembles to challenge your recent editorial: "An Unjust Charge."

The writer, who has spent nearly four years of a Canadian life in Britain, suggests to you that the writer of this editorial should ponder current events rather than browse in the archives of history. The Manchester Guardian was not only justified but morally correct in directing this stinging rebuke to our Canada.

If one judges from your editorial, the yardstick of values is the dollar sign. It is democratic, or at least democracy claims the right, of disagreement. So I therefore claim that higher than "value" is "worth." And this is the point of the Manchester Guardian.

What is the worth of our British family of nations? What, I say, is the worth of this association and not the value of the balance of trade?

The record, you say, is in terms of billions. No record, Mr. Editor, has ever existed and if the debt and credit do not balance your record is folly. You point to the record of a gift. I say that a gift given for—and only for—a mundane profit, is in essence a loss.

For all its shortcomings, what is British is still a contender in man's competitive effort to improve his position. You state "that is the record." You are wrong, very, very wrong. The record is that every conceivable subtle effort is being made to segregate our Dominion to an aloof position in the family of nations. The Pacific is meeting and have we not a half-continent of coast line? Is Canada there? NATO, you may say, but why and where are the billions going?

The record is summed up in one word "appeasement." The record is that this government has refused ironically and complacently to sit in as a partner to the complex and the mighty destiny of her sisters in Australia, New Zealand, India and back to the Mother of Nations in Westminster.

And more, let me say here and now, that for all our present and bubbling prosperity, and hundreds of millions of surplus, that the reason the Manchester Guardian was correct is simply because dollars cannot and never will defeat ethics. With all due respect to the politics of our southern cousins, let us cling fast to the majesty of conception, conceived in the birth of our Commonwealth. The child is conceived and for months develops. Britain is 1,000 years old and has handed down her best for a better world. We have lost the word "Royal" on our post office and if it pleases the "little men," then God bless them. But the point again is that they achieved their little vanity under the justice of what we believe is British.

So I repeat. Your editorial in one Canadian's opinion is just petty. The Manchester Guardian was right. It is a question of ethics and honesty vs billions. We are still vastly in debt to the Shaftsburys' etc., the great moral leadership that has come out of that island nation. It does not rest on a question of servitude but on a question of leadership and Britain still leads even though her bread basket is skimpy.

John M. Haig,

Inspector Says Food at Hospital Generally Good

WINDSOR (CP)—An Ontario government hospital inspector yesterday described maintenance and food service at the 350-bed East Windsor Hospital for Incurables as "generally good."

But he told a provincial government commission which is investigating the hospital's affairs that there are too few-registered nurses on the staff and that hospital superintendent Dr. P. J. G. Morgan's duties are too heavy for one man.

Dr. M. E. J. Stalken, who inspected the hospital at the commission's request, said the hospital is well-maintained and clean throughout. There were supplies of bedding and linen adequate for any number of bed changes.

He said that though there were only two registered nurses on the hospital's staff at the time of his inspection last week, the care of patients was "extremely good." He felt that a minimum of four registered nurses should be on duty at all times.

Dr. Morgan's duties, which involved administering the hospital and looking after the patients, were "too much to expect of one man."

The inquiry, now in its 11th week, is continuing.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

August is the hastiest month of all. It fairly races by, as though beckoned by September. Viewed from a little distance, say, from May or June, August appears to be the richest, ripest, most leisurely of the month. On the calendar, it looks as if it were the very heart of summer. It has a matronly, a mature quality about it. It should walk sedately. It should have pauses and rests in it. It should linger.

But instead, it hustles and hastes. Once you are into August, you become so aware of September that you find yourself watching out the windows for it. Even more than autumn, August has the feeling of departure in it. The famed August moon has really no peace and quiet in it. It is a sad moon, a large, melancholy moon that seems to stare at you with regret. When we say that a person goes mooning about, it is the August moon we have in mind.

The bale winds of August have a pushing quality about them, as though they were intent upon shoving summer off on its way, to make room "for" what comes next. They tug and twist at the trees, as though to see if the leaves were ready for their falling. They rouse and stir the lakes and streams to freshen them for the long, still job they soon have to face.

August is matronly, all right, but a matron with a mop and duster, announcing that the year is already two-thirds gone, and demanding that everybody be up and about the job. It warns the children that school starts in three weeks, and they had better get their socks on. It bustles and thumps about the house, to stir up the women and remind them they should get the pickle jars counted, and the preserving kettles checked over. August is a busybody, with her eye on the calendar; which is worse than having one's eye on the clock.

Those who took their holidays in August should be allowed a rebate. For in August, the summer cottagers are already getting the shutters out from under the verandah, and starting to tidy up the boathouse. The summer hotels and tourist camps are starting to make lists of what they will need next season. August is too forehanded to be restful.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Signed Letters, Not More Than One Page, or 100 Words Long, Pertaining to Personal Health and Hygiene, Not to Disease, Diagnosis or Treatment, Will be Answered by Dr. Brady if a Stamped, Self-Addressed Envelope is Enclosed, Etc.

LET'S COMBINE TWO DAYS

At our house, I am happy to note, Father's Day passed without incident. You see about a week before the Day the old geezer begins talking. Well, perhaps not that exactly, but begins to get off snide remarks about synthetic sentimentality and the gullibility of he public. This derisive atmosphere tends to keep dad's collection of neckties and pipes free from 59c specimens.

As for Mother's Day, well, perhaps the spirit and motive of the founder was honest and fine, but don't bother us about it now — can't you see we're trying to get out these orders?

A member of the medical or obstetrical staff of a nineteenth century institution filed an indignant protest against this column, not with me but with the editor, for a statement I made here recently to the effect that—

"The chief reason why these antiquated institutions set up 'rules' excluding the husband when his baby is being born is that the doctors, nurses . . . can get away with malpractice, errors, gross negligence . . ."

If any doctor of standing can cite a good reason for excluding the expectant father I'll give it equal presentation here.

In twentieth century hospitals the expectant father is not only permitted but urged to remain with his wife as much of the time as possible, before, during and after birth of their baby. This is indeed the essential feature of rooming-in and natural childbirth, which has proved so successful wherever adopted.

A superintendent of nurses or maybe of the hospital said in an open letter to a midwestern paper that "The doctors and nurses in the delivery room are far too busy to stop and take care of fainting husbands." What! Another Laura Jean Libbey?

Perhaps it was in her hospital or one close by that the husband was persuaded to go home (30 miles away) with the promise that they would call him when the time came. As soon as the poor geek had left the premises an entire class of pupil nurses was led in and one after another permitted to examine the patient —for their benefit, not for the patient's benefit. Yet, a hackneyed argument of the old timers is that the mere presence of the husband in the delivery room or at his wife's side when the baby is born might infect the rigidly aseptic environment (haw-haw).

That bit of malpractice just goes to show what may happen in lying-in institutions that cling to the nineteenth century system.

Once again I recommend as a primer for every expectant father and mother—Preparing for Maternity, booklet by Ol' Doc Brady, for which send 25c and stamped, self-addressed enveloppe.

As required reading for the expectant mother I recommend Dr. Grantly Dick Read's famous book Childbirth Without Fear, published by Harper & Bros.

For doctors and nurses not yet familiar with the new obstetrics I recommend Briefs, published six times each year by Maternity Center Association, 654 Madison Ave., New York, 21, N. Y.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

LOCALITIES

It doesn't matter much where we may be at any time. It isn't the locality that is important but how we divest ourselves to that locality—entering its moods, its beauty, its interests, and its overall. We are happy when we love, see, and enjoy, no matter where that place may be.

The little town, or place where we were born, remains as the most cherished of any other, no matter how later places may appear as an attraction. Our youthful memories remain as the clearest and most loved. I once read that those who send in their brief biographies for "Who's who In America" fake pride in mentioning their humble origin!

My memory goes back to many a famous birthplace, planted tree, or other memorial, that marks the locality of some one who has risen in the world and put the stamp of his personality upon the pages of history. It is well that we are hero worshipers. We need the example of ideals to give us a perpetual uplift in life.

Traveling in a southern part of the United States many years ago I came to a spot where there was nothing but a beautiful tree with an iron fence about it. I was intrigued and so stopped my car and went to see what it was all about. There was a sign that stated that this tree and small area was dedicated to the Lord. To myself I said: Why not? Both the small parcel and the tree were a creation of the Creator, so what more natural than to deed and dedicate it all back to its original owner!

Traveling about the country—any country—we are constantly coming across signs that explain some historic interest. This is fine. It is an education and it keeps up inspired over the courage and brave deeds of our fellow human beings. They remind us of Longfellow's famous poem about those who leave behind them "footprints on the sands of time."

The memory of endless localities stream through our consciousness as time goes on. Their influence upon us is great. With Tennyson's "Ulysses" we can say: "I am a part of all that I have met."

Sunday School Lesson:

When Panic Makes Us Fools

By ROY L. SMITH

The casual reader of the Old Testament is apt to get the impression that the Hebrews were the beneficiaries of a series of miracles which would have made any nation successful, in spite of itself. But the careful student of the scripture discovers that the problems the little nation faced were very much the same problems modern men must solve. This week's Sunday school lesson is an excellent illustration.

Disorder Into Order

The period of Hebrew history which followed their wanderings in the wilderness is one of the most unusual in all their long career. There was no organized government, no currency, no established courts of law, no cohesion, no central force or authority among them. Powerful and capable personalities administered justice according to a simple code, and disputes between individuals were adjudicated with a remarkable measure of justice. But because of the disorganized state of the people any determined enemy could have wiped them out of existence with little difficulty.

The Cry for a King

Many of the farther-sighted citizens realized the absolute necessity of organization for the sake of mutual defence and protection, and as a consequence a cry went up all over the land for a king. "We must have a strong central government," the people said, and they were right. But the rivalries among the tribes, and the inexperience of the people, made the establishment of any government an extremely difficult matter. A people who have never learned to submit to discipline find it extremely irksome. Local leaders were quick to see that a strong central leader might replace them or absorb their powers. It is always hard to get a man of privilege to surrender, even for the sake of the majority.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for August 10: "The Beginning of the Kingdom," 1 Samuel 9—13.

God Found a Man

When the situation began to be desperate, the most honored and respected citizen among them—the prophet Samuel — chose a young man out of the smallest of all the tribes, and put him through a ceremony which was supposed to name him to be the king. The young man had great personal charm, and a long list of weaknesses. He was, however, the best man in sight and far above the average of the nation's citizens. If the people had been even as good as Saul, on the average, they could have been a great nation under his leadership. The weakness of no government is confined to its leadership alone.

Three Fatal Weaknesses

The little nation caried three fatal weaknesses within it as it undertook to become a state! (1) the people were not united; (2) they were dependent upon their enemies for the military defences; (3) and they lacked a great faith in themselves.

Within an hour after Saul was anointed king the critics and the disgruntled got into action. Others said, "Now we have a king; let the government do it." They had allowed the enemies to disarm them until there was scarcely a spear or a sword to be found in all the land. When faced by the terrible might of the Philistines, they were thrown into a panic of terror and helplessness. Without a faith, they had no spirit to sustain them. It always works that way when the people have no faith.

Paganism of Panic

Professor William E. Hocking once said, "Panic is pagan." Certainly nothing has made more men fools. This lesson is intended to show us what Saul had to contend with, and what every leader has to contend with, when the people have no great confidence in a God of right and justice. It is much more than a matter of theology: it is a question of preservation. No nation has ever survived the loss of its religious faith. No nation ever will. Good religion is the only cure in all the world for panic.

Weddings

HANNAH—DESBARBIEUX

CAMPBELLFORD. — Theresa Madelaine Joanne Desbarbieux became the bride of Philip Charles Austin Hannah in a pretty ceremony in St. Mary's Church in Campbellford, Saturday morning. She is the daughter of Mrs. Desbarbieux, of Campbellford, and the late Henry Desbarbieux. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hedley Hannah, of Foxboro. The altar was decorated with gladioli.

Miss Marie Crosson rendered the wedding music.

The bride was frocked in traditional white satin with a full skirt under Chantilly lace with a long flowing train. Her veil was of nylon net caught to a crown of rhinestones and seed pearls and she carried a cascade of gardenia roses. She was given in marriage by her eldest brother, Joseph Desbarbieux.

The maid of honor was Miss Mary Desbarbieux, sister of the bride, gowned in blue nylon net over taffeta. The bridesmaids were Miss Theresa McGuire, of Kinmount, and Miss Mavis Hannah, of Foxboro. They wore pale mauve and green dresses with matching mittens and headdresses of matching roses, lily-of-the-valley and nylon net, and carried cascades of contrasting gladioli.

Flower girl was Gloria Desbarbieux, niece of the bride, frocked in a floor-length dress of rose nylon net over taffeta with matching headdress, and carrying Sweetheart roses and sweetpeas.

The Rev. J. Hickey of Peterborough performed the double-ring ceremony. Both he and the Rev. J. C. Moloney, of St. Mary's, Campbellford, spoke briefly at the reception held after the ceremony at Kay's Dining Hall in Campbellford.

The bride, a former resident of Campbellford, has lived in Peterborough for the past six years.

The couple left on a wedding trip to New York City, returning by way of Windsor and Detroit. They will live on Charlotte St., in Peterborough.

ALLEN—PETRIE

Before an altar and chancel banked with baskets of pink and white gladioli interspersed with ferns, on Saturday, August 2nd, at 3:00 p.m., a lovely wedding was solemnized in St. Thomas' Anglican Church, Belleville, when Archdeacon Arthur Smith, rector of the church, united in marriage, Marilyn Louise Petrie, of Belleville, daughter of Mrs. Pauline Petrie, to Raymond John Allen, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Allen.

Mrs. J. B. Ledingham, guest organist, rendered the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Richard Malley, of Belleville, the bride was charmingly attired in a bridal gown fashioned with molded, strapless bodice, of white net over blush pink net and taffeta having an over-jacket of white Chantilly lace buttoned to the neckline with small Peter Pan collar and long sheath-like sleeves. The floor-length bouffant crinoline-effect skirt featured an overskirt of tiers of white net over blush pink. Her finger-tip veil of tulle illusion was held by a matching cap of Chantilly lace edged with tiny, pink lily-of-the-valley and she carried a semi-cascade bouquet of Hildegarde roses, stephanotis and adiantum fern, tied with white lacelon ribbon.

Miss Barbara Alexander, of Belleville, was bridesmaid, gowned in powder blue nylon net over taffeta with matching hat and mitts. She carried a bow-adorned basket of pastel-tinted gladioli florets, baby 'mums, white stephanotis and blue cornflowers.

Mr. Gerald Semark, of Belleville, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was groomsman, while Mr. James Zakos, cousin of the bridegroom, and Mr. Wilfred Reid, uncle of the bridegroom, were ushers.

The bride's mother chose a gown of navy blue sheer and Chantilly lace with corsage of pink rosette roses and white accessories for her daughter's reception. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore mauve figured nylon gown with mauve and white accessories and corsage of yellow Gloria roses.

For her going-away costume, the bride chose a moss green suit with white accessories and corsage of salmon-pink Chief Tacoma carnations. Mr. and Mrs. Allen will reside in Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were present from Belgium, N.Y.; Baldwinsville, N.Y.; Syracuse, N.Y.; Campbellford and Stirling.

Prior to her marriage the bride was the guest at several showers given in her honor: a kitchen shower by Miss Melissa Reid, James Street; a miscellaneous shower, by Miss Shelia Keegan, Church Street, and a personal shower given by Miss Barbara Alexander Church Street.

FITZGERALD—REID

The Rev. J. M. Murphy officiated at the marriage of Delia Anne, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Reid, of Deloro, and the late Thomas Reid, to Diarmuid Joseph, son of Mr. and Mrs. John FitzGerald of Toronto. The wedding took place in St. Thomas Aquinas chapel, Toronto.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Thomas Reid. She wore a floor-length gown of white nylon tulle over taffeta with fitted lace bodice and long pointed sleeves. Her finger-tip veil was held in place by a lace headdress. She carried a cascade bouquet of white gladioli.

Bridesmaids were: Miss Mary Lundy and Miss Susan Cawker, cousin of the bride. They were gowned alike in pink net over taffeta with matching halo hats and carried nosegays of pink roses and white carnations.

Master Tom Reid and Miss Victoria Vodden, nephew and niece of the bride, were ring bearers.

Miss Doris Wallace, of the Leslie Bell Singers, was soloist.

Mr. Harold Merlin was groomsman and ushers were, Mr. George Gorrie and Mr. Michael Lundy.

At the reception, held at the Newman Club, the bride's mother received, wearing a gown of blue nylon mesh with navy accessories, assisted by the bridegroom's mother wearing a gown of dusky rose crepe with black accessories.

For travelling, the bride wore a shantung suit dress with navy accessories. After a trip to eastern points, the couple will live in Toronto.

Sunday School Picnics

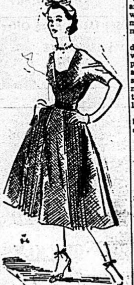
HOLY TRINITY CHURCH

SHANNONVILLE.—Point Anne Park was the scene of a lively picnic Thursday, recently, when the Sunday School of Holy Trinity Church, Shannonville, together with their mothers and friends, arrived by chartered bus.

After the picnic lunch, the children enjoyed a program of swimming and running races. Prize winners for the races were as follows: senior—Gary Goodfellow, Gloria Whittle, Earl Spencer; junior—Ruth Angevine, Billy Brant, Linda Marian; primary—David Lewis, Larry Lewis, Mary Whittle.

A peanut scramble and candy for everyone provided a happy conclusion to the festivities before the bus carried the happy picnickers back to Shannonville.

Cotton Aristocrats



By VERA WINSTON

WHAT we enjoyed about the good cottons of this summer is the care with which so many were cut and detailed, the sort of thing usually associated with a good black suit or fine silk dress. Such is the case with this one, done in tiny pink and white checked cotton, a good choice for afternoon wear. It has a wide open V neckline and molded midriff to the bodice. The sleeves are in one with the rounded shoulder line. A matching buttoned front gilet fills in the front. There are clustered pleats on the fully flared skirt. A patent leather belt has matching fabric buttons.

FAMILIAR ROUTINE

LONDON (CP)—James Holiday, 55-year-old registrar, had only one more ceremony to attend after performing his 13th wedding of the day. Like most of the 15,000 weddings he has managed since 1936, his own marriage to Dorothy Smith went off without a hitch.

Harmony Music Club Honors Miss E. Veley With Personal Shower

Last night, at the home of Mrs. Charles Scott, Madoc Road, a most delightful time was spent when about 50 members of the Harmony Music Club met to honor Miss Eunice Veley, bride of next month, with a personal shower.

The evening was spent in the making of a bride's book, playing various games, with a generous sprinkling of musical numbers, which included a piano duet "The Witches' Flight", by Sandra and Dianne Kenny; Shubert's "Serenade", by Miss Grace Veley, and an amusing wedding skit with Mrs. Scott as the officiating minister which afforded much merriment.

Following the skit, a beautifully decorated doll's carriage in pink was wheeled in by two little people, Master Allestine Scott and his sister, Heather, and presented to the bride-to-be who most graciously expressed her thanks and appreciation for each lovely gift as it was unwrapped.

Fashion Flashes

SOMETHING VERY different in overblouses will be on the market later on. It is the fabric overblouse with a deep, ribknit section. Dull rayon jersey is the fabric used for one such blouse, draped in deep folds with a plunging V neckline. The wool-knit midriff pulls down to the hipline, or can be folded up to a cuff. Deep, batwing sleeves.

FILLING IN scoop necklines of summer clothes is easy, what with those handsome bead bibs now being shown. Beautiful with a tan is a bib of chalk white porcelain beads, as is a similar design in black beads with touches of gold in the form of tiny rondels. Pearl bibs for later on!

CAREFUL ATTENTION to styling and new touches—that's the happy story on this season's crop of nylon gloves. Smart enough for any costume is a finger-free shortie of 40-denier nylon embroidered with big, multi-colored coin dots on the back.

GETTING SIMPLER to organize all the time is the handbag. A major contribution to a neater handbag is a new model whose entire front panel lifts up like a flap to uncover separate compartments for money, cosmetics, cigarets and extras, each compartment neatly lettered in gold on its lift-up flap.

TRADING UP from the budget group is the snap-on cover for hand bags, to make one bag do the work of two or more. For instance, we noted a fine satchel-type bag of calfskin, shown with a snap-on cover of heavy ribbed silk in a polka dot pattern; red on white for a blue bag, black on beige for a black bag.

A COLORFUL foundation need not necessarily apply to cosmetics, because, come fall, colorful new girdles and bras will make their debut. For instance, there's a black girdle with stitching and embroidery of cerise and chartreuse. Then there's a beige satin-and-elastic girdle with brown floral embroidery, and a brown one with leaf green touches.

Grandma Darling At 94 Darling Of Household

CALGARY (CP)—Grandma Darling may be 94 every other day of the week, but Friday nights she flips on the radio, pushes a chair or two into a corner and is 17 again.

She is the darling of the Harry Wesley Darling household at James River Bridge near Sunder, 55 miles northwest of here.

Despite her 94 years, she is always in fine spirits, she still wants to wash the family dishes, and take a keen interest in the activities of the 158-acre farm operated by her son.

But this tiny bit of a woman reaches her peak of vitality every Friday night. For a half hour she dances around the living room to the radio music of an old-time band. Where many would be worn out in 15 minutes, Grandma Darling easily lasts the full half hour.

Grandma Darling is Mrs. Martha Darling. She came to Alberta with her husband Thomas Darling in 1911 and they homesteaded a mile away from the present Darling farm. They had 10 children.

When Mr. Darling died in 1934, Grandma Darling moved in with her son and his family at James River Bridge.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A girl who is heading straight for trouble

Dear Miss Fairfax:

At 17, I find myself very much in love with a man about 14 years older than I am. I was in love with him long before I learned that he had a wife and two children. He does not see very much of his wife as he is away from home a lot.

Recently, though, his wife found us together, and he refused to leave me and go home with her, but after she had left us he bawled me out for coming to see him and letting her catch us, as he says that she will cause me a lot of trouble on account of my age. So then he walked off and left me, too.

I am very much in love with him and I don't want to lose him, because I know that I can never forget him. He tells me he loves me, too, and that he is happy when he is in my company, but since his wife found out about us I have not seen him very often lately and I know that he hasn't taken any step toward getting a divorce. I have heard that his wife is considering leaving him on account of me. He has given me reason to believe, though, that he still wants my company.

Can you give me some advice, and do you believe that he loves me?—Miss O.

Dear Miss O:

How much advice do you need before you will let a married man alone?

Of course I don't believe he loves you. He is simply typical of the kind of man who enjoys playing up to young girls, and that is a very dangerous kind of man for you to have anything to do with. If you don't know this already—and you should at 17—then you'd better learn it immediately.

Now that his wife has found him out, you have become a nuisance and a hazard to him, and he is obviously trying to brush you off. He doesn't do it once and for all, but is evidently trying to break off gradually, because he is afraid you might make trouble for him. If you don't think enough of yourself to put an end to this thing immediately, you will be in trouble whether you make it for yourself or whether his wife makes it for you.

Why let a boy make a convenience of you?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 16 years old and very infatuated with a boy of 18.

The trouble is that when we are alone I believe he really loves me, but when there are others around you'd think I wasn't even there. I am beginning to think he just wants me as someone to tell his troubles to, though when we are by ourselves he says things that make me go around in circles.

Should I stay away from him I love him very much, but will do whatever you think best.—S.

Dear S.:

Why bother with boy who does not care enough about you to treat you courteously at all times?

If you like him enough to put up with his rudeness in public, that's your own affair, but I do not see how a girl can get much fun out of a relationship with a boy who just makes a convenience of her whenever he happens to feel like it. I'm sure if you don't waste your time waiting around for him to feel like seeing you, you can find other boy friends who will be more satisfactory.

Don't you agree?

Food for Thought

Readers' Friday Column

By Mary Moore

QUESTION:

Here's another Mad Hatter in your fan mail, and was I ever tickled to read that you had visited here. It made you seem so much more like a real person, than just a picture in a news column.

I wonder if you have a recipe for marshmallow sauce as an ice cream garnish. I had one years ago—a sugar and water syrup with diced marshmallows cut into it, that formed a thick sauce—but lost it, and have never been able to dream it up properly since.

Also a good relish for meat sandwiches (peppers, onions, etc.). My Pete is working in a brick yard this summer hoping to earn enough to go to University this fall. He only gets 1-2 hour for lunch and can't come home, so you should see the lunches I pack! He says he'll be in prime shape to play rugby; but I'll swear he gets greatest amount of exergets his greatest amount of exercise lugging that lunch pail forth and back. . . I have quite a scrapbook of your recipes. . . I can distinguish between what would be a suitable dish for my gang and what wouldn't. ("What the heck is this guck?") . . . a hearty pat on the back for a splendid job.—Eloise S. N.

P.S.—Do you have this recipe in your "young bride" file? I started making it for my man 15 years ago and it's still his favorite:

CHOCOLATE SQUARES

(Contributed by Eloise.)

One and one-half cups brown sugar, 1-4 lb. butter or less, 2 eggs, 1 full cup flour, 2 heaping tablespoons cocoa, salt, vanilla, 1-2 cup walnuts. Cream sugar, butter—add eggs beating in one at a time. Add cocoa—salt, vanilla—then flour and walnuts. Pat into cake pan. Put icing on when cake is hot out of oven: Icing—2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons cocoa, 2 tablespoons cream, icing sugar (to make of spreading consistency), vanilla.—E. S. N.

ANSWER:

Thanks for the Chocolate Squares. My! We are kindred spirits aren't we? Both with a Pete starting at University this Fall. Both boys working at back-breaking he-man's jobs. My Pete is working in the open hearth department of the Steel Company. He eats twice as much as anyone I know. I had a grand welcome in your city.

MARSHMALLOW SAUCE

Put in saucepan 1-2 cup sugar, 1-2 cup water and 1-4 teaspoon cream stir until sugar is dissolved and then boil to 230 deg. Fahr.—extremely soft ball stage. Remove from heat and add 12 cut up marshmallows, let stand until marshmallows are melted, then pour slowly over 1 egg white stiffly beaten, beating all of the time. As soon as syrup is added pour into jar, cool at room temperature, cover and keep at room temperature.

GREEN RELISH

(Uncooked)

To one-half medium sized cabbage chopped fine (or ground) add 1 quart ripe peeled tomatoes cut in eighths, 2 green peppers chopped fine after seeding, 10 small onions sliced or chopped, 1 cup chopped parsley, 1 cup chopped celery, 2 oz. mustard seed, 1-3 cup salt, 2 cups sugar, 1 cup water, 2 cups vinegar. Mix all together, and stir until sugar is dissolved. This may be kept cold in crock in a good cellar, covered or canned cold in jars and sealed. If desired, the sugar and vinegar may be heated together and poured over boiling hot, just before sealing the relish in jars.

QUESTION:

Would you be kind enough to give me a good mustard pickle—sweet—. I have never been able to find one similar to that pickle which one buys in the stores and that's the one I particularly like.—Marjorie R.

ANSWER:

I can't quite guess which commercially packed mustard pickle you mean, but here is a recipe like my mother used and is a prize.

SWEET MUSTARD PICKLE

I would be grateful if other readers would clip this now as it will be much in demand in another month.

Three quarts small cucumbers, 2 large cauliflowers, 3 quarts pickling onions, 3 red peppers, 3 quarts vinegar, 4 or 6 cups brown sugar, 1-2 tablespoon salt, 1-2 cup flour, 2 tablespoons pepper, 1-2 teaspoon cayenne, 2 tablespoons mustard seed, 1 1-2 tablespoons turmeric, 1 cup dry mustard. Wash cucumbers; cut if necessary. Wash cauliflower and break into small flowerets. Wash and peel onions; cut peppers in strips. Put in separate bowls, cover with hot brine (1-2 cup salt to 1 quart boiling water) and let stand overnight. Drain. Heat vinegar to boiling. Mix sugar, flour and seasonings, stir vinegar slowly into them and cook until thick. Add drained vegetables and cook 5 minutes. Bottle and seal. If you have cold cellars this may be kept in covered crock.

GOOD MANNERS

Excellent idea. . . for groom's cousin to give rehearsal dinner

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My cousin is a groom-to-be next month in this city where I live. I know his fiancee and her parents quite well, although we are not intimate friends. I had been thinking about giving a bridal shower for his fiancee. But since I am his only relative living in this city, do you think it would be better to give the rehearsal dinner? If you approve of my giving the rehearsal dinner, whom should I invite?—M. C.

A perfect plan for you to give this rehearsal dinner. I am sure your cousin would be delighted and mighty proud of your kind and generous suggestion. . . and I am sure too that his fiancee and her family would also be extremely pleased. For you, relative of the prospective groom, to give a bridal shower would not be in good taste. . . but it is in excellent taste for a relative of the groom to give the rehearsal dinner. . . Consult first, of course, with your cousin, then with his fiancee's family. . . .Your invitations must include not only the wedding attendants, but also, of course, the fiancee's mother and father, the hosts of the wedding, you and your husband, the hosts of the party, and the groom's mother and father, if they are to be at the wedding. Then you may invite, if you wish, any others who are closely concerned with the wedding. (And remember if a dinner before the rehearsal is not convenient for most, you may with equal propriety give a supper, seated or buffet, before or after the rehearsal.)

For the bride to wear. . .rhinestones vs pearls

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My oldest sister is to be married next month in a Catholic ceremony at 9 o'clock in the morning; then the reception from 2 to 4 in the afternoon. My mother is questioning this part of her costume: whether it is proper or in good taste for my sister, the bride, to wear a rhinestone necklace and earrings.—R.

There's no definite rule as to just what type of jewelry the bride wears, and it is "proper" for your sister to wear rhinestone necklace and earrings if she especially wishes to. But I imagine your mother feels (and I agree) that pearls are more gracious and more gentle, softer, and therefore more appropriate for a bride to wear. There is an obvious reason why brides from time immemorial have chosen to wear pearls. . . .and, by-th-by, today there are excellent and not too expensive imitation pearls.

BEAUTY

Slenderizing the ankles.

By selecting the right kind of clothes and wearing the right colors, the heavyweight can camouflage her superfluous inches to a certain degree. But she can't do a thing about her ankles. There they are, bulky and big, and there is no health in them. Every time she draws on her nylons she thinks that life has served her a mean deal. Of course, life hasn't had anything to do with it. If she had used a little restraint when partaking of the good things of the table, if she had managed to get in a little corrective exercise every day, she would not be patronizing the "stylish stouts" department. To her the word stout is the most horrible one in the English language.

She should cut down on fats, sweets and starches, which she probably loves, and which she should not have because they are busy builders of adipose tissue. No cream or sugar in coffee. No cereals, pastries, fat meat. Not more than one pat of butter a day. She can have lean meat, fish that is not fat, vegetables, fruit and fruit juices, buttermilk, cottage cheese.

Ten minutes a day of corrective exercise will strengthen the muscles of the calves and ankles that have lost tone. When they are normalized, fat cells will go off and die; they don't like activity, can't stand it.

Here is an exercise that brings happy results, though our heavyweight may find it a bit difficult at first.

Stand tall. Lift the hands high while coming up on the toes. Your feet should be fairly wide apart. Up, down on the heels four or five times. On the next down movement, spread the knees, crouch down as far as you can. Then repeat the first movements. In course of time you should be able to let the buttocks rest on your heels. When rising, pull hard on all the muscles of your body. You may take a tumble, but what of it? You are working in a noble cause.

Massage will help reduce thick ankles if it is heavy and long continued. Don't expect results over night. Sit on a low stool, one foot on another stool. Spread cocoa butter over the palms of your hands. Smooth up and down from instep to calf. Pick up the flesh, pinch it and roll it to dissolve the fat cells. This treatment is given with success in reducing salons. Finish with an ice friction.

Simple menu for buffet breakfast after morning wedding . . .one hot dish

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you please suggest a menu for the wedding breakfast to be served after my daughter's summer, church wedding? Service at 12:30. Simplest possible menu for buffet service—with one hot dish.—Bride's Mother.

For the one hot dish, chicken is the best—a la King or creamed on toast. With this serve small finger rolls (opened, slightly buttered, then heated) and/or small, slim bread-and-butter sandwiches and/or assorted sandwiches with simple "cool" fillings. For the dessert course, ice cream and cookies, or small cakes. Coffee. . . choice of hot coffee and/or iced coffee or ice tea.

Monster 'Lunge Breaks Line Swims Along Boats and Says Goodbye With Flap of Tail

Campbellford—Bill Watson, a police sergeant from St. Catharines, hooked a 'monster' 'lunge here on Friday evening, when assisted by numerous other anglers, he battled it in Bradley Bay, south of this town.

Mr. Watson was trolling the bay when the big fellow struck, and played him for two hours trying to tire him, during which time the fish did not break water.

Another boat came alongside to watch the big fish landed after about the first half hour. Watson's outboard ran out of gas and he was taken aboard another boat operated by Leroy Good, of Detroit. When that boat ran out of gas, a man identified only as "Mr. Manning" used his boat as the base of operations.

After two hours, the fish broke water and the men in the boats could plainly see it was a monster 'lunge. For 35 minutes the fish jumped and played, towing the boat first one way and then another, until finally seeming to tire of the sport, the 'lunge came close to the boat, leaped from the water, broke the line, then swam among the various boats nearby. He finally disappeared with an enormous flap of his tail on the still waters of the bay and the men in the 20 or 25 boats that had gathered, didn't see him again.

Observers who saw the fish all agree that it was by far the largest they had seen in some time. "It must have been close to six feet long if it was an inch", said L. Good, of Detroit. Estimates of the weight of the big fellow place it as close to 60 pounds.

For George Bailey, who operates a summer resort at the spot, the episode was nothing new. He has seen the fish, along with other residents and visitors, each year for the past four years, and although the fish has followed baits and has been seen drifting along near the surface of the water on many occasions, this is the first time he has ever struck.

While the battle of more than two hours and a half was going on, an 11-year-old boy from Kent, Ohio, landed a 'lunge measuring 52 inches and weighing 28½ lbs. The fish was very narrow. Other fish as long at 52 inches have weighed over 35 pounds.

Eleanor Offered More Than Rita Says Billy Rose

NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Holm Rose accused her showman husband of making "false and terrible" charges against her honor in the latest round of their public marriage bout.

Yesterday it was Billy's day. He claimed that the details of his married life with the former swimming star were "enough to make a strong man weep."

His outraged bellow was prompted by a criminal libel charge lodged against him Monday in California by Mrs. Dorothy Bernie, widow of radio's "Old Maestro" Ben Bernie. Mrs. Bernie based her complaint on an affidavit Rose obtained from her former New York maid, Mrs. Alberta Jones, detailing alleged events in Mrs. Bernie's apartment.

Seeks Maintenance

Rose is suing for divorce in New York State where the only ground is adultery His wife is suing for a separation with maintenance.

Today was Eleanor's day. Through the office here of her attorney, Louis Nizer, she issued a statement which said in part:

"I can only say that my attorney and I from the first never attempted to exploit Billy's moral and financial vulnerability. It has been difficult in the light of his campaign of shocking calumny which has and still is to be exposed, to preserve a sense of dignity.

"His penuriousness is responsible for the impasse."

Offers More Than Aly

Rose said that last October he offered his estranged wife "a darn sight more than Aly Khan offered Rita Hayworth."

"As far as I know," Rose told his interviewers, "Aly Khan hasn't even sent a box of pablum (baby food) to Yasmin (daughter of the film star and the Indian prince.)"

Rose and his wife separated about a year ago after actress Joyce Matthews, former wife of Milton Berle, cut her wrists in Rose's apartment in the Ziegfeld theatre building, which he owns.

Hazel is 17 years old, has had 13 calves and has outlived seven of them.

Japanese Wife Of Taxi Driver Fatally Wounded

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP)—The 17-year-old Japanese wife of a Chinese taxi driver was fatally wounded in her bedroom early today by three shotgun blasts.

Police later arrested a heavily-armed man, believed to be the girl's father, following a gun battle in downtown Kamloops. The man was carrying a shotgun, an ax, a homemade fire bomb and a bowie knife.

Mrs. John Bing, mother of a three-weeks-old son, was fatally shot while in her bed. She died in hospital an hour later.

The bedroom window was first shattered by an ax. The killer then thrust a shotgun through the broken window and fired three times. The third charge struck the girl in the back, apparently after she had rolled off the bed in a desperate attempt to escape.

R.C.M.P cornered the man on a downtown street. He fired once at three constables and missed. Then he shot a hole through a parked taxi owned by the firm in which the murdered woman's husband is a partner.

Police jumped him as he swung the shotgun around and pinned him to the ground. They declined to reveal his name immediately and advanced no motive for the killing.

The court room of the Vintners' Hall in London was built in 1446 and survived the Great Fire of 1666.

Tom Gard's Note Book

Sometimes little feet come home from school quite cold, or wet after snow or rain needing a quick change to something warm and dry. The answer might be found in an article used by Hurons, Iroquois and Algonquins of other days — a pair of moccasins.

MOCCASINS

Thin leather or felt makes good working material. Departmental stores provide working kits and patterns should the craftsman wish to do a finished job. Perhaps it is best to try a pair from felt, first cutting out a pattern for guidance. The cross stitch gives strength, and tone if it is a bright colour. Insoles can be added, or stitched on the bottom of the moccasin for added strength.

BROOM AND TOOL RACK

Nothing is so exasperating to a housewife as to find equipment scattered all over the place. (We often find the gardener does the same with garden articles such as watering can, cultivator, flower pots, etc.) A good citizen of Chatham made an attractive rack for his wife, in which she placed articles she was constantly using. Now she says, "Well, at least we know where to find them".

GARDEN TOOLS

If we expect to find things decently in order indoors, then perhaps the same applies to the yard. The enemy of metal is rust, often due to excess moisture. Garden tools may be housed in a discarded packing case. The side or bottom is removed, then replaced towards the middle, forming a shelf. A slat across the front completes the assembly. If the top is covered with a piece of used linoleum it keeps out the weather. I asked the gardener "What could be more simple" and I was astonished to hear him say, "Well, the wife says I am". However, this man's work in home and garden proved him to be the good citizen.

WALL BRACKETS

If it can be said "We are nearer God's heart in a garden than any place on earth", then why not have a little of it indoors for winter. I suppose this was the philosophy of the man in Goderich who made the pair of wall brackets. Small holes were bored at the widest places, permitting a bolt to hold pots or hoop. Small blocks kept the brackets from touching the wall. Cut with a fret saw from pieces of B.C. Fir plywood, leave natural or paint to desired colour. Vines such as vinca, ivy and philodendron like light, but not too much water. Lift the pots out and set them in water. When the moisture shows on the surface, let drain and replace in the bracket. Plants do not like what is sometimes called "wet feet".

AROUND THE HOME

HANDY TIPS

FOR FINISH: When sanding down a board for a smooth surface, always go with the grain. After coat of shellac or lacquer, rub with steel wool along the grain. Then give second coat.

ALWAYS OIL GOOD TOOLS for summer, so the damp basement will not induce rust. Polish them up with emery paper occasionally.

After using TROWELS, always wash off the cement or mortar to prevent hardening. This makes the next job easier. To prevent rusting, rub with oil.

Grease the SAW when not in use, as this prevents rust doing damage.

The amateur craftsman should never ruin the "set" of a saw by sharpening it himself. Let the man who knows how do the job. Knowledge of this kind of thing only comes with experience.

OGDEN, Utah — (AP) Heavyweight Rex Layne said today he is going after Ezzard Charles in their 10-round bout tonight like he was fighting for the title.

"I'm going to knock him out," Layne said, "and I'll be after him all the way." But the 24-year-old Lewiston, Utah, strongboy said he would rather not predict the round.

Charles and his handlers had a different version. "Ezzy is ready for Rex," co-manager Jake Mintz announced. "If he should lose this one, he's about through. But a victory tonight will put him back in the picture."

St. Louis Cardinals Coming Fast in Close National League Race

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

Yukon Eric, the untidy Alaskan lumberjack who delights in crushing wrestling opponents to his 56 inch chest, will attempt to discommode Lord Athol Layton in the feature event of the weekly wrestling show being staged this evening in Memorial Arena. The powerful Yukon has been called upon to subdue the treacherous Layton, and halt the latter's villainous career. In this respect he will carry all the hopes and good wishes of the local wrestling faithful who have become quite vocal in the past few weeks in expressing their opinion of the British Lord and his ring tactics.

Yukon, who is about as powerful a man as there is in wrestling rings today, seems like an excellent choice for the task of stopping Lord Layton. Yukon, who has more than inconvenienced several opponents with his Alaskan backbreaker, feels that his hold will more than match Layton's special judo chop. All in all, it looks like a donnybrook is in store for the faithful in tonight's feature attraction.

In the semi-final match, the Australian badman, Fred Atkins, who has always aroused a maximum frenzy in local customers, will pit his skill against the cunning Ray Villmer. In the opener, the Masked Marvel will have a go with Dave Simms.

A notice from the St. Louis Cardinals, which we pass along to all young baseball hopefuls, states that the Cards will be holding a tryout camp at Kinsmen Memorial Stadium, Oshawa, August 11th and 12th. Workouts for all players over 16 years of age, will get under way promptly at 11.00 a. m.

The Cards, with 15 teams in the biggest farm system in baseball, like to point out to young ballplayers that 23 of the 25 men on the St. Louis roster are products of the farm system, including Stan Musial, Enos Slaughter, Gerry Staley, and Vinegar Bend Mizell.

The Red Birds are also kind enough to explain that all expenses incurred in attending the camp will be paid by the Cards to players signed to a minor league contract.

Point Anne Cementmen take on the CNR Diesels at Point Anne tonight, in the second game of their best-of-five series for the right to represent the Belleville and District League in the OASA intermediate A playdowns. The Cementmen derailed the Diesels 9-7 at the CNR Field, Wednesday night, and will have Pat Maracle rested for tonight's tilt. The third game is at the CNR grounds Monday night.

Tomorrow night the Glen Roy Juniors will entertain the Kingston Alcans in an exhibition tilt under the lights at Alemite Field. The game will get under way at 8.30 p.m. The Glens, who meet Brockville in the first round of the OASA Junior A playdowns, defeated Bloomfield Sun-Joys 10-3 in Picton Wednesday night.

In minor baseball league circles, Schwab's pee wees meet Kingston tonight at 6:15 at the Fair Grounds in the first game of a best-of-three series in the first round of the OBA playdowns. They are back in Kingston Wednesday afternoon. Meanwhile Bryson Reid's and Paul's Motel pee wees hook up at the CNR Field at 6:15 in the first game of their series to decide the city league championship. The second game is tomorrow night at 6.15 at the Prince Charles School Grounds. Victoria Church Bantams tangle with Robb's Royals tonight in the second game of their series. Play is slated to start at 6:15 p. m. at Prince Charles School Grounds.

Kesselring Lone Championship Golfer in Quarter Round

KINGSTON (CP)—Gerry Kesselring of Kitchener was the lone championship golfer to start today's quarter-final round in the 30th annual Ontario amateur golf championship at the Cataraqui Golf Club.

Kesselring, defending amateur champion and Ontario Open titleholder, breezed through yesterday's two rounds in easy style.

In the morning he vanquished Fred Bentley of Napanee 6 and 5 and topped Nick Panasuik of Windsor 5 and 4 in the afternoon. In each of the matches Kesselring made the turn three up.

Major Upset

Biggest upset of Thursday's play was provided by little-known Herb Reinholdt of Toronto who eliminated Nick Weslock of Windsor, two-time winner of the tournament.

Reinholdt and Weslock staged a tight battle all through their fourth-round match which was decided on the extra 19th hole with a spectacular putt by the winner.

On the 15th, Reinholdt dropped a 40-foot putt for a birdie and took the lead, but Weslock came through on the 16th. Another long Reinholdt putt on the 17th squared things and the home hole was halved.

On the extra hole Reinholdt flubbed his tee shot and rolled to the back apron, about 25 feet away from the pin, on his second. Weslock was about 14 feet away from the hole after an over-the-hill approach.

Sinks 25-Footer

Reinholdt sank his 25-foot putt for a birdie three while Weslock blew and missed.

In the other two extra hole rounds, Doug McKellar of Toronto eliminated Bruce Bradley of Oshawa and Herb Epstein of Toronto knocked off ex-champion Sonny Adams of Toronto.

Others advancing to today's quarter-final round were George Eluck of Windsor, Louis Georgas of Owen Sound, Ralph Waechter of Kitchener and Jim Neale of Hamilton.

Stanky and O'Neill Turning Loop Into Four-Club Race; Yanks Split With Senators

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer

Eddie Stanky, the brash freshman, and Steve O'Neill, the old greybeard back for another try, are turning the National League into a four-club race while Brooklyn and New York trade punches in a private neighborhood brawl.

The Dodgers and Giants seem to be concerned only with the yes or no of "a miracle of '52." The Brooks gather around Chuck Dressen to "stop the Giants" and the Giants charge at Leo Durocher's call to "remember last year." Neither pays much attention to the onrushing Cards and Phillies.

Cards Move Up

The Cards closed to within 8½ games of the first-place Dodgers last night by whipping Cincinnati 7-4, as Brooklyn rebounded from an afternoon 8-2 defeat to top New York 7-5 in the night half of their day-night doubleheader.

Philadelphia, winning 28 of 40 starts since O'Neill replaced Eddie Sawyer as manager, swept a pair from Boston Braves, 2-1 and 10-2, behind Robin Roberts and Russ Meyer. Roberts' three-hitter was his 17th victory.

Nobody gained anything in the American except seventh-place St. Louis Brownies, who are too far back to make any difference. The leading New York Yankees split with Washington, losing the first 4-2 but copping the second 7-1 on Bob Kuzava's four-hitter. Boston Red Sox dropped the first of two at Philadelphia, 7-5, but came back to break even, 8-4. The Brownies won their second straight 12-inning game from Detroit, 5-4, on Gordon Goldsberry's double.

Cleveland and Chicago in the American and Chicago and Pittsburgh in the National were not scheduled.

Fall In Big For Sweep

The "big" series in the Polo Grounds went to the Giants, two games to one, but their bid for a dramatic sweep fell short. As a result they picked up only one game on the Dodgers and still trail by 5½.

Al Corwin, recalled from Minneapolis in time to appear in two games last Sunday, relieved in the night game in fifth appearance in five games since he joined the Giants.

Hoyt Wilhelm's dancing knuckler helped Corwin home with his second win in the day game as Hank Thompson, Al Dark and Davey Williams ripped into loser Carl Erskine and two others for 12 hits.

The Dodgers made short work of George Spencer, Durocher's second surprise starter, after the Durocher night ceremonies starting with Campanella's bases-loaded home run in the first.

Coaches Acquitted Of Assaulting Football Player

CALGARY (CP)—Coach Les Lear and Assistant Coach Ed Champagne yesterday were acquitted of charges of assaulting player Mel Embree of the Calgary Stampeders football club.

Lear and Champagne were charged with injuring Embree in a dressing-room fracas July 31, after an argument concerning Embree's contract.

"If I said anything about being beaten up because I refused to sign a contract, it wasn't what I meant," he said.

Lineman Roy Jensen said he was responsible for facial injuries which Embree said were inflicted by Lear in the dressing room. Jesen said he had been in four fights with Embree during scrimmage.

Champagne and Lear both denied striking Embree. They said they were angry at the player for leaving the field without permission. But Embree stuck to his story.

"Champagne held the door and pushed me away when I tried to get out," he said. "Lear knocked me down and kicked me on the side of the head while I was on the floor." Then he said Lear told him he was "through" and to "get out of town."

Three invaders, one from West Germany and two from Canada, will be among 153 competitors at Akron, O., Sunday in the 15th all-American soap box derby.

Pudgy Peter Kalinowski, 14, West Germany's soap box racing champion, checked in yesterday along with Gary McRae, 14, of Mission City, B.C., and George Repar, 13, of St. Catharines, Ont.

Peter, sponsored by the United States army in western Germany, won the finals in Duisberg, Germany over 373 other German youngsters.

Sports Promoter Arthur M. Wirtz announced yesterday a realignment in the organization which owns and operates the Chicago Stadium and the Olympic Stadium in Detroit.

Wirtz said that James Norris will become president of the Olympia Stadium Corp., James D. Norris will be chairman of the board of the Chicago Stadium and Wirtz will assume the presidency of the Chicago Arena.

James Norris is the father of James D. Norris, who also is president of the International Boxing Club.

The elder Norris resigned as president of the Chicago Arena to assume his new position, and the other two men have severed their official connections with the Detroit Stadium. They were on the board of directors.

American Hockey League club owners met for nine hours at New York yesterday but failed to name anyone to succeed Maurice Podoloff who resigned as league president. The owners will meet again today.

A spokesman said that the owners also discussed the increasing cost of operation, but declined to comment on reports that some of the teams would drop out of the circuit. Cleveland has been making an effort to get into the National League.

The league is composed of Buffalo, N.Y., Cincinnati, Cleveland, Hershey, Pa., Indianapolis, Pittsburgh, Providence, R.I., St. Louis and Syracuse, N.Y.

Umpire Bill McGowan yesterday was suspended indefinitely by American League President William Harridge for an incident involving sports writers in the Detroit-Browns game at St. Louis last night

Harridge notified Robert L. Burnes, sports editor of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, of his action in a telegram. Burnes had wired Harridge after the game protesting that McGowan refused to give the press box the name of a player he had ejected from the game and had also made offensive gestures.

Two rivals in the six-metre division, the Circe of Toronto's Royal Canadian Yacht Club and the Stork of the Rochester Yacht Club, yesterday moved into a tie for first place after two days of racing in the three-day lake Yacht Racing Association regatta at Toronto.

Circe and the Stork placed second and third on alternate days to collect 25 points, two better than either the Star Wagon of Rochester, yesterday's winner, and the Buzzy of Toronto, Wednesday's winner.

Americans Heavily Favored To Defeat Canada for Title

By MAX McMAHON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada and the United States meet today in singles matches in the final round of the North American zone Davis Cup tennis tie. The Americans are heavily favored to win, but the Canadians hope to come up with a few surprises.

One surprise came yesterday when short, wiry Henri Rochon was selected as a starter in place of the more powerful Brendan Macken who opened against the Mexicans last week.

Rochon takes on Herb Flam in the first match and Lorne Main meets Vic Seixas in the second.

Rochon Unorthodox

Dr. Georges Leclerc, Canadian non-playing captain, and rated one of the top tennis strategists in the country, said he chose Rochon because of his unorthodox game, and left Macken out because his game, although powerful was orthodox to a degree and the Americans had the answer to it.

He said this did not mean that Macken had in any way dropped as the best player on the Canadian team.

Rochon plays all over the court. His favorite is a drop shot, but he also comes through with short-angle shots and a terrific underslice to the corners. To top it all, he is a left-hander and looks much like a table tennis player who has switched to grass courts. His ground strokes are not severe, but he volleys well though not strongly.

Change of Pace

Flam, to counteract Rochon's change of pace and a lot of touch and control. When he gets in a tough spot, his favorite tactic is to lob high.

Main too has an unusual game which could cause 29-year-old team captain Vic Seixas plenty of trouble.

For one thing he uses both hands most of the time, and is said to have one of the best returns of service in tennis. If Seixas puts his usual power behind his serve, Lorne should send it screaming back at him if he isn't aced.

He has good strength in both his two-handed forehand and backhand and gives the ball lots of spin.

Power In Serve

Seixas' power lies in his service and overhead. His ground-strokes are good, but he lacks authority in the backcourt. He also slices, leaving little bounce in the ball when it lands, and is a natural volleyer.

Macken is scheduled to play doubles for Canada Saturday, although his partner has not yet been announced. The Americans also have not yet named their doubles team.

Final singles matches take place Sunday, with Rochon slated to meet Seixas and Main to meet Flam. This could be changed if the best-of-five series had gone one way or the other, in which case the junior members of the two teams might be given a chance.

Games were scheduled to start at 2:30 p.m., EDT.

Sharp Note Plays Sweet Tune in Winning Hambletonian

Cops Trotting Derby in Two Straight Heats After Hit Song Victorious in First Dash

By JOHN CHANDLER

GOSHEN, N.Y. (AP) — Sharp Note played a sweet $47,236 tune in the 27th Hambletonian stake yesterday, and his daddy—Phonograph—isn't a failure as a sire after all.

The bay three-year-old copped the $87,637 trotting derby at Good Time Park in two straight heats after Hit Song won the first dash.

Sharp Note is owned by C. W. Clark of Dearborn, Mich., who got the colt as a yearling from the Walnut Hall Farm, Lexington, Ky., for $1,000. A year ago this month, Phonograph was discarded as a failure in the stud. He was bought for a reported $10,000 by Charles Gorman of the Riverview Farm, Marcy, N.Y.

Phonograph had raced in the 1943 Hambletonian, but could do no better than third. Since retiring to stud, Phonograph had never sired a son or daughter that did anything worth mentioning until Sharp Note's number went up on the tote board yesterday.

Oldest Driver

Bi Shively, 74, a veteran of the Spanish American War who served in the Philippine Islands, drove the winner—his first Hambletonian victory in three tries. In doing so, he became the oldest driver to win one.

Sharp Note, whose dam is Rose Mary Hanover by Guy McKinney, broke stride at the start of the opening heat, and finished 10th. In the second heat he took command in the stretch and bounced home a length winner over the disappointing Duke of Lullwater, pre-race favorite. In the deciding heat, Sharp Note flew to the wire a couple of lengths ahead of Hit Song, with Duke of Lullwater third.

Best time was 2:02 3-5 in the second heat.

Dykes Says Grove Depended On Fast Ball While Shantz Has Five or Six Pitches

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—Now look, let us not be hasty about comparing this nice young fellow, Bobby Shantz, with another left-hander who used to pitch for the Athletics, name of Robert Moses Grove. Let us leave young Bobby to develop for 10 or 15 years before we take him beyond his depth.

It would be a great favor to Jimmy Dykes, who manages the present Athletics and who played infield alongside Grove. Every time Shantz racks up another one, some enthusiast pins Dykes against a wall and wants to know if the devious little cuss isn't a better pitcher than old Mose was.

Well, it puts Dykes in an awkward spot. About all he can do under the circumstances is take a reflective puff on his cigar and say that it is difficult to compare 'em, Shantz being the cutie type with five or six different pitches whereas Grove, in his greatest days with the Athletics, depended upon a fast ball, a faster ball and a bullet, holding the latter back for emergencies.

Sullen Bloke

The danger is that if it keeps up Dykes is going to forget himself and forget that Grove was a sullen, unsociable bloke in his playing days and tell somebody off. Much as he would love to see the little tyke notch those 30 victories, he knows that Shantz faces an almost super-human task in trying to match any phase of Grove's record.

Sure, old Mose was the last American Leaguer to win 30 or more and the only southpaw ever to attain that mark. That was in 1931, when he closed with a 31-4 record—against the modern rabbit ball, incidentally.

Grove pitched 17 years in the big show, the first nine with the Athletics and the final eight with the Boston Red Sox. In his last year when he was a graying 41 and his fast ball just a memory, he still was able to break even at 7-7 with a sore-arm curve. They never again got Mose under that .500 mark after he broke in in 1925 with a 10-12 reading.

300 Victories

Those seven he won in his valedictory were just sufficient to give the big fireballer a round total of 300 victories for the long route against 141 defeats.

In the nine-year stretch from 1927 through 1935, Grove only once won fewer than 20 games. His victories read, in order; 20, 24, 24, 28, 31, 25, 24, 8, 20. That lonesome eight came in 1934, his first after he had been traded to the "Gold Sox" in a spectacular deal. He had a sore arm that year, but he came back with a curve the next that was good for 20 wins, and as late as 1938 he still was cagey enough to lead the American League in winning percentage with 14-4.

In his four greatest years, 1928-31, Grove set a won-lost record of 102-23, which possibly is without parallel. He led the American league in earned-run average nine times, his prize being 2.05 in 1931. He led in strikeouts seven straight years, starting with his first season in the big show.

None of this is meant to discourage Shantz or to suggest that Philadelphia's fans haven't something to get excited about. They have. One who saw Grove at his peak merely wishes to recommend moderation.

Marlene Stewart Well on Way To Repeat Last Year's Success In Winning Closed Golf Title

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP)—Twenty-year-old Mary Gay of Kitchener, Ont., was the only one in a field of 83 with much hope of overtaking champion Marlene Stewart today in the Canadian Women's close golf tournament.

The 18-year-old sensation from Fonthill, Ont., who won the crown last year in her first attempt, blistered the Edmonton Mayfair's ladies par 79 with a seven-under 72 in the opening round yesterday. She had a five-stroke lead over Ontario champion Miss Gay and was 10 strokes ahead of the third best.

Six Strokes Off Record

Miss Stewart's amazing pace chopped six strokes off the former course record and led the Ontario team to a 16-stroke lead in the inter-provincial team competition being staged simultaneously with the close.

Miss Gay coupled a two-under-par 77 with Miss Stewart's 72 and Ontario posted an aggregate four-player team score of 37.

No outstanding scores were turned in by the Alberta team, but their consistent pace brought them into second place with an aggregate of 343. Defending team champion Quebec had a 357 for fourth, four strokes behind British Columbia.

The likeable little champion could do no wrong. Her long drives, accurate seconds and sure putts gave her six birdies plus an eagle three on the 405-yard third. She went out in four-under par 35 and came in with a three-under 37.

Miss Gay was two strokes off Miss Stewart's pace after nine holes and parred the second half. She birdied five.

Babs Davies of Vancouver led the B.C. team players with an 82 for third place in the close. B.C. was strongly rated until Marjorie Todd of Victoria failed to show and was replaced by junior Shirley Fry of Esquimalt. Miss Fry had a 96.

Dorothy Herbertson of Esquimalt became B.C. junior member and shot an 85 to tie for fourth with Daintry Chisholm of Montreal and Mrs. A. K. Snell and Mrs. Hazel Jamieson of Edmonton.

Youngest Has An 87

Bracketed at 86 were Rae Milligan of Jasper, Alta., Mrs. W. S. Edey of Winnipeg and Mrs. N. J. Carlson of Toronto. The youngest player in the competition—14-year-old Betty Stanhope of Edmonton—was alone at 87.

Ann Sharpe, Marlene's club mate from Fonthill, shot an 88. So did Mrs. Graeme Pyke of Montreal, 1950 close champion, had an 88 and Veteran Ada Mackenzie of Toronto carded 94. Saskatchewan champion Joanne Goulet of Regina had an 88.

Guelph Leafs Hold Firmly To Third Place

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Guelph Maple Leafs strengthened their hold on third place in the Intercounty Senior Baseball League last night with a 7-2 victory over Waterloo Tigers. The loss virtually eliminated the Tigers from the playoffs.

In the only other game last night, the tail-end St. Thomas Elgins nipped fourth-place London Majors 2-1.

Last Inning Win

St. Thomas gained its victory in the final inning when Otto Leu and Don Summers drew walks off London pitcher Bob Brake and Bob Maurer added a single to load the bases. Nick Rhabe's single to left field scored Leu for the winning run.

Guelph wrapped up its game in the first inning at Waterloo with five runs on as many hits off Joe Yosurak. Cy Bricker came in to relieve, but it was too late.

Johnny Adie scattered nine Tiger hits for the win, but loaded the bases with two out in the ninth. Bill Kimball came in to strike Gord Ariss out and end the game.

Don Summers was credited with the St. Thomas victory, yielding but six hits while Brake was touched for 11. Summers helped his own cause with four straight hits at the plate.

Rule A Protest

An Intercounty executive meeting last night at Galt turned Ernie Gowman's protests concerning the eligibility of London pitchers Bob Brake and Arnie Early over to President Otto Manske. The Waterloo manager maintained Brake and Early were ineligible after July 15.

Manske will choose a three-man committee composed of past presidents of the league to rule on the question.

The executive also ruled that all clubs must pay their five-cent tax on all adult admissions to league headquarters before being allowed to enter the playoffs.

Galt moves into St. Thomas tonight while Kitchener will play at Guelph in the only games scheduled.

Cot Deal Misses No-Hitter by One Lone Bingle

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ellis (Cot) Deal, veteran outfielder-pitcher for Rochester Red Wings, almost added his name to list of International League pitchers who have hurled no-hit no-run games.

Deal missed the boat by an eyelash last night as he pitched the Wings to a 10-0 victory over Buffalo Bisons. Rookie shortstop Bill Tuttle spoiled Deal's bid by beating out an infield hit to open the fifth inning. Pete Riggan and Rip Repulski made Deal's 11th victory an easy one by pounding out homers.

Meanwhile, Montreal Royals stretched their lead to eight games over Syracuse by beating the Chiefs 5-2 in 14 innings.

LASORDA GOES ROUTE

Second-baseman Carl Bell's error admitted the tie-breaking run and winning pitcher Tom Lasorda followed with a two-run single to sew it up. Lasorda went all the way and restricted the Chiefs to eight hits. The Royals collected eight safeties off Bobo Holoman, who worked the first seven innings, and Arnie Landeck, who finished up.

Springfield Cubs took both ends of a doubleheader from Ottawa's tail-end Athletics, 1-0 and 6-3. Dewey Adkins hung up his ninth victory in 10 decisions in the opener, winning out on Red McQuillen's scoring single in the fourth.

Spec Padget posted his 10th victory in the second game. Mickey Rocco sparked the Cubs' attack, driving in four runs on three singles.

Baltimore Orioles and Toronto Maple Leafs were idle.

Thirty-Five P.C. of Field Shatters Par; Lew Worsham, Pete Cooper Grab Tam Lead

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—Tam O'Shanter Country Club was ready to post this notice today: "Wanted—the murderers of par."

Seldom has a golf course been so thoroughly sandbagged by a bunch of money hounds. Promoter George S. May, acting like the goose that laid the golden egg, turned it into a race track by offering a $90,000 purse distribution for a "world championship" tournament.

The winner will collect $25,000, second place is worth $12,500, third $5,000 and so on down the list to $200 for 41st position.

Wild-eyed pros, some of whom have grown lean eating hamburgers on the gruelling tourney grind, set out for the bonanza in yesterday's first round.

28 Shatter Par

As expected, par 36-36—72 wasn't worth a plugged nickel. Twenty-eight, or 35 per cent of the field of 80, shattered it.

Breaking into the lead were two club pros, Lew Worsham and Pete Cooper, each with 65. They were followed by Harry Todd of Dallas, Tex., and Roberto de Vicenzo of South America, each with 67.

These four front-runners—Cooper, the former truck driver from Florida; Worsham, the 1947 national open champion from Oakmont, Pa.; Todd and De Vicenzo—have earned a total of only $10,817 in tournament golf this season.

"They'll choke up in the stretch drive," said veteran Dutch Harrison, "and some of us old-timers will pass them."

Dutch was satisfied with a starting 72 and was grouped with such "old-timers" as Chandler Harper, Cary Middlecoff, Skee Riegel and Jim Turnesa.

Bunched at 68, only three strokes off the pace, were Dave Douglas, Earl Stewart, Jim Ferrier, Julius Boros, 1952 open champion, and Mario Gonzales, the Rio de Janeiro pro.

Leonard At 69

At 69 came Ed Oliver, Stan Leonard of Vancouver, John Barnum, Doug Ford, Ed Furgol, Jack Burke and Johnny Bulla. Big names in the 70 bracket were Fred Haas, Jr., Norman von Nida of Australia, and Johnny Palmer.

Then at 71 were such guys as Sam Snead, winner of Tam's all-American division Sunday, and Paul Runyon, the former "little poison" of the links.

Pat Fletcher of Saskatoon had a 37-38—75, three over par.

Limit of Leasing Of Racing Wires Is Turned Down

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal communications commissioner examiner yesterday turned thumbs down on a Western Union proposal to limit the leasing of racing wires to just three classes of customers in the news dissemination field.

The examiner, Fanny N. Lipvin, said the proposal would not accomplish its announced purpose—that is, to keep horse and dog racing information out of the hands of bookmakers.

The examiner's findings were issued by the F.C.C. in the form of an initial decision, which will become final automatically within 40 days, unless exceptions are filed.

Western Union itself initiated the proposal to restrict those eligible to lease its wires for racing news transmission to (1) press associations, (2) radio and television stations, and (3) publications such as newspapers eligible for second-class mailing privileges.

"COOL CONTROL"

THE FOREHAND DRIVE

1 The Backswing: Keep your eye on the approaching ball; before ball bounces, step out and to the side with right foot pointing at the sideline and draw racket back. This motion should approximately line up arm, shoulders and racket; wrist, elbow and knees slightly and comfortably bent. Body pivots on hips.

2 The Forward Swing: Eyes must be on ball. Body pivots on ball of right foot as racket moves forward, transferring body weight to left foot. Stroke is continuous, with wrist straightening firmly when ball is hit. Racket swings forward at height on which ball is taken from bounce. Experience and judgment give perfect control.

•

Yes, it's control that counts, in tennis as in every sport — control which brings the extraordinary quality that sets one performer above the other. In the ability to approach things coolly, to control every move and moment, lies the answer to better results.

This is one of a series designed to increase the pleasure of Canadians who participate in sports.

Even his own family believes he is a Red and is hostile toward him. The Communists, with Cvetic in on the discussion, plot a strike at North American. Meantime Cvetic discovers his son's teacher, Dorothy Hart, also is a Communist, but she repudiates the party. She learns Cvetic is not really a Communist and he helps her escape after the Communists kill an FBI man assigned to guard her. Cvetic's activities are instrumental in rounding up 11 Red leaders. He testifies against them before the congressional un-American activities committee, at the same time clearing his own name.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY, AUG. 9, 1952.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Excellent period to take on new ideas, propositions you have studied well for such an opportunity. Progress may start slowly, but time will insure better results.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Generally advantageous to those who stride forward with energy, knowledge. Compare your progress with others'; have you done your best?

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Auspicious on whole for well executed plans. Legal, professional, general business marked for gains. Don't waste energy needlessly.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Little of the unusual to offer this mixed day. You had better buckle down to work, think carefully, and don't jump to conclusions. Don't be touchy!

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—Dull for many matters involving money, property. Have the courage to say no or yes at right time, as the situation may arise. Respect rank, age, sound advice.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Be on your judicious guard, ready for unexpected advantages that arise overnight. Look behind the surface for possibilities open in your particular line of work.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Labor, management both can progress if both adhere to the Golden Rule, to a give-and-take attitude. No unbalanced, biased action ever made for a better whole.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Overall picture today shows fresh benefits from quietly carried-on worthy endeavors. Matters that carry heavy toll should be well worked out before trying. Avoid disputes.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Don't go into any tailspin from taking undue chances in money, business or any matters. After 2 p.m. you should find rays increasingly favorable to family, social activities.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Caution in money matters, transacting business contracts, making loans. Protect your collaterals. don't be foolishly trusting. Heart interests need care.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Not all stimulating. Your intuition may play prominent part in your advance. Intricate things rate more careful study. Heart affairs, sports, social matters in fresh favor.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Influences have some restrictions on certain activities. Aim to have right objectives; don't ask for more than you deserve, and don't show disappointment at minor benefits.

YOU BORN TODAY: Generally pleasing and kindly disposition, but apt at times to be egotistical. You have a temper, keep this under control at all times. Are well supplied with common sense; make efficient lawyer, doctor, nurse, public official; also brilliant actor, musician. Don't tax health or spend money foolishly. Birthdate: Izaak Walton, most famous fishing author; John Dryden, worthy poet laureate.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was smoking to himself and looking glad of it, and ma said, Grugru, pylon, mullah.

Did you say something? pop said, and ma said, Not exactly. I was thinking of the time when everybody was doing crosswerd puzzles and we were always running across strange short werds that we never saw before and were constantly seeing again. I was just trying to see if I could remember some of them, she said.

By gollies yes, that was the screwy time, pop said. Mungo, psora. Well well, there's a cupple of werds I never thought I'd meet again, even in my memory, he said, and ma said, Of course it's one thing to remember them and another thing to actually recall what they meen. I always liked the short ones, grutch for instance. Now what is grutch? Isn't it a kind of a fibre used for something or other in some outlandish place? she said.

It seems to me grutch is a verb, pop said, I think to grutch is to pick your teeth behind your napkin, he said, and ma said, Scop was another short one, and so was scad, but I haven't the faintest idea of their meening.

I can help you, pop said. Scop is the sound made by fish scales in the spawning season, and a scad is an ancient Egyptian coin werth 2 drims or 3 and a half slerps. Or wait a minute, is it a unit of measurement used by intch werms?

Wasn't quetzel one of the werds? ma said, and pop said, Yes, a quetzel was an outer garment worn by the inner cercle of a lost Hindoo tribe called the Jinnicks. But I'm groggy. The only werds that occur to me now are 4 little ones that you never seem to weary of, he said.

What are they? ma said, and pop said, How about a movie?

Being the happy end of the subject for ma.

Irrigation Works Blamed for Rise In Rattlesnakes

REGINA (CP)—Rattlesnakes are on the increase in Saskatchewan, naturalists blame Alberta's expanding irrigation works.

You can take the word of Fred Bard and J. J. Deck for this. Mr. Bard is the director of the provincial museum and Mr. Deck is a resident of M[illegible]dham, Sask., who makes a hob[illegible] of catching the poisonous rattlers.

For the most part, the natural Saskatchewan surroundings of the rattlesnakes are near the province's western border, particularly in the area where the South Saskatchewan River leaves Alberta. At that point the rattlers are also leaving Alberta.

Seek Dry Quarters

Mr. Bard says he believes that irrigation in Alberta is flooding land where the rattlers used to make their home. To find drier living quarters, the snakes have moved east into Saskatchewan. Until recently reports of rattlesnakes in Saskatchewan were rare.

Mr. Deck reports that as time goes on the rattlesnakes are moving to areas further east and north, generally following the direction of the South Saskatchewan River. He says that he has killed 50 rattlers in less than an hour near the river.

The snakes move from the hills toward the river in the fall to den up for the winter. That's the best time to collect museum specimens and take pictures.

King of Jordan May be Asked To Abdicate

CAIRO, Egypt — (Reuters) — The Cairo newspaper Akhbar el Yom today published a report from its Beirut correspondent saying King Talal of Jordan has had "frequent fits" recently and may soon be asked to abdicate.

This report from the neighboring country of Lebanon said the Jordan regency council might soon seek the abdication of King Talal in favor of his 17-year-old son, Prince Hussein.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: The pleasant summer weather of the past few days is rapidly becoming a thing of the past. A disturbance west of Lake Michigan is heading towards Ontario and will spread cloud and scattered showers and thundershowers ahead of it into the southern half of the province today, along with increasing humidities.

However, cooler drier air, which now covers northwestern Ontario will spread over most of the province on Sunday.

TOKYO (AP)—The British demand for surrender of two British sailors convicted by a Japanese court today drew strong support from unexpected quarters—former Japanese imperial navy officers.

Dr. Juji Enomoto, former top naval lawyer, told a press conference Friday it was against "international custom" for a Japanese civil court to try British sailors. Other former high naval officers agreed.

Peter T. Stinner and Derek Smith, both 21-year-old crew members of the cruiser Belfast, were convicted Aug. 5 by the Kobe district court of stealing a Japanese taxicab and 1,700-yen and sentences to 2½ years in prison.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden lodged a strong protest with the Japanese government and demanded that the two sailors be turned over to British military authorities. Nearly all Japanese newspapers editorially urged the government to spurn the protest.

Dr. Enomoto, 62-year-old international law expert, declared that Britain was right.

"Foreign governments during the 30 pre-war years always handed over misbehaving Japanese sailors to Japanese court martial," Dr. Enomoto said.

Hospital Grants Total $602,320

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario government yesterday announced grants for 11 hospitals totalling $602,320.

The grants included:

St. Joseph's, Parry Sound, to help defray the cost of 5 nurses' beds, $12,353.68; Hotel Dieu, St. Catharines, providing 31 nurses' beds, $31,000; Ongwanada Sanatorium, Kingston, 10 hospital beds, $9,300; St. Joseph's, Peterborough, 22 nurses' beds $22,000.

Louise Marshall Hospital, Mount Forest, 12 nurses' beds, $12,000; South Waterloo Memorial Hospital, Galt, capital grant of $191,666 for 177 active treatment beds and 44 nursery bassinettes.

Japs Charge U.S. Officers Stole Gems, Platinum During Occupation

TOKYO (Reuters)—Japanese prefecture officials reported today that two United States officers stole more than £2,800,000 worth of diamonds, platinum and other valuables during the occupation.

They were taken from the prefectural office at Sendai, northern Japan, according to a report made to an investigating committee from the House of Representatives.

The report said an American captain, a member of the military police, took away a large amount of platinum leaving only a scribbled signature on a piece of paper. It also accused an American major. Names were not released.

Occupation authorities recently turned back to the Japanese government tons of gold and silver and diamonds "frozen" when U.S. troops landed in Japan in 1945.

American guards with fixed bayonets watched the vault for more than 6½ years. But early in the occupation a U.S. colonel sneaked through them with pockets full of diamonds and gold. He was later discovered and faced a court martial.

With the end of the occupation's censorship on anti-foreign newspaper reports, Japanese papers are printing many "now-it-can-be-told" stories of alleged soldier crimes. One report that U.S. military guards had stolen tons of Japanese gold and jewels was later found to be without foundation.

GOVT. SURPLUS FOR FISCAL YEAR IS $248,000,000

Abbott Overestimated By Hundred Million

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott overestimated his 1951-52 budgetary surplus by more than $100,000,000, a final treasury report disclosed yesterday.

The report showed that government income was lower and spending higher than anticipated, producing a government surplus of $248,000,000 for the fiscal year which ended March 31 last.

The surplus was $108,000,000 lower than the $356,000,000 estimated by Mr. Abbott in his April 8 budget speech, but it was more than eight times greater than the $30,000,000 forecast at the beginning of the fiscal year April 1, 1951.

Mr. Abbott has forecast the surplus for the current fiscal year at $9,000,000.

Mr. Abbott, in a statement yesterday, said that final government revenues actually totalled $3,981,000,000, down $22,000,000 from the April 8 estimate of $4,003,000,000.

Government spending climbed to $3,733,000,000, up from the previous estimate of $3,647,000,000.

The entire 1951-52 surplus was applied to reduce the national debt. The net debt at the end of the last fiscal year was placed at $11,185,000,000, down from $11,433,000,000 in the previous year.

Simplicity Marks Final Farewell To G. McCullagh

TORONTO (CP)—George McCullagh, who rose from newsboy to publisher of two Toronto daily newspapers and died Tuesday at 47, was buried yesterday.

His funeral at St. Paul's Anglican Church, attended by hundreds of persons from all walks of life, contrasted in its simplicity with the colorful career of the publisher of The Telegram and The Globe and Mail.

An old friend of Mr McCullagh, Archbishop R. J. Renison, conducted the service. There was no eulogy or sermon. Mourners who founded places in the crowded uptown church—hundreds were turned away—heard the formal service for the burial of the dead as contained in the Anglican book of common prayer.

The congregation sang one of Mr. McCullagh's favorite hymns, "Unto the Hills."

Active pallbearers were John Bassett, Jr., Ralph Blackmore, Charles F. W. Burns, Hal J. Godber, Dr. James P. Grant, Harry G. Kimber, John C. Laidlaw, Donald A. Macintosh and J. Maitland Macintosh.

Honorary pallbearers were: John Bassett, Sr., Hon. Herbert A. Bruce, A. W. J. Buckland, C. L. Burton, Oakley Dalgleish, George A. Drew, James S. Duncan, John David Eaton, Dr. Ray F. Farquharson, Premier Frost, Allan Holmes, Wellington J. Jeffers, Dr. Smirle Lawson, W. A. H. MacBrien, James Y. Murdoch, W. E. Phillips, A. Harry Sequin, Sidney E. Smith, Conn Smythe, Dr. Joseph A. Sullivan, E. P. Taylor, John S. D. Tory and Norman C. Urquhart.

Air Force Scores Lop-Sided 18-0 Victory in Air Combat; Raiding Party Hits Hard

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—The air force today triumphantly announced that it didn't lose a single plane in aerial combat this week while Allied jets blasted 18 Communist MIG-15s out of the skies and damaged 19 others.

Four United States air force planes were lost to Red ground fire and four to unknown causes in action over North Korea this week, the air force said.

The announcement made the last five days perhaps the most victorious of the war—considering that the win-lose ratio of Sabre jets has usually been eight to one over the streaking MIGs.

The air force also announced it had been determined that "one F-86 Sabre jet was lost in air-to-air encounter during the previous weekly period." This was a delayed report.

Fresh Strike Today

Unrelenting Allied fighter-bombers swept up to the Haeju peninsula near the 38th Parallel today to deliver a sudden, stunning blow against a big concentration of enemy troops. Sixteen buildings were knocked out by the fighters, which hurled rockets and bombs and doused the area with flaming napalm. They ltef four roaring fires behind them.

On the ground, the army today disclosed a bold foray which a U. S. eighth army tank and infantry team made into enemy territory on the central front—an invasion which was met by a remarkable 3,000 rounds of Communist mortar and artillery fire.

The eighth army armored raiders struck a Red position southeast of Pyonggang early yesterday and a bloody battle raged for 4¼ hours. Seventy-nine enemy were killed or wounded, 11 bunkers were blown up; six communication trenches were knocked out.

There was no report of Allied casualties or tank losses.

CCF Urges Increased Federal Aid for Housing Projects

TORONTO (CP)—Low-rental housing projects are the main solution to Canada's housing problem, the national convention of the C.C.F. said last night at the closing session of its three-day biennial meeting.

A resolution on the subject originally requested a series of steps by the federal government. But the convention decided that, instead, it would outline what a C. C. F. government would carry out.

A C.C.F. federal government, it said, would provide at least 90 per cent of the total capital required for completed housing projects. It would provide funds at "a very low interest rate, since the government can obtain money at a lower rate than a municipality."

Annual Subsidy

To permit low-rental of units built, it would favor an annual subsidy, the major portion paid by the federal government and the remainder by provincial and municipal authorities. "The subsidy should be related to the difference between the economic rent for the project and the proper proportion of the tenants' income to be paid for rent."

Among a series of resolutions, the convention favored raising the present veterans' allowance of $50 a month to $60 for single veterans and $120 for those who are married.

"Planned development" of Canada and a public works program were suggested to provide employment for all Canadians. The ceiling on unemployment insurance payments would be increased and the waiting-period provision reduce and ultimately eliminated. Agricultural employees, and other employees not now covered, would come under unemployment insurance.

Recognize Red China

On the international front, the convention urged that Canada recognize the "peoples' government of China" and that, after peace in Korea is concluded, she urge that that government be seated at the United Nations.

Some delegates said the resolution should call for the "peoples government" to be seated at U. N. immediately. Majority opinion ruled that this was not "practicable" while Chinese troops were fighting the U. N.

It was urged that every effort be made to achieve German unity before the present plan was carried through for re-armament of Western Germany, and that the people of Western Germany be given an opportunity to express their views before the treaty embodying re-armament was proceeded with.

Coldwell Re-elected

M. J. Coldwell was re-elected president and national leader, a position he has held since 1942. He urged that the C.C.F. should aim "within measurable time," at forming the government of Canada.

Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan declared that a C. C. F. government in that province had given the people security, and that the people had recognized this in the success of the C. C. F. in the provincial elections last June.

The convention gave both Mr. Coldwell and Premier Douglas standing ovations.

First Offenders To be Segregated At Bordeaux Jail

QUEBEC (CP) —The Quebec government will keep hardened criminals segregated from young prisoners and first offenders at Montreal's Bordeaux jail, scene of two riots in the last three months.

Premier Duplessis told a press conference yesterday that this segregation was a "necessary reform."

He criticized newspapers for giving "wide" publicity to last week's riot, and said they were the kind of thing that "might constitute an encouragement for the rebellious criminal."

Damage during the last riot was "very considerable" he said, but he gave no estimate.

As attorney-general, Mr. Duplessis has overall directions of Quebec's jails.

CADETS IN FLORIDA

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (CP)—A party of 26 Canadian air cadets arrived here yesterday on the last stop of a goodwill visit of Florida as guests of the United States civil air patrol. Since their arrival here last week, the party has visited summer resorts and private homes and a U.S. air base. The Canadians leave today for New York.

U.S. SAYS 100 CANADIANS GOT VISAS BY FRAUD

Deportation Hearing Will be Held Wednesday

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States justice department is cracking down on about 100 Canadians it says obtained immigration visas through fraud.

Attorney-general James P. McGranery announced yesterday that a deportation hearing will be held next Wednesday at Detroit in one case and "appropriate action" will follow in others. He did not identify the persons involved.

McGranery said an investigation showed the Canadians entered the U. S. and settled in the Detroit area. He said most of their visas were obtained through misrepresentations made to the American consulate at Windsor.

Information Falsified

Visa applications must show proof that prospective immigrants will not become public charges. McGranery said the Canadians apparently falsified information about bank deposits and bank statements.

"It appears," the department announcement said, "that these visas were obtained by presenting to the consular officials false information concerning bank deposits and supporting documents. . . the applicants know that the information contained therein was false.

"The investigation has established that known persons in Canada aided and abetted these aliens in obtaining their immigration visas."

McGranery said the U. S. consulate at Windsor and the state department co-operated with immigration officials in the inquiry.

Supply Minister Describes New "Nerve Gases"

LONDON (AP) — Britain's supply ministry yesterday described new "nerve gases" which can strike without warning and kill within seconds.

Its article, published in two principal medical publications—Lancet and the British Medical Journal—did not say who has the new gases. Neither did it say whether they are practical for modern warfare.

"These gases are rapidly absorbed by inhalation of the vapor absorption of the liquid through the skin and mucous membrane, or by ingestion consumption of contaminated food and water," the article said.

"A drop of the liquid in the eye or the inhalation of a high concentration of the vapor for a few seconds may cause incapacity or death within a few seconds."

CADETS IN SCOTLAND

EDINBURGH, Scotland (CP)—A group of 25 Canadian air cadets wound up a five-day visit to Scotland yesterday and left for Wales to spend several days before ending their British tour in London. In Scotland they visited Balmoral Castle and nearby Craithie Church where the Royal family worships.

U.S. State Dept. Seeks Confirmation Resident Escaped From Czech Prison

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—An international mystery today shrouded the fate of John Hvasta, a naturalized United States citizen reported to have escaped from Communist Czechoslovakia's grim Leopolodov prison Jan. 2.

The U. S. government is trying to find out what has happened to the Hillside, N. J., man whose escape was announced yesterday, more than seven months after it was supposed to have occurred. But at the moment officials have no idea whether he is dead, or alive and still in hiding either behind the Iron Curtain or outside the Communist bloc.

Hvasta's father and brother said in Hillside last night they felt confident he is safe, wherever he is. But his mother took a grimmer view.

"If my son had escaped from jail in New York, would it take him seven months to cross the Hudson River?" Mrs. Michael Hvasta asked, pointing out that Vienna and safety in the American zone were that close to him across the Danube.

She expressed fear the escape was "some trick of the Reds."

American officials hope Hvasta's reported dash for freedom will not upset negotiations for release of William N. Oatis, held by the Communists in Czechoslovakia on an espionage conviction.

Hvasta had been sentenced to three years, later raised to 10, on espionage charges in May, 1949. The U.S. had denounced the charges against both Hvasta and Oatis as false.

Hvasta, 25, is a native of Czechoslovakia, who was brought to the U. S. by his parents in 1939 and became a naturalized citizen in 1944. In 1948 he returned to his native land as a student.

From March to July of 1948 he was employed by the American consulate general at Bratislava. It was following that employment that he was arrested on the charge of espionage.

Person Killed In Train-Car Crash Burned To Crisp

Collision Occurs at Level Crossing at Sidney Street

Trenton — (Special)—A person not yet identified was killed in a train-car crash yere yesterday afternoon.

The car and the train collided at the Sidney street level crossing. The wreckage was carried 300 feet down the right-of-way and caught fire. The Trenton fire department was called when the flames spread into the grass along the track and threatened two of the freight's oil tank cars.

The body in the wreckage was burned to a crisp beyond recognition and until late last night identity had not been learned. The car bore licence plates S - 5802 registered in the name of Albert Woodcox at Bobcaygeon.

Sanford Bowers who lives on Sidney street 75 feet from the right-of-way saw the car pass as the freight approached. Next he heard a terrific explosion he later figured was the car's gasoline tank. Parts which fell off the car as it was dragged down the tracks were scattered from the crossing to where the wreckage was found.

There was only one body in the car and at first police believed the victim was a woman. Someone at the scene claimed they saw a wedding ring on the charred hand of the left arm.

The accident occurred in broad daylight. A witness who said he saw the car pass his stopped auto reported he heard the train's whistle before the crash.

Today police said that as far as could be determined the man killed was Albert Woodcox of Bancroft.

Mayor Lamport Announces Plan To Stop Crime

TORONTO (CP)—Mayor Lamport said last night the first step in his plan to clean up crime in Toronto is to compile a pamphlet listing simple preventive measures which can be taken by those handling cash to reduce the opportunity for robbery.

The mayor said he believed one of the ways to stop the city's criminal element is to cut off the chief source of its finances—loose and improperly protected cash in payrolls and store tills.

The pamphlet, he said, will contain information on night bank deposits, payroll methods and security systems.

ARREST PALLBEARERS

CHICAGO (AP)—Police arrested five pallbearers yesterday after the burial of Theodore Roe, numbers racket king who was slain by shotgun blasts Monday night. Officers seeking to solve the gang-style assassination also sent out orders for arrest of 14 other men, most of them members of the old Al Capone gang. Another man was arrested for questioning.

Era of Banditry Ends in Sicily By Death of Two

TRAPANI, Sicily. (Reuters)—An era of banditry unmatched for violence, bloodshed and terror in the history of Sicily ended yesterday—finally closed by the treachery and jealousies of the bandits themselves.

The bodies of two bandits who alone survived the disintegration two years ago of the notorious Giuliano gang, which terrorized Sicily for five years, were found near this east Sicilian town. Both were bullet-riddled.

Police said the two men, Salvatore Passatempo and Emmanuele de Maria, were probably killed by friends or relatives of Salvatore Giuliano, late "king" of Sicilian bandits, on suspicion of having betrayed Giuliano.

The whole Giuliano gang was gradually destroyed by the betrayals of its own members.

B.C. Reduces Premiums Under Hospital Scheme

VICTORIA. (CP) — British Columbia's new Social Credit government yesterday reduced premiums under the province's compulsory hospital insurance scheme by $3 a year.

Under the new rates, retroactive to July 1, families will pay $39 a year for hospital care and single persons $27.

The cabinet, however, ordered a $1-a-day charge against patients during their stay in hospital. This became effective at midnight, replacing the old "co-insurance" rates.

"Co-insurance" rates ranged up to $35 for the first ten days in hospital. There was no extra charge after that.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett estimated the new plan will save British Columbians $2,000,000 a year.

Six British Soldiers Killed, 3 Feared Drowned

BAD OEYNHAUSEN, Germany (Reuters)—Six British soldiers were killed and three more were feared drowned during the British Army of the Rhine's "Spearhead One" manoeuvres which ended last night, army headquarters announced today.

Three soldiers were killed when a Second-World-War shell, found on a farm, exploded last night. Three others were killed in a jeep accident.

An officer and two men were listed as missing and presumed drowned during the crossing of the Rhine River, the feature of the exercise.

The Rhine was crossed twice in strength during the last 10 days by troops of the 2nd Infantry Division commanded by Maj.-Gen. Basil Coad, former commander of the British 27th Brigade in Korea.

ROAD MAY HAVE BEEN SURFACED WITH RED CEDAR

Evidence of the possible existence of a tote road surfaced with red cedar timber which either followed the present course of Front Street or crossed Front Street near the present site of the Dominion Bank, was made apparent this week as members of the public works department excavated preparatory to laying a water line.

Workmen who claim to have a knowledge of timber, said the rotted logs encountered a few inches below the sidewalk were red cedar. Their diagnosis was made by smell. Because of the formation of the timbers, the view was expressed that they could have formed the surface for an "improved" road of an early vintage.

Constable Evans In City 32 Years On Thursday

The man with highest seniority on the local police force, celebrated the 32nd anniversary of his arrival in Canada from England on Thursday.

It was 32 years ago yesterday, that William T. Evans, veteran of the First World War, landed at Quebec and later came to Trenton. After remaining in Trenton for exactly two months, he came to Belleville and joined the local force.

"Bill," as everybody knows him, was born in Wolverhampton, England. He joined the British army at the outbreak of hostilities in the Great War and after being demobilized, boarded a boat for Canada.

On November 8th of this year, he will mark his 32 years of police work in this city. Bill says he hasn't given the slightest thought toward retirement. He is senior by 10 years to any other officer.

"A man has to have something to do, or he wouldn't know what to do with himself," he explained.

The police officer married shortly after arriving in the city. His wife, Rose Bailey, was also from England, but at the time of her marriage she had been in the city for some years. Bill's son, Don Evans, is presently operating a grocery store in Trenton, the only daughter, Marian, is married and living in St. Catharines.

Schwab's Little Giants Down Kingston 8-1

By JACK BRETT

Schwab's Little Giants handed the Kingston Cardinals an 8-1 defeat in the fair grounds last night in the first game of a best-of-three series of the first round of the OBA playdowns. The next game will be played in Kingston Wednesday night.

Schwab's started the scoring in the first as Donnes scored on a sacrifice hit, Elliott's single and a double off the bat of Chick. Elliott aboard first on a single, advanced to third on Chick's double and scored on a fielder's error. Chick stole third and was driven home when Dickey hit a hard one to left field good for one base to give the Schwab team a 3-0 lead.

The Cards got their run in the third as Pettitt was safe on first on an error, he stole second and third and scored on a sacrifice hit.

In the fourth, a fielder's error scored Schwab aboard second on a walk and a passed ball and placed Donnes on second. He scored as Coe singled. Coe gained third on a fielder's error and crossed the plate on a wild pitch to make the score 6-1 for the Belleville Pee Wees.

The final two runs came in the 6th frame. Donnes went to second on an error, stole third and was driven home on Coe's single. Coe stole second and third and crossed home on an error to make it 8-1.

Pettitt started for the Cards. He walked two and struck out seven, and gave six hits for six runs.

Senior relieved him in the 6th. He walked none and struck out two and gave one hit for two runs.

Elliott hurled for Schwabs to walk four, strike out seven and give up two hits for one run.

CAMPBELLFORD

40-Pound Muskie Landed With Spinning Outfit

CAMPBELLFORD.—An American tourist from Johnstown, Penna., hooked and landed a monster muskie in Bradley Bay on Wednesday and did it the hard way.

Elmer Good boated the 50-inch maskinonge, weighing nearly 40 lbs., on a spinning outfit with eight-pound test line. The fight was real test of the tackle and the angler's ability.

Mr. Good may have missed out on two records by not having the fish officially weighed. It is believed that the present record muskie caught on spinning tackle weighing about 25 pounds. Unofficial weight of the Johnstown man's fish was a few ounces under 40 lbs.

The other record would have been a local one—largest fish caught in the Trent river this year. Certainly, it is the largest muskie ever reported taken on spinning tackle in the Kawartha-Trent district.

The largest muskie taken in the Trent this year was 36 3-4 pounds landed by a youth from Kent, Ohio.

Multiple Sclerosis Tests Hopeful in Early Phase

Toronto—Just over three years ago, the Ontario public was moved by the story of one young man's tragedy: it heard that Jack Punnett of East Toronto, then 19 and a four-sport athlete, had been stricken by multiple sclerosis, shortly before a scheduled tryout with Boston Bruins.

Multiple sclerosis, nicknamed the "creeping killer," attacks the nerves of the body and may result in paralysis of nearly any body facility or in death. It was dramatized to the public by the crippling, and death of Lou Gehrig.

Now 22, Jack is still fighting against the effects of the disease, for which neither cause nor cure has been found and, with others, is taking part in a courageous experiment.

Treated Twice Weekly

Jack and 60 fellow victims are taking part voluntarily in a program made possible through joint arrangement of the Department of Veterans Affairs, the Central Ontario chapter of the Multiple Sclerosis Society of Canada, and a grant of $10,000 made by the Atkinson Charitable Foundation, matched by private donations.

Dr. Harold Cranfield, in charge of the experiment, says:

"In a clinical test of the advantages of supervized exercise 60 volunteer patients with multiple sclerosis have been divided into two equal groups. The first section is nearing the end of a course of physiotherapy and hydrotherapy and in August, after six months, will change places with the second group. Group two, meanwhile, is carrying on in its former way of life.

"The clinic has been operating two nights a week with each patient receiving one hour of personal attention each night. During the rest of the week they are encouraged to supplement the exercise at home.

"There can be no true evaluation of results for months to come, yet very definite impressions have been formed. Even though it be a progressive disease with a reported increased frequency of attack in the spring and early summer, only one patient has found it necessary to discontinue."

Noting attendance has been about 95 per cent., Dr. Cranfield says "an objective improvement in function is evident and especially in those who have been regular in attendance."

Multiple sclerosis strikes at the nerves. In the disease, the fatty sheath around the nerve erodes away, and the nerve, losing its insulation, short circuits. It's hard to get the message through. Then scar tissues form, become thick, and it becomes impossible for the nerve impulses to pass. That means paralysis.

No Cure Known

Dr. Cranfield does not pretend to think the treatment can cure multiple sclerosis. The disease is in three types, apparently: a rapid decline to death; chronic progressive type; and a type which strikes once, then may not strike again for many years.

Dr. Cranfield says, "We can't do anything about the first type. I think we can about the other two. Consider a house burning, but not completely destroyed by the fire. As soon as the fire has been put out, we start rebuilding and we try to rebuild and restore at a greater rate than the damage done. Whether or not we shall be able to do so is still an open question."

Soon the first group will stop the therapy experiment and another group will start. The second group was the control, which has been going along in its usual fashion for purposes of comparison. Then, perhaps in a year or two, something definite may be known about the results of the treatment.

A thing most definitely known now, Dr. Cranfield says, is the courage of the patients and the goodness of some of their friends. It takes real courage, both physical and mental, he believes, for such as Jack Punnett, and a former figure skater, and a man who was a Mountie until a few years ago, to continue night after night the work which sometimes appears to be only inching towards results.

Still Working

Dr. Cranfield also appreciates the friends and neighbors of patients, the Red Cross, B'nai B'rith, Knights of Columbus and Masons who have been transporting patients to the hospital. He has a special word for the RCMP. In the case of the ex-Mountie, nothing could be done officially about transport, but 60 volunteers turned up. Now, each therapy night, two husky Mounties call for the man and escort him to Sunnybrook.

About 12 patients are still employed, since the patients show a good cross-section of various degrees of the disease, from "very tough" to fairly recent attacks. Whether as a result of the therapy or whether it would have come in the normal course of events, a couple of patients who have not worked for several years plan to look for employment soon.

While it is too early to express any opinion of value, there is no evidence to lead the director of the project to feel that this has been harmful to any patient. He feels, on the contrary, that this may be a useful and essential aid in the management of patients with multiple sclerosis.

Thief Steals Sign As Employees Watch

MONTREAL (CP)—The fellow who stole the bass drum has nothing on the thieves who showed up with ladders and tools, calmly detached a large neon sign valued at $1,500 and drove away with it.

Jess Kushner complained to police that the sign had disappeared from outside his cafe. Police said the job, in broad daylight, must have taken two hours and that cafe employees and passers-by apparently thought the busy workmen were performing a legitimate task.

A small Trenton district girl escaped serious injury yesterday when she darted out from between two parked cars on Coleman Street and ran into the side of a passing auto.

Duke of Windsor Will be Treated By Sir D. Davies

LONDON. (Reuters)—Sir Daniel Davies, a doctor to the late King, will fly to Italy today to treat the Duke of Windsor, taken ill on a yacht cruise in the Mediterranean.

Earlier this week, the Duchess of Windsor said her 58-year-old husband was suffering from pains in the stomach and loss of appetite. The Duke has already been examined by an Italian specialist.

The Duke was X-rayed here last September, but reports that the examination was for duodenal ulcer trouble were denied. It was reported then that he had been advised to give up smoking and that he had considerably restricted his diet. The Duke was also reported to be suffering from sinus trouble which gave him earache.

Davis, 52, is the author of "Observations of Peptic Ulcer". He was the first signatory of the bulletin last Sept. 23 which announced that the King had undergone an operation for lung resection.

Montreal Mystery Blast Still Remains Mystery

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal's mystery blast of last Saturday is still a mystery.

A week of investigation by police and municipal authorities has produced no clue to the cause of the bizarre disturbance that shook widely-separated sections of the city without leaving a trace of its cause.

It was shortly before 2 p.m., EDT, that the shock, generally described as a short, sharp jolt, rattled buildings in the southern, eastern and northern districts. Some persons felt the disturbance and heard a blast. Others heard no explosion. One woman reported seeing a "ball of fire" coming down out of the sky.

Hundreds Reported It

Hundreds of persons telephoned police, the fire department, newspaper offices and radio stations.

Yet, police reported no trace of a blast or explosion or damage to property, the fire department said no fires occurred about that time and municipal authorities found sewer and other facilities operating normally.

The most widely-held theory is that the jolt was caused by an aircraft diving faster than the speed of sound. This creates a shock wave that causes a tremendous clap as the wave hits the ground.

No R.C.A.F. Jets Up

The R.C.A.F. says it had no jet aircraft aloft. Canadair corporation, which produces jet fighters, says it had jet planes up but their pilots have strict instructions not to create such disturbances. And, they add, such a disturbance could be felt over only a half-mile area.

The shock last Saturday was felt in two areas about five miles apart. On uptown St. Catherine street, a big plate glass window in a store was shattered and, in a house up on Mount Royal, a lamp toppled from a table.

The disturbance did not last long enough to be classified as an earthquake.

WHITE—In loving memory of my dear Dad Charles Henry (Hank) White killed in CNR accident at Kingston, August 10th., 1947.
Please God forgive a silent tear,
A silent wish that my Dad was here,
There were others, yes we know,
But he was ours, and we loved him so.
Five years ago we had to part,
With one we loved with all our hearts
The wound is deep it will not heal
Only those that have lost know how we feel.
Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by Edna and son Jackie White. A9

COOKE—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Effie May Cooke, who passed away seven years ago today.
It is not at the time the tears are shed,
That tell of a heart that is torn,
But the lonely tears of after years,
And remembrance silently borne.
Surrounded by friends we are lonesome,
In the midst of our friends we are blue,
With a smile on our face, all hearts are broken
Longing dear mother, for you.
Sadly missed by husband and family. A9

Europe as I See It

By Raymond R. Canon

Reconstruction in Greece

(Article 77)

(Special to the Ontario Intelligencer.) — After the last war a majority of European countries were able to concern themselves entirely with their reconstruction programs but not so Greece.

Even before the end of the war the Communist party had decided to attempt to seize power and towards the end of 1944 launched an attack on Athens and its suburbs. This was a beginning of a civil war which lasted for about five years.

Most of the fighting took place in the Macedonian highlands which border on Albania, Jugoslavia and Bulgaria, for it was from these countries that trained revolutionaries came. In time the situation became so serious that the case came before the United Nations and a special commission was sent to investigate.

Later the Americans sent considerable aid and this, together with the breaking away of Jugoslavia from the Cominform bloc, led to a successful conclusion of the revolution.

When the government got around to adding up the damage it was found that the whole country was in a most miserable state. The Greek merchant marine, which before the war consisted of about 600 vessels with a gross tonnage of two million tons, was very little more than a shadow of its former self. The railways were almost completely destroyed and only about one-tenth of the pre-war rolling stock was in working condition.

Government Headaches

Any list of damages and losses suffered would fill pages and give any government a headache, but the Greeks were faced with still a bigger one. They had to take into consideration three important facts as well, and try to counteract them.

First, the national income of the country was lower than that of pre-war times. Also the war and the following Communist rebellion had not only wiped out all savings but had destroyed about all public works constructed by four generations of Greeks—of a value equal to ten years national income.

Lastly, the outside aid which was forthcoming did not even cover the damage done by the Communists; let alone the Axis powers

Any number of schemes have been introduced in order to assist in the rebuilding of the country. One of the most effective has been the C.D.E. (Community Development Employment) which has about 35,000 working for it.

Works Wonders

Although the whole program has had only several million dollars placed at its disposal, it has succeeded in working wonders, for its workers have built over 1,000 miles of new roads as well as improving 3,000 miles of old ones. They have irrigated 14,000 acres of land, drained 10,000 and protected 35,000 from flood. Not among the least of their accomplishments has been the building of over 100 water supply systems for Greek villages.

It is evident that with the small amount of money on hand, this organization could not afford to pay high wages. But the response among the peasants has been very encouraging.

The fact is that the Greek peasant suffers from chronic underemployment. With only a few acres of land available that he can till, there is not enough work to keep the whole family busy the while year around. The community in which he lives suffers greatly from lack of modern improvements and good roads so that the peasant realizes that he can help his village and his country at the same time, as well as being occupied the better part of the year.

An organization, known as the "National Institute" was founded by the king for the express purpose of raising the cultural level of the Greek peasants, and to teach them how to help their country by using their spare time in doing works of public, interests.

It was out of this organization that one of the most important undertakings in Greece was put into effect; the rehabilitation of former Communists.

Rehabilitate Reds

Not too far from Athens is a small island called Makronissos. It was to this island that young Communists were sent to help to sever them from their organization as well as keep them under close supervision.

It suddenly occurred to an army officer that these men could be helped instead of just being left to stagnate. A seminary was formed in which these former Communists were taught by university professors, journalists, ministers, writers and a whole battery of experts in different fields.

Barracks, playgrounds, theatres, chapels and dispensaries were built, mostly by the men themselves and a small colony eventually sprang up.

The methods used are as follows. All newcomers are given a cordial welcome and receive only the friendliest of treatment. The residents of their village are informed of their good behavior and are therefore much more ready to receive them when they return once more to civil life.

During their stay in the colony the impression is created that it is in the nature of man to make mistakes, and that nothing is more honorable than acknowledging one's errors. This work is done principally in the form of lectures on national, social and religious subjects, and most of these lectures are made by inmates who have already reached a stage of readaptation qualifying them to become a guide of thet comrades.

Program Successful

The success of this school can be best judged by the fact that only about two per cent of those who have been in attendance have had to be considered as incorrigibles.

But Greece still has a long way to go in her reconstruction. The cost of living is still higher than it is in Canada, although wages are much lower. The burden is made even heavier by an increase in taxes, made necessary partly by heavy military expenditures and war pensions.

Even at this, a soldier's widow only gets 50c a day.

Now that Greece is a member of NATO, she will have to struggle with the same problem that has beset almost every country in Western Europe; namely, how does one go about carrying on a program of reconstruction, as well as one of rearmament, and at the same time remaining economically sound. Given years of peace, Greece can probably accomplish it, but should another crisis arise, her economy and with it her whole effort, will be about the first to go under.

When Glass Was Precious

The study of glass may be compared to a window which opens backward to the most remote periods of recorded history. There is, for example, the legend of the accidental discovery of glass by the Phoenicians. A group of Phoenician sailors, the story goes, built a bonfire on the beach. Having no stones upon which they could rest their cooking utensils, they used cakes of soda which they happened to have with them. On completion of their meal, they were amazed to find that the soda had disappeared. In its place was a hard shiny substance which proved to be the first glass made by man.

Or let us glance back into the history of the ancient Egyptians. In the museum at Cairo the modern traveler sees all the priceless possessions of King Tutankhamen. Among these is a marvelous gold necklace with a hundred gold pendants inlaid with turquoise, lapis lazuli, and cloisonne of glass. Because glass is so common in the world today, it strikes one as odd that this material should form part of these exquisite adornments of ancient king, but our surprise ends with the realization that in those ancient times glass was so rare that it was valued above precious stones.

Anyone who becomes interested in the history of glass will be delighted with many of the archaeological exhibits he will find in Egypt. In a tomb of one of the old Pharaohs near Thebes, for example, paintings on the walls show men blowing glass in very much the same way and with very much the same tools still employed in glass making at the present time. Still preserved is a glass piece found in the tomb of Thutmose II, who reigned about 1500 B.C.

Anyone who studies the old mosaic glass beads of the Egyptians will find in them the designs which served hundreds of years later to give workmen their ideas for the so-called "cane" patterns used in some of the early glass paperweights.

Many centuries later, the art of glass-making spread to Venice and Rome. In the Twelfth Century, glass factories were so numerous in Venice that they became a fire hazard to the city. As a result, they were moved to the Island of Murano, where the secrets of the glassmakers were guarded under penalty of death. Glass-makers of those days ranked with the nobility, and a daughter of a court could marry a glassmaker without losing caste...

At Altare, the seat of the glassmakers' guild in the Thirteenth Century, glass-workers were eventually hired out to other districts—much to the distress of Murano. As a result, the art spread to Bohemia, France, and England; and centuries later, to the United States. There is no reference to Venetian glass manufacture before the Thirteenth Century, although it is noteworthy that by this time St. Marks in Venice, built in 1159, had mosaics throughout its interior, and the Venetians of the Thireenth and Fourteenth Centuries were already complete masters of the use of enamel.—From "Old Glass Paperweights." by Evangeline H. Bergstrom, Copyright, 1940, 1947, by Evangeline H. Bergstrom, Crown Publishers.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

It Is Well With My Soul

When peace, like a river, attendeth my way,
When sorrows like sea billows roll;
Whatever my lot, Thou hast taught me to say,
It is well, it is well with my soul.

Though Satan should buffet, tho' trials should come,
Let this blest assurance control,
That Christ hath regarded my helpless estate,
And hath shed His own blood for my soul.

My sin—oh, the bliss of this glorious thought—
My sin, not in part but the whole,
Is nailed to His cross and I bear it no more,
Praise the Lord, praise the Lord, Oh my soul.

And, Lord, haste the day when the faith shall be sight,
The clouds be rolled back as a scroll,
The trump shall resound, and the Lord shall descend,
"Even so"—it is well with my soul.

The real test of Christian faith comes when "sorrows like sea billows roll" upon us, all but smothering trust and confidence in God.

It came to Horatio G. Spafford, Chicago lawyer, when the great conflagration of 1871 swept away all his material possessions and when, two years later, his four children were drowned in a shipwreck while crossing the ocean with Mrs. Spafford.

But Spafford, the author of "It Is Well With My Soul", kept his faith in the face of the heart-wrenching sorrow that might easily have overwhelmed him. When, after being miraculously rescued from the sea, Mrs. Spafford cabled the tragic news, "Saved alone!", he sought comfort in his religion, and to give expression to his undiminished trust in God he wrote the hymn which has proved a balm to so many souls in deep trouble.

Brass Clocks And Buttons

After the American Revolution, the independent attitude of the people extended beyond the purely political to include all other facets of activity. The enormous natural resources of the country were investigated as rapidly as the expanding frontiers made them available. The growing young country was a good market for any domestic product capable of competing favorably with an imported product of similar nature. Patriots though they were, the Americans were sensible enough to prefer the better article if it cost the same or less, whatever its country of origin....

The man given credit for the change from wooden-movement mass-production clocks to brass-movement mass-production clocks was Chauncey Jerome. Because clockmaking was largely a Connecticut institution and brass clock movements were better than wooden ones, the brass business of Connecticut was expanded and the secret of rolling it was discovered. Many Connecticut clockmakers also made buttons or parts for them. After the Revolution, Paul Revere turned from silversmithing to the rolling and casting of copper. The Revere Company of today is the direct outgrowth of the patriot Paul Revere's activities as a copperware manufacturer.

Waterbury, Connecticut, became the centre of the American brass industry, Canton, Massachusetts, became the centre of the copper industry. In Waterbury as early as 1790 they were rolling sheet brass from melted-down pots and pans. In 1804 Abel Porter, later to sell out to the Scovill firm, produced solid brass buttons by cutting them from brass sheets or plates and soldering a wire eye to the back...

Although handicapped by lack of experience, the brass button factories of Waterbury showed a steady improvement in production and in the quality of their products. The tributaries of the little Naugatuck River were soon turning the wheels that stamped out brass buttons... Connecticut peddlers loaded their carts with buttons, clocks, and other state products and sold them throughout New England, the South, and the West. — From "The Complete Button Book," by Lillian Smith Albert and Kathryn Kent. CAPITAL ACCUMULATIONS NECESSARY

According to the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, an average of $8,426 is required in capital investment to provide employment for one man. The Canadian Manufacturers' Association has just finished a survey for the purpose of arriving at what that figure would be. The survey covered a group of companies which have altogether 335,560 employees. The large number of employees suggests that the survey was fairly inclusive.

A similar survey two years ago, also held by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, covered firms employing 247,745 persons. This 1950 survey showed that $8,440 was needed to provide work for one man. The closeness of the result in the two cases indicates that the surveys were as accurate as possible and that the need for heavy capital investment remains relatively constant in relation to the number of employees.

Since the figures quoted above are averages covering industries differing widely in character, it follows that some industries need far less capital investment than others. But some require far more. In this latter category are those which use much expensive material, high grade labor, or expensive equipment, or perhaps a combination of all three. For example, Steel Co. of Canada estimated in January, 1951, that it needed more than $10,000 investment for each man it employed.

If there is any way in which employment, especially industrial employment, can be provided without large accumulations of capital, no one has succeeded in discovering it. Industries or business enterprises of any kind operated by the state are, in this respect at least, no different from those operated by corporations or individuals.

If it is conceded that big sums of money are needed to operate big industries, it must also be conceded that additional large sums of money are going to be required to establish and operate additional large industries. If Canada's industrial expansion is going to continue, these additional large accumulations of capital are going to come from somewhere. Some of them came in the past from Great Britain. In more recent times most of them have come fro mthe United States.

This alien capital has played and is playing a useful role in the development of this country. But there is a catch in it. When Canadian industry is built and Canadian natural resources are developed by capital from abroad, the dividends go to the place where the capital came from—in other words, people outside Canada again gather new accumulations of capital which they can and probably will use again in the same way.

It would be better, in our opinion, if Canada were to become less dependent on outside capital. This independence of outside capital and the obvious benefits which would follow it, can be achieved, but they can be achieved only by a sharp change in the policies which have been in effect in Canada in recent decades.

Corporation taxes, for example, will have to be reduced far below present confiscatory levels, which are taking more money from Canadian corporations than they are leaving to distribute among their shareholders. (This fact is a matter of statistical record, which anyone can verify). Income taxes, which are so high they are making it impossible for the wage earner and difficult even for the highly paid executive to save anything, will have to come away down, too. Inheritance taxes are another important factor in destroying those accumulations of capital upon which every competent economist agrees the future expansion of industry depends.

But before these changes, and various other equally desirable ones, will be made, the public will have to demand them, and do so in a loud, emphatic voice. Before the public, or enough of it, will demand them, the public will have to realize that much of the responsibility is not some one thousands of miles away, nor even the capitalist who owns the factory, but the politician, of whatever party who tries to bribe the voters with his own money.

SOCIALIZATION SAID TROUBLE CAUSE

In a speech in Montreal a few days ago, Harry C. France, New York investment counsellor, said that Britain must either reduce its living standard or population in order to survive.

Mr. France said that the pound sterling might drop in value a great deal further than it has so far. He mentioned that both the French and the Belgian franc had depreciated 98 percent, apparently since 1939.

Mr. France blamed part, but not all, of Britain's troubles on over-population and cost of wars. He said that socialization, "owing to waste, extravagance and inefficiency, has a deteriorating effect on the economy of any country which indulges in it and eventually lowers the living standard for all."

Mr. France warned that continual declines in the value of paper money might eventually result in people refusing to accept it altogether, and that this might happen in countries other than Britain. It had already happened in India, he said.

INDIFFERENCE

When good men nothing do
And duty shirk,
Evil comes crashing through,
Said Edmund Burke.

Those not his words exact,
Now printed here,
But plain the dreadful fact;
The meaning clear.

'Tis true, as then, today
And all should heed,
When good men idle stay,
Bad men succeed.

All who would serve the best
Must share its need,
Nor day nor night take rest
'Til right succeeds.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Being members of the mammal family ourselves, and addicted to daylight saving, it comes as a surprise to us to learn that by far the greater number of our fellow-mammals are nocturnal and live their entire lives asleep by day and active all night. Dr. William H. Burt of the University of Michigan points out that squirrels, chipmunks, groundhogs and prairie dogs, like deer, moose, sheep, goats and bison, are daylight animals. To some extent, cats, foxes, coyotes, hares and rabbits, though chiefly active by night, are fairly commonly seen by day. But against these few he sets up the enormous company of the mice, moles, rats, shrews, bats, not to mention the raccoon and numerous other larger animals that wake up at dusk and engage furiously in their livelihood almost exclusively in the dark.

Every hunter knows that dawn and dusk are the likeliest time of day to see the deer, which rest most of the full daylight hours and feed in the half-light of early morning and evening. If they sleep at night, it must be a restless business, knowing that the wolf, the lynx and to some extent the bear are on the prowl when so many of their small prey, the hares and mice and other rodents, are up and about and easily detected. We share with birds the sense of night as a time of peace and quiet and rest. But to perhaps the great majority of living things, including the insects, reptiles, fish and an immense population of animals, the night is life its self. Their world is not our world at all. They have different vision, sharper senses of hearing and smell. Night has terrors for us. Day has the same terrors for them.

No better time of year can be chosen than August to select a listening place, on a cottage verandah or in a car parked in a woods, to verify this immense activity of the living night. As I write this, I have just heard, across a mile of rock and muskeg, the rabble sound of a mother wolf and her pups who have just jumped a deer and given brief and vain chase. By the time the snow comes, and the pups are grown, the chase will not be so brief, nor so vain.

PIANIST HONORED

OSLO (CP) — The Norwegian decoration of Knight Cross of the Royal Order of St. Olav has been awarded Christian Schiott, noted pianist of Darien, Conn., in recognition of his efforts to promote Norwegian music in the United States.

LENGTHY PROJECT

KARACHI (CP)—A national survey of family expenditures in Pakistan will require more than a year of house-to-house interviews before its completion in 1953. Included in the targets are about 19 communities, including all cities of more than 100,000 population.

LOWER STANDARDS?

EDINBURGH, Scotland (CP)—J. Steel Maitland of Paisley told the Royal Institute of British Architects that architectural standards in Scotland have deteriorated. He said that pre-fabricated houses are taking the place of permanent, traditional homes.

INDIANS BENEFIT

CARDSTON, Alta. (CP)—Indians of the Blood reservation have just received their first dividend from the sale of their oil rights. The initial dividend was $21,000. Several companies now are making tests on the reservation and two oil wells are being drilled.

Of Droppers-in

(From New York Times.)

Drop-in guests are, on the whole, very pleasant things as well as being people, and, speaking generally, their visits should be encouraged. When the temperature is in the nineties, however, when the humidity forms a liquid in the saltcellar, it is permissible to set down an exception to this rule. Drop-in guests should not be encouraged in the exercise of their habit on days and most evenings when it is both hot and moist. Drop-in guests should stay at home, reading books, until the weather grows cooler. It will be good to see them in the latter part of September, and they may drop in at any time from then until the middle of next June. That will be fine, for during the greater part of the year they are pleasant people. But on a hot evening, following a hot day, and damp—no. Indeed, they would stay away did they but realize the sinking feeling on the part of the hosts when their footsteps can be heard approaching. Likely they never would come again, even in the legitimate, cool-weather season, if they could only see the expression on the faces of their victims.

Invasion of Castle

On a hot day, and one that also is wet, home is regarded as a refuge, and that status must remain inviolate. It is a sorry refuge when through the open windows there can be heard those footsteps of the guests about to drop in. The day is longer than usual when it is hot, and the weary spirit wishes peace as much as does the weary body. All day long both of them look forward to a cool bath and cool bedroom slippers. In the breathless heat of the afternoon they can see, as though in a flickering mirage, huge pitchers of iced tea upon the supper table, and can hear the gentle whirring of the electric fan as it tries to loosen up the solid chunks of dead, hot air. In the middle of the summer a good part of the average working day is spent in looking forward to an evening at home, where the peace and quiet will be broken by nothing louder than a softly playing radio, where the greatest exertion will consist of slowly turning the pages of a magazine. But then it happens. Approaching footsteps or a knock on the apartment door warns that those out-of-season, most untimely guests are dropping in.

There are various types of these untimely guests who drop in out of season. The most upsetting of them all is that group which does not drop in once but drops in often. Its members naturally are as welcome as the flowers—in May—but in midsummer they most seriously disturb the routine of sitting still, not thinking, saying nothing and hearing no sounds beyond that gentle whir of the fan. Those who do not drop in once but drop in often set up a distinct sense of dread in the minds of those who are dropped in upon. The salad which represents the evening meal is dry and tasteless, not only because it is salad but also because the mind is occupied in worrying about whether this is to be a free night or one to be given over to the often-droppers-in. A household which has not only a guest who drops in often but also several who do so occasionally is in an extremely poor condition to fight even a minor heat wave. The guest who comes often can never be dismissed as a potential guest for tonight, whereas should he not come his place almost certainly will be taken by the occasional-dropper-in.

Spoiler of the Weekend

And then there are those guests who drop in upon a weekend. Naturally they do not plan to stay, but just happened to be passing this spot, a good hundred miles from their homes, and thought they would look in for a minute. They, too, are more than welcome at such seasons of the year when they would be useful in helping with the firewood, raking leaves or the spring plowing. In the middle of a hot spell, however, when the long days drip even in the country, they would give more general satisfaction if they went the other way, toward the beaches. For many working days the weekend had been anticipated as a time for sitting still, a time for hearing nothing louder than the rasp of the locusts, saying that it still is hot. But then it happens. A crunch of automobile tires and a blast of the horn warn that those out-of-season, most untimely guests are dropping in. They will be welcome indeed, but later on. After the first frost, say.

Dividends A Small Part Of Living Cost

(From the Montreal Gazette.)

Webster defines profit as "the excess of income over expenditure". From the attitude of some persons in Canada this would seem to be a very undesirable form of excess. Indeed, they even suggest that it could be done away with, or at least severely curtailed. It is profits, they suggest, that make living costs so high.

But the propaganda against profits is greatly aided in its success by the degree of its misrepresentation. The facts give little support to it.

In estimating the volume of profits, it is scarcely fair to take the gross figures as they are now and compare them with the gross figures of other years. After all, the country has been growing. Population is greater. Many new industries have been established. The gross national product has been expanding. It is only natural that profits, like other aspects of the country's economy, should be increasing.

* * *

The real question, then, is how does the increase in profits compare with the general growth of the country? Are profits running ahead, as it were, and puffing prices as they do so?

The figures published by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics are interesting. They relate to that portion of profits that is generally criticized the most—the distributed profits, or those that are paid out in dividends to shareholders.

After all, company profits that are not distributed but are saved and reinvested, are hardly to be condemned. It is upon such profits that the expansion of industry largely depends. And upon the expansion of industry depends the expansion of employment and of trade, and the improvement in the general standard of living.

But what proportion of the national income is being absorbed as profits and then paid out to shareholders as dividends? The Dominion Bureau of Statistics has given the figures. They show that last year only 3.9 percent. of the national income of Canada was composed of corporation dividends.

In fact, the proportion of the national wealth being paid in dividends has not been going up: it has been going down. Last year's 3.9 percent. paid in dividends may be compared with the 4.5 per cent. paid in dividends in 1950, or the 6.4 percent. of 1940, or the 6.8 percent. of 1933, or the 5.6 percent. of 1929. These figures scarcely confirm what some people say—that those who receive dividends are receiving the lion's share of the nation's wealth.

* * *

These figures support the findings of a survey made recently by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association. This survey covered a large cross-section of the manufacturing industry in Canada. The findings showed that in 1950, 3.1 cents of the net profits on each dollar of sales went to dividends and four cents were plowed back into reinvestment for maintenance or expansion. But last year only 2.3 cents of the net profit went into dividends, while 3.5 cents were plowed back.

This means that with a lower net profit on the sales dollar than in 1950, these manufacturing industries last year plowed back a higher percentage of this profit, and paid out a lower percentage in dividends than in 1950.

The fact is that even if all dividends in Canada were abolished, the effect on the cost of living would be slight. Whatever may be the real causes of the high cost of living, the money paid out in dividends cannot be reckoned among them.

And for this small percentage of the national income these thousands of Canadians have saved and invested their money. It would seem that Canada is paying them a very moderate return for what they have done to set the wheels of industry in motion and to keep them going.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Signed Letters, Not More Than One Page, or 100 Words Long, Pertaining to Personal Health and Hygiene, Not to Disease, Diagnosis or Treatment, Will be Answered by Dr. Brady if a Stamped, Self-Addressed Envelope is Enclosed, Etc.

I SHOULD HATE MYSELF?

Every doctor I have known, writes a reader of uncertain gender, warns us to keep warm in chilly weather. You say people who wear overcoats in cold weather are sissies. Where is the consistency? Most of your articles smirk on the cynical. You consider most people over fifty dumb or stupid. If you had any knowledge of psychology you wouldn't use as insulting language as you do. After all, you earn money for your writing and your readers are the ones who make it possible... (H. F. F.)

You're right—but let's say over twenty instead of over fifty.

From the middle west Mrs. C. R. R. writes:

"We are happy to have your column back with us and appreciate your informal and helpful attitude, so unlike the alarming, technical (if at all informative) information found in some medical columns."

Thank you, Ma'am, but may I not explain that this column is a health column, and I shy away from medical stuff as much as possible. Whenever it seems at all feasible I am happy to suggest something which I think may be helpful—but only by personal letter.

I was kicked out of a newspaper in the south because a V I P became alarmed by something he saw in my column—hurried to a doctor for examination, found his trouble was not more serious than he had assumed, and cancelled subscription. I wonder what would have happened if the doctor found the trouble was more serious than the patient had assumed, but caught it in time to save the man's life.

A registered nurse (Reg. N.) writes from Wisconsin:

"I am impressed not so much by what you say as how you say it. People are not 'stupes,' and calling them so doesn't sound well coming from one who purports to be a Doctor. It is anything but professional. As far as sympathy is concerned, there may come a day when you would like to receive a little yourself."

Not by mail or in print, I hope. What you call sympathy, in print is pretty shoddy stuff.

The head of a special school writes from California:

"I enjoy your good horse sense so much. I insist that my pupils read your column to get rid of the fallacies and fishwife nations on which they and their parents have apparently been raised."

This pleases me no end. At the same time it puzzles me, for only a stickful or so of my column gets into print most days in the writer's city. Most of my good horse sense seems to be scrapped in that community because there isn't room for it, or maybe some big shot on the paper hates my— or maybe I should hate myself at least enough to keep all my readers happy. To do that I need only tell 'em nothing they do not already know or believe is so. The thought appalls me. I'm off for the bowling green.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BIRD LIFE

Nothing is more fascinating and enjoyable than the study of bird life. I have no idea why they were created in so many varieties. I love that glorious family of warblers, but there are so many of them I find it difficult to put each in its place in my mind. And of all birds what a variety! I guess it was because God found it a difficult job to make one perfectly colored bird, so He distributed the colors all over the bird map!

Where can you discover more varieties and in such perfect combination of balanced color as in our birds? And there must have been a reason for the placing of every color. Each bird is a class to himself. Each makes his own kind of nest, and each has his own call and song and his own individual life.

Birds live out their lives in work, family raising, and in happy song. They are brave little creatures, too. They bear hardships without a whimper. They live healthy lives but if they fall ill they take an isolated stand somewhere, fall asleep and drop to the arms of Mother Nature herself.

I have been watching a robin's nest high in a birch tree just outside my summer cabin. The eggs are not yet hatched, as I well know, for mother robin sits there patiently all day long, leaving for but a short time for food, then returning to her joy as a prospective mother. How very wonderful it is!

When they are fed and not disturbed, birds are very friendly. They come within a few feet of me as I sit and watch them and put out crumbs and food. They soon learn the place where food is placed for them. Then they tell others and whole groups return day after day. It's fun to watch them in enjoyment and song. Nature has endowed them with knowledge on how to protect themselves.

These small creatures teach us a great deal about the weather, the seasons, and life itself. They are long on patience and courage, and they know nothing of the confused state of mind that people in the world experience. They sing through all sorts of weather and know nothing of wars or rumors of wars! They inspire beauty and reverence in the soul.

BELIEF IN THE HOLY SPIRIT

Most people when they encounter the terms "Holy Ghost," or "Holy Spirit," are at a loss to know what they mean. They know that these terms have something to do with religion, but they are not sure just what. Of course the word "ghost" was the synonym of "spirit" three hundred years ago, and previous to that time. The word "holy" means apart from the world. The term "Holy Spirit" (which is the same as "Holy Ghost"), means the living Spirit of God operating in the world. We might liken the influence of the Holy Spirit to atmospheric pressure which exerts its influence upon everybody. God is in the world searching after the hearts of all men. Every day He is trying to get his directives across to us. He is trying to lead all of us into right pathways. For some reason, we know not why, God works not directly but indirectly through the Holy Spirit. By the Spirit He created the world, inspired the Scriptures, and established the Church, and today guides individuals and nations.

Life at its highest consists in our disciplining ourselves and exercising our faith in such way that we can keep our lives open at all times to the beneficent working of the Holy Spirit. Full happiness will come only when we learn to follow the guidance of this Spirit in every particular of our lives.

Weddings

HURLEY—McCAULEY

The marriage of Miss Mary Elizabeth (Betty) McCauley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Vincent McCauley of Marysville, to Mr. Bernard W. Hurley of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Hurley of Toronto, took place in the Holy Name of Mary Church, Marysville. Rev. Father Coffey performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in Chantilly lace over rayon taffeta, the bouffant skirt ending in a brief train. The bodice was finished with a standup collar and long pointed sleeves and iridescent sequins and seed pearls embroidered the neckline and sleeves. The bride's fingertip veil with full border of appliqued Rose Point lace, was held by a tiara trimmed with sequins and seed pearls, and she carried a Prayer Book with cream roses and stephanotis.

Three sisters of the bride, in frocks of pastel shades of net over taffeta, were the attendants. Miss Marjorie McCauley, maid of honor, chose yellow; Miss Kay McCauley was in pink, and Miss Mary Agnes McCauley in green. Their dresses had fitted bodices with portrait necklines and tiny sleeves edged with lace, and full skirts banded with matching lace. All carried basket bouquets of mixed summer flowers.

Mr. Edward P. Hurley was groomsman, and the ushers were Mr. William McCauley and Mr. W. J. (Bud) Forhan.

The reception was held at Tobe's in Belleville. Mr. and Mrs. Hurley will live in Belleville.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By

WINIFRED E. WILSON

MANNER OF MOULT

The "autumn moult", as it is termed, always takes place on the breeding grounds, and all migrants must be over this, and fully feathered, before they are able to begin the long flight.

As some species nesting in the far north actually start south fairly early in July (and this applies to a number of shore birds), it means that for them the so-called "autumn moult" really happens in summer.

However, most land birds that we see near our homes are moulting in early August, others still later. They keep low in the bushes while this operation is taking place, and so we miss their presence, and their singing also, for they are silent now.

Although the moult is accomplished in a manner that gives them the least possible trouble, nevertheless flight is fairly difficult with feathers missing.

Nature has arranged that not too many feathers are shed at a time, and that this is done in pairs: similar feathers falling from both sides of the bird at once. For instance, the middle feather from the left wing and the middle feather from the right wing are absent simultaneously. Balance is secure.

Different Kind of Moult

The so-called "spring moult", which is accomplished before birds leave their winter quarters, is quite different: only extremely worn feathers are replaced by new ones, the rest have just their points cast off.

Even baby birds have a complete moult ere they leave us. Most of our perching birds are born with little tufts of down here and there. Soon tiny feathers break through the skin, a few each day apparing symmetrically, but looking like little spines because they are rolled up. Gradually they unfurl. But this youthful plumage does not last long.

The tiny feathers are pushed out by larger ones that are growing, just as baby teeth are pushed out by bigger ones coming in. This happens evenly, one at a time on either side.

Contrary to the rule, ducks, geese, and swans lose all their flight feathers at once, and are therefore comparatively helpless and at the mercy of their enemies. But again nature comes to the rescue to a certain extent. Bright plumaged males moult in such a manner that, for a time, they wear a pecular, nondescript costume, called "eclipse plumage." Nevertheless they hide from observation until properly equipped for the long journey.

Hand Beauty for Homemakers

Here's one young lady who's learning hand care early. Like Mom, she has her own hand lotion, uses it after doing dishes.

By HELEN FOLLETT

THERE are times when the hard-working homemaker gets panicky about her hands. They are red, the skin is chapped or fingernails seem to have thickened. There are wonderful gadgets that make housekeeping easy but they don't eliminate the need for special hand care.

Freshness of appearance can be restored to hands if she will devote a few minutes each day to this special good-looks duty. She can give herself a hand molding treatment with a nourishing cream. It should be kneaded into the flesh to make the skin smooth, of more delicate texture.

There are special hand creams that serve the purpose better than the emollients one uses on the sacred complexion. If you are hand-worried, get a jar and apply its contents every night for a week or two. You'll be pleasantly surprised at the results.

Wash your hands first, using a brush to soften the cuticle around the nails. Spread the cream from fingertips to wrist. Starting at the base of each finger, go thumbing toward the tip, pressing into the flesh. Work on the inner surfaces of the fingers.

Make a bracelet of fingers and thumbs and place it over your knuckles, go twisting up to the wrist. While you are at it, you might as well continue up to your elbow and give that a few dabs of cream. Elbows are seldom in form. The skin is likely to be coarse or gray on these arm hinges.

It is best to give this treatment at bed time. Slip on some large cotton working gloves. While you sleep, the soothing oils will be lapped up by the skin. By morning they will have disappeared.

The creaming does not take the place of a hand lotion. Use one twice a day, especially after doing laundry work or any kind of heavy work that keeps your hands in water.

Mr., Mrs. E. Anderson Celebrate Their 25th Anniversary

A very pleasant event took place on August 3, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Featherstone, Caledonia, when they entertained at a picnic supper in honor of their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Anderson, of Belleville, the occasion being the silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Anderson.

Following a pleasant afternoon in reminiscing and renewing old friendships, over a hundred guests sat down to a lovely supper served from prettily decorated tables on the spacious lawn. Acting as master of ceremonies, Mr. Andy Smith on behalf of those present, presented a purse of silver to the guests of honor with heartiest congratulations and best wishes of all present. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson both expressed thanks to their many friends.

Following the presentation, brief speeches were made by Mr. Roy Phinemore, Toronto; Mr. Harry Anderson, Mr. Gordon Anderson, Mrs. Jos. Nelles, Mr. Truman Nelles, of Kingston, who was best man at the wedding twenty-five years ago and also by Mrs. LeFlair of Toronto, bridesmaid of twenty-five years ago.

Guests were present from Toronto, Kingston, Dunnville, Jarvis, Hagersville, Kitchener, Hamilton and Caledonia, including six sisters and two brothers of Mrs. Anderson.

SISTERS ALL

By Jean Love Galloway

If there's any one thing that will convince people state medicine should be introduced into Canada, it's the fabulous cost of drugs, vitamin tablets and all sorts of medical supplies. The people should call for a Royal Commission to investigate these costs at once .... A doctor friend of ours went into a drug store in another city where he was unknown as a professional man. He asked for a dozen pills. When packaged, the clerk said they would be $2.40.

"What do you mean?" said the doctor. "I'm a medical practitioner." "Oh, well, in that case, they will be 22c to you," replied the clerk.

Headache tablets for which people pay 18c a dozen are said to retail to industrial medical clinics for 8c per two thousand tablets. Industrial medical care for workers has brought down the cost of drugs to employees. Government medical care would bring the cost down to every citizen.

One brand of vitamin pills retails for $11.50 across the counter. The same thing can be had via a medical clinic for only $6.50. Why should profits in vitamin foods and headache tablets be allowed to reach such heights? Makers of various articles for the home are satisfied to make an 8 per cent profit. Why should these pill factories be permitted to make a thousand per cent or more?

For the benefit of every citizen, a price investigation into the medical supply trade is long overdue. State medicine and state control are perhaps the only permanent remedy for such abuses.

Practical Miniatures

Among the many little gifts in the stores for men and women are the purse pen and pencil set and the pocket stapler. The pen set is about two inches long with a jewel in the end of each piece. The pen is a ball point variety with refills. Pen and pencil come in gold finish and are neatly slipped inside transparent plastic case. The set sells for about $1.50.

Pocket staplers are especially handy for men. They eliminate the hunt for common pins or paper clips when far from the office desk supply.

Letter Yarns

The other night a group of us got onto the subject of "letter" stories. One man told about the convict in the penitentiary who received a letter from his wife consisting of a blank sheet of paper inside the envelope. He was quite upset about it and wrote at once to his wife to ask what had happened. . .She replied, "Joe, when you left to go to prison, we weren't on speaking terms, remember?"

Another story was about two men in an asylum. One was busily writing a letter. "Who are you writing to?" asked the other. "I'm writing to myself," he replied.

"What did yo say to yourself?" "I dont' know yet because I have not got the letter."

Uncle Frontenac says an old chap has to guard against speaking out-of-the-generation and taking for granted younger people are familiar with old time conditions. Uncle says he once got caught up on this very thing when conversing with a middle-aged man who, when asked if he remembered such and such a thing, replied, "No, I don't remember that, but I think I have heard my grandfather mention it."

The Experts' Say
Hearty Foods for Picknickers

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Picnics are the easiest way to entertain the youngsters on a summer Sunday.

If close enough to one of Canada's many parks, there is no need for a discussion over a picnic ground—it's there, frequently in pine woods, complete with outdoor grill, running hot water, perhaps table and benches too.

And where is there a better appetizer than the smell of wood smoke, sizzling bacon and hot coffee?

Regular park-goers always remember to take along a coffee-pot and frying-pan. Their picnic menu generally runs along these lines: Bacon, fried tomatoes, potato or bean salad, bananas or other fruit, cake and coffee.

The bean salad might be the "baked bean" variety suggested by the Ontario department of agriculture. Ingredients: Two cups baked beans, one cup diced celery, two tablespoons finely diced onion, one tablespoon finely diced red pepper, two tablespoons finely diced green pepper, French dressing, salt.

To make French dressing: One-half teaspoon mustard, one teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon pepper, one-half teaspoon paprika, one-half cup vinegar, one-half cup oil, one-third cup tomato soup.

Blend dry ingredients in saucepan. Add vinegar and oil. Boil one minute. Beat with an egg-beater. Add tomato soup and beat some more. After chilling, store in covered bottle in cold place. Shake well before using.

Blueberry Cake

As blueberries are in season the picnic cake might be "blueberry cake" suggested by Newfoundland's Jubilee Guild in one of its cookbooks.

Ingredients: One cup sugar, one-third cup butter or margarine, two teaspoons baking-powder, one cup blueberries, two eggs, 1½ cups flour, one-half teaspoon lemon flavoring, one-half cup milk, few grains salt.

Cream butter thoroughly and add the sugar gradually. Cream well. Add well beaten eggs. Sift flour, baking-powder and salt, three times. Add flour alternately with milk. Add flavoring. Add berries and mix lightly. Pour into a greased loaf-pan and bake in a moderate oven 45 minutes.

Canada's national parks include scenic and recreational parks from the Atlantic Coast to the Rocky and Selkirk Mountains.

All wild life is protected in these parks and as far as possible natural conditions are maintained. Equipped camp grounds and bowling greens. More than 700 miles of park highways and 2,800 miles of trails have been built to provide access to outstanding scenic regions.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Wedded wallflowers

"We want friends!"

That's the surprising cry of a young couple who ought to have lots of friends, for they're young, happily married, parents—a status which usually insures many friends among other parents—and indubitably intelligent and alert.

What's the matter, then, that these two seem unable to "find themselves" in the world of people? To become an integral part of a congenial group whose members have fun together?

It's the man of the house who speaks out on the plight of himself and his wife, and asks for advice. His story is that at 23 and 22, he and his wife have been married for five years and have "two wonderful children". He then goes on to say:

"We move in a very limited social circle, as those in our own age group are still either single or without children, and we seem unable to attain a common interest with them. We don't seem able to adjust with those in our own classification, either —that is, those who are married and parents—as all of them are a good deal older than we are.

"Both my wife and I are quiet and reserved. I guess you'd call us introverts. To complicate this, I work days, of course, and almost every night either at school or studying, so we aren't able to get about very often. As a result, we're not invited out much.

"When we do go out more than once with newly-acquired friends, we just can't seem to get along with them. We don't feel, or act, superior, and we try our best to fit in. But either my wife or I can't stand one or the other of any couple we meet. It's come to the point now where we can't really enjoy anyone, and we feel we're definitely in the wrong.

How does one set about looking for his social assets when he seems to have so many liabilities? Do we have an inferiority complex, and if so, how can we possibly overcome it?"

Well, first, I think, these two might ask themselves if the young husband may not, perhaps, be overdoing the studying. While it is perfectly true and reasonable, that many young people may need to do a certain amount of such studying in order to equip themselves for a special career, is it really necessary for this young man to keep his nose in his books so continuously that he and his wife become hermits, as seems to have happened? Could there be any possibility that such complete absorption is an indication of a subconscious desire to escape the effort of making and cultivating social contacts? I think this is definitely something to which he should give honest consideration.

Overhaul Routine

But whether it is sheer necessity or a rationalizing of a desire to keep away from people that has pinned him so firmly against the wall he has erected between himself and the outside world, it seems to me his routine most certainly needs an overhauling. Remembering that old saying, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," he should consider whether or not his preoccupation may not actually have turned him into such a "dull boy" that he can neither interest other people nor himself be interested in them.

So let him take the first practical step by rearranging his schedule so that it includes a reasonable amount of time for making friends, and for the fun normal young people have with them.

I am directing this piece primarily at the young man because I strongly suspect it is his way of living that is at the bottom of much of the trouble. If he were to take the lead out of the seclusion into which he has drawn his wife, I feel reasonably certain he would not have too much trouble persuading her to go along wtih him.

Next, I think, the two of them will make a survey of their community to find out what activities there are in which they could join. For I believe there is no better way for people to integrate themselves with their community—which is the quickest and by far the best way to make friends—than to share with their neighbors both in some useful work and also in some common form of recreation.

What projects go on in their town—welfare, political, school or teen-age pursuits that need leaders—in which they could be useful and which would also interest them? What forms of social activity are there—hobby clubs, singing groups, drama groups or whatever—in which they could take part? If they can find none they would like to join, then they have indeed become "dull boys", interested in nothing wider than their small family circle. If none actually exists, let them start something.

Here, then, is a program for them. Unless they are deeply maladjusted from a psychological standpoint—in which case they should seek help from a psychiatrist—it can, I believe, go far toward solving their problem.

Food for Thought

Readers' Saturday Column

By Mary Moore

QUESTION:

I am one of your faithful readers. . . .appreciate your valuable cooking hints and recipes. . . .I would like some advice on preserving Dill Pickles. I have never attempted to do up dill pickles before but since they are such a favorite at home I thought I would try. . . maybe you can advise me on the following recipe given by a friend: Select small-sized cucumbers, wash well, prick hit and miss. Pack cucumbers on top of dill in jars. (If cucumbers are big use stock of dill between.) Add a little piece of alum (size of pea) and more dill on top of jar. Make up solution of 1 qt water to 2 qts. vinegar, 1 c coarse salt. Barely bring this solution to a boil and pour in sealers. . . perhaps you can give me a few wise pointers.—Rene De R.

ANSWER:

DILL PICKLES

Dill-size pickles are 3 or 4 inches long. Wash well, prick about 6 times with fork and soak overnight in cold water. Drain and dry. Place a whole dill blossom in the bottoms of 5 quart jars that are perfectly clean. Pack cucumbers in the jars. Place another dill blossom on top. Boil together 2 cups vinegar, 1 cup salt, 10 cups water, and pour over the cucumbers while hot. Seal. These are ready to use in 6 weeks.

This recipe is weaker with vinegar than yours and has no alum. But it is basically the same as the method used by commercial pickle packers.

Thank you for your letter. I have sent you the literature you requested.

QUESTION:

I made your bread and butter pickle last year and it was the first time I had pickles the way I like them. They were lovely and crisp. This year I am not going to slice them so thin as we have to eat a whole jar to get a taste. Your recipe calls for 2 quarts cooking onions sliced thinly. I would like to use the small white whole onions this year. Would I make them the same or would it take longer cooking? I clipped your recipe for Emem's Dark Fruit Cake but didn't make it as I thought that there was a mistake in the amount of butter, but I find out it was right. I would like to make this this year but my family will not eat peel. What would I put in in place of it? One thing I never have the way I would like is cookie shells. The ones we buy are deep and have scalloped edges but are 60c dozen. . . I made your cream puffs, the first ever and they were good. I think you are wonderful and hope you keep the column up for years to come. Thanks for the help I know you will give.—Mrs. T. McP.

ANSWER:

The recipe that was a failure that you wanted me to comment on was not enclosed. Will you send it along and let me take a look? I don't want you to change the Bread and Butter pickle recipe. I worked on that for four different seasons to make it like I wanted it. If you want to use thicker slices of cucumber and whole small onions, make only a quarter of the batch to see if all the times and solutions are correct or if they suit your taste. The whole very small onions will not require longer cooking. It must be Danish Pastry you are referring to.

DANISH PASTRY

Two and one-half cups flour, 1 1-2 teaspons salt, 3-4 cup shortening, 1 beaten egg, (2 tablespoons sugar are optional). Mix and sift flour, salt and sugar (if used). Add egg and just enough ice water to bind the mixture. Chill. Roll out to 1-8 inch thickness, fit carefully into fluted small deep tart tins and bake at 425 deg. Fahr. after pricking the pastry with a fork.

Replace the peel in the Fruit Cake with additional cherries, nuts and raisins.

Note—Write to Mary Moore if you want help with your canning, preserving or pickling. Enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope if you want return mail. Allow at least 3 weeks before expecting her reply in this column if you do not enclose stamped envelope.

Now that lipstick has become an institution, teeth are accented.

Now that the lipstick has become an institution, teeth are accented. If they are not in perfect form, a girl is likely to be self-conscious and no smiles reveal them. Considering what the dental profession can do, there is no reason why anyone not cursed with poverty should not display teeth of pleasing appearance.

Sound teeth are necessary to health. The first processes of digestion take place in the mouth and, unless the teeth are sound, mastication will not be normal. The prospect of climbing into a dentist's chair is not alluring. Even the bravest dread it, but it is not to be avoided. No matter how regular and thbrough home care may be, there should be professional attention twice yearly. The teeth get a thorough cleaning, if cavities are present they are filled—one is often unaware of them—and tartar is removed.

Tartar consists chiefly of phosphate of lime deposited by the saliva. Mixed with this are food particles and in it bacteria may flourish. At first, in soft form, it may be removed with the brush but, if allowed to remain for even a day, its removal will require the use of the dentists' little pickaxes or whatever he calls those that he uses murderous-looking murderous-looking little weapons and plunge into the surrounding tissues.

Don't spare money on professional attention. If you do, you will pay double and triple later on, maybe lose your teeth entirely and have to resort to remountable ones. Rob the beauty budget if necessary, forego the pleasures of new sartorial draperies, but he toothwise and tooth-healthy.

The teeth should be brushed after each meal. Certain food elements, clinging between the teeth or to the gums, can change in character in a few hours, producing chemicals that are a menace to the enamel. It is important not to skip the bedtime grooming.

There seems to be a difference of opinion as to the effect of diet on the teeth. Yet all agree that vitamin C and calcium are helpful. You will get these in milk and orange juice.

GOOD MANNERS

The seat-hog is a most disagreeable animal

Don't be a seat-hog. Don't monopolize an entire seat when you can see—you can see, can't you?—that other passengers are looking for seats, some of them "weary and heavy-laden." . . . while you, utterly selfish grump, make every possible effort to hold onto the seat that doesn't belong to you. You make believe that you are asleep, or you try to look so engrossed in a newspaper or magazine or in looking at the scenery that you just don't notice that the train is filling up. You will appear as mean and selfish as you really are if you force a passenger who is entitled to a seat to ask, "May I sit here?" or "Is this seat taken?" . . .Is it too much to remind you that that extra seat where you have parked yourself or your belongings does not belong to you anyway? And no black looks, please, from you to the innocent person who is simply trying to claim the space paid for. It is you who are in the wrong. . . . Grunt about it as seat-hogs do!

When she wants to meet the very attractive he

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Several months ago I attended a dance, and there was a very nice fellow there whom I would like to meet. My girl friend knows this fellow as he is a friend of her brother whom I know quite well. I thought that perhaps in the course of the evening or even some other time I would be introduced to him by either my girl friend or her brother. But since I haven't been, do you think it would be proper for me to ask for an introduction, or would this be too forward on my part? He's 24 years of age (I'm 19), is very attractive, and has many admirable qualities. What is your advice?—T. H.

No reason that I can see why you shouldn't "make a try" to meet this attractive young man. Suggestion: Don't "bear down" with a too obvious intention when you make your request. . . make it "with an air" as if it weren't a particularly weighty matter to you. "Hi Betty, any special reason why you don't introduce Tommy to your girl friends? With that charm of his, shouldn't you help him to 'play the field'?"

Never write "Miss" in signature

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm 19 years old, single. When I write a letter to a stranger—for example, this letter to you—shouldn't I sign my name "Miss Helen ——"? I've been told I shouldn't, but to me it makes sense that I should sign the "Miss" before my name so as to inform the stranger to whom I am writing what title to use before my name in reply to my letter. —Miss (?) Helen ——

You should not sign a letter, any kind of letter to anyone, "Miss Helen ——". Your signature is your informal name. . . a title is not a part of a signature . . . therefore Helen —— is your correct signature. When a letter is signed "Helen ——", the reader takes it for granted that the title is "Miss". However, whenever you think it is necessary or helpful to indicate the title, it is proper to write Miss in parentheses before your name. (Be sure to write the Miss in parentheses, for then the title is not a part of your signature.) Like this:

Very truly yours,
(for example, to a store)
or
Sincerely yours,
(Miss) Helen ——

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

BROCK CHIPS SATURDAY

When the temperature is hovering delicately between 92 and 93, and an athlete engaged in his favorite pastime of lolling in the hammock at his summer cottage loses five pounds as a result of mental fatigue and having to roll over to sip his lemonade, it comes as a gross surprise that profess— er, ah, semi-amateur, football has again invaded the sports scene. The gridiron behemoths, who can be counted on to render at least seven or eight pounds of grease in an honest afternoon's labors in mid-October, should set some sort of slippery record at Lansdowne Park, in the nation's capital, this evening. For the Winnipeg Blue Bombers invade Ottawa tonight to play an exhibition tilt against the Grey Cup champion Roughriders under the lights at Lansdowne. The Bombers, who looked more like float planes in the mud of Varsity Stadium in 1950, inaugurate the football season in the east at the earliest date on record. The softball playoffs are just getting under way,.. local baseball has two more weeks to go before playoff time, and it is just shy of two months 'til World Series time. Oh well, there is a sort of poetic justice in all this, because the footballers will be asked to share the sports pages later in the month when the hockey teams go off to their training camps. All that's needed now is a new bromide for neurotic sports fans who can't get adjusted to the new sports calendar.

Speaking of football, there is a report that Al Dekdebrun, whose feathery passes netted the Argos the Grey Cup in '50, but whose same feathery tosses in '51 were attributed to a sore arm compared with Nobby Wirkowski's bullet-like blasts, may be coaching the Peterborough Orphuns ORFU intermediate entry come the fall. Dek still is Argo property but is trying to get his release. He has been quoted as saying that he would be interested in a coaching job. Should he get the Peterborough job he will succeed Frank Gnup, who has moved on to coach Brantford Red-.. skins.

The Bay of Quinte Yacht Club, because of an increased number of yachts in the club, have found it advisable to divide the fleet into two divisions. Division 1 will include all boats 25 feet or longer, which includes practically all the boats currently taking part in the summer competition for the club championship. Division 11 will include all boats under 25 feet.

Division 1 will race in Big Bay tomorrow afternoon at 3.00 p. m. for the Wills Trophy, a race open to members of the local club only. The Green Trophy, a new prize for yacht racing, will be up for competition for Division 11 boats, with the race to start at 3.05.

This afternoon, J. J. Morch, sailing Dorian, will attempt to wrest the Mikel Challenge Trophy from Ebon James of Trenton, who won the bauble at the last meet, held off Graham's dock a few weeks ago.

OASA secretary Frank Feaver has announced the playoff dates for the 215 local and district representatives in all divisions striving for softball championships this summer. Interesting items in his bulletin, other than the playoff draw, include the following:

Rained out games will be scheduled for the following day, except under special arrangements with the OASA convener.

All fields must be approved by the OASA convener as suitable for championship play.

Players certificates must be carried by team managers to all games. Birth certificates for minor-age players must be produced on demand at all games.

A glove, with at least three fingers and a thumb, may be used by all players. MITTS may be worn ONLY by the catcher and the first baseman.

Coaches, managers, and players, in all divisions are advised to note the above regulations carefully if they wish to avoid committee-room decisions.

Local teams have been drawn as follows:—

Intermediate A: Aug. 23, Kingston at Belleville with the return game in Kingston on August 27th; a third game, if necessary on August 30th.

Intermediate B:

Aug. 15: Trenton RCAF at Wooler, with the return game at the air station on August 18th. The third game, if necessary on August 20. Frankford draws a bye in the first round and will meet the winners of the Flyer-Wooler series at Frankford, Aug. 22nd.

In the junior A division, Brockville visits Glen Roys, August 16th, with the Glens back in Brockville, August 23. If a third game is needed it will be played on neutral grounds, August 27th. Oshawa draws a first round bye, and will meet the winners of the Glen Roy-Brockville series in Belleville or Brockville, August 30, with the return game in Oshawa, September 6th.

In pee wee softball Belleville is at Brooklin August 16, and back in Belleville for the second game, August 23rd. This series is for the zone championship.

Hammers Three-Run Blast In Tenth to Defeat Phillies; Cleveland Gains on Yankees

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Handy Andy Pafko finally is paying Brooklyn some juicy dividends on the big deal of last season.

Hitting an even .300 with 15 home runs and 55 runs batted in, the 31-year-old outfielder is refuting those who said he was "all washed up" when Chicago put him on the block.

Pafko seems to be overcoming a habit that disturbed Manager Chuck Dressen. His first 10 homers came with nobody on base. Then came last night's three-run blast off Curt Simmons in the 10th inning for a 6-3 victory over Phillies.

Important Win

It was an important blow for Dodgers, enabling them to stretch their lead to 6½ games. New York was shut out by Boston's Max Surkont, 2-0, and St. Louis lost to Cincinnati, 8-5.

Pafko drove home five runs with his homer, a double and a long fly ball. Preacher Roe, who took over in the eighth after Ray Moore turned in 6 1-3 innings of brilliant relief work for Chris Van Cuyk, was the winner.

Surkont, veteran righthander, held the second-place Giants to four hits, stopping Al Dark's 22-game hitting streak. Ben Thorpe and Jack Dittmer drove in the two runs off Max Lanier.

Ewell Blackwell needed relief help to save his third win of the season after Cincinnati chased Cliff Chambers in a five-run fourth inning. Roy McMillan's double with the bases loaded was the important hit. Andy Seminick hit his 13th homer and Enos Slaughter his ninth for St. Louis in the free-hitting game.

Dickson Stars

Murray Dickson took matters into his own hands for downtrodden Pittsburgh Pirates. He shut out the Chicago Cubs for 10 innings with six hits and then broke up the game with a 10th inning single for a 1-0 verdict.

Rookie Bill Glynn's homer in the 12th enabled Cleveland to tighten up the American League race with a 10-9 win over St. Louis Browns. Indians now trail the idle New York Yankees by only 2½ games.

Rain washed out the Boston-New York and the Philadelphia-Washington night games in the American.

Chicago came from behind twice to sweep a doubleheader from Detroit, 4-3 and 2-1, behind Billy Pierce and Joe Dobson.

Guelph Leafs Beat Kitchener In Tight Game

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Guelph Maple Leafs, holding third place in the senior Intercounty Baseball League, last night showed some of the fire which kept them in first place for the first half of the season as they edged the league-leading Kitchener Panthers 1-0.

St. Thomas Elgins saw their immature two-game winning streak snapped as they bowed 5-3 to the fifth-place Galt Terriers.

The Maple Leaf win in Guelph came on a sixth-inning home run by leftfielder Nick Ciani. Bob Malone of Guelph and Red Tallevi of Kitchener lined up in a spectacular pitchers' duel. The leafs picked up only two hits, both by Ciani.

Gallinger Chased

Tallevi was replaced in the eighth by Ha. Johnson. Don Gallinger, Kitchener manager, was sent from the park in the first inning when he protested a called third strike. Tallevi was tagged with the loss.

Jim Bell of Galt had a shutout at St. Thomas until the Elgins blasted out four hits for three runs in the eighth. He held St. Thomas to nine hits, six walks and struck out five. Bob Griffith went the distance for the Elgins.

Galt scored twice in the fifth, once in the sixth and twice in the seventh. Catcher Charlie Moore paced Galt with three hits in four trips, including a two-run homer and a double.

Four games are scheduled for today. Waterloo is at Kitchener, Kitchener at Brantford, Galt at Waterloo and London at St. Thomas.

Russ Evon, London leftfielder, holds double batting honors in league figures released yesterday and covering games up to Aug. 4. He has a batting average of .384 and is trailed by Don Butler of St. Thomas with .336. In the runs-batted-in-department, Evon has a total of 40 with Eudie Napier of Brantford runner-up with 28.

Gerry Wilson, Brantford, is top scorer with 38 runs. Bob Brake of London holds pitching honors with nine wins and one loss. Chuck Fedoras of Kitchener has 11 wins.

Protest Meeting

A special meeting of the Intercounty executive and senior club operators will be held at Galt Monday night to decide the next move in the protest action by Waterloo Tigers against London hurlers Bob Brake and Arnold Early.

League President Otto Manske said yesterday he decided to order the emergency session after failure to persuade three past presidents of the intercounty organization act as a protest board. The protest board was sought at a meeting held in Galt Thursday night.

Yukon Eric Holds Layton To Draw in Give-and-Take Bout at Memorial Arena

Layton used his judo chop on numerous occasions but Eric had too much stamina and when he came back with his famous back-cracker, Layton ran for cover. Layton worked on the throat, the neck, eyes and legs of Yukon but always there was that little bit in reserve and Eric would come back to apply terrific wrist and neck holds that had Layton wincing. The crowd enjoyed seeing Layton being matched strength for strength and in the exchanges Yukon would always come out on top. Finally the big fellow gave this method up and resorted to his favorite hold to soften him up and then would go to the judo chop for effectiveness. This finally worked and Yukon was counted out at the 22.30 mark.

It could be seen that Yukon was only warming up to his task and in the second fall applied his favorite hold at every opportunity. Twice His Lordship bounced off the ropes and each time was met head-on by Yukon with the result the floor took an awful pounding. The crowd figured and so did Yukon after awhile that Goddar was favoring the opposition and after taking several judo chops he nailed Mr. Layton against the ropes pulled him to the centre of the ring and in a few seconds it was all over. Layton left Yukon lying on the floor in the first fall and Yukon reciprocated in the second.

The third and final fall was packed with action from the opening bell and both missed several opportunities to put their man away. As the minutes ticked off Yukon had Layton in trouble on the ropes and several times was warned not to use his pounding on Layton's back, which by this time had become monotonous to Layton.

With only two minutes to go, Layton applied the pressure but Eric was in command at the bell and a draw decision was a fair one.

In the semi-final Ray Villmer proved he is one of the cleverest artists to show in the local ring. Outweighed by plenty he showed Atkins more holds that an octopus and there was no hold that Atkins could apply that would stick. Finding this road too rough the Australian resorted to roughness but he was given back far more than he received. The referee was manhandled plenty in this bout by both contestants but managed to be on his feet at the end to call it a draw.

The preliminary introduced another masked marvel to the customers and he is rough, tough and nasty and easily disposed of Dave Simms in 18.15 of a half hour limit bout.

U.S. Davis Cup Team Shoots For Third Win Over Canada

Americans Win Two Single Matches, Flam Defeats Rochon And Vic Seixas Downs Main

By MAX McMAHON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—The United States Davis Cup tennis team today is shooting for its third straight victory against Canada in the final round of the North American zone tie.

If the team of Vic Seixas and Herb Flam play as they did yesterday in singles, then the Americans can be expected to win the best-of-five series and possibly send second stringers Bob Perry and Jack Frost, newly-crowned U.S. junior champ, into the final singles Sunday.

Flam and Seixas are scheduled to meet Brendan Macken and Lorne Main in the doubles. Macken and Main last week took the Mexican team in straight sets.

Yesterday, Flam defeated Henri Rochon 6-2, 8-6, 6-2 and Seixas downed Main 6-2, 6-3, 6-4.

Little Experience

Seixas and Flam have little experience as a doubles team, but they should work out well because of their respective games.

Seixas has a tremendous serve, good approach shots, is one of the most natural volleyers in the game, has a lot of topspin on his forehand and a slice backhand.

He showed his authority on the backcourt in his match with Main. While Main had more placements than Seixas, mostly taken near the net, Seixas stood on the baseline and slammed back everything Main could retrieve and kept the ball going until Main erred, either by going beyond the baseline, or putting the ball in the net.

While Flam perhaps lacks Seixas' power, he has a masterful control and touch. He knows where his ball is going to land on most occasions, and also seems to know where it's going to be when, and if, it comes back.

Shows Mastery

He showed his mastery of tennis when he humbled little Rochon yesterday, playing exactly the unorthodox game that was supposed to fool him—drop-shots, angling shots to the corners, lobs and fast change of pace.

Rochon said after the game that while he didn't dispute Flam was a masterful player, he was nervous and tense before the crowd. He said he usually plays a better game away from home when not under that kind of pressure.

Main used his two-handed return of service effectively against Seixas yesterday.

He also came up with an effective service of his own. He aced the more powerful Seixas twice only one serve got by him.

Macken plays a game similar to that of the Americans. His service, with his entire body behind it, is terrific; he is noted for his touch and control, particularly when volleying and his ground strokes have depth and authority. He and Main have played together as a winning team.

Plenty of Soul-Searching Among British Sportsmen Analyzing Olympic Record

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Failure of British athletes to win a single gold medal in track and field events at the Helsinki Olympic Games, has sent the so-called experts into sessions of soul-searching and post-mortems.

The men who weighed up the evidence in an effort to find a cause, reached the simple conclusion that Britain's best just wasn't good enough and that a change in national outlook is necessary.

Based on lessons of the 1952 games, Britons have been told that if their country is to be promoted from the ranks of a second-class power in sport those responsible for selection and training must stop thinking in the past.

Approach Too [illegible]ular

London sports columnists generally were agreed that the British approach to international competition was far too insular and that her leaders of athletics were inclined to underestimate world opposition.

Blind, complacent optimism, they chorused, just isn't good enough.

Stan Tomlin, a leading track and field authority, summed it up this way: "We have been smugly satisfied with our apparent improvement and have completely misjudged the world rise in standards. There has been no fight at the finish. Lack of condition and lack of tough training has beaten us."

Another writer suggested that the British Olympic contingent had been "cluttered up with flash athletes," who never had a chance in a Roman holiday of new Olympic and world records.

Jack Crump, British Olympic team manager, was inclined to be testy about the criticism of the British showing.

"The whole team has done better than we had any right to expect," he said. "The fact remains they weren't just quite good enough, but the competition out there was fantastic."

Others, however, took a more serious view of what they contend is outright "shamateurism" under the protective cloak of simon-pure Olympic competition.

Government Backing

William McGowran, veteran columnist for the London Evening News, charged that continental countries, particularly those behind the Iron Curtain, regard sport as their great "invisible export." Many foreign governments, he says, back their national teams as lavishly and patriotically as they would an army corps on the battlefield.

No Financial Worries

Under this regime, star athletes are provided with best training facilities, expert coaching, all the time they require—without any financial worries. To safeguard their technical amateur status no one presumes to offer them money, but they are adequately provided for with jobs as civil servants or as army officers.

The Americans, the writer maintains, play it slightly differently by subsidizing their Olympic or international prospects by sending them to college. There they are taken in charge by the most highly-paid coaches in the world and studies become a minor consideration.

"Our choice seems obvious," said McGowran. "Either we can put some elasticity into the interpretation of the rules to find some way of subsidizing our sportsmen and hope for a few victories, or we can continue to play the game for the game's sake and maintain our no longer enviable record of the world's best losers."

Sport in Brief

Jim Thorpe, 64-year-old football great and Olympic games star, suffered a heart attack yesterday and was taken to a hospital at Henderson, Nev.

Dr. J. F. Coogan, who attended Thorpe, said his condition is serious but not critical.

Thorpe was unconscious when he was brought to the hospital and was placed in an oxygen tent.

The American Hockey League's board of governors, scheduled to resume a two-day meeting last night, called it off and will resume the discussions at New York, Tuesday, Aug. 19.

There was no explanation. It was reported, however, that some of the league's problems were such that the delegates here had to consult with other club officials in their hometowns.

Among the problems is the election of a president to succeed Maurice Podoloff of New Haven, Conn., and the formation of a schedule for the nine-club league.

Cobourg Galloping Ghosts yesterday found themselves the last small town team in the Ontario Rugby Football Union intermediate league when Orillia Bombers folded.

The Orillia squad will be replaced by a Kingston team. Other members of the league are Peterborough and Oshawa, last year's group winners.

Washington put in a bid yesterday for the proposed heavyweight title fight between champion Jersey Joe Walcott and Rocky Marciano.

The bout would be held in Griffith Stadium, which has a seating capacity of 27,000 exclusive of seats that could be placed on the field.

Thirteen-year-old Harry Freedhoff of Toronto yesterday defeated Jackie Wear of Toronto 7-5, 6-1 to win the Ontario junior boys' tennis championship.

Peterborough In Second Place Lacrosse Loop

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Peterborough Timbermen last night took undisputed possession of second place in the Ontario Lacrosse Association's senior A loop with an 8-5 victory over Toronto West Yorks. At the other end of the circuit Owen Sound Crescents whipped the cellar-dwelling Fergus Thistles 17-11.

In both games the losers took early leads; Fergus leading 8-6 at half-time and Toronto 3-2 at the midway mark.

In Fergus Don Campbell of Owen Sound and Bob Dobbie of Fergus each scored four goals. Jack Foote and Arnold Smith each contributed three for the Crescents, while Don Gear and Frank Chambers popped in two each for Fergus.

Russ Slater rapped in two for the Timbermen in Peterborough.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—For a man who might be heavyweight champion of the world within another two months, Rocky Marciano of Brockton, Mass., is singularly unknown to the vast bulk of the country's fight fans.

This is partly due to the fact that his rise has been very rapid and partly to the refusal of the east's boxing writers to whoop it up for the rugged young man until his manager, Al Weill, quit feeding him popovers and put him in with someone who could fight. The memory of Primo Carnera still is green.

Now that Rocky has obliterated such a headliner as Harry Matthews with one clout there can be no particular harm in speculating on what sort of champion the 27-year-old New Englander might make.

Talks Willingly

Rocky, born Rocco Marchegiano, is a friendly young fellow, anxious to be liked. He talks willingly, both before and after a fight, and hasn't, up to now, been brusk with anyone.

Rocky served a four-year hitch in the army and, by preference, was attached to the branch which digs ditches and wrestles bridges and generally develops big muscles. He was brought up in a poor, hard-working family, as are all heavyweight aspirants, and he values even the present day buck.

Four years ago he was fighting in a golden gloves bout at Boston when he was spotted by a talent scout and advised to get himself a good manager, preferably one with connections. He and a close friend, Al Colombo, hitched a ride here on a truck and hooked up with Weill.

One of the biggest jobs faced by Rocky's sponsors was to teach him to eat properly. They finally convinced him he should not surround a hogshead of spaghetti just before a bout.

They say Rocky has contributed several thousand dollars to Carmine Vingo, a fighter who came near dying and was long hospitalized after being kayoed by Marciano in 1949. He has taken his father out of the Brockton shoe factory where he worked and will send a kid brother to college next fall.

There seems, in fact, to be no rap at all against Rocky. It was not his fault that Weill brought him along so cautiously and paired him in a number of matches which were, shall we say, suspect.

Layne Surprises in 10-Round Decision Over Ezzard Charles; Dempsey Berated by Manager

OGDEN, Utah (AP)—Husky young Rex Layne bulled his way over former heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles last night in a 10-round decision which threw the Charles camp into an uproar.

Jack Dempsey, the former world heavyweight champ who was the referee and sole judge, held Layne's hand up in the victory sign as thunder showers deluged Ogden stadium.

Immediately afterward, Charles' co-manager, Jake Mintz, rushed into the ring, berated Dempsey with: "This is the lousiest decision I've ever seen."

Later, Dempsey told a reporter that "I called them just like I saw them. I'm sorry that Mintz or anyone else didn't like the decision. I'm sorry."

Layne weighed 195 and Charles 190 for the outdoor fight which promoter Ken Mayne said drew more than 23,000 fans. Mayne estimated the gate would top $150,000. Each fighter will receive 35 per cent.

The fight hit its hottest pace in the eighth round when both fighters landed telling blows. The 31-year-old Cincinnati negro flicked a left which cut Layne's lip in the ninth. Charles kept boring in at a fast pace, behind his sizzling left, and the battle ended in a last-round flurry.

But the oral fight had just begun.

Some ringsiders disagreed with Dempsey's card of seven even rounds, two for Layne, and one for Charles.

Layne, who lost by a technical knockout in his first fight with Charles, said the former champ "hurt me several times." But Layne thought he scored a solid victory. His manager, Marv Jenson, said, "we consider Rex the uncrowned heavyweight champion of the world. He has licked both Charles and the present champ, Jersey Joe Walcott."

Jenson said he now will try to line up a Layne-Walcott go in September.

Another Time

After the fight, Charles declared, "Layne didn't even know the fight was over." Then he added, "There will be another time."

Ray Arcel, Charles' trainer, also joined the fight post mortem. "Instead of adding dignity to the fight game, Dempsey has added disgrace," he said.

Mintz rushed to the ringside press row after Dempsey had turned his back and left the stadium.

"It's the worst decision I ever saw," he shouted. "Charles was ahead by at least three rounds. It was a political steal. Layne was holding on and grabbing for dear life. Dempsey is a thief. Charles is still the greatest fighter in the world."

Kesselring Seeking Second Straight Amateur Golf Title In Meeting Neal in Final

KINGSTON (CP)—Gerry Kesselring, 23-year-old shotmaker from Kitchener, set out on the 36-hole final match today in a bid for his third Ontario amateur golf championship in four years.

A victory over Jim Neale of Hamilton Glendale would make the Kitchener star the unquestioned ruler of Ontario golf. Defending amateur champion, he also holds the provincial open title which he won a month ago in a 54-hole medal play test against pros and amateurs.

Kesselring, who plays out of both the Westmount and Rockway clubs at Kitchener, had a tight battle with George Eluck of Windsor Lakewood to get into the final. He downed the Windsor player one up in a tight semi-final battle that recalled their gripping final match in the 1949 amateur when Kesselring won on the Westmount course on the 38th hole.

Neal's Second Try

Kesselring, who captured the Ontario amateur in 1949 and 1951, picked up a three-hole lead in the first four holes of yesterday's semi-final but Eluck trimmed him down till the Kitchener youth was only one up on the 18th tee. Kesselring was short about a foot on his approach putt, when Eluck on his last chance missed the cup by four inches and the match closed.

Neale and Waechter reached the 18th tee on even terms. Neale landed on the green on his third shot Waechter on his fourth. Neale putted out on his fifth to win.

Match Goes Route

Officials announced that in today's final round Kesselring and Neale will play a full 36 holes, no matter where the match ends.

If Kesselring takes today's round he will become the fourth golfer to win the Ontario amateur title three times. Jack Nash of London won it three times, Sandy Somerville of London four times and Phil Farley of Toronto six times.

In quarter-finals, Kesselring defeated Herb Epstein of Toronto, 5 and 4. Neale eliminated Herb Reinholdt of Toronto, 6 and 5.

Eluck knocked out Doug McKellar of Toronto, 2 and 1, and Waecheter put out Louis Georgas of Owen Sound, 3 and 2.

Emerson Creed of London won the consolation sweepstakes yesterday with a 74, one better than George Button of Toronto. Jerry Knechtel of Kitchener and George Hevenor of Toronto tied for third with 77s.

Marlene Stewart Favored To Repeat in Closed Contest

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP)—The Canadian women's close golf championship today rested on the performances of two young Ontario golfers in the final round of the 54-hole medal-play competition.

The diminutive, 18-year-old champion Marlene Stewart of Fonthill is favored to repeat after a two-round score of 150—eight under par. But Ontario champion Mary Gay, 20, of Kitchener pulled up on the leader yesterday for a 36-hole count of 153.

Three Under Par

Miss Gay led the field in the second round when she blasted Edmonton Mayfair's 6,655-yard layout with a three-under-par 76. Miss Stewart toured the second 18 in 78.

After the first round the champion was five strokes ahead when she burned up the course in a seven-under 72. Miss Gay had a 77 Thursday.

The two were alone in front. Rae Milligan, 18-year-old Alberta champion from Jasper, and Daintry Chisholm of Montreal tied for third with two-round 168s.

Ontario Team Wins

Ontario, resting on the scores of Misses Stewart and Gay, was an easy winner in the inter-provincial team play with a four-player aggregate of 648. Alberta was second with 636.

The host province had not placed better in team competition since an Alberta squad won the crown in 1935. Miss Milligan's second-round 82 that put her in third place had much to do with Alberta's showing and its winning of the team low-net title with 633. Ontario had a low net of 635.

British Columbia was third in team play with a gross of 698 and defending champion Quebec had 702 for fourth. Miss Stewart's 150 won her the O'Keefe trophy for individual low gross in the 36-hole team play.

Youth had a strangle-hold on top placings. Babs Davies of Vancouver, third after 18 holes, took an 87 yesterday for 169 and fifth place. Behind her was 17-year-old Saskatchewan champion Joanne Goulet of Regina with 88-82—170.

Alone at 172 was Mrs. J.C. Whitelaw of Laval-sur-le-Lac, Que., and bracketed at 173 were Mrs. J. Dagenais of Laval and Mrs. Graeme Pyke of Montreal. Mrs. D. MacDougal of Saskatoon and junior Dorothy Herbertson of Esquimalt, B.C., had 174s. So did Ann Sharpe, Miss Stewart's club mate from Fonthill.

Ada Mackenzie of Toronto settled down yesterday with an 81 for 175.

Miss Stewart's early record-shattering performance slowed when her drives shortened and her second shots lost their accuracy. She had four birdies and three bogies.

Miss Gay seldom varied, firing three birdies and parring the rest.

Farm Ponds

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted sportsman, author and creator of Solunar Tables.)

There are comparatively few farms, regardless of geographical location, which would not benefit by the addition of one or more farm ponds. Moreover, now that we have bulldozers, which can move prodigious amounts of earth in a short space of time, the cost of construction of a farm pond is no longer prohibitive.

The farm pond has many desirable features. Properly installed and cared for, it can add greatly to the appearance of the farm, not to mention the actual increase in real estate values.

It provides clear water for livestock at all times, including periods of severe drought. By having impounded water on hand, the farmer is no longer dependent upon springs and wells which can, and often do, go dry. Thus, his stock always has available water.

It makes a concentration spot and a breeding area for many forms of wildlife. Ducks, both wild and tame, use its pleasant waters. Frogs and turtles, through some form of grapevine telegraph, somehow find their way to these ponds and there they stay. Transient waterfowl use it as a resting place in their annual migrations.

If a pond is large enough, it can be used for outdoor recreation such as boating and swimming.

Last, but by no means least, it can be stocked with fish, which, in turn, provide sport for the owner and a welcome ready supply of food for his table.

Consult Experts

To install a farm pond properly, it is wise to consult the men who know about such things. The agricultural departments of both the State and the Federal Governments have studied and experimented with farm ponds.

They know from experience how they should be constructed. They are glad to co-operate in the selection of the site and they can furnish complete data concerning preparation of the land to be flooded, construction, planting of aquatic plant of growth, fertilization, and stocking with fish.

To do any of these things without advice very well can result in wasted effort which must be done over in order to have a successful installation.

For instance, consider the matter of planting water weeds. Such things as spike rush, arrowhead, bulrushes, etc., are both necessary and desirable, as they furnish a haven for the tiny creatures upon which small fish feed.

Conversely, such plants, as cattails, water lilies and coontail, while they serve the same primary purpose, soon will choke up the pond so that fishing and general recreation are out of the question. Naturally, this interferes with proper fish management and until the weeds are removed the pond does not serve its full purpose.

Generally speaking, the farm pond should be fenced so that livestock does not have direct access to it. These can get water from troughs which can be kept full and fresh either by gravity flow or pumping. To allow them free access to the pond means inevitable damage to banks, muddy water and contamination.

Recommend Fences

The agricultural agencies recommend that fences be placed at the very least not closer than 20 feet from the water's edge. Even larger enclosures will serve recreational uses and wildlife better than will the closely fenced areas.

A farm pond, once it has been stocked with fish, will restock itself annually. Recent experiments have shown that a clear-water pond produces more fish which grow faster than does a muddy pond, the ratio being almost two to one. Thus, it is wise from that standpoint alone to have clear water at all times.

When stocking a farm pond it is extremely important to follow instructions. Your agricultural department has all the data. Consult them before going ahead.

Missouri, for example, has worked out four plans for stocking. These are as follows:

(1) Per acre—100 largemouth bass; 1,500 bluegill sunfish.

(2) Per acre—75 largemouth bass; 25 crappie; 1,200 bluegill sunfish.

(3) Per acre—75 largemouth bass; 1,200 bluegill sunfish; 25 bullhead catfish.

(4) For ponds of less than one acre, bass are not desirable. After all, a small pond will support only a limited amount of fish suitable for table fare. Thus, they recommend per pond—100 crappie; 75 green sunfish; 75 bullhead catfish.

Stocking ponds with adult fish is not good. It is better to stock all species in fingerling size. Then the faster-growing bass and crappie can subsist on the smaller and more prolific sunfish and bullheads, thereby establishing a natural balance.

The introduction of adult fish and other species than those listed usually will destroy the natural balance between species and cut down appreciably the annual harvest of edible fish.

If you want complete data on farm ponds, drop a line to your state agricultural department or to U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, U.S. Dept. of the Interior, Washington 25, D.C.

Montreal Royals Almost Assured Of Winning Flag

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

With Montreal virtually assured of winning the pennant, interest in the International League has shifted to the scrap for the three remaining playoff positions.

Only six games separated fourth-place Toronto from second-place Syracuse today and the Leafs in turn are only 3½ games in front of Baltimore and Buffalo, who are tied for fifth place.

Royals increased their advantage to nine games over Syracuse last night by beating the Chiefs 9-7 in 12-innings.

Montreal scored six runs in the fifth to take a 6-2 lead, but the chiefs tied it up with a homer in the sixth by Johnny Welaj and a three-run homer in the seventh by rookie Carl Bell. Both teams scored in the 10th but Royals finally pulled it out in the 12th when Carm Mauro doubled, Jim Gilliam tripled and Joe Lutz singled.

Buffalo Bisons nipped third-place Rochester 5-4 in 10 innings. Frank Carswell drove home Ed Kazak with the winning run. Paul Foytack blanked the Red Wings on five singles after taking over in the second from Al Yaylian to gain credit for the victory.

Dick Starr pitched Baltimore Orioles to an 11-1 victory over Toronto. The Orioles supported Dick Starr's six hit pitching with an 18-hit barrage that included Roy Weatherly's 22nd homer of the season.

A crowd of 5,425 fans turned out to boost Toronto's home attendance to a record 356,419. The former high was 353,247 in 1949. The Leafs have 20 home games left.

Tail-end Ottawa Athletics turned back Springfield Cubs, 7-4. Johnny Metkovich broke up the game with a three-run double in the eighth.

AT THE CAPITOL — Kim Hunter and Humphrey Bogart, Academy Award Winner, are the exciting co-stars of 20th. Century-Fox's newspaper drama, "Deadline — U.S.A.", opening Monday at the Capitol Theatre. Bogart plays a fighting editor who declares war on the underworld. On the same program, it's every woman's picture, "For Men Only," starring Paul Henreid. Both attractions are Belleville first showings.

Oshawa Dairy Bantams Defeat Local Squad

Oshawa Dairy Bantams, of the Oshawa Legion Minor Association, advanced to the 2nd round of the OBA provincial Bantam playoffs last night when they snatched a thrilling 12-11 decision over Belleville Bantams at Belleville Fair Grounds.

The win marked a two-straight triumph in the series for the Oshawa Dairy lads, who will now tangle with the Ottawa District winners, in the next round.

Oshawa scored first with a lone tally in the initial stanza but the homesters came back to tie it up in the third and took the lead with a 4-run splurge in the fourth inning.

Oshawa trailed 6-1 going into the 8th inning and then, after there were two out, the Oshawa Dairy boys unlimbered their bats and pounded out a barrage of hits that resulted in a 9-run parade before the 3rd putout was made, putting Oshawa in front 10-6.

Belleville came back with five runs in the bottom of the 8th, to again take the lead 11-10 but Oshawa's Jim Shaw, Joe Melnick and John Salter all connected for singles after Les Sager had got on via interference and this produced the tying and winning runs for Oshawa.

Les Sager started on the mound for Oshawa, gave way to Salter in the 4th inning and then in the 8th, when Belleville staged their uprising, Neil McMahon came in. McMahon retired Belleville in 1, 2, 3 order in the last of the 9th, to end the game.

Ryan and Hill shared the mound duties for the homesters. Ryan finished out the game—and took the loss.

Lorne Jeffs and Jim Salter, with two hits apiece, headed the Oshawa clubbers while Kingston and Walmsley, with a pair each, were best for Belleville.

Cementmen Take Second Game From Diesels 7-4

Point Anne Cementmen took the second straight game from the CNR Diesels in their best of five series for the right to represent the Belleville and District League in the OASA intermediate 'A' playdowns last night in Point Anne with a score of 7-4. Point Anne won the game 9-7 Wednesday night. The third game will be at the CNR grounds Monday night.

Elliott led off for the Pt. Anne team with a single in the first, advanced to second on Genereaux's single, went to third on a fielder's error and crossed the plate for the first run of the game on Strahan's single.

In the second, the Diesels scored as 'Widge' Adams drove in Young aboard third on a triple. Widge gained second on a wild pitch, third on a fielder's choice and came home on Roger's single to put the Diesels ahead 2-1.

Point Anne took the lead again in the fourth as a home run off the bat of Green drove in Wood aboard on a single. Buchanan hit a drive to right field good for the advanced to third on a single and four bases, and Burshaw ou scored on a sacrifice hit to make it 5-2.

Culkin, for the Diesels, walked in the sixth and scored as the fielders erred for the 6-3 score. Hunter got the last tally for the Diesels in the seventh as he gained first on an error advanced on a wild pitch and was safe on a fielder's choice.

Maccory hit a home run for Point Anne in the seventh. In the eighth, Buchanan singled, stole second, gained third on a fielder's choice and came home on a hit for the final 7-4 score.

Halloran pitched eight innings for the Diesels for the Diesels to walk two, strike out none and gave up 13 hits for seven runs. Burshaw went the route for the winners to walk three, strike out six and give nine hits for four runs.

DRIVE-IN THEATRE

"So Young, So Bad"

After three adolescents escape from a corrective home for girls, Paul Henreid, a psychiatrist who has been trying to change the institution's outmoded system, looks back at the time when he first joined the staff. He takes a particular interest in four newcomers, two convicted of vagrancy and two jailed for stealing. The sadistic matron, Grace Coppin, sticks to tyrannical punishment but Henreid receives some aid from Catherine McLeod, a social worker, who helps him change matters. After the girls are drenched with a high pressure fire hose, Henreid complains to the superintendent and a new regime is started. The matron's cruelty leads to one girl's suicide but, after their escape, two others return to expose the matron and help put Henreid and his humane methods in force.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SUNDAY, AUG. 10, 1952.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Venus and Sun aspects commend delicate handling of family and home interests, encourage more aid to worthy causes, religious interests.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Grand influences from your own Venus should give a boost to personal desires. Be of good cheer, attend your church.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Your Mercury and Mars positions now recommend a most genial and co-operative attitude to gain the blessings and advantages indicated for private interests.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Moon and Venus combine today to sustain pleasantries, happiness, the contentment that comes from right living, love of God, country, family, good friends.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—A beneficent outlook for you with gaiety, sports, outdoor activities of which you are fond all favored in moderation. First of all think of God.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Though today's vibrations encourage activity, essential work, wholesome pleasures, it is advised to abstain from any mental and physical strain. You should have a happy day.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Read Taurus and Cancer; your indications similar. Whatever your duties, make them pleasant; enjoy free hours fully. Healthy fun, sports sponsored.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Mars' inauspicious configuration urges kindliness, mild temper; then you can truly enjoy benefit from the wonderful rays of other planets this grand Sunday.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Jupiter among the major planets backing activity this Sunday: Church, healthful recreation, etc. After services, relax with family, friends.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Saturn nil in tendency all to the good, because this is God's Day and laborious work (unless essential) should give way to other things. Fine day for wholesome matters.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Same as Capricorn today. You can have pleasant, interesting and purposeful hours if you help make them so. Just avoid sudden changes, decisions, carelessness. Pray, rest.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Many grand influences for building mind and health, for nourishing soul's needs. Essentials, recreation; hobbies and prayer favored.

YOU BORN TODAY are clever, ingenious, courteous but not always tactful. May have unusual artistic talent, perhaps for stage, screen, or playwriting. Watch that conceit not be encouraged, nor arrogance. Study, aim constantly to improve and you will. Don't be averse to constructive criticism.
